DOCUMENTARY HISTORY, &c.

CORRESPONDENCE, MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS, PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEES, &c.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 1, 1776.

SIR: I wrote you by the express on Saturday last, since which nothing has occurred worthy your notice. The sole reason of troubling you with this is to acquaint you, that in consequence of your orders to Captain Peters, he proceeded with Major Rogers to this city, and called on me on Saturday last, and in the evening of that day I relieved him of his charge, and put Major Rogers under guard at the barracks, where he now remains, the Congress having, by a particular appointment, had under consideration a momentous matter this day, which prevented their attention to Major Rogers. My next will inform you, I hope, of some very decisive measures.

Being much engaged, I can only add my best wishes for your health and success; with respects to your worthy lady. I am, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. In justice to Captain Peters, I must say he has conducted exceedingly well.

JOHN WHITTIER TO JAMES WARREN.

Haverhill, July 1, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have very lately heard that I am appointed to the command of a Regiment for the Canada expedition. I most sincerely and heartily thank the General Court for their repeated honours done me, and should gladly have accepted the appointment, were it not that my health of late has so far failed me, that, at present, I find myself unable to perform a journey of twenty miles without much difficulty and delay. Notwithstanding my willingness to assist in this (as I apprehend) just and righteous cause, yet the great and constant care of a Regiment, and the fatigues of such a long journey, render it impossible for me to accept the invitation with honour to myself and any advantage to the Province. Therefore I trust that the honourable Court will justify me in declining to accept, at present, of such an appointment.

Gentlemen, that you may have all that wisdom which is profitable to direct, and that the American arms may be crowned with victory and success, is the ardent prayer of your most humble and obedient servant,

JOHN WHITTIER.

To the Honourable James Warren, Esq., Speaker; to be communicated to the Honourable House of Representatives at Watertown.

JOHN COVENHOVEN TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 3, 1776.]

In Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, }
Burlington, July 2, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: We have this moment undoubted information, by Lieutenant Colonel Scudder, from Monmouth County, that about four o'clock yesterday afternoon, he observed nearly the whole of the enemy's fleet in motion, and at half past six in the afternoon, saw about one hundred and thirty sail in the channel from the Hook to New-York, within nine miles from the Narrows, (a few vessels being left at the Hook;) that he left Middleton at eleven o'clock last evening; and about four this morning, being at the highland, between Upper and Lower Freehold, (about fifty miles from New-York;) on his way hither, heard a very heavy firing of cannon; whether this was at New-York, or to cover the landing of their troops, he could not judge.

We also received, by Colonel Scudder, a letter from Colonel Taylor, of Monmouth, dated yesterday, informing us of that County being so exposed to the enemy without, and the Tories among themselves, that he apprehends the Militia will not be prevailed on to march to New-York, and leave their wives and children to fall either a prey to the enemy, if they should be repulsed at New-York, or be murdered by the Tories in their absence, who are embodying themselves, and a considerable number already encamped at the Cedar Swamps.

We thought it highly necessary to inform you of these matters, not doubting that you will, without the least delay, send forward all the assistance in your power, and take all present measures possible on this alarming exigency.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants.

By order of Congress:

JOHN COVENHOVEN, Vice-President.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Burlington, July 3, 1776. }

SIR: The bearer, Major Anderson, having been rendered for some time past unfit for service, is on his way from Canada to the Continental Congress, and requests our recommendation. He is at present an officer in the second battalion of Continental troops lately raised in this Colony, and now on service in the Northern Army. Of our own knowledge we can certify, that from the beginning of the present controversy Mr. Anderson has been a warm and active friend to the American cause, and a very useful officer of Militia, in which he was a Major. His behaviour in Canada has been very highly commended to us in various letters from the gentlemen of the Army in Canada, of which he will produce other testimonials. We have only to add, that besides his services in the Militia, and of late in Canada, he has formerly served in the British Army. By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress.

GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS TO THE COMMITTEES OF SEVERAL TOWNS.

Watertown, July 2, 1776.

SIR: The General Court have received from his Excellency General Washington a pressing letter that the troops destined to New-York may be sent with all despatch, as he is well informed that General Howe is arrived from Halifax at the Hook. You will please to communicate this to your brethren, that you and they, with all possible expedition, may raise and march the troops going from your County. The General Court expect you will not let anything prevent their marching as fast as possible, as you see the exigency of the case requires.

By order of the General Court.

To the Chairman of the Committee for raising men in the County of ———.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Watertown, July 3, 1776.

SIR: The Court acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo, with the resolution of Congress; and having taken them into consideration, find, that as their Committees are now out on the business of raising and marching the three thousand men required of them by the Congress for the department of Canada, as also the three thousand destined for New-York, that it is not probable that the two battalions for the same service that are requested by Congress can be raised with that despatch that the exigency of the case requires. Therefore they beg leave to propose to the honourable Continental Congress that they would be pleased to give out directions to his Excellency General Washington to order two of the regiments now stationed at Boston to march immediately to Canada; and if they shall see cause so to do, this Court will take effectual measures that their numbers shall be immediately supplied. We are, &c.

To the Honourable John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO COLONEL HOISINGTON.

Crown-Point, July 3, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I this moment received your favour of the 28th ultimo. Am much obliged by your kind offer of assistance, but have the pleasure to inform you that at present our Army, weak and reduced by sickness as it is, will be fully sufficient to oppose any force that may be sent against us at present. I am well convinced that the enemy has neither boats to transport any army, nor armed vessels upon the Lake, to defend themselves against us; for which reason I suppose they will be very careful about making any attempt upon us at present. Perhaps some future day we may find ourselves under the necessity of embracing your generous offer; in the mean time, beg you and those friendly Americans to hold yourselves in readiness either to defend yourselves or repair to this place, as occasion may require.

Dear sir, I am, &c.,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To Colonel Hoisington, of Woodstock, New-York Government, west of Connecticut River.

OFFICERS ON GOVERNOUR'S ISLAND, NEW-YORK, TO GENERAL HEATH.

Governour's Island, July 3, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: We, the Officers of the Seventh Regiment, stationed on Governour's Island, are determined to fight in defence of our country to the last; yet we think it too much for America to risk such an important post as this with seven or eight hundred men, especially considering the extensiveness of the lines we have to defend, and the difficulty which will attend our immediate supplies, when most probably in case of an attack wind and tide will be against them; whereas, should a sufficient number be on the spot to withstand any force that could be sent against them, they would have the same advantage of wind and tide with the enemy, should they aim at any other part. We think it likewise very necessary to have some field-pieces and a reinforcement of the train, in order to secure the retreat, should it be thought proper, from the outworks to the citadel.

We therefore pray your Honour to represent the affair to his Excellency, and solicit a proper reinforcement, which in our opinion cannot be less than two thousand men.

We are, as in duty bound, your Honour's most obedient, humble servants,

WILLIAM PRESCOTT, Colonel,

JOHNSON MOULTON, Lieutenant-Colonel,

HENRY WOODS, Major,

In behalf of ourselves and Officers.

To the Honourable Brigadier-General Heath.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO LANCASTER (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

Philadelphia, July 3, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You are so well acquainted with the critical and alarming state of our public affairs, that it is unnecessary to use arguments to press you to a compliance with any resolves of Congress calculated to promote the cause of liberty in the United Colonies of America. I am therefore to request, by order of Congress that the troops you are raising to form the Flying-Camp may be sent to the City of Philadelphia with the utmost expedition. That they may arrive the sooner, it is the desire of Congress that you will send them by battalions, or detachments of battalions, or companies, as soon as raised.

I am persuaded the Committee of Lancaster County will strain every nerve to comply with this requisition of Congress, with all the despatch which the infinite importance of the present situation of affairs requires.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Committee of Lancaster County, at Lancaster.

COLONEL BURD TO COMMITTEE FOR LANCASTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Tinian, July 3, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Last Monday the Board of Officers of my Battalion being met at Harris's Ferry, the enclosed allegations against Daniel Shelly were laid before them. They unanimously resolved that said Shelly should be apprehended, and if found upon examination there was any reason for the charge, that said Shelly should be sent down with a safeguard to you. I examined Daniel Shelly and William Wall and Ann Wall, in the presence of a number of officers and privates, who were unanimously of opinion that he should be sent down to you, as likewise the evidences. I accordingly send him, under the care of Mr. Michael Sheerer, Constable, who is to provide a guard for his safe conduct, and have ordered down to you William Wall, evidence. His wife being unable to travel, herewith I send you her deposition.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL BURD.

To the Chairman and Standing Committee of Lancaster County.

SIR: Whereas it was yesterday represented to the Board of Officers of my Battalion, (met at the house of Mr. John Harris, upon publick business,) that a Captain Daniel Shelly has been attempting to raise soldiers for the Ministerial Army, offering a reward of nine pounds per man by way of bounty, the Board, taking the same into consideration, resolved that you immediately send a party of your Company and apprehend the said Daniel Shelly, and bring him before me, with you and your officers, that we may examine said Shelly, and do further what shall appear to us to be right in the case.

Given under my hand, this 2d July, 1776.

SAMUEL BURD, Colonel.

To Captain James Crutch.

P. S. Bring William Wall and any other evidences you can find.

Daniel Shelly told William Wall that people that were true to the country were great fools. If the English troops knew as well or as much as I do, the English troops would have the country in six weeks' time. He also says that he knows where there are plenty of powder and ball that can be got within twelve miles or a quarter of a day's ride as would keep the Americans employed. The said Shelly also went to Lewis Morris, and told him if he will list under him that he will give him nine pounds bounty. He also says that Colonel James Burd will not swear to be true to the country.

Present: William Wall.

LANCASTER COUNTY, ss:

Before me, James Burd, Esq., one of the Justices for the County of Lancaster, personally appeareth Ann Wall, who, being duly sworn according to law, doth depose and say, that last Sunday, on the Hill Island, she (deponent) at the house of Daniel Rosse, heard a certain Daniel Shelly express himself in the manner as follows: "Although they take their arms from them, a creditable man informed him they have powder and balls enough for them, and that the powder and ball could be found in a half a day's travel, and that the King was only playing with them now, and correcting them as he would his child, and that the ships in the harbour were as thick as the trees in an old field, (pointing to a field where the trees stood very thick,) and that the King could take this country in three weeks if he pleased." And that a certain Morris Lewis told this deponent that the said Daniel Shelly wanted much to enlist him under him for the space of six months, offering him a bounty of nine pounds, and that the said Lewis asked Shelly for what. He told him it made no odds for what; that this deponent asked him would he make up a company, and he said he did not know what he wanted him for.

MATTHEW TILGHMAN TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read 8th July, 1776.]

Annapolis, July 4, 1776.

SIR: In obedience to the order of Convention, I enclose you their Resolutions for raising the number of Militia required of this Province for the Flying-Camp. The alacrity and unanimity with which these resolutions were formed and passed, are a proof of the readiness in this Convention to do everything in their power that may contribute to the common safety. I make no doubt the same disposition will prevail individually, and that the several members will use their influence in forwarding this service, which I hope will be soon completed.

I am also directed to request you will, by the first opportunity, order to be transmitted to the Council of Safety for this Province the last Resolution of Congress respecting the pay of the Militia when called into actual service.

I have the honour to be your most obedient servant,
MATTHEW TILGHMAN, President.

To the Hon. John Hancock Esq., Philadelphia.

In Convention at Annapolis, June 25, 1776.

Resolved, unanimously, That this Province will furnish three thousand four hundred and five of its Militia to form a Flying-Camp, and to act with the Militia of Pennsylvania and the Delaware Government in the Middle Department, that is to say, from this Province to New-York, inclusive, according to the request of the Congress in their Resolution of the 3d day of this instant June.

That, for that purpose, four Battalions be instantly raised, each of them to consist of nine Companies, and each Company to consist of ninety men, to wit: one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-six Privates; each of the said Battalions to be commanded by one Colonel, one Lieutenant Colonel, and one Major; and that to each Battalion there be allowed a Quartermaster, an Adjutant, a Surgeon, and two Assistants; and that over and above the said Battalions, there be also instantly raised one other Company, to consist of one Captain, three Lieutenants, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and ninety-six Privates; and that the whole of the said Militia so to be raised be commanded by a Brigadier General, who shall have the appointment of a Brigade Major.

That warrants immediately issue to such persons as shall be appointed by this Convention to take the enrolment of the said non-commissioned Officers and Privates, which enrolment shall be made of those who shall voluntarily offer themselves for the said service and subscribe an enrolment in the following words, to wit: "We, the subscribers, do hereby enrol ourselves to serve as Militia of Maryland in the Middle Department, that is to say, from this Province to New-York, inclusive, until the 1st day of December next, unless sooner discharged by the honourable Congress, according to the Resolution of the Convention of Maryland, held at Annapolis; the 21st day of June, 1776."

That the said warrants be in the following form, to wit:

"By the Convention of Maryland, June 1776:

"You are empowered to enrol effective free-men, to act as Militia of this Province in the Middle Department, according to the Resolutions of this Convention and the form of enrolment herewith delivered to you; and on your doing which, and their passing as effective, you are to be entitled to, and shall receive a commission as Captain, as First Lieutenant, or Second Lieutenant, or Ensign, as the case may be, of a Company to be composed partly of those you enrol."

MATTHEW TILGHMAN, President.

Extract from the Minutes:

G. DUVAL.

EDICT OF THE KING OF PORTUGAL, PROHIBITING ALL INTERCOURSE BETWEEN HIS DOMINIONS AND THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

Joseph, by the Grace of God, King of Portugal and of the Algarves, &c., &c., &c.: I make known to all who shall see this present Edict, that having been lately informed that the English Colonies in America had not only separated themselves, by an act of the Congress the 15th of May last, from the subjection to the Crown of Great Britain, but also were making laws of their own, and giving particular power to resist the lawful authority of his Britannick Majesty, my good brother, friend, and ally: And whereas so pernicious an example ought to interest even the most indifferent Princes not to favour or assist, directly or indirectly, subjects thus publicly and formally rebelling against their lawful Sovereign, it is my will and pleasure to order, that in all the ports of these Kingdoms and his dominions, no shelter shall be given to any ships, loaded or in ballast, coming from any of the ports of the said North American British Colonies; but, on the contrary, that they are to be repelled from the said ports, and in the same manner they entered, without giving them the least succour of any kind whatsoever. The Masters of ships who have been permitted to enter hitherto, in consideration of not having received any express injunction to the contrary, shall be notified to depart with their ships out of the abovementioned ports within the space of eight successive days without fail; examination being had before their departure, if they have on board any gunpowder, or other warlike stores, of the kinds already prohibited by my Royal Orders, given the 21st of October last, to the Arsenal of the Army, and to the Office of Outward Consulship; and confiscating, for the benefit of the publick works, any of the said ships on board of which shall be found clandestinely concealed any of the abovementioned warlike stores, as goods rightly seized and manifestly known to be the property of Rebels.

Our Lord the King hath ordered this by his Royal Decree of the fourth of this current month of July, and directed it to his Royal Council, commanding it to be printed and set up in all publick places of Lisbon and ports of this Kingdom, and of the Algarve, in order that every one should have notice thereof, and that no person may pretend ignorance.

(Signed) COUNT DE AZAMBUJA, President.

Lisbon, 5th of July, 1776.

BARBEU DUBOURG TO DR. FRANKLIN.

Paris, July 5, 1776.

SIR: I am privately informed that at the General's Office they are actually raising funds for a great armament, now fitting out by land and sea, with the greatest despatch.

I did not receive this advice until last night, and that with the greatest secrecy. I hasten to inform you of it, and shall not neglect it on my part.

I shall be very happy when my dear country will have a common cause with yours; in the mean time recommend me to the favour of our future allies.

I am, with all my heart, my dear friend,

BARBEU DUBOURG.

GEORGIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

At a Council, July 5, 1776: Present: His Excellency Archibald Bulloch, Jonathan Bryan, John Houston, John Girardeau, Daniel Roberts, Nathan Bronson, John Wereat, Benjamin Andrews, John Adam Treutlen, William Le Conte.

Mr. Jonathan Bryan, John Houston, and Colonel McIntosh, waited on the Board, and reported what they had represented to General Lee relative to the state of this Province, which was as follows, viz:

The Deputies sent by desire of General Lee, from the Colony of Georgia, to confer with him upon the state of that Colony and the mode of putting it in the best posture of defence against all enemies, external and internal, are of opinion, that it is evident that Province is in a most weak and defenceless situation; and besides the intrinsic value of the lands and other property in the Province, its situation as a frontier, its fine inlets, harbours, and rivers, and plenty of provisions, make it of the utmost consequence, perhaps equal to any other on the Continent, in the great cause of America. That as it is not only liable to be attacked by sea on the east, in common with the other Colonies, but from the south and west, by the garrisoned Province of the Floridas, and the most numerous tribes of Savages in North America, and far less able than any of them to bear it: the Deputies sent from Georgia, by desire of his Excellency General Lee, to confer with him upon the state of the Colony, in order to devise the best method of putting it in a proper posture of defence, beg leave to represent, that from the weak and defenceless situation of the Colony, surrounded as it is with enemies, it stands in immediate need of assistance from the General Congress. And when they consider, that however small the Colony may be of itself, in a comparative point of view, yet that from the great plenty of provisions, numerous stocks of cattle, excellent inlets, harbours, and rivers, perhaps equal to any upon the Continent, with which the Colony abounds, and above all, the firm attachments of its inhabitants to the American cause, they are led to trust that the protection and security of that Colony will be held an object of considerable importance. Not one of the thirteen United Colonies is so weak within or so much exposed from without. To the east, the inhabitants suffer the ravages of British cruisers. Their negroes are daily inveigled and carried away from their plantations. British fleets may be supplied with beef from several large islands, well stocked with cattle, which line their coasts, and round which large ships may sail. To the south, they have the Province of East Florida, the inhabitants and soldiers of which must of necessity make inroads upon Georgia for the article of provision with which they have been heretofore chiefly supplied. Georgia here stands as a barrier to South Carolina, and effectually secures that Province against the like depredations. The southern parts of Georgia contain vast stocks of cattle, and our most valuable rice plantations lie that way. By some late computations, there are said to be upwards of thirty thousand head of black cattle in the Province, and hogs without number. We have certain accounts of there being at this time upwards of one thousand British troops in Saint Augustine. To the west, and almost down upon the Georgia line, are the most numerous tribes of Indians now in North America, viz: the Creeks, Cherokees, Choctaws, and a number of small tribes, in the whole at least fifteen thousand gun-men. All these nations have been much tampered with by the emissaries of Government, and without the utmost exertions of prudence on our side it is feared may be brought to act against us. They are so situated as to make it extremely convenient for our enemies to supply them, from East and West Florida, with ammunition and everything that they want. Our last accounts from the Indians are rather unfavourable, and when we consider their natural principle of infidelity, and how much more able our enemies are to purchase their friendship by presents, &c., than we are, there seems to be the greatest reason to apprehend a rupture with them. In such a case the fate of Georgia may be easily conceived. Add to all these considerations the vast number of negroes we have, perhaps of themselves sufficient to subdue us. In point of numbers, the blacks exceed the whites, and the ready channel and secure retreat which Saint Augustine affords, render them much to be dreaded. The conquest of Georgia would be considered a great acquisition by Great Britain. It is a most excellent provision country, abounds with ship timber and lumber of all kinds, and is conveniently situated for a place of rendezvous to their shipping. Under all these circumstances, it must certainly appear indispensably necessary that measures be immediately taken for the defence and security of that Province. But the low situation, in point of means or ability, of its inhabitants, puts it out of their power to do it of themselves, more especially as they have been already put to a very great expense in consequence of the late descent upon them. The great objects seem to be men, fortifications, and a good understanding with the Indians. We would therefore beg leave to propose—

1st. That his Excellency General Lee be requested to state the peculiar situation of the Province of Georgia to the General Congress, and to obtain directions from them to raise and take into Continental pay so many men as may be conceived to be sufficient to defend that Province. In our opinion, less than six battalions will not answer the purpose. But we do not conceive any of these men can be recruited in Georgia. We would apprehend it full as eligible, if that can be done, to order some of the regiments already raised, to march thither; and further, that the four troops of horse already raised be augmented to a regiment, and put upon the Continental establishment. Part of these battalions and troops may be so stationed as to serve equally for the protection of Georgia and South Carolina against the Indians; and above all, may entirely shut up the communication between them and our enemies to the southward, which, in our opinion, will be the most effectual means of preventing an Indian war.

2d. That the sum of ——— sterling be granted by the General Congress for building fortifications and guard-boats in the Province of Georgia. The reason why we conceive this ought to be a general charge is, because it is evident the same will serve against attacks from the south, and for cutting off the communication between East and West Florida and the Indians, upon which the peace of the back inhabitants of Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, depends. Besides, it seems to be a part of the plan of Administration to throw forces into the Indian country, where they expect to be joined by a considerable number of the savages; and in that event, there is no Province or place through which they could so conveniently pass as through Georgia.

3d. It is a fixed principle with the Indians to be paid for their good offices; and in this controversy we conceive they will expect to be well paid even for neutrality. The articles they prefer will doubtless be ammunition and clothing, but these we have it not in our power to give them. We would, then, propose cattle as a substitute, and are inclined to think, if the communication between them and our enemies was cut off they would soon be brought to be well satisfied with a present of this kind. It is therefore submitted to the General Congress whether it would not be worth while to give direction that ——— head of cattle be purchased and distributed among the Indians by Commissioners. We are of opinion this step would answer many valuable purposes, and would have a tendency not only of attaching them to our interest from gratitude, but would also be a means of civilizing them, and by fixing the idea of property, would keep them honest and peaceable with us, for fear of reprisals.

REFORMATION OF THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER BY THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

In Convention, Williamsburgh, July 5, 1776.

Resolved, That the following sentences in the Morning and Evening Service shall be omitted: “O Lord, save the King, and mercifully hear us when we call upon Thee.”

That the 15th, 16th, 17th, and 18th sentences in the Litany, for the King’s Majesty, and the Royal Family, &c., shall be omitted.

That the Prayers in the Communion Service, which acknowledge the authority of the King, and so much of the Prayer for the Church Militant as declares the same authority, shall be omitted, and this alteration made in one of the above Prayers in the Communion Service: “Almighty and everlasting God, we are taught by thy Holy Word that the hearts of all Rulers are in thy governance, and that Thou dost dispose and turn them as it seemeth best to thy godly wisdom; we humbly beseech Thee so to dispose and govern the hearts of all the Magistrates of this Commonwealth, that in all their thoughts, words, and works, they may evermore seek thy honour and glory, and study to preserve thy people committed to their charge, in wealth, peace, and godliness. Grant this, O merciful Father, for thy dear Son’s sake, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.”

That the following Prayer shall be used, instead of the Prayer for the King’s Majesty, in the Morning and Evening Service: “O Lord, our heavenly Father, high and mighty King of Kings, Lord of Lords, the only Ruler of the Universe, who dost, from thy throne, behold all the dwell-lers upon earth, most heartily we beseech Thee, with thy favour, to behold the Magistrates of this Commonwealth, and so replenish them with the grace of thy Holy Spirit, that they may always incline to thy will, and walk in thy way; endue them plenteously with heavenly gifts; strengthen them that they may vanquish and overcome all their enemies; and finally, after this life, they may obtain everlasting joy and felicity, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

In the twentieth sentence of the Litany, use these words: "That it may please Thee to endue the Magistrates of this Commonwealth with grace, wisdom, and understanding." In the succeeding one, use these words: "That it may please Thee to bless and keep them, giving them grace to execute justice and maintain truth."

Let every other sentence of the Litany be retained without any alteration, except the above sentences recited.

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

J. TAZEWELL, Clerk of the Convention.

COURT MARTIAL ON CAPTAIN BALL.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, July 5, 1776.

At a General Court-Martial, held in the City of Williamsburgh, the 5th day of July, 1776, by order of Brigadier-General Andrew Lewis, for the trial of Captain Burgess Ball, of the Fifth Regiment, (arrested for suffering the Brig which was run aground on Willoughby's Point to be retaken by the enemy,) the Court, upon hearing the evidence of Captain John Willoughby, which was corroborated by the testimony of Captain Nathaniel Boush, Ensign Beale, and Mr. Cocke, and Mr. Netherland, Cadets, were unanimously of opinion that the loss of the prize could in nowise be imputed to Captain Ball, and therefore honourably acquitted him. Which sentence of the Court-Martial was approved of by the General.

DAVID HALL TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 8. Referred to the Delegates of Maryland.]

Lewis, Delaware, July 5, 1776.

SIR: I have the honour to enclose sundry depositions, containing, as we think, a true state of the general disaffection that prevails among the people in the County of Sussex. Sundry gentlemen from the neighbourhood of Broad Creek, and Wicomico, have been qualified to the truth of it, on whose attachment to the cause of America we very much depend. The Council of Safety have ordered down part of an Independent Company now under their direction. A company of the Delaware Battalion is also preparing to march. The most alarming circumstance is, the danger of Lord Dunmore's recruiting with success among the disaffected, who repair to him without reserve, and supply him with the produce of the country. We earnestly entreat that Congress may take the matter into their serious consideration, and order what may be thought necessary to fix the minds of the wavering, and secure the common safety.

By order of the Council of Safety.

I am, with the greatest respect, Sir, your most humble servant,

DAVID HALL, Chairman.

Sussex County, Broad Creek, Delaware, July 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The situation of the part of the country in which we live having of late appeared to us rather critical, and a number of armed vessels lately appearing in our rivers, occasion us to think ourselves bound in duty, both to our country and our families, to lay our case before you, both for advice and assistance. We need not inform that a large majority of the people in the lower part of this country appear disaffected, which, being lately fully demonstrated by these hostile appearances, occasions troops to be sent from above to quiet them; and we are sorry to say, that it is our opinion that they (viz: the enemies of the cause) are not better affected than they were before those troops came, (we mean in the parts near us,) although we are fully of the opinion that the gentlemen appointed and sent down as heads of that business thought proper to have a few hundred riflemen sent amongst us at that time, who took up some of the most insolent, and put them in confinement, disarmed the offenders of less note, and left a few troops as a protection to the well disposed. Things at this time should have worn a face much more in favour of the country than it now does.

The night before last, we sent an express down to Vienna, a small town in Maryland, upon Nanticoke River, to give information of what men-of-war or tenders were in the rivers. Yesterday our express returned, and gave an account, that in the mouth of the River Nanticoke, there lay the Fowey ship-of-war and four tenders; in the River Wicomico were three tenders. Those up Wicomico had run far up the river into the heart of the country; but we had no account of any great damage they had then done. They had landed, and attempted to rob some plantations; but were driven back to their vessels. Although the Militia were about ten miles below the mouth of the river, they went on shore, and robbed the most wealthy man in the neighbourhood, of his cash, and all his negroes they could lay hands on; after which, they tied the gentleman, and took him off on board their vessel. We also may inform you, that parties from tenders and other vessels supposed to belong to Dunmore's Fleet, have taken large quantities of cattle and other stock from what is called the Islands, which lie just below the mouth of Nanticoke River; and we have reason to believe that they have taken stock out of the river they left, which they might easily have done, as great part of the inhabitants upon the river, from the mouth to the head, would be glad to have an opportunity to deal with them, and would take great pleasure to supply them with anything in their power. This much, gentlemen, you may depend on, that vast numbers of the inhabitants of Somerset and Dorchester Counties, in Maryland, and of Sussex County, in Delaware, have men on board of these men-of-war and tenders, either trading, inlisting, taking the oath of allegiance, or something we really are not informed of; but we have it from such authority, that we do really believe that they purchase some sorts of goods from the tenders, very low; and also, that the captain of the tenders registers the name of every person who goes on board of them. We are also fully convinced that numbers of the inhabitants have actually voluntarily entered into the service under Dunmore; some of whom, we have reason to believe, now bear command on board these tenders, and we look upon them as a more dangerous enemy than the Europeans. They know our country, and are able to carry the vessels they command to the heads of our rivers; and it is reported (and we believe it to be true) that these traitors have sent word (by their neighbours, who have been down on board trading) to their relations, who live in the heart of the country, that in a very short time they, with their armed vessels, will pay them a visit. It would be impossible for us to relate to you, gentlemen, on paper, every threat that has been thrown out by the disaffected amongst ourselves, as well as the people on board the tenders and ships-of-war, and therefore shall only add, that, from the disaffection amongst ourselves, which we conceive to be so great, that there is, at least, six disaffected to one firm man for America,—we say, from that melancholy appearance, and from the arrival of these armed vessels, we think it our duty to make application to you for assistance of men; and make no doubt but that, if it is in your power, you will grant it to us. If it is not in your power, we must be candid enough to inform you, that self-preservation will oblige us either to leave our hivings, or fall in and run with the current, either of which will be hateful to us. But we believe it cannot be required of us to offer ourselves sacrifices for our country, without there being some prospect of benefit arising therefrom.

If, gentlemen, upon reflection, you judge it practicable and expedient to grant us men, we beg they may continue stationed amongst us, until we shall appear able to protect ourselves; and for that purpose, we pray you will, in our behalf, make application to Congress that we may not be liable to have them called away, and again be left destitute; for if we should have them only a short time, and then taken from us, our case would be worse than now, as revenge might prompt our enemies to more desperate actions. Although we represent our case to be distressing, we do not mean to represent it as past hope; for we are of opinion, if you favour us with only three or four good companies, with prudent officers, we shall not only be able to defend ourselves, but also that it will be a means to reclaim a considerable number of the disaffected, and bring them to their duty, as it will enable our officers to pursue such steps as is necessary to accomplish this purpose so much wished for. Not doubting but that you will do everything for us that may appear to you necessary,

We rest, and are, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,
 JONATHAN BELL, JOHN MITCHELL,
 JNO. POLK, ISAAC HORSEY,
 JOHN CREIGHTON, LEVIN CONNAWAY,
 JOSEPH FORMAN, ROBERT HOUSTON.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety now sitting at Sussex.

I do hereby certify, that the several subscribers to the within letter were sworn to the truth of the facts in said letter set forth before the Council of Safety for the County of Sussex, in Delaware, 5th July, 1776.

By order of the Council of Safety.

DAVID HALL, Chairman.

Testimony of ENOCH SCUDDER, July 4, 1776.

Enoch Scudder, being duly sworn on the holy Gospel, doth depose and say: That on the third of this instant July, in travelling down from Philadelphia, he was overtaken by four men near Cedar Creek, who asked him if he had heard that Lord Dunmore had landed an armament of men in Maryland, and whether he (this deponent) was going to join him: upon which, this deponent asked them if there were any men there that would join Dunmore, and how many, and whereabouts they were to be gathered: upon which, they informed him that fifteen hundred might be collected about Cedar Creek, and between that and the place where Dunmore had landed; and that he, (this deponent,) in several harvest-fields, heard the people converse to this purpose; and that they were determined that the gentlemen who had been busy in calling the Tories to account should not be suffered to pass without a guard; and they further told him that Boymer Lloyd was actually with Dunmore.

 * PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL HASLETT.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

SIR: I have it in command from Congress to direct you to station one Company of the Battalion under your command at Lewistown, and to march the remaining seven companies to the town of Wilmington, and there remain until the further order of this Congress. You will therefore immediately put this order into execution.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Colonel Haslett, or Officer commanding the Battalion of Continental Troops in Delaware Government.

P. S. The enclosed Declaration you will please to have read at the head of your battalion.

 PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO THE CONVENTION OF NEW-JERSEY.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You will perceive, by the enclosed Resolve, that the Congress have judged it necessary to remove the prisoners from your Colony to the town of York, in Pennsylvania, and have directed me to request you to carry the same into execution immediately. Their vicinity to our enemies, and the opportunity of deserting to them, or keeping up a communication dangerous to the interest of these United States, rendered this step not only prudent, but absolutely necessary.

I do myself the honour to enclose, in obedience to the commands of Congress, a copy of the Declaration of Independence, which you will please to have proclaimed in your Colony in such way and manner as you shall judge best.

The important consequences resulting to the American States from this Declaration of Independence, considered as the ground and foundation of a future Government, will naturally suggest the propriety of proclaiming it in such a mode as that the people may be universally informed of it.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Honourable Convention of New Jersey.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO THE PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I do myself the honour to enclose, in obedience to the commands of Congress, a copy of the Declaration of Independence, which I am directed to request you will have proclaimed in your Colony in the way and manner which you shall judge best.

The American States being now forever divided from those who wished to destroy them, it has become absolutely necessary, for their security and happiness, to adopt some Government of their own. In this view of the matter, the important consequences flowing from a Declaration of Independence, considered as the ground and foundation thereof, will naturally suggest the propriety of proclaiming it in such a mode that the people may be universally informed of it.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Honourable Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania.

 GENERAL WOOSTER TO COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

As I understand my conduct in confining Major Gray, Colonel Dufee, and St. George Dupree, has been found fault with, I must beg leave to give the reasons that induced me to it.

Sundry captains of militia applied to me to issue an order, directing them to deliver up the commissions they had received from General Carleton, by which they were obliged to take up arms against the Continental troops whenever they should be commanded by General Carleton; which they did not choose to do, but would rather take commissions under the Continental Congress. Being fully sensible of the propriety of their request, I accordingly gave out an order for that purpose, and allowed every parish the privilege of choosing their own officers, and making a proper return to me; which they cheerfully complied with. I then granted commissions under the honourable Continental Congress to almost all the officers of militia in the District of Montreal, as far as the Three Rivers. As the Field Officers belonging to Montreal had not given up their commissions, several Captains applied to me to oblige them to do it, as they should yet be obliged to take up arms against us in case General Carleton should call upon them to raise the militia; upon which I called upon these officers to deliver their commissions pursuant to my orders, as it was inconsistent for them to pretend either to friendship or neutrality, while they held commissions for the very purpose of taking arms against the Colonies whenever they were commanded by General Carleton or his successor. And here I must observe, these commissions were predicated upon a proclamation issued by General Carleton, in May or June, 1775, denouncing destruction to the Traitors and Rebels of the New-England Colonies. The French officers appeared willing to deliver up their commissions, but Major Gray swore he would not deliver his, let the consequence be what it would, and the whole posse of Tories in Montreal used their utmost endeavours to dissuade the French officers from complying with my orders, which they effected. It therefore became necessary for me to support my authority, or both I and my orders would appear contemptible in the eyes of Tories and Canadians. I told these officers if they persisted in their disobedience they must repair to the fort of Chambly, as a place of security, and to put it out of their power to do us that injury which might be justly apprehended from them.

Major Gray, as early as December, swore we had not taken Quebeck yet, and never should take it; which conversation had a very bad effect upon people who were far from being our friends; indeed, the whole tenour of his discourse in the coffee-house last winter was against the honourable Continental Congress and their measures. Therefore, I judged him a dangerous man, and, with all his adherents, inimical to the cause of the United Colonies; and, as such, pursuant to General Schuyler's orders and my own sentiments, I sent Colonel Dufee and him and St. George Dupree to Chambly.

Here I must observe, that the honourable Commissioners from Congress, on their arrival in Canada, did, ex officio, supersede my orders, and released the abovementioned persons to go to Montreal, where Major Gray put on his sword and cockade and strutted about like a victorious conqueror. Two prisoners of war also had this enlargement at that time to go from that fort into the adjacent village, and in a few days they went off, recruiting for the King's Army among the Canadians.

I must beg leave to observe, that by the above transaction, the greatest insult and indignity was cast on my character and conduct, being then commander-in-chief in Canada; and it was certainly inconsistent with good policy, let their private sentiments of me and my measures be what they would, as it naturally rendered general orders contemptible in the eyes of the officers and soldiers of our own Army, as well as of our enemies. And yet, what is more extraordinary, all this was done before I could possibly have an interview (consistent with the publick safety) with these gentlemen on the subject.

DAVID WOOSTER, Brig. General.

To the Honourable Committee of Congress.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO THE COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

As I understand that my character has greatly suffered by an injurious representation that I am guilty of robbing one Bernard, an Indian trader in Montreal, of his goods last winter, I therefore beg leave to state that matter in its proper light. In January last I called the Indian traders of Montreal together, and inquired of them whether they expected passports in the spring to carry their goods, &c., into the Indian country as usual; they told me they expected that indulgence; but that, at any rate, they should be permitted to carry provisions to their people in the upper country. As I apprehended the granting of passports for the upper country might be attended with unhappy consequences to the interests of the United Colonies—as the goods which they make use of for that trade were much wanted for our Army, and there was the greatest reason to expect that by this way our enemies would be supplied with everything they wanted—I did not incline to grant passports without the direction of Congress. I therefore advised them to choose a committee to wait upon Congress for their direction. They sent Mr. Forbisher, who did not return till the month of April. Soon after, I was informed the merchants were determined to send off their goods in the spring, with or without passports; upon which I gave out a general order prohibiting the carrying any coarse goods out of the city, except such as were wanted by the country people. About the 20th of March I was informed that the abovementioned Bernard had privately conveyed out of the city into the suburbs a large quantity of coarse goods for the upper country trade; and upon further inquiry, found that the goods were loaded in the night and carried off twenty-nine sleigh loads. I immediately sent a party after them, who, about thirty miles from Montreal, overtook and brought back seven loads of blankets, powder, and various other goods, calculated for the Indian trade. These goods were all brought to Head-Quarters; and as I was then preparing to go to Quebeck, I gave them into the hands of Mr. George Measam, with orders to take an exact account of them, and to keep them to be delivered out to the troops when wanted; that if it should afterwards be judged that Mr. Bernard had not properly, by the rules of war, forfeited them, they might be paid for. You will please to observe that this Bernard had broken through and violated a publick agreement, disobeyed general orders, and was carrying warlike stores, provisions, &c., to our enemies; and, notwithstanding, I was called a robber for detaining the man's goods. I am far from being certain that many are and will be of opinion that the goods were as legal a prize as any vessel or goods taken coming from Great Britain or the West Indies this war. In addition to my own opinion of the propriety of preventing the Indian trade, I had General Lee's instructions to prevent the carrying off of coarse goods, which you will see by his letter of the 28th of February.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

DAVID WOOSTER, Brig. General.

To the Honourable the Committee of Congress.

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO GENERAL WARREN.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have the pleasure to inform you that a determined resolution of the Delegates from some of the Colonies to push the question of Independency has had a most happy effect, and, after a day's debate, all the Colonies, excepting New-York, whose Delegates are not empowered to give either an affirmative or negative voice, united in a declaration long sought for, solicited, and necessary—the Declaration of Independency.

New-York will most probably, on Monday next, when its Convention meets for forming a constitution, join in the measure, and then it will be entitled THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

I enclose you a copy of the Declaration for yourself, and another for Major Hawley, and offer you my sincere congratulations on the occasion; and I pray that we may never want the Divine aid, or the spirit and the means to defend it. Yours, &c.,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED PHILADELPHIA, JULY 5, 1776.

By a person this day from the lower counties in Jersey, we are informed that the brig Nancy, Captain Montgomery, of six three-pounders and eleven men, from St. Croix and St. Thomas for this port, loaded on Congress account with three hundred and eighty-six barrels of gunpowder, fifty firelocks, one hundred and one hogsheads of rum, and sixty-two hogsheads of sugar, &c., on board, in the morning of the 29th ultimo, when standing for Cape-May, discovered six sail of men-of-war, tenders, &c., making towards him, as also a row boat. The boat and tenders he soon after engaged and beat off, stood close along shore, and got assistance from Captains Wickes and Barry, when it was agreed to run the brig ashore, which was done, and, under favour of a fog, they have saved two hundred and sixty-eight barrels of powder, fifty arms, and some dry goods, when, the fog clearing away, Captain Montgomery discovered the enemy's ships very near him, and five boats coming to board the brig; on which he started a quantity of powder in the cabin, and fifty pounds in the mainsail, in the folds of which he put fire, and then quitted her. The men-of-war boats (some say two, some three) boarded the brig, and took possession of her, with three cheers; soon after which the fire took the desired effect, and blew the pirates forty or fifty yards into the air, and much shattered one of their boats under her stern. Eleven dead bodies have since come on shore, with two gold-laced hats, and a leg with a garter. From the great number of limbs floating and driven ashore, it is supposed thirty or forty of them were destroyed by the explosion. A number of people from on board our ships-of-war, and a number of the inhabitants of Cape-May, mounted a gun on shore, with which they kept up a fire at the barges; which the men-of-war, &c., returned, and killed Mr. Wickes, (brother of Captain Wickes), third lieutenant of the Continental ship Reprisal, and wounded a boy in the thigh.

MEASURES FOR DEFENCE OF NEW-JERSEY AND PENNSYLVANIA.

At a Conference of the Delegates in Congress for the States of New-York, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania, of the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, the Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, and the Field-Officers of the five Battalions of the said city, &c., at the State House in Philadelphia, on the 5th day of July, 1776, in pursuance of the following Resolution of Congress, to wit:

“In Congress, July 4, 1776.

“Resolved, That the Delegates of New-York, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania, be a Committee to confer with the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, the Committee of Inspection of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, and the Field Officers of the Battalions of the said City and Liberties, on the best means of defending the Colonies of New-Jersey and Pennsylvania, and that they be empowered to send expresses where necessary.

JOHN HANCOCK, President.”

THOMAS MCKEAN in the Chair.

Resolved, That it appears to the conferees that all the associated Militia of Pennsylvania, (excepting the Counties of Westmoreland, Bedford, and Northampton,) who can be furnished with arms and accoutrements, should be forthwith requested to march with the utmost expedition to Trenton, (except the Militia for Northampton County, who are to march directly to New-Brunswick,) in New-Jersey, and that the said Militia continue in service until the Flying-Camp of ten thousand men can be collected to relieve them, unless they shall be sooner discharged by Congress.

Resolved, That the Militia march by Companies to the place of rendezvous.

Resolved, That the said Militia be taken into Continental pay, and receive the same pay, allowances, and rations, with the Continental troops, from the time they begin their march until they return to their respective homes.

Resolved, That those of the three Battalions of the Pennsylvania Troops, now remaining in the Province, be ordered to march immediately for New-Brunswick, in New-Jersey.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety of this Colony provide as many Tents as they can for the said Militia.

Resolved, That the Committee of Inspection, &c., in the several Counties furnish a good Kettle to every six men, and give all the assistance in their power; that the said Militia be well armed and equipped, and march with the greatest expedition.

THOMAS MCKEAN, Chairman.

— In Congress, July 5, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committees of Inspection for the several Counties in the Colony of Pennsylvania be directed to order such Troops as they may raise for the Flying-Camp to be marched to Trenton, the resolve of yesterday to march them to Philadelphia notwithstanding.

Resolved, That this Congress highly approve of the foregoing resolutions, and recommend it to the good people of Pennsylvania to carry the same into execution with the same laudable readiness which they have hitherto manifested in supporting the injured rights of their country.

By order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

TRANSLATION OF A LETTER WRITTEN BY A FRENCH OFFICER NOW IN THE STATES OF AMERICA, TO A FRENCH NOBLEMAN IN PARIS.

Philadelphia, July 5, 1776.

MY LORD: After the permission you were pleased to grant me to come to this country, I am at last arrived; not without many dangers and great expense. I found here a happy people, averse to oppression, without any spirit of sedition, active and laborious, with all the necessary qualifications required to the foundation of a powerful Republick, able to support itself without the assistance of Europe. This immense country possesses all advantages, and its true riches consist in the produce of its soil. It is, as yet, in its infancy; but still it is a vigorous child, that, in reality, has no more need of its mother nor its neighbours, provided it never meddle with the balance of Europe. Perhaps, my Lord, you will not consider these things in the light I do; but this country might be the greatest market for our manufactures, could we once give those people a taste for those which we have in great abundance, and with which Great Britain used to furnish them, to the amount of immense sums. I found the people generally inclined for absolute independency, and willing to support it with their lives and fortunes. I was surprised to see their troops exercise and manœuvre as well as they do; and were they not animated by the love of liberty, they would be an unparalleled prodigy; but when that takes place, all wonder ceases. I visited many of their fortifications, which have been raised with an amazing celerity. I never knew so many, and such good works, performed in so short a time. I was accompanied in this tour by several General Officers, particularly by Majors General Putnam and Gates, and a Member of the Congress. I told them my opinion of those works, and I have been desired to raise some necessary ones here where they are required.

This Government, its form, its liberty, are so similar to that of the ancient and once happy people of Bretagne, (the country of my nativity,) that I am delighted with it. And, if I can be useful to the United States, I intend to end my days in them. I shall regard my original country and its subjects as my family; and if I can be useful to them, and anything advantageous to the American States, and equally agreeable to France, could be proposed here, I would undertake to offer it with the greatest pleasure, without requiring from the King of France either honours, pecuniary rewards, or any other mark of gratitude. All my satisfaction would consist in the inward feelings of my soul if I could once, by my endeavours, set on foot a commercial correspondence—equally beneficial to my former country and that which I now adopt. You will imagine, my Lord, that I am too hasty; but permit me to assure you, that after mature deliberation, and positive information of the strength of America, I am convinced they are able to resist against all their enemies. If the Americans have not the greatest knowledge in the art of war, they have great advantages from the situation of their country, undaunted courage, determined resolution, and the best and most glorious cause. Nothing will be able to divide them. Every precaution is taken against their interior enemies, whose number is insignificant. Such a solemn and well supported resolution gives me the highest opinion of these privileged souls, who defend their rights without ostentation or faction, and who desire only liberty and independency. They already feel that such a state is not a chimera, as too generally thought in Europe, Switzerland excepted.

I have the honour, my Lord, to enclose you the Declaration of Independency, published yesterday by the honourable the Congress of the United American States, and to prevent the danger of my letter miscarrying, shall send it by duplicate.

I have the honour to be, with respect, my Lord, your most humble and most obedient servant.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Trenton, July 5, 1776. }

SIR: Before we received your letter of yesterday, relative to the late Governour Franklin, this Congress had taken new order in that business. The view of one of our members in applying to Mr. P. Livingston was, to prevent the success of an application we heard Mr. Franklin's friends were about making to the Continental Congress for leave yet to stay in this Colony upon a parole of his own framing.

We have been greatly deceived in the Captain of the Morristown Lighthouse, to whom we had confided the charge of this business. We have cited him to answer for his conduct, which we fear will be found highly culpable, as he never even acquainted us with his delay in executing his orders. We have further sent an officer, in whom we can confide, to take charge of Mr. Franklin for the remainder of the journey. We are heartily chagrined at the accident; but were obliged to change the guards from time to time, as Colonel Heard, to whom he was first committed, was advanced to the rank of Brigadier General, and all the Militia who had him in charge were engaged for the service at New-York, except the Lighthouse, who we considered would be of less use there.

By the enclosed copy of a letter from Mr. Dennis, Chairman of the Committee of New-Brunswick, the Congress will see, we hope, the necessity of relieving us from the care of the prisoners of war in this Colony. The story of the negroes may be depended upon, so far at least as to their arming and attempting to form themselves, particularly in Somerset County. Our Militia are gone off in such numbers that we have hardly men or arms left in those parts which are best affected to the cause. We shall be highly pleased to receive the speediest advice from Congress upon this head, as we cannot but add that the behaviour of these gentlemen has not been such as we could wish since the arrival of the troops. We are, sir, your most humble servants.

By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

Honourable President Hancock.

— Brunswick, July 4, 1776.

SIR: The powder directed to my care came safe to hand this morning. I provided wagons, and sent it immediately to the several eastern Counties, agreeable to the proportions handed me.

In my last I acquainted the honourable Congress of the necessity of removing the officers and other prisoners of war, from this and other publick situations in the Province where they are at present; but no directions coming, am induced to trouble you once more, by saying that our apprehensions increase daily. From incontestable evidence it appears the soldiers have been continually forming, with numbers of our negroes; that they have discouraged persons listing in the present service; they have impudently ridiculed the Congress, and despised the American Army. On which I immediately committed them to Somerset jail, as a place more remote and secure than Brunswick. Captain Hescoat removes from this to Burlington to-morrow, with his family, so that we have but one officer in town; but he is a very bad one. There is a number at Princeton; two vile ones at Boundbrook, and some at Elizabethtown. The directions of Congress, how they shall be disposed of, shall be punctually executed by, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN DENNIS.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL LIVINGSTON.

Head Quarters, July 5, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 4th came safely to hand. The situation of New-Jersey is such, and the apprehensions of the inhabitants so justly excited, that I have concluded to discharge the Militia from this place, except those from Morris County, whose internal situation is such as to leave them nothing to fear from the enemy. These I have posted in Bergen, in order to prevent any communication, and to give the enemy obstruction, in case they should attempt to land in that quarter, which, with the assistance of the Continental troops posted there, I hope they will be able effectually to do. The remainder of the Militia I have dismissed, as I have reason to believe the enemy is waiting for the European fleet, and will not make a general attack until it arrives; but we have not yet one man from Connecticut. You will observe I have dismissed the Militia from hence, but have not discharged them, as I am of opinion a part of them may be usefully employed in the immediate defence of the Province. In this view they fall properly under your command; and I would suggest to you the propriety of stationing them in proper places along the shore, opposite to Staten Island, so as to relieve the inhabitants from the apprehensions they are under of being plundered, as well as preventing any communication with the enemy. There are a number of people in Amboy who will undoubtedly open a correspondence with them immediately, and endeavour to excite disaffection through the Province, now they feel themselves under some kind of protection. If it is practicable, in the present situation of things, I am of opinion those officers of Government, and the notoriously disaffected there, should be removed with all expedition to less dangerous places; that the cattle and sheep and horses on the shores contiguous to Staten-Island should be immediately driven back; the ferries carefully attended to, and all boats watched that pass, or attempt so to do. The number of men necessary for these services you will be able to ascertain better than I can, but in such emergency it is better to exceed than fall short. As to provision for the men, I presume, while the Militia are employed in the immediate defence of the Province, the expense, at least in the first instance, will fall upon the Colony. How far the Continent will reimburse the Province I cannot determine. But the necessity of some supplies being collected is so evident, that I make no doubt the Convention will immediately go into it. In the mean time, I should think no person could run any risk in doing what is immediately necessary, under your appointment.

I have been the more induced to dismiss the Militia, that the new levies (or six months' men) may be forwarded as soon as possible; and I must request your exertions for this purpose, as it is my intention to have them here without delay. Since this letter was begun, another of your favours came to my hands, informing me that the enemy have thrown up two small breastworks on the causeway from the point.

You also request some experienced officers to be sent over; which I would gladly comply with, if in my power; but I have few of that character, and those are so necessarily engaged here, that for the present I must refer you to General Mercer, whose judgment and experience may be depended on. I have written him that I should endeavour to send over an engineer as soon as possible. From all accounts we receive, I cannot think they have any serious intentions at present, beyond making themselves masters of Staten-Island, guarding against any attack from us, and collecting what stock they can; but, at the same time, it is highly prudent for you to be in the best posture of defence you can.

I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,
 GEORGE WASHINGTON
 To Brigadier-General Livingston.

GENERAL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 5, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I forwarded the enclosed early this morning, but, through a mistake of the express, it was this moment returned to me; since which I am honoured with your Excellency's letter of this day, part of which is answered by the enclosed letter. Everything in my power shall be carefully attended to for the publick good. We have plenty of provision, and am informed it will continue. I forgot to mention in my last, that, on examining a person who was taken by one of the tenders in the Kills, I found that Captain Williams, of the tender, has a wife and children in New-York: he married Benjamin Stout's daughter, in the Bowery. I mention this circumstance, as it may lead to discover a correspondence between them. The ex-aminant said that Captain Williams expressed his desire of leaving the service, and getting to New-York. General Mercer having returned yesterday, I send back the letter directed to him.

Colonel Drake, of the second Morris battalion, has not been able to come down with his men till this day. He has about two hundred and fifty men, who will be here this evening, and I shall forward them to New-York to-morrow morning, without delay, unless your Excellency shall give other orders.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most humble and most obedient servant,
 WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

GENERAL W. LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 5, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Since my last, I have received so many applications from the inhabitants along the Sound, Woodbridge, and Amboy, relating to the defenceless state of their borders, the whole Militia being sent to New-York, that, to allay their fears, (with the approbation of General Mercer, who had stopped them at Newark Ferry, where they were ordered to assist General Heard.) I ordered Major Duyckinck, with six hundred Middlesex Militia, to Amboy, leaving one hundred men at the Blazing-Star Ferry.

This morning, I received an application from the three companies of the Woodbridge Militia, now at your city, requesting my interest with your Excellency, to let them return to defend that quarter; but perhaps when they are informed of the above disposition, it may make them easy.

I have this moment received an express, with a piece of information, which I trouble you with, only from the advantage that may arise from your having intelligence of every kind, that the whole may be compared together; and, to prevent mistakes, I beg leave to transcribe the letter.

"SIR: A relation of Mr. Dississoway stole away from Staten-Island last night in a small canoe, with James Fitz Randolph, (both of whom are returned again;) they are staunch friends, and say, that if Dississoway does not return by to-morrow, his estate shall be forfeited. Randolph says he is much insulted for being a Whig by the lowest sort, but must return to save his family from being hostages. He heard the Major with other officers declare, at about four o'clock yesterday, there should be three thousand men landed at Amboy this day, before that time; and from what he could gather, that they intended to push matters in the Jerseys. We are in such a situation at this time, that with difficulty we raise a small guard, and many begin to talk of being afraid we are sold; and if the clamour is not soon stopped, God only knows what soon will be the consequence in this place, as some intend to go over, themselves and families, and not return."

This letter was written this morning, and is signed Daniel Moores, who is a principal man in that neighbourhood. Nothing material happened here last night, except that being informed of a large parcel of fat cattle being pastured on the neck along the Sound, I have ordered a party to drive off all cattle and sheep to a place of safety. The enemy are throwing up breastworks at every avenue to the Island, but do not appear otherwise very busy.

I have just been informed that the West-Jersey Militia are on their way to this place, and I shall forward them to New-York, unless I receive contre orders from your Excellency.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most humble servant,
WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

To His Excellency General Washington.

MAJOR DUYNCKINCK TO GENERAL LIVINGSTON.

Head-Quarters, Perth Amboy, July 5, 1776.

SIR: This day at eleven o'clock I arrived here, with the battalion under my command, save only the troops left at the Old and New Blazing-Star. The number with me is about four hundred and fifty men. As to the appearance of the enemy, I can at present give you but an imperfect account of their situation, but can plainly discover a number of men with wagons; also, some horsemen driving off cattle. It is here reported that they have been frequently seen parading under arms, and that they have intrenched a small distance above the ferry on the opposite side of the river. The number of the enemy appears to be about one thousand men, who have struck some tents in view. Shall be glad of your instructions from time to time.

I am, sir, in much haste, your humble servant,

JOHN DUYNCKINCK.

P. S. Sundry persons of the enemy appear in the dress of the Train.

COLONEL REED TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the General to solicit the attention of your honourable body to the resolve of the Congress touching prisoners of war. By that resolve they are put wholly on the disposition of the Legislatures of the respective Colonies, who are authorized to appoint a Commissary to make provision for them, and they are to be taken to such place as shall be deemed the most secure.

There are now a number of prisoners in the jail, some of them of some rank. Their expenses run much higher than if in the country, and in our present situation extremely dangerous. His Excellency requests no time may be lost in removing not only those who have been taken prisoners of war, but those committed for practices against the State; and if some direction was taken with respect to the prisoners for debt, it would be proper, as there is too much reason to fear that in case of an attack, if the doors were not opened by the jailor, the whole would rise and force them open. Any assistance that may be wanted for this purpose, the General begs leave to tender. I have also in charge to mention to you the impropriety of suffering Burrows to continue in the care of the jail, as, from his connexions, his appointment, and other circumstances, there is the utmost reason to suspect him.

The distance to which the Congress has removed will make it very difficult to have their advice and assistance on occasions which frequently present. The General would suggest the propriety of their appointing a small Committee in the city, to regulate such matters of intimate concern as daily present themselves.

The great hurry and engagement of the General prevents his writing personally, but he begs his respectful compliments may be made to your honourable body.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH REED, Adjutant General.

To the Convention of New-York.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, July 1, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: I have drawn on you of this date for twenty thousand dollars, in favour of Azariah Dunham, Esq., of New-Brunswick, for the use of the gentlemen I have employed in New-Jersey to furnish the troops there with provisions, which I hope will be honoured with payment.

The enemy are lying very quiet at the Hook, yet we don't expect this calm will last long; a warm storm may soon be expected—where the severest part of it will fall, is yet uncertain. We are pretty well prepared, but for men. I hope Pennsylvania will soon furnish us some.

I am, most respectfully, honourable sir, your most humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress, at Philadelphia.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL (COMMISSARY-GENERAL) TO GEN. GATES.

New-York, July 5, 1776.

I last night received a letter from Mr. Avery on the subject of his department, and several others from Albany; by which I find you are in a cursed situation—your authority at an end, and commanded by a person who will be willing to have you knocked in the head, as General Montgomery was, if he can have the money-chest, &c., in his power. I expect soon to see you and your suite back here again. I have shown Mr. Avery's letter, and one I received from Mr. Livingston at the same time, to General Washington. He is distressed with these matters. I told him I should order Mr. Avery and Mr. Jauncey back again immediately, as a deputy of mine, who could have no money from anybody but General Schuyler, could be of no use in that part of the world, and that I would not be answerable for consequences where my authority and the chief command were both disputed. He said I was right, and that he was writing to Congress on the matter of your command. I have therefore directed Mr. Avery to apply to you, for your leave of passport to return immediately, and I wish your favour therein.

General Howe is arrived here, with about the force he left Boston with—the fleet about one hundred and thirty sail, at anchor under Staten-Island, and the troops on that Island. There they will stay till reinforced, I expect. General Mifflin is gone to command at King's Bridge; the Militia come in very fast.

Wishing you health and happiness more than I think you at present enjoy, I am, my dear sir, your friend and humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To General Gates.

P. S. If you judge it best to stop Mr. Avery till you hear from Congress, do as you please.

EBENEZER HAZARD TO GENERAL GATES.

New-York, July 5, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Being in the midst of hurry, I can write but little at present.

Since my last, the British fleet has arrived. About seventy sail are within the Narrows, at the watering-place, under Staten-Island shore. They have landed their men, and taken possession of Staten-Island, cattle, and Tories, and that I hope will be all they will do. Our people on the Jersey shore have severely punished a tender for her temerity in going up the Kills, but as she got on shore on Staten-Island, they could not take her. A captain and five men got into a boat, and went in quest of a boat which had drifted away. They came too near our shore; our riflemen ordered them ashore. They obeyed the summons, and are in salva custodia in this city.

It was last night reported at the coffee-house, (and I believe the report may be depended on,) that the Congress had determined on a Declaration of Independence, and that the vote was unanimous, except New-York, whose Delegates, not being instructed, could not vote.

Our new Convention meets next Monday, and I think will doubtless concur with the other Colonies. The Philadelphia post is not yet come in; but I will keep my letter unsealed, that if he brings anything, I may add it. Enclosed is a letter from Gordon. Please to tell Major Pierce I received the letter he wrote me from Albany, and have forwarded the enclosed, per post, which went a few hours after I received his.

The Philadelphia post is come in; am so hurried, I can't read my letters or the papers, but send you a newspaper.

Adieu,

EBENEZER HAZARD.

JOHN ADAMS TO GENERAL GATES.

Philadelphia, June 18, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: We have ordered you to the post of honour, and made you Dictator in Canada for six months, or at least until the 1st of October. We do not choose to trust you Generals with too much power for too long time.

I took my pen at this time to mention to you the name of a young gentleman, and to recommend him to your notice and favour. His name is Rice. This gentleman is the son of a worthy clergyman. He was educated at Harvard College, where he was an officer of the military company, and distinguished himself as a soldier in the manual exercises and manœuvres. After he came out of college he put himself under my care as a student of law. While he was in my office he was very useful in the neighbourhood in training the companies and Militia there. He is a modest, sensible, and well-read young man, and a very virtuous and worthy one. In my absence from home after the battle of Lexington, he applied for a commission in the Army, and obtained a place, in my opinion, vastly below his real merit—I mean that of Adjutant in General Heath's, now Colonel Greaton's Regiment. In this capacity he has continued from his first engagement, which was immediately after the battle of Lexington, until this time, and is now in Canada with his regiment, and I have been informed by a variety of officers that he has behaved remarkably well.

As you are going to Canada with full powers, I must beg the favour of you to think of this young gentleman, inquire into his character and conduct, and if you can, consistently with the publick service, advance him to some place more adequate to his abilities and merits and services, I should take it as a favour.

I pray God to prosper you in Canada, and grant you a plentiful crop of laurels; and am your affectionate, humble servant,

JOHN ADAMS.

To General Gates.

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO GENERAL GATES.

Philadelphia, June 25, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: Since I had the pleasure of seeing you in this place, the affairs of Canada having been evidently suffering from want of an experienced officer to take the command, your appointment to that department is considered as a happy circumstance, notwithstanding the Eastern Colonies greatly need your assistance. I hope the campaign will terminate with honour and happiness to yourself and country; and if any services can be rendered from this quarter, by giving you information of the measures here adopted, the causes and moving principles thereof, or by promoting in Congress such other measures as you shall find necessary for the service, it will give me pleasure to have a share therein.

The Conference Committee, among other things, reported the expediency of appointing to each regiment a Paymaster, whose duty, they said, you would take an opportunity of describing and communicating to Congress. The matter has since lain on the table, and only waits your sentiments thereon, to be carried into execution. I am very fond of the measure, and it will save an infinitude of trouble, by opening a channel through which all payments to the soldiers will regularly pass, whether consisting of money paid out of the chest, clothing, arms, accoutrements, or sutling accounts; and when anything is wanted for the comfort of the Army, an order from the General, or the Paymaster-General, for a suitable sum, in favour of the Regimental Paymaster, will enable the latter to communicate immediate assistance to each soldier, without the possibility of any loss to the Continent. Further, when the Paymaster-General discharges himself, it will appear what sums the Regimental Paymasters have received, and these, together with the amount of clothing beforementioned, must be deducted from the pay rolls, whether paid immediately to the men or other persons in their behalf; and the commanding officer, without any further trouble than an occasional warrant, can always be sure of having his men punctually paid and well supplied with necessaries, which is the life of an army.

I think we are in a fair way to a speedy Declaration of Independency, confederations, and other measures that depend on secrecy for success; and Congress having yesterday passed resolves for capitally punishing spies that shall be found in or about any of the camps or fortifications of the United Colonies, and recommended to the Assemblies to make provision for punishing all inhabitants and other persons receiving protection in any of the Colonies, who shall be found affording aid or comfort to the King of Great Britain, or other enemies of the United States of America, it appears to me that little will remain to be done, but an attention to the supplies, appointments, and discipline of the Army,—all of which are of the utmost importance. With respect to the first, the soldiers must be well paid, clothed, armed, and fed, or they can never be made to do their duty. And the plans on foot for securing the currency and obtaining large sums by loan, also for manufacturing and otherwise obtaining cannon, arms, ammunition, and clothing, together with the great ease in obtaining provisions, will, I hope, be timely and effectually carried into execution, and have a happy effect. The appointments of the Army are matters of interesting consequences; and notwithstanding every precaution of Congress and the Assemblies to choose good officers, yet time and experience will alone enable them to distinguish those that are qualified with conduct, virtue, and prowess, suitable for their respective places.

Discipline is the last, but not the least, important object of attention, and I shall be glad of your explicit sentiments on the same. I cannot conceive why we may not, by setting out right, soon make soldiers equal to any that the world affords. For surely men inspired with the principles of liberty, and enthusiastically engaged in its defence, afford as good materials as can anywhere be found for this purpose. And in the first place, I put it down as a settled, fixed principle, that they must be enlisted for the war, let the necessary encouragement be what it may, which I am happy to find the Generals agreed in, and I think most of the members of Congress. We can easily look over the statutes of Britain and other regulations relative to the Army, and find how far the same are applicable to our own forces; and to promote the measure, the sentiments of military gentlemen must be collected, and, amongst others, I know of none that I shall more depend on than those which you shall have an opportunity to express.

I intended to have troubled you with only a line or two, but being now on the second sheet, find it high time to inform you that your friends here are well, and join in due regards to Generals Mifflin, Trumbull, and others; with, sir, your assured friend and humble servant,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

To Major General Gates.

GENERAL SCOTT TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, July 5, 1776.

SIR: The Continental Congress having, by their resolve, committed the disposal of the prisoners of war, taken and brought into this Colony, to our Congress, I send you, by a Lieutenant of my brigade and a guard of twenty men, the following prisoners of war, to wit:

James Auchmuty*, store-keeper in the engineer department of the enemy, and brother to Doctor Auchmuty, with his wife and child. William Patterson, and his wife and child, servant to the store-keeper; Richard Brueré*, son of the Governour of Burmuda, Midshipman in the British Navy; Samuel Cox, sloop-captain. These were taken in a Bermuda sloop (one of the enemy's fleet loaded with intrenching tools) by Captain Rogers, in our privateer, on the back of Long-Island.

William Elder*, volunteer in the Royal Highland Emigrants; William McDermott*; Thomas Remington Harris*, master's mate; William Metcalf*, Midshipman; Joseph Woolcombe*, Midshipman; John Simpson*, Master; James Wilson, seaman; John Murray, seaman; Samuel Coppin, seaman; Jeremiah Rierdon, John Gibbins, Henry Killigrove, Francis Clemens, Michael Cowney, Cesar Freeman. These have been taken, as I understand, in the enemy's boats.

His Excellency General Washington is very uneasy at the detention of prisoners of war in this city, at this critical juncture. The jail is crowded with a variety of prisoners, and they seek every opportunity of communicating with our internal and unconfined enemies. An instance of this was discovered the day before yesterday, consisting in an attempt of the prisoner Auchmuty to communicate with his nephew, by the agency of J. L. C. Roome, whose note for the purpose was found upon a negro before it reached young Auchmuty. It was the General's opinion that the abovementioned prisoners should be immediately sent to our Congress, to be disposed of by them, in some place of security, and charged me with the doing of it. They will be delivered to the Congress by Lieutenant Gilbert Dean and a guard of twenty men of my brigade. However inconvenient it may be to return me the guard, I must earnestly insist that it be immediately done. My brigade is very thin, and there is already a large guard gone out of it to New-England with the Scotch prisoners of war.

I have nothing material to inform Congress of now than as follows, to wit: Independency declared last Tuesday in Congress by an unanimous voice. Our infamous brethren of Staten-Island, instead of assisting the troops in removing the stock, drove them into hiding places. Not above a hundred were got off. The enemy, or a part of them, are landed on Staten-Island, live in great harmony with the inhabitants, who sell them their stock for hard money, and I suppose were never so happy in their lives. An attempt was made on the Jersey shore, but upon the appearance of the Militia they retired to the Island again, and broke up the causeway; and Richard Lawrence was the first man on that work. Brigadier Heard, of the Jersey Militia, with a party and two twelve-pounders, have destroyed one of the enemy's tenders in the Kills.

I am, sir, with great respect, your most obedient servant,
JOHN MORIN SCOTT.

To the President of the New-York Provincial Congress, at the White-Plains.

Examination of JOHN SIMPSON.

White-Plains, in Westchester County, July 6, 1776.

John Simpson, of the County of Northumberland, in England, aged about thirty-eight, about five feet ten inches, light eyes, and brown hair, being examined, says, that he sailed from London in the ship Saville, himself master, bound for Boston, with a cargo of provisions for the Ministerial Navy, where he arrived in November last, and was detained at Boston until the Army under General Howe left that place for Halifax. That he sailed from Halifax with General Howe's fleet, and on their arrival at the Narrows one of his boats went adrift, on which he, with three of his sailors, took another boat and went in quest of her, and on their coming near Long-Island shore were taken prisoners, and brought up to New-York, from whence he was sent to this place.

Parole of JOHN SIMPSON.

I, John Simpson, master of the ship Saville, a victualling transport, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence, and there, or six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the said United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand, this sixth day of July, A. D. 1776.

JOHN SIMPSON,
Master of the Saville Victualler.

Examination of SAMUEL COX.

Samuel Cox, a native of the Island of Bermuda, master of the sloop Charlotte, about five feet ten inches high, brown complexion, light eyes, brown hair, about twenty-five years of age, being examined, says he sailed from Halifax as master of the said sloop on the tenth of June last, with a cargo of intrenching tools, &c., for the use of the Ministerial Army, and bound to Sandy-Hook; that he was taken in the said sloop on the 28th of last month, by Captain Rogers, in an American armed sloop, and carried into Fire-Island Inlet, on the south side of Long-Island, from whence he was brought prisoner to this place.

SAMUEL COX.

Parole of SAMUEL COX.

I, Samuel Cox, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

SAMUEL COX,
Master of the Sloop Charlotte Transport.

Examination of WILLIAM ELDER.

William Elder, a North Briton, about five feet eight inches in height, aged twenty-five, light eyes, fair complexion, and dark brown hair, being examined, says he came from Scotland via Falmouth, in the packet last spring was a year; that he came out as a volunteer with Colonel Allan Maclean, who, on his arrival, went to Boston; that the examinant received a letter from Major Small, informing this examinant that Colonel Maclean had recommended him and requested him to come to Boston; that the examinant took passage in the ship Sally, bound to Boston; that on the 6th of March last, the said ship was cast away on the south side of Long-Island, and he taken prisoner and brought to New-York, where he remained a prisoner till yesterday, when he was sent to this place.

WILLIAM ELDER.

Parole of WILLIAM ELDER.

I, William Elder, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the town of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

WILLIAM ELDER, Volunteer.

Examination of WILLIAM McDERMOTT.

William McDermott, an Hibernian, aged twenty-two, about five feet six inches high, fair complexion, light eyes, and light brown hair, being examined, says, that on his passage from New-York (he having been for some time on board the Asia) he was cast away on board the ship Sally, on the south side of Long-Island, taken and sent prisoner to New-York, where he remained a prisoner till yesterday, when he was sent to this place.

WILLIAM McDERMOTT.

Parole of WILLIAM McDERMOTT.

I, William McDermott, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war with Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee, or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

WILLIAM McDERMOTT.

Examination of JAMES AUCHMUTY.

White-Plains, in Westchester County, July 6, 1776.

James Auchmuty, Esq., of Boston, being examined, saith: That he, together with his wife and child, sailed from Halifax on the 10th of June last, in a transport sloop called the Charlotte, whereof Samuel Cox was master, bound for New-York; that, on Friday last, the said sloop was taken by Captain Rogers, in an American armed sloop called the Montgomery, and carried into Fire-Island Inlet, on the south side of Long-Island, and from thence, with his said wife and child, were sent prisoners to this place; that this examinant was appointed by General Howe storekeeper to the engineers, and that the pay allowed him was four shillings sterling per day, with the promise of its being augmented to five; that the fleet, of which the Charlotte transport was one, amounted to about one hundred and thirty sail; that the army on board the said fleet consisted of near ten thousand men, exclusive of marines, as he (the examinant) understood; that it was reported at Halifax that Lord Howe, with the German troops, were intended for New-York; that it was said eleven thousand regular troops went with General Burgoyne to Quebeck; that the said sloop Charlotte was laden with intrenching tools, some spikes, Chevaux-de-Frise, and some mantelets.

JAMES AUCHMUTY.

Parole of JAMES AUCHMUTY.

I, James Auchmuty, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

JAMES AUCHMUTY,

Storekeeper of the Engineer's Department.

Examination of THOMAS REMINGTON HARRIS.

Thomas Remington Harris, an inhabitant of the city of London, master's mate on board the Savage sloop of war, being examined, saith: That he was taken prisoner on Staten-Island by a party of riflemen on the 7th of April last, and brought to the city of New-York, where he was confined in Jail till yesterday, when he was sent to this place a prisoner.

THOMAS REMINGTON HARRIS.

Parole of THOMAS REMINGTON HARRIS.

I, Thomas Remington Harris, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word of honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war with Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention or Committee, or Council of Safety, of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

THOMAS REMINGTON HARRIS,

Mate of the Savage Sloop.

Examination of WILLIAM METCALFE.

William Metcalfe, born near Bristol, in Old England, of the age of twenty, about five feet two inches high, well set, light eyes, fair complexion and brown hair, and a cast in his right eye, somewhat pitted with the small-pox, being examined, says, that he was a Midshipman on board the Savage sloop of war; being of a party sent on shore at Staten-Island, was taken prisoner on the 7th of April last, brought to New-York, and now sent to this place.

WILLIAM METCALFE.

Examination of JOSEPH WOOLCOMBE.

Joseph Woolcombe, a native of Topsham, in Devonshire, in Old England, being examined, says he was formerly mate on board the ship Blue Mountain Valley, a transport ship; was cast away in the ship Sally on the south side of Long-Island, (bound to Boston), taken prisoner and sent to New-York, and from thence to this place; he is about five feet eight inches in height, light eyes and complexion, light brown hair, and well set.

JOSEPH WOOLCOMBE.

Parole of JOSEPH WOOLCOMBE.

I, Joseph Woolcombe, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

JOSEPH WOOLCOMBE,

Chief Mate of the Ship Blue Mountain Valley.

Examination of RICHARD BRUERÉ.

Richard Brueré, second son of Governour Brueré of the Island of Bermuda, being examined, saith: That he is at present a Midshipman of the Navy of Great Britain; that he was to be made an acting lieutenant on board the Merlin sloop of war; that he sailed from Halifax about the 10th of June last in one of the engineer's sloops, of which he was part owner, bound to Sandy-Hook; that the said sloop was taken on Friday or Saturday last on the south side of Long-Island, by Captain Rogers of an American armed sloop, and carried into Fire-Island Inlet, and from thence was sent prisoner to this place.

RICHARD BRUERÉ.

Parole of R. BRUERÉ.

I Richard Brueré, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to the township of Bedford, in Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, being the place of my destination and residence; and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee or Council of Safety of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, A. D. 1776.

R. BRUERÉ, Midshipman, &c.

GENERAL GREENE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp on Long-Island, July 5, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I beg leave to recommend to your consideration the establishing a certain guard at Red Hook. It is undoubtedly a post of vast importance. Detached guards never defend a place equal to troops stationed at a particular post. Both officers and men contract an affection for a post after being there some time; they will be more industrious to have everything in readiness, and obstinate in defence. The little baggage that each private has is of consequence to him, and will influence his conduct in time of action, if it is at stake. The officers also will have new motives: they, knowing a post to be committed to their trust, and that the whole disgrace will fall upon them if any misconduct happens, will be much more likely to take every necessary precaution to avoid so great an evil. But an officer that commands a detachment thinks little more than how to pass away his time during his tour of duty, it being uncertain whether he shall ever command there again.

I sent to General Scott this morning four persons taken at the Narrows last night. The following is a copy of their examination. They were taken separately, and agreed in their account in everything, except the number of men. The Captain's account was the least, and, I believe, the nearest right, and I apprehend not much from the truth.

The fleet sailed from Halifax the 10th of June, and arrived the 29th. The fleet consists of one hundred and twenty sail of topsail vessels, and they have on board ten thousand troops received at Halifax, besides some of the Scotch brigade that have joined the fleet on the passage. The troops from the West Indies joined the army at Halifax, and were there received by them.

List of the Generals: Howe, Pigot, Percy, Grant, Jones.

A list of the ships of force: Asia, 64; Centurion, 50; Chatham, 50; Phoenix, 40; Greyhound, 30; Rose, 20; Swan, 16; Senegal, 16.

Four days before the fleet sailed from Halifax a packet arrived from England, that brought an account of Admiral Howe's sailing with a fleet of one hundred and fifty sail, on board of which were twenty thousand troops. The fleet sailed a few days before the packet: they are expected in here every day.

General Carleton's regiment went from Halifax to Quebeck. The Niger ship, that went from Halifax in April to Canada, met Burgoyne going up the river with thirty-six transports, and six thousand troops on board. General Carleton's son went into Quebeck painted like an Indian.

The people of Staten-Island went on board the fleet as they lay at the Hook, several boat loads of them.

Our people are firing with the nine-pounders at the Narrows, but have not heard where they have done any execution. There was a smart fire heard at the west end of Staten-Island about four this morning. It is supposed to be an attack upon Fort Smith, in the south part of Staten-Island.

Nothing further has happened since yesterday.

Believe me to be, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

NATHANAEL GREENE.

GENERAL MIFFLIN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp at Mount Washington, July 5, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I find the works well advanced, but not in a state of defence. The teams allotted to them have been taken off: some of them sent to town for materials, and there detained; others necessarily employed in hauling up the powder (which is now stored in the best place I could find) and provisions from the landing.

From the Colonels' reports the men's arms are in a most alarming situation. Colonel Magaw has not more than one hundred and twenty-five in his regiment fit for service; Colonel Shee about three hundred, including all the carbines which they received lately by your order. If the enemy pay us a visit we will do our best, and endeavour to make up in zeal what we want in appointment.

Should sufficient reinforcements arrive at New-York, may we not expect a share? You are best acquainted with the importance of this post, my dear General, and I flatter myself will put it into our power to do something more than mere defensive work within our lines. I think the enemy may divert our attention to the heights above King's Bridge; if so, is it expected that we can detach a party to oppose them? I shall be happy in your orders how to act if a landing should be attempted above or below us, at the same time that we may have reason to believe our present post to be one of their objects. Were the works in good order, and the men well equipped; I could easily determine these points, but circumstanced as we are, I do not see how we can permit even a small party to leave the environs of this camp, without exposing it to imminent danger, and yet I might be tempted to try it.

I propose to exercise with the artillery, if the works will admit of it, two companies who are not armed. Our principal business within the works must be with artillery.

We have many arms which might soon be put in order if Colonel Moylan will favour us with four armourers and some tools. Captain Bacon promised it several days past, but still neglects us.

I am, my dear General, your obedient servant and friend,

THOMAS MIFFLIN, B. G.

His Excellency Gen. Washington, Camp at New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Lebanon, July 5, 1776.

SIR: In my last, of the 10th of June, I informed you I had called the General Assembly to meet at Hartford, on the 14th then current, to take into consideration the requisitions of Congress of the 1st and 3d of June, for reinforcements to the armies at New-York and in Canada. They accordingly met, and cheerfully granted the reinforcements required, including one regiment ordered to be raised in May last, and not particularly destined. They consist of nine battalions—two for the Northern Department, and seven for New-York. David Waterbury, Jun., Esq., is appointed Brigadier-General for the Northern Department, and James Wadsworth, Jun., Esq., for New-York.

As at this season of the year the pressure of country business was such as to engage the attention of the people in general, and was not to be left without great difficulty, and the small-pox in Canada naturally would deter those from engaging in the service who had never passed through that distemper, it was thought necessary by the Assembly to encourage men to enlist, by offering them a bounty; and accordingly six pounds as a bounty to each able-bodied man that should enlist into the battalions destined for Canada, and three pounds for those destined to New-York.

In the rest of the session, after officers were appointed, proper measures were consulted for arming and equipping the troops to be raised, and furnishing them with other necessities, agreeably to the resolves of Congress.

The Assembly, apprehending that the bounty granted to the battalions of Militia might retard the raising the Continental regiment ordered to be raised in this Colony in May last, thought it necessary and did grant a bounty of forty shillings to each able-bodied man that should enlist into that regiment.

The battalions of Militia are now filling up as fast as may be, though the prevalence of the small-pox in the Northern Army intimidates our men, and retards the enlistments. Proper orders have been given to the Brigadiers General, and by them to the Colonels, to hasten the raising, equipping, and marching the troops. Many have marched for New-York, and the rest will soon follow; in the meantime, lest the want of these battalions should be felt at New-York, three regiments of horse of our Militia are ordered to join the army at New-York, and, if wanted, to continue there till the battalions of foot arrive.

During the session, and soon after the rising of the Assembly, your favours of the 11th, 14th, and 19th of June came to hand. The exportation of salted beef and pork was prohibited by act of Assembly, and all the salted pork in the stores of merchants and others, except provisions for the use of families, ordered to be purchased on the Colony's account, antecedent to the receipt of the resolve of Congress on that subject.

As an extraordinary bounty is given to the two battalions raising for the Northern Department, it would be attended with difficulty to exchange their destination, and send the battalion ordered to be raised in May last that way instead of one of them. Indeed, I suppose the largest part of that battalion are now on their way to New-York. The Continental, or Colonel Ward's regiment, is not filled. To alter its first destination may create uneasiness. Will it not be best that the Militia desired to be sent to Boston in their room be forwarded to New-York, and a battalion ordered from thence of such as have passed through the small-pox? Not one in twenty of our soldiers have had it.

This, I trust, will be considered as complying fully with the spirit and intention of the resolves of Congress of the 19th and 25th of June last.

The small-pox is a more terrible enemy than the British troops, and strikes a greater dread into our men who have never had it. Might not some of our troops be sent to New-York, and serve there, instead of the York or Jersey battalions, which have generally passed through that distemper? Such an exchange would be very agreeable, and greatly facilitate the filling up our regiments. Our intelligence from Crown-Point shows the infection to be very great in our returning army.

I have received information by several persons that the inhabitants on the New-Hampshire Grants, on the northern frontier of the Province of New-York, are in the highest consternation on the retreat of the Army from Canada, from an apprehended attack of the savages. Some of their settlements are breaking up, and all are in danger of being soon deserted. Should they fall back on the older plantations, the enemy would derive great advantages from their improvements and buildings, to fall on and distress the frontiers; and the inconvenience they may bring with them, and the terror they will spread, may produce the most unhappy consequences. May I not venture to suggest the expediency of raising a battalion of troops, in the pay of the Continent, upon those Grants? The inhabitants, inured to hardship, and acquainted with the country, may rival the Indians in their own mode of making war, will support that frontier, and leave the more interior settlements at liberty to assist in the general defence of the Colonies. If they are not put under pay, their poverty is such they can hire no labourers to carry on their farming business in their absence. Should they go out as Militia without pay, the failure of one crop would effectually break up their settlements.

As to your requisition respecting a regiment of Militia for the Northern Department, if you mean it in addition to the two battalions now raising by us for that destination, the one for Boston, and seven for New-York, I am constrained to say, although we wish to comply with every requisition of your wise and honourable body, and to make every exertion for the salvation of the United Colonies in our power, it seems impossible to comply, as we have now more than fourteen thousand men from this Colony in Continental and Colonial service, by sea and land, and especially in this extreme busy season, when the fields languish for want of labourers, and inevitable famine and nakedness will be the consequence of stripping them any more.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, July 5, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The bearer, Captain Winslow, is one of the head carpenters I mentioned in my last, and now waits on you with his party to enter into your service. You will find him a man of integrity, and well calculated for your purpose. I find by him that his men are doubtful whether, in case of sickness, they are to receive hospital allowance, as customary for sick soldiers. They would think it so hard to be deprived of that allowance, that he would be obliged to release them all at Albany if it should appear to be your intention not to make it. I must earnestly recommend it to you to make them every allowance of that kind which you can think consistent with honour and justice. Captain Lester's company are in the same circumstances, and will merit to be treated in the same manner.

I am, sir, with great esteem and regard, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable Philip Schuyler, Esq.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO WALTER SPOONER.

Watertown, July 5, 1776.

SIR: Whereas Captain Welden, commander of the brig Rising Empire, has received orders from the Board, dated the 27th ultimo, directing him, when properly armed, to proceed to Boston to take his complement of provisions, &c., the Board request you will direct Captain Welden, when he is ready to proceed for Boston, to take under his convoy all such vessels as are ready for sailing by the 20th instant, and then convoy into latitude 38° 30' north, and longitude 67° west from London; after which he is to proceed as directed by his instructions, dated the 27th of last month.

In the name and by order of the Council.

To the Honourable Walter Spooner, Esq.

PROCEEDINGS AT HANOVER, NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

At a meeting of several adjacent Towns at the College Hall, on Friday, the 5th day of July, 1776, viz: Lyme, Hanover, Lebanon, Thredford, Norwich, and Hartford:

Chosen, Amos Robinson, Clerk.

Chosen, Deacon Nehemiah Estabrook, Moderator.

A true copy, taken from the Minutes.

Attest per me:

AMOS ROBINSON, Clerk.

ARTHUR LEE TO CHARLES W. F. DUMAS.

London, July 6, 1776.

DEAR SIR: This will be delivered to you by Mr. Ellis, a friend of Dr. Franklin, of liberty, and of America. He is a philosopher, very well instructed on the subject of America, and, I trust, will be both an agreeable and useful acquaintance while he remains near you.

I thank you for your favour of the 21st of last month. By the last advices from America, General Howe was prepared to sail for Halifax, and, it is imagined, to land at New-York, where he will certainly be strongly opposed. He numbers ten thousand regulars, and it will be fortunate for us if he makes his attempt before he is joined by the Germans, who sailed the 6th of May.

The Americans have taken post upon the river Richelieu and the Lakes, so that Montreal, not being tenable, is evacuated. General Lee is in Virginia, with ten thousand men, expecting Lord Cornwallis and General Clinton. General Washington commands at New-York, and General Ward in Boston.

The strange timidity de la Cour Française requires great patience and management; but I think it will at last be brought to act an avowed and decided part. When that happens, Angleterre must submit to whatever terms they please to impose, for she is totally incapable of sustaining a war with France. Adieu,

ARTHUR LEE.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM PARIS, DATED JULY 6, 1776.

We hear that the Court of Great Britain have lately presented a memorial to our Court, and also to that of Spain, strongly complaining of the trade which is so industriously carried on by the French and Spanish merchants with the rebellious Colonies of North America; and at the same time inquiring the reason of the great armament carrying on in both these Kingdoms, supposed to be against the States of Africa, whilst the latter sit quiet and inactive, as if they had nothing to fear. The answer given by both the above Courts is publicly spoken to be this: That with regard to the complaints of trading with the Rebels, it is a mere smuggling and illicit trade, which, notwithstanding the risk of being confiscated, according to law, merchants of every maritime country will always venture, and act contrary to the positive commands of the Legislature. But with regard to the armament, both France and Spain find themselves highly necessitated to send strong forces to their Colonies of South America and the West-Indies, in order to prevent a rebellion there, to which they might be induced by the seeming success of the British Colonies in North America. Feasible, however, as this answer may appear, yet it is certain, that our squadron, lately sailed from Brest and Toulon, met and united themselves with a Spanish squadron near the Cape of St. Vincent; and there are authentick advices of the latest date, mentioning that the Spanish fleet destined for Cuba was observed steering towards Jamaica.

BENJAMIN HARRISON, JR., TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Williamsburgh, July 6, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: By direction of Brigadier General Lewis, I do myself the honour to transmit you an account of the state of my office, from 22d of June to this day; and I have it in orders from the General to say that an immediate supply of money is wanted.

I have the honour to be, honourable sir, your very obedient servant,

BENJ. HARRISON, Jun.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

MATTHEW TILGHMAN TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Annapolis, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Very fortunately, your letters, with the several resolutions of Congress, came just time enough to be offered to the Convention before their rising. They were immediately taken into consideration, and the enclosed resolves were very speedily and unanimously passed, and directed to be transmitted to you, to be laid before the Congress; which, in obedience to the order of Convention, I have now the honour to do; and am, sir, respectfully, your most obedient servant,

MAT. TILGHMAN, President.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress, at Philadelphia.

In Convention, Annapolis, July 6, 1776.

The President laid before the Convention several Letters from the Honourable the President of Congress, of the 25th and 29th of June, and the 4th instant, and sundry Resolutions of that respectable body, which were taken into consideration; and thereupon, Ordered, That Colonel Smallwood immediately proceed with his Battalion to the City of Philadelphia, and put himself under the Continental officer commanding there, and be subject to the further orders of the Congress.

Ordered, That the Independent Companies stationed in Talbot, Kent, Queen Anne, and St. Mary's Counties, immediately proceed to Philadelphia, and put themselves under the command of Colonel Smallwood, subject to the further order of the Congress.

Resolved, That the said Battalion and Independent Companies be deducted from the number of the Militia required by Congress of this Colony, to compose the Flying-Camp.

Resolved, That this Province will raise two Companies of Riflemen, and four Companies of Germans, according to the requisition of Congress in their Resolutions of the 27th day of June last.

That one of the said Companies of Riflemen be raised in Harford County, two of the said Companies of Germans be raised in Baltimore County, and one of the Companies of Riflemen and two of the Companies of Germans be raised in Frederick County.

That each of the Companies of Germans consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-six Privates; and each of the Rifle Companies of one Captain, three Lieutenants, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-six Privates; and that the Officers be approved by appointment and certified to the Congress by the Council of Safety.

Extract from the minutes: G. DUVAL, Clerk.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Commanding Officer of the Flying-Camp to keep the corps of Regular Forces and Militia distinct and separate, if possible, to prevent any discontent about rank.

Extract from the minutes: G. DUVAL, Clerk.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: The Congress, for some time past, have had their attention occupied by one of the most interesting and important subjects that could possibly come before them or any other assembly of men.

Although it is not possible to foresee the consequences of human actions, yet it is nevertheless a duty we owe ourselves and posterity, in all our public counsels, to decide in the best manner we are able, and to leave the event to that Being who controls both causes and events to bring about his own determinations.

Impressed with this sentiment, and at the same time fully convinced that our affairs may take a more favourable turn, the Congress have judged it necessary to dissolve the connexion between Great Britain and the American Colonies, and to declare them free and independent States, as you will perceive by the enclosed Declaration, which I am directed by Congress to transmit to you, and to request you will have it proclaimed at the head of the Army in the way you shall think most proper.

Agreeable to the request of Congress, the Committee of Safety of this Colony have forwarded to you ten thousand flints, and the flints at Rhode-Island are ordered to be sent to you immediately.

It is with great pleasure I inform you that the Militia of this Colony, of Delaware Government, and Maryland, are, and will be every day, in motion to form the Flying-Camp, and that all the Militia of this Colony will soon be in the Jerseys, ready to receive such orders as you shall please to give them.

I have written to Governour Cooke to engage immediately, and send forward as fast as possible, fifty ship-carpenters to General Schuyler, for the purpose of building vessels on the Lakes. Fifty have already gone from hence on that business.

The Congress having directed the arms taken on board the Scotch transports to be sent to you, I have written to the agents in Rhode-Island and Massachusetts-Bay to forward them immediately.

The enclosed copy of a letter from Mr. Greene I am directed to forward by Congress, with a request that you will order such parts of the stores therein mentioned to New-York as you shall judge proper.

I have the honour to be, sir, with perfect esteem, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Should this be presented to you by Captain Thomas Cardrop, you will please to understand that he, with fifty ship-carpenters under his command, are engaged in the Continental service, with orders to proceed, with the utmost expedition, for Albany, there to put themselves under the direction of Major-General Philip Schuyler, in order to perform the very essential service of building galleys, floating-batteries, &c., for the defence of the Lakes. And the present situation of the Ministerial Army on Staten-Island having rendered it necessary to leave the route of this corps to the judgment and discretion of Captain Cardrop, it is uncertain whether your Excellency will see him or not; therefore these lines are given to him merely to procure the necessary assistance and despatch, if he should find it safe and convenient to call at New-York in order to procure water conveyance.

I have the honour to remain your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq.

BOARD OF WAR TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

War-Office, Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I am directed by the Board of War and Ordnance to request that you would be pleased to inform them whether any and what provision has been made in the Continental Army for sergeant-majors, drum and fife-majors, and quartermaster-sergeants; and if none has heretofore been made, whether any and what pay or allowance ought to be made them.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

RICHARD PETERS, JUN.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION, ETC.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Although it is not possible to foresee the consequences of human actions, yet it is nevertheless a duty we owe ourselves and posterity, in all our public councils, to decide in the best manner we are able, and to trust the event to that Being who controls both causes and events so as to bring about his own determinations.

Impressed with this sentiment, and at the same time fully convinced that our affairs may take a more favourable turn, the Congress have judged it necessary to dissolve all connexion between Great Britain and the American Colonies, and to declare them free and independent States, as you will perceive by the enclosed Declaration, which I am directed by Congress to transmit to you, and to request you will have it proclaimed in your Colony, in the way you shall think most proper.

The important consequences to the American States from this Declaration of Independence, considered as the ground and foundation of a future Government, will naturally suggest the propriety of proclaiming it in such a manner that the people may be universally informed of it.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To the Honourable Convention of New-York.

[Same to the Honourable Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay, Governour Trumbull, Governour Cooke, and Assembly of New-Hampshire.]

P. S. to the Letter to New-Hampshire:—Major Rogers, of your Colony, is now here. The Congress have ordered that he be sent to New-Hampshire, to be disposed of as that Government shall judge best.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COMMISSARY MEASE.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: You are hereby required to pay to Captain William Kilsay, commanding a company of New-Jersey Militia, one month's pay, in the following proportions, the said Captain Kilsay to be accountable, agreeably to a resolve of Congress of this day: To one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, fifty-one Privates—to each of these gentlemen one month's advance pay agreeable to the established pay.

By order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To Mr. Commissary and Paymaster Mease.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WARD.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed Declaration of Independence I am directed to transmit to you, with a request that you will have it proclaimed at the head of the troops under your command, in the way you shall think most proper.

I have only time to add, that the importance of it will naturally suggest the propriety of proclaiming it in such a manner as that the whole Army may be fully apprized of it.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To General Ward, or Officer commanding the Continental Troops at Boston.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO JOHN BRADFORD.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: As I purpose writing you fully on the subject of marine affairs some time in the course of next week, I shall only enclose at present a resolve of Congress, directing you to send the arms taken out of the Scotch transports to General Washington at New-York; and indeed this is all I have time to do now, being in great haste.

Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To Mr. John Bradford, Agent in Massachusetts-Bay.

[Same to Mr. Daniel Tillinghast, Agent in Rhode-Island.]

War-Office, Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

All persons in the United American States who are able to inform the Congress of any quantities of flint-stone, or of any persons who are skilled in the manufacture of flints, are requested to apply in person, or by letter, to the Board of War and Ordnance, at the War-Office in Market Street, near the corner of Fourth Street. All printers of newspapers in the several States are desired to insert this advertisement.

RICHARD PETERS, JUN., Secretary.

JACOB RUSH TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I beg leave to acquaint you, at the desire of Mr. Hancock, that your letter of the 4th and 5th instant was this day received and read in Congress. As the despatches which are at this time preparing for you cannot be got ready for the post, and Mr. Hancock does not incline to detain him, I am to inform you that he will send them by express as soon as possible after Congress rises.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JACOB RUSH.

To His Excellency General Washington, New-York.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA TO HIS FRIEND AT ANNAPOLIS, DATED JULY 6, 1776, SATURDAY MORNING.

General Howe has landed a great body of troops on Staten-Island. His force cannot be ascertained. General Washington and his troops are in high spirits. The strength of our Army at New-York cannot be ascertained, the Militia pour in so fast that it is impracticable. The Jersey Militia, amounting to three thousand five hundred, have acquired great honour in forming and marching with such alacrity and expedition. They have for some time past got over to New-York. The battalions of this city (every one of them) are marching to Trenton and Brunswick, in the Jerseys. The rifle battalion in the pay of this Province, marched yesterday for the same places. The Militia in the Counties are also ordered to march. Out of these bodies they mean to form their quota of the Flying-Camp, to be posted in the Jerseys, and to be at the command of General Washington. It is expected that the Lower Counties and Maryland will immediately march their quotas of Militia, to compose the Flying-Camp, to this city, to defend it in the absence of its own battalions.

Your hour of trial is come; your plighted faith, your public honour, the love of your country, and its dearest liberties, in this moment of imminent danger, demand that you instantly fly to the assistance of a sister Colony.

Saturday noon.—An express is just arrived from General Washington. Howe's Army consists of ten thousand men. Admiral Howe is not yet arrived, but hourly expected, with one hundred and fifty sail, having on board twenty thousand troops. The enemy's grand army will consist of thirty thousand. The whole Militia of this Province are ordered to the Jerseys. We are in anxious expectation to hear from Maryland, nor can we for a moment entertain a fear that our brethren will desert us in the day of our distress. The farmers here have left their harvest, and cast away the scythe for the musket. I should rejoice to hear you have imitated so laudable, so glorious an example.

GEORGE ROSS TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

In Committee, Lancaster, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I have the honour to inform you of the receipt of yours of the 3d instant, before which, the Committee received letters of the 4th instant, from a Committee of Congress, and from the Committee of Inspection of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia. The Conference here had broken up before either came to hand, and the members had returned to their respective homes. We immediately took into consideration the very important matters recommended; and how they have proceeded, you will be best informed by the enclosed resolves; and we have despatched orders to all the Colonels of this County, and shall continue to exert every nerve to carry the resolves of Congress into execution.

I am, sir, your most obliged and obedient servant,

Geo. Ross, Chairman.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GEORGE ROSS TO COLONEL GALBRAITH.

In Committee, Lancaster, July 6, 1776.

SIR: We yesterday enclosed you our resolves respecting the companies agreed to be furnished by the battalions in this County towards the six thousand men required to form the Flying-Camp.

We this day received the enclosed resolves of the Congress as to the Independency of the United States of America, which we forward to you for the regulation of your conduct in the present alarming situation of our affairs. The battalions in this town were this day drawn out, and unanimously agreed to march. We doubt not but that you will exert yourself to carry the resolves of Congress and the conference of Committees into execution; and are, sir, your most obedient servants.

By order of the Committee: G. Ross, Chairman.

ROBERT FRAILL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 8, 1776.]

Easton, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 3d instant, by express, came to hand this forenoon about half after nine o'clock. There being but one of the members of our Committee at present in this town, orders are sent off for a meeting of the Committee to attend here next Monday, as also the several Colonels of this County to attend at the same time, in order to consider on the contents of your letter.

In the mean time, I am desired to acquaint you, that the utmost despatch will be made to forward the request of Congress for the defence of the liberties of the United Colonies.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

ROBERT FRAILL,

Clerk to the Committee of Northampton County.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

HENRY HALLER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 8, 1776.]

Reading, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Last night the messenger arrived with your letter to the Committee of Berks County, requesting us to use the utmost despatch in sending off the troops to be raised here for the defence of the middle Colonies.

It will be unnecessary at this time to acquaint you of the measures pursued by us for the more speedy raising of the men, as the Congress are already informed of them by our letters. We have only to add, that you may depend upon our utmost diligence in completing the companies, and marching them without loss of time, wherein we apprehend no other difficulty than what may arise from the want of muskets, of which we have directed the Captains to purchase as many as possible, and should be glad to be informed by what means the men are to be supplied with the remainder.

By order of the Committee.

I am, your most obedient and very humble servant,

HENRY HALLER, Chairman.

To the Honourable Jahn Hancock, Esq.

CONFERENCE WITH INDIANS AT FORT PITT.

Fort Pitt, July 6, 1776.

At a Meeting held this day at this place, present: Kiashuta, a Mingo Chief, just returned from the treaty at Niagara; Captain Pipe, a Delaware Chief; the Shade, a Shawnees Chief, with several others, Shawnees and Delawares; likewise Major Trent, Major Ward, Captain Nevill, his officers, and a number of the inhabitants. After being seated, Kiashuta made the following speech:

"BROTHERS: Three months ago, I left this place to attend a treaty at Niagara, to be held between the commanding officer at that place, and Six Nations, Shawnees, Delawares, &c.; but I was stopped near a month at Caughnawaga, as the commanding officer had sent word to the Indians not to assemble until he should hear from Detroit. While I was at Caughnawaga, eight hundred Indians of the Six Nations, hearing of my intention of going to the treaty, came to meet and go with me. Just as we arrived at a small village beyond Caughnawaga, they received a message from the commanding officer, acquainting them that the treaty was over; but they, notwithstanding, persisted in going. I received a message at the same time, inviting me to come, and assuring me that the Council fire was not entirely extinguished. Upon my arrival with the rest of the Indians, I informed the commanding officer that I had come a great distance to hear what he had to say, and desired that he would inform me; but he told me that he was not yet prepared to speak with me, which ended our conference."

Kiashuta then produced a belt of the wampum which was to be sent from the Six Nations to the Shawnees, Delawares, Wyandots, and Western Indians, acquainting them that they were determined to take no part in the present war between Great Britain and America, and desiring them to do the same.

N. B.—Kiashuta has the belt, and is ordered by the Six Nations to send it through the Indian country.

He then addressed himself to the Virginians and Pennsylvanians in the following manner:

"BROTHERS: We will not suffer either the English or the Americans to march an army through our country. Should either attempt it, we shall forewarn them three times from proceeding; but should they then persist, they must abide by the consequences. I am appointed by the Six Nations to the care of this country, that is, to the care of the Indians on the west side of the River Ohio; and I desire you will not think of an expedition against Detroit, for (I repeat it to you again) we will not suffer an army to march through our country."—A String.

Kiashuta again rose, and spoke as follows:

"BROTHERS: Should any mischief chance to be committed by any of our people, you must not blame the Nations, nor think it was done by the approbation of the Chiefs; for the Six Nations have strictly forbidden any of their young men or tributaries to molest any people on their waters; but if they are determined to go to war, let them go to Canada, and fight there."—A String.

Kiashuta then addressed himself to Captain Pipe, a Delaware Chief, desiring him to inform his Nation of what he had heard, and to request them to be strong, and join with the other Nations in keeping peace in his country.—A String.

He also recommended to the Shade, a Shawnees Chief, to do the same. He then desired the foregoing speech might be distributed through the country, to quiet the minds of the people, and convince them that the Six Nations and their adherents did not desire to live at variance with them.

To which Captain Nevill returned the following answer:

"BROTHER KIASHUTA: I am much obliged to you for your good speech on the present occasion. You may depend we shall not attempt to march an army through your country, without first acquainting you with it, unless we hear of a British army coming this course; in such case, we must make all possible speed to march and endeavour to stop them."

To which Kiashuta replied, there was not the least danger of that, as they should make it their business to prevent either an English or an American army from passing through their country.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 8, 1776.]

Trenton, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Your letter of the 5th was delivered me this moment, and shall lay the enclosed before our Convention this afternoon. The resolution respecting the officers and soldiers prisoners in this Colony has relieved me from any more anxious thoughts on account of these gentry.

The enclosed will inform you of particulars. I hope Congress will attend particularly to the Flying-Camp and establishing a magazine of powder, &c., in the eastern part of this Colony. Our Convention removed yesterday morning from Burlington to this place, in order to be more in the way of intelligence and out of the way of the officers prisoners, &c.

I have the honour to be, your most obedient humble servant,

SAMUEL TUCKER.

To the Honourable John Hancock.

In Provincial Congress, New Jersey, }
Trenton, July 6, 1776. }

SIR: As the eastern part of our Colony is now unhappily exposed to the ravages of the enemy, a large army being in possession of Staten-Island, which is divided from us by a narrow river only, we must beg the attention of the Continental Congress to our present situation.

Although in this Congress we repose the utmost confidence in your wisdom and care, and doubt not you will provide fully for the defence of every part of the Continent, yet we are sorry to find that the people are alarmed and uneasy. Their being sent to New-York in such numbers, and the Flying-Camp being so slow in taking their place, is one cause of dissatisfaction; but, above all, the people wish to see a sufficient supply of ammunition. We hope that General Mercer's camp will be fully provided; but some visible source from whence our Militia could depend upon being furnished on occasion, would give great pleasure. The two tons of powder lately received was distributed to the counties from Burlington eastward, on account of their vicinity to New-York, and some of them were wholly destitute. It is said to be insufficient under the present circumstances, of which we hope you will take notice and take care for a sufficient quantity there. Of the western Counties, Salem and Cumberland are still unprovided with ammunition; and as, in the present season, it is absolutely necessary that all the Militia should have some small supply, we request that Congress would grant us half a ton of powder, on account of the Colony, for the use of those two counties.

We are, sir, your most humble servants.

By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. Colonel Brearley is just now arrived from Allentown, which is in the neighbourhood of the Monmouth insurgents. He supposes that not more than one hundred have been over together; they had confederated under oath, at least part of them; about thirty are flying on board the enemy's fleet, our Militia in pursuit, and numbers of the lesser offenders coming back to their duty, upon encouragement we have thought proper to give to such as shall appear to have been deluded. The leaders, if they can be apprehended, will be punished; if they escape, some of them have left estates. The Colonel at Shrewsbury has offered to resign, making great complaints of the backwardness, "to say no worse," as he expresses himself, of his people; "so few of whom," he tells us, "are ready to turn out (hiding themselves and deserting their homes) whenever he marches to defend the shores," that he is discouraged. As we hope the Rifle battalion will have little remaining to detain them in the upper end of the County, we have ventured to encourage him with the expectation of their assisting him at the lower end. The Freehold and Middletown people, who form one large battalion, are, we believe, very hearty, and will assist as much as possible, both at Shrewsbury and the neighbourhood of Sandy-Hook.

GENERAL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 6, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: This moment an express arrived from Major Duyckinck, a copy of whose letter I enclose, to save time. I should be glad of some immediate directions what to do with the prisoners, as in the mean time I am obliged to keep them under guard. I am acquainted with but one of them, John Smyth, Esq., who is a man of so great integrity that I think great faith may be given to his word. If they are to remain in this Province, I know of nothing that can be done with them so conveniently as to forward them on to the Convention, who can provide for their safe-keeping. The internal Counties are now so destitute of men that I should think it dangerous to trust these prisoners there; nor do I know in whom in those parts to put sufficient confidence to intrust their safe-keeping.

I am under the greatest difficulty with regard to ammunition. The whole back militia being unprovided with ammunition, I am prevented from sending such detachments to particular places as I think necessary, for want of powder and ball.

Since writing the above, Captain Kennedy and Mr. Cuyler are sent in prisoners from Newark.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most humble servant,

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. In consequence of Major Duyckinck's letter, I have detached two hundred and fifty men to him from the Hunterdon and Morris Militia.

MAJOR DUYCKINCK TO GENERAL LIVINGSTON.

Head-Quarters, Perth Amboy, July 6, 1776.

SIR: In pursuance of an order received last night from General Heard, have taken into custody the following persons: John Smyth, Esq., Philip Kearney, Michael Kearney, William Hick, Thomas Skinner, Dr. John Lawrence, Captain Turnbull, Johnstone Fairholme, and Isaac Bunnell, whom I now convey to you.

We last night received intelligence per General Heard, about twelve o'clock, that he had, by two different persons who made their escape from the Island, received such strong assurances that we were last night to be attacked by a strong body, that he ordered us immediately to leave the town, and repair to some proper ground out of town; which we accordingly did, and am sorry to say with much precipitation, as the troops were greatly alarmed by the sudden and unexpected orders. We kept a good look-out for the remainder of the night, and this morning early returned again to town.

The enemy appear much in the same situation as mentioned in my last, only the plain appearance of artillery, which they have mounted opposite the town.

We can't help thinking our situation precarious with the few troops here, and could wish a reinforcement as soon as may be convenient.

In haste, remain your humble servant,

JOHN DUYCKINCK.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL LIVINGSTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 6, 1776, }
Five o'clock, P. M. }

SIR: Your favour of this date, enclosing Major Duyckinck's letter, was this moment received. The known disaffection of the people of Amboy, and the treachery of those of Staten-Island, who, after the fairest professions, have shown themselves our inveterate enemies, induced me to give directions that all persons of known enmity or doubtful character should be removed from places where they might enter into a correspondence with the enemy and aid them in their schemes. To this end, General Heard had directions to apprehend such persons as, from their conduct, had shown themselves inimical, or whose situations, connexions, or offices, give just cause of suspicion. I have no knowledge of the persons apprehended, but suppose General Heard had good reason for taking hold of them; however, if there are any who, from your personal knowledge and opinion, you think may be permitted to return, I have no objection, and sending the others to Provincial Congress for their disposal; but as to the former, I would suggest to you that my tenderness has been often abused, and I have had reason to repent the indulgence shown them. I would show them all possible humanity and kindness consistent with our own safety; but matters are now too far advanced to sacrifice anything to punctilios.

I have given direction to forward you a supply of ammunition, but must beg you to inculcate the utmost frugality and care of it, as we have no superfluity. This supply consists of cartridges, some loose powder, and lead. If you have any occasion for ammunition for field-pieces which the latter will not supply, I will endeavour to assist you; but I would wish you to make no more draughts than are absolutely necessary.

General Mercer has just set off for Jersey. In his experience and judgment you may repose great confidence. He will proceed to Amboy after conferring with you.

You will please to keep me constantly informed of the proceedings of the enemy; and be assured of every assistance and attention from, sir, your most, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

Brig. General Livingston, Elizabethtown, New-Jersey.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL SILLIMAN.

New-York, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Governour Trumbull having informed me, in a letter of the 3d instant, that he had ordered three regiments of the Militia Lighthorse to march to the defence of this place, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Seymour, lest the other troops from your Colony should not arrive in time for succour, and at the same time requesting, if their service is unnecessary, or can be dispensed with, that I would signify it to you, I must take this opportunity to acquaint you that the intelligence we have received from three or four prisoners that have fallen into our hands within a few days past, leads me to conclude, that no force that can be collected will be too great to ward off the blow that our enemies mean to strike in a little time. The prisoners say that General Howe has already ten thousand men here, being joined by some regiments from the West-Indies, and part of the Highland troops in his passage, and that he is in daily expectation of the arrival of Admiral Howe with a large fleet of one hundred and fifty sail, with troops on board; that before he left Halifax, a packet had arrived there, giving intelligence that he would be met here by this fleet in a very little time, and that the expectation of them is the only reason why the enemy have not begun their operations.

From these accounts, you will readily conceive the necessity of our most vigorous and spirited exertions, and that there is occasion here for all the men that can be possibly got. But what to do with the horses of this regiment I am at a loss to determine: it will be impossible to support them; and if it could be done, the expense would be enormous. I cannot think myself at liberty to consent to the horses coming; at the same time, I must request your exertions to prevail on the men. They may have it in their power to dismiss their horses, perhaps after bringing them almost here. The exigency of our affairs calls aloud for their assistance, and more especially as there is almost a moral certainty that the battalions which are intended for this place will be some time before they all arrive, and when they do, will not be more than half complete.

Recommending to your and their notice what I have said, and the alarming consequences that may result from not having sufficient and timely succours to repel the enemy, I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Colonel Gold Selleck Silliman, Fairfield.

JOHN JAY TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, July 6, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed memorial was yesterday given me by Mr. Bill, with a request that I would transmit it to Congress. He appears much hurt in being omitted in the arrangements of officers intended for the regiment lately ordered to be raised in this Colony; and I sincerely wish he had less reason to think himself neglected. He is a fine, spirited young gentleman, of one or two and twenty, of an ancient and once opulent family in this Colony. His connexions are extensive in the County, and he seems to possess that generous kind of ambition so essential to the character of a good officer. What renders his case the more unfortunate is, that he is almost the only one of his family who has discovered any great degree of ardour in the American cause. His promotion would have contributed as much to increase their zeal as his being laid aside may tend to diminish it. Nor is this the only instance in which that arrangement has given disgust: among others, Mr. Cortlandt, whose family is not only very numerous, but also respectable and wealthy, entered the service last year as Lieutenant-Colonel; he has done the like this year. Mr. Dubois entered the service last year as a Captain, and this year Captain Dubois is made to command Lieutenant-Colonel Cortlandt. Appointments like these pay ill compliments to those who are thus (as they think unjustly) superseded, and therefore have an unhappy tendency to drive them into a sullen indifference about Congressional measures.

I am, sir, with great respect, the Congress's and your most obedient servant,

JOHN JAY.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

JOHN JAY TO EDWARD RUTLEDGE.

New-York, July 6, 1776.

DEAR RUTLEDGE: Your friendly letter found me so engaged by plots, conspiracies, and chimeras dire, that, though I thanked you for it in my heart, I had not time to tell you so, either in person or by letter. Your ideas of men and things (to speak mathematically) run, for the most part, parallel with my own; and I wish Governour Tryon and the devil had not prevented my joining you on the occasion you mentioned. How long I may be detained here is uncertain; but I see little prospect of returning to you for a month or two yet to come. We have a Government, you know, to form; and God only knows what it will resemble. Our politicians, like some guests at a feast, are perplexed and undetermined which dish to prefer. Our affairs in Canada have lately become much the subject of animadversion; and the miscarriages in that country are, with little reserve, imputed to the inattention of the Congress. Indeed, there is reason to believe that certain military gentlemen who reaped no laurels there, are among the patrons of that doctrine. It is to me amazing that a strict inquiry has not been made into the behaviour of those under whose direction we have met with nothing but repeated losses in that country. Nor is the publick silent with respect to the inactivity of the fleet; and reports have gone abroad that the Admiral has refused to comply with the orders of Congress relative to the cannon taken at Providence. I'll tell you a pretty story of Wooster. While he was smoking his pipe in the suburbs of Quebeck, he took it into his head that he might do wonders with a fire-ship; and, with an imagination warmed by the blaze of the enemy's vessels, sent for a New-York captain, who, it seems, understood the business of fire-ship building. Under the strongest injunctions of secrecy, he communicated to him the important plan, and ordered him to get the ship in readiness with all the despatch and privacy in his power, wisely observing, that if the enemy should get any intelligence of his design, they would carry their vessels out of the way of his fire-ship. The captain accordingly set about preparing the materials, &c., necessary for the exploit which was to heroize his General. Some short time after, Wooster was informed that the time for which the York troops were enlisted would expire in a day or two. He issued orders for them to parade at a certain time and place, and informed them that he would then and there make a speech to them, and a Ciceronean speech it was.

"My lads," says he, "I find your time is almost out, and may be some of you think on going; but surely you won't leave me now; you must try and stay a little longer. Don't think that I am laying here doing nothing. No, no; you shall see a fine sight soon. I am busy building a fire-ship; and as soon as she is ready, we'll burn all their vessels up." Cetera desunt.

The York troops, allured by the promise of a feu de joie, staid, and were disappointed. Some renegade Frenchmen remembered the speech, and told it as a secret to Governour Carleton. The vessels were put out of harm's way, and the Connecticut Alexander lost his passage in a fire-ship to the temple of fame.

My compliments to Messrs. Braxton, Lynch, and such others as I esteem, of which number rank yourself, my dear Ned, among the first.

Believe me to be sincerely yours, JOHN JAY.

COLONEL WEISSENFELS TO LORD STIRLING.

July 6, 1776.

MY LORD: Captain Hutchins has refused to assist me in quelling the mutiny in his company. I have frequently advised him not to put himself on the level with his men; but he continues to do so, which is the cause of his not exercising authority in a becoming manner. He is guilty of many things which I wish to waive, and hope he will behave in a respectful manner to your Lordship, so as to entitle him to your favour.

With great respect, your most obedient servant,
FREDERICK WEISSENFELS.

New-York, July 6, 1776.

Captain Maston, late of the snow Dickinson, belonging to Philadelphia, arrived there the 2d instant, from Bristol, but last from the West-Indies. He sailed from that place last February, bound for Nantz; but the mate, assisted by the crew, seized and confined the Captain on the coast of Portugal, and then altered their course for London. The southerly winds driving them into Bristol Channel, they arrived at Bristol, the 8th of April, when the mate proposed to set off immediately for London, with all the letters and papers on board, for the inspection of Government. The vessel was detained at Bristol, till the determination of Government concerning her should be known.

A large number of Tories in Monmouth County, New-Jersey, having taken up arms on purpose to assist the Ministerial Army on their arrival in that Province, have encamped in a cedar swamp near that place. A detachment of Colonel Miles's battalion are ordered to disperse and disarm them.

Yesterday afternoon arrived the first division of the Connecticut forces, commanded by the Honourable Brigadier-Generals Waterbury and Wadsworth, and this day the remainder are expected to arrive, being in the whole five thousand, well equipped and disciplined.

The fleet from Halifax arrived at Sandy-Hook on Saturday, June 29, to the amount of one hundred and thirteen sail. It is difficult, from their situation, to ascertain their number; but we suppose it does not exceed one hundred and thirty sail. Monday it came up into Yakes's Bay, below the Narrows; Tuesday, several ships came to at the Watering Place; Wednesday, more followed; and by Thursday noon, the whole fleet was at anchor in a line from Kill Van Kull to Simonson's Ferry, on the east side of Staten-Island. The Asia brought up the rear of the fleet, and in the Narrows was fired at from a small battery on Long-Island, which compliment was returned by about forty 24-pounders, one of which lodged in the wall of the house of Mr. Bennet, but did no hurt to the family; and three shot had near done much mischief to the house and family of Mr. Denyse Denyse, one of them narrowly missing the kitchen, wherein was a number of the family; a second struck the barn, and the third destroyed much of the fence of the garden opposite the front door of the mansion-house.

Part of the army is now encamped on Staten-Island, and we have not the least reason to doubt, will endeavour to secure the north side thereof by intrenchments, whilst the shipping protects the other parts of it.

As soon as the troops landed, they paraded the north shore, and on Wednesday morning made their appearance near Elizabethtown Point; but the country being soon alarmed, they retreated, took up the floor of the drawbridge in the Salt Meadows, and immediately threw up some works.

Their near approach to Elizabethtown Point greatly alarmed the inhabitants of Essex County, and particularly the people of Elizabethtown and Newark; but they are now in a condition to receive them whenever they may think proper to approach.

Two young men from Elizabethtown crossed the river in a canoe last Thursday, and fired upon the Regulars; but a number of them rushed out of the woods, and they were obliged to retreat and cross the river again.

We hear two men-of-war now lie near Amboy, in order, it is supposed, to stop all navigation that way.

Yesterday, seven seamen, belonging to the Killingsworth transport, of seven hundred tons, was brought to town from Long-Island, having deserted the ship the night before. They say the number of soldiers with the fleet is about eight thousand five hundred, who are all encamped; and that many of the seamen intended to desert the fleet when an opportunity presented.

Last Wednesday night, the Captain of a transport, and four of his men, were taken at the Narrows, and brought to town. They were looking for a boat that had gone adrift; and going too near the shore, were taken by the riflemen.

H. GLEN TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Schenectady, July 6, 1776.

SIR: By Captains Lansing and Wolcott you will receive a quantity of stores for engineers, directed to Mr. Hubbell, and the ordnance, under the care of a party of the train.

I have yesterday sent off sixty barrels of pork in fifteen wagons, as I am apprehensive you will want it sooner than I will be able to send it by boats. I am as yet scant of them, hoping it may be with you sooner than this can. I have given the Captains of the batteau-men directions to follow your further orders, and to be punctual in obeying them as such. You will please send them back here, or as many as you can spare, as here is a quantity of provisions more to go up. I have written to Major Fonda to send six batteau loads of flour to you, as I had no more boats here to forward. I am, sir, your humble servant; H. GLEN.

To Colonel Dayton, commanding German Flats.

H. GLEN TO MAJOR FONDA.

Schenectady, July 6, 1776.

DEAR SIR: As I have no more batteaus here at present than are wanted to forward the stores I was to send first, and am confident Colonel Dayton will want flour, I must beg you will forward to him six batteau loads, or as many batteaus as you can, should you not have six. Let the men that go up be engaged to go as far as Stamwix, should Colonel Dayton want them that far. I shall pay you for all expenses for boats, hire, and men, that may accrue. General Schuyler expected that I would have been able to have empty boats from here for flour, but I have scarcely enough for what was intended first to be sent. Let me hear from you if you can send the boats, as by your silence I shall expect you sent them. I am, dear sir, yours, &c., H. GLEN.

To Major Fonda, Caughnawaga.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 11, 1776.]

Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Your letters, enclosing the resolves of Congress of the 17th, 19th, 24th, and 25th of June last, have been duly received since the recess of the General Assembly.

The ancient laws of this Colony enable the Colonels of the respective regiments of Militia to call out their regiments upon any alarm, invasion, or appearance of an enemy, by sea or land, giving notice to the Captain, General, or Commander-in-Chief for the time being, of the occasion thereof. This, with a general order to the Colonels of the Militia regiments to call out their regiments upon notice of any invasion by sea or land from General Washington, or the Commander-in-Chief for the time being, and to march to his assistance, may supersede the necessity of any new regulation in respect to the Militia: at least until the next meeting of the Assembly. It is very inconvenient for them to come together at this busy season.

The resolve of the 19th of June, providing for clothing the troops in future, will be carefully attended to, and timely intelligence given of the quantities that may be obtained.

There has been nothing done towards inlisting the Mohegan Indians into Continental service; and, in obedience to the resolve of Congress, of the 24th of June, that measure will be laid aside entirely.

An act passed the General Assembly in December last, for restraining and punishing persons inimical to the liberties of this and the rest of the United Colonies, in which the treasons mentioned in the resolve of Congress of the 24th of June, are provided against; the real estate of persons that have or shall fly to, and put themselves under the protection of, the British fleet or army, are made liable to seizure; and by another act of the Assembly in June last, the personal estates of such refugees are ordered to be seized, sold, and the avails paid into the publick treasury; and several other regulations are established to prevent mischief and danger from persons inimical.

The laws of this Colony subject every person who shall counterfeit or alter any bills of publick credit current in this Colony, to imprisonment in our prison in the copper mines at Symsbury, at the discretion of the Superior Court, not exceeding the term of ten years. The Continental bills have been current in this Colony. One person was tried upon an indictment for altering some of those bills before the Superior Court in March last, and, upon conviction, was sentenced to be imprisoned in Newgate; since which, the General Assembly, in May last, enacted that the Continental bills should be current in all payments at the treasury of this Colony; so that they are now placed, in every respect, on an equal footing with the bills of publick credit of this Colony.

The battalions of Militia now are marching to join the Army at New-York, and in the Northern Department will provide themselves with suitable clothes; camp equipage is ordered to be provided for them by the General Assembly; tents we shall endeavour to provide, but fear they will be procured with great difficulty, if at all.

I am, with sincerity and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

P. S. I have sent orders to the Colonels of Militia towards New-York, to attend the call and order of General Washington, and give him notice of it.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 11, 1776.]

Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 30th of April ultimo, enclosing the resolve of Congress of the 29th of April, requesting that a sum of hard money might be collected and sent to General Schuyler; which was immediately attended to, and the sum of eighteen hundred pounds procured and sent to the Paymaster-General for the Northern Department. The expense of transporting the same to Albany amounts to the sum of twenty-four pounds two shillings and six pence, as you will see by an account thereof which will be laid before you by the Delegates for this Colony.

I have drawn on you for the money procured, and the charges of transporting to Albany, in favour of Roger Sherman and Samuel Huntington, Esqs., two of our Delegates in Congress, which, I make no doubt, will be duly honoured.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 11, 1776.]

Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

SIR: Yesterday I received your favour of the 29th June, ultimo, with the enclosed copy of the resolve of Congress, to which I shall attend, and will send as soon as can be obtained an account of the cannon left at New-London by Commodore Hopkins, their number, size, bore, and weight; and also an account of the other cannon there.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 11, 1776.]

Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I received your letter of the 24th June, ultimo, enclosing the resolution of Congress with respect to Governor Franklin. He has given his parole in writing. I have thought proper to assign Wallingford to be the place for his residence.

I am, most respectfully, sir, your most obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

SIR: I this day wrote to the Continental Congress, "that the ancient laws of this Colony enable the Colonels of the Militia to call out their respective regiments upon any alarm, invasion, or appearance of an enemy, by sea or land, giving notice to the Captain-General or Commander-in-Chief for the time being, of the occasion thereof. This, with a general order to them to call out their regiments upon notice from General Washington, or the Commander-in-Chief for the time being, to march to his assistance, may supersede the necessity of any new regulation in respect to the Militia, at least until the next Assembly, as it is very inconvenient for them to come together at this busy season." By this post general orders are accordingly given to Colonel Jonathan Fitch, of New-Haven, commander of the Second regiment of Militia; to Ichabod Lewis, of Stratford, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fourth, Colonel Silliman being absent in the service at New-York; to John Mead, of Greenwich or Horseneck, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Ninth, Colonel Webb being with you; to Benjamin Hinman, of Woodbury, Colonel of the Thirteenth; and to Joseph Plat Cooke, of Danbury, Colonel of the Sixteenth. These are the field officers present in the several regiments next towards New-York, on whom you may call when needful.

Our battalions are raising with all possible diligence, and will soon march to the places of their several destinations. Many have marched for New-York, and the rest will soon follow. And the three regiments of Lighthorse mentioned in my last, I hear are moving on fast.

An extraordinary bounty is given to the two battalions raising for the Northern Department; it will be attended with difficulty to alter their destination. The Continental battalion destined to Boston, under Colonel Ward, and the other battalion, raised in May last, for the defence of this and the neighbouring Colonies, it will be hard to send to the northward, which hath lately been moved to me from Congress; this last is probably now at your camp at New-York. Will it not be best to send in their room a battalion who have had the small-pox, and to order Colonel Ward to Boston, as destined at first, instead of sending thither any other of our battalions, who have already begun their march for New-York? Probably not one in twenty of our men have ever had that distemper, when the New-York, Jersey, and Pennsylvania men have generally passed through it.

Our intelligence from Crown-Point is, that the infection is very great in our retreating army. This distemper strikes a greater dread in our men who have not had it, than the British troops. Cannot measures be taken to cleanse the army, and, in the mean time, keep the infected from those who are not? I have provided two companies of ship carpenters, twenty-five in each company, who will march next week, and carry their tools with them, to go to that work at Crown-Point; but few of them have ever passed through that distemper.

I hear from Captain Niles, that there are four thousand head of neat cattle on Montauk-Point, on Long-Island, great part of them good beef cattle, fit for slaughter. We have ordered the stock of cattle, sheep, and swine, from Fisher's Island. Many of both cattle and sheep are fit for the use of the Army, and ordered accordingly. Is it not best that you procure those at Montauk likewise, and prevent their being used to feed the enemy?

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To His Excellency General Washington.

COMMITTEE ON PRISONERS.

Hartford, July 6, 1776.

Colony of CONNECTICUT, ss:

In Committee for ordering Prisoners stationed in this Colony, it is Resolved and Ordered, That no Prisoner under the care of this Committee, not enlarged on parole, may go out of the Parish wherein such Prisoner is stationed, without a permit in writing, under the hand of one or more of this Committee, or the person under whose care he is or shall be placed, and not exceed the limits prescribed in such permit, on pain of imprisonment.

And it is further Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, it will be improper and unsafe to employ said Prisoners in making Firearms, Gunpowder, casting Cannon, Cannonball, or in erecting Fortifications.

And it is recommended to all the Towns in this Colony, in which Prisoners are stationed, to set a watch to guard the avenues into and out of their respective Towns, said watch to be set at or before nine of the clock in the evening, and to continue through the night, for the purpose of preserving peace and order in such Towns, and for preventing the conveying intelligence prejudicial to the liberties of America.

Per order of the Committee:

JESSE ROOT, Chairman.

Boston, July 6, 1776.

We learn from Halifax, by a person who left that place this day three weeks, that the troops General Howe left there were supposed to be about fifteen hundred, mostly Marines, and the Regiment of Lighthorse (which lately were wantonly tutored in a house of God in this town) was at Windsor, waiting for General Howe to get foothold at New-York, when they were to follow, and march (or gallop) through this Continent; that they were busily employed in fortifying Citadel-Hill and other places, being under apprehension of an attack; that Brigadier Ruggles and son from Hardwick, William Tyng, formerly High-Sheriff, John Hicks, and John Howe, Printers, were gone volunteers with General Howe, and a number of others, which our informant could not recollect.

We also learn from Halifax, that when the New-York Tories arrived there, they applied to General Howe for subsistence; but were informed that, unless they took up arms in defence of Government, they could have no relief; when some of them voluntarily entered the service, and others; through necessity, were obliged to; and that the fourth day after their enlistment, they, together with the Boston Tories, were ordered to dig in the Coal Mines at Nova-Scotia, where we hope they may remain during life—a proper shelter for all the Tories in America.

NEHEMIAH ESTABROOK TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE ASSEMBLY.

Province of New-Hampshire, Lebanon, July 6, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: The necessitous and alarming circumstances the inhabitants are under in these infant and frontier towns, since the Army have retreated to Crown Point, out of the Province of Canada, leaving a large extent of our frontiers open to the ravages of the savage Indians, being almost destitute of arms and ammunition, and many of our inhabitants leaving their houses and fields a prey to our enemies, we humbly trust your Honours will compassionate and afford us such relief as you in your wisdom shall judge necessary, from time to time, especially at this present time. We would inform your Honours that the Committees of several of the adjacent towns met together and agreed to raise three hundred men, to build garrisons, and scout for our defence, as you will see by a copy of the proceedings of said Committee, which I send you here enclosed. But as we are destitute of arms, ammunition, and money, we are fearful it will in a great measure prove abortive, and this only alternative left us: either to make our escape into the lower towns, or fall a sacrifice to our enemies.

We therefore pray your Honours would afford us immediate relief in the premises, as it is of the utmost importance to us all. And we shall, as in duty bound, ever pray.

In behalf of the Committee:

NEHEMIAH ESTABROOK, Chairman.

To the Honourable Assembly of the Province of New-Hampshire.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Wednesday, June 5, 1776.

The Board having heard Colonel David Gilman's defence on the complaint of Samuel Penhallow, Esquire, respecting Colonel Gilman's asserting that the soldiers under his command were subject to martial law only, are of opinion that the sentiments conveyed in Colonel Gilman's letter plainly and in express words denied the right of the civil power to control the military, and thereby gave just reason for Mr. Penhallow to be alarmed at such a doctrine, especially from the commanding military officer of the standing troops in this Colony. And the Board do return Mr. Penhallow their sincere thanks for his attachment to, and care of, so essential and fundamental a principle of the Constitution and rights of a free people. Nevertheless do believe that the sentiments conveyed in the aforesaid letter escaped from Colonel Gilman through inattention or ruffle of his mind, and conveyed ideas different from his real sentiments.

The House met according to adjournment.

Voted, To raise £5,000 for the Colony Tax for the current year, to be assessed on the polls and estates within this Colony, and to be collected and paid into the Treasury on or before the 1st day of March next.

Received a Letter from the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., enclosing the Resolves and Requisitions of the Continental Congress, about raising the Militia, &c., to send to Canada, and sent the same up to the Board by Mr. Cutts.

Adjourned to three o'clock, afternoon.

— Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That this House resolve themselves into a Committee of the Whole House to join the Council, or such of their Members as they shall appoint, to converse together concerning the requisition of the Continental Congress for a Battalion to be raised and sent from this Colony to Canada, and other matters concerning raising and equipping the said Battalion.

Which Committee of the Whole House being joined by a Committee of the Whole Board, the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq., in the chair, and conferring on the premises, came to the following Resolution, viz:

That there be forthwith raised and equipped in this Colony a Regiment of seven hundred and fifty men, including Officers; and that each Non-Commissioned Officer and Soldier receive a bounty of £6.

And the question being put, whether the Troops now on duty at or near New-Castle, &c., shall have leave to enlist into the said Regiment, or into the Continental Battalion, and a vote being put thereon, it passed in the negative.

Also, Resolved, That the Officers and Soldiers have the same Wages as the Continental Troops have.

Voted, To choose a Committee of sixteen Members of this House to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to confer together and nominate to this House proper persons for Field-Officers, and for Captains of Regiments now to be raised for Canada, and how and in what manner the said Regiment shall be enlisted and equipped, and to make report thereon to this House as soon as may be; and that Major Barker, Colonel Baker, Captain Moulton, Mr. Wheeler, Robert Willson, Esq., James Betton, Esq., Major Philbrick, Mr. Abbott, Major Kelley, Colonel Hale, Mr. Robinson, Colonel Gerrish, Colonel Smith, Major Bellows, Colonel Morey, and Mr. Brainard, be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

— Saturday, June 15, 1776.

The House met according to adjournment.

An Act for establishing the style of Commissions, and altering the style of Writs and Law Processes, &c., read a first time.

An Act to prevent the forging and altering Bills of Publick Credit, &c., read a first time.

The Committee of both Houses appointed to prepare a Draught setting forth the sentiments and opinion of the Council and Assembly of this Colony, relative to the United Colonies setting up an independent State, made Report as on file. Which Report being read and considered, Voted unanimously, That the Report of said Committee be received and accepted, and that the Draught by them brought in be sent to our Delegates at the Continental Congress forthwith, as the sense of this House.

Voted, To raise and equip forthwith in this Colony a Regiment of seven hundred and fifty men, including Officers, to be sent immediately to Canada, to reinforce our Army there; and that each Non-Commissioned Officer and Soldier receive a bounty of £6 on their being mustered and enrolled, and to receive the same Wages as the Continental Troops have, and that the Officers and Soldiers receive one month's advance wages upon their being ready to march, and to continue in the service until the first day of December next, unless sooner discharged by the Continental Congress.

And that Isaac Wyman, Esq., be Colonel of the said Regiment, and Joseph Senter, Esq., be Lieutenant-Colonel, and Edward Sherburne, Esq., be Major of said Regiment; that John Drew, of Barrington, Henry Elkins, of Hampton, William Harper, of Brintwood, Daniel Reynolds, of Londonderry, James Shepard, of Canterbury, Augustus Blanchard, of Merrimack, Samuel Wetherbee, of Charlestown, and Joseph Parker, of New-Ipswich, be Captains in the said Regiment.

Voted, That the Account of Daniel Fowle, Esq., amounting to £5 14s., be allowed and paid out of the Treasury, and that the President give order of payment.

The Draught made by the Committee of both Houses, relating to Independency, and voted as the sense of this House as in the preceding page, is as follows, viz:

Whereas it now appears an undoubted fact, that notwithstanding all the dutiful Petitions and decent Remonstrances from the American Colonies, and the utmost exertions of their best friends in England on their behalf, the British Ministry, arbitrary and vindictive, are yet determined to reduce, by fire and sword, our bleeding country to their absolute obedience; and for this purpose, in addition to their own forces, have engaged great numbers of foreign mercenaries, who may now be on their passage here, accompanied by a formidable Fleet, to ravage and plunder the sea-coast; from all which we may expect the most dismal scenes of distress the ensuing year, unless we exert ourselves by every means and precaution possible: And whereas we, of this Colony of New-Hampshire, have the example of the most respectable of our sister Colonies before us for entering upon that most important step of a disunion from Great Britain, and declaring ourselves free and independent of the Crown thereof, being impelled thereto by the most violent and injurious treatment, and it appearing most necessary in this most critical juncture of our publick affairs; that the honourable the Continental Congress, who have this most important object under their immediate consideration, should be also informed of our Resolution thereon without loss of time: We do hereby declare, that it is the opinion of our Assembly that our Delegates at the Continental Congress should be instructed, and they are hereby instructed, to join with the other Colonies in declaring the Thirteen United Colonies a free and independent State, solemnly pledging our faith and honour that we will, on our parts, support the measure with our lives and fortunes; and that in consequence thereof, they, the Continental Congress, on whose wisdom, fidelity, and integrity, we rely, may enter into and form such alliances as they may judge most conducive to the present safety and future advantage of these American Colonies, provided the regulation of our internal police be under the direction of our own Assembly.

Entered according to the original.

Attest: NOAH EMERY, Clerk.

Voted, That Deacon Nahum Baldwin, Captain Prentice, Matthew Patten, Esq., Colonel Hale, and Mr. Grout, be a Committee of this House to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to give out Inlisting Orders to the several Officers of the Regiment now to be raised for Canada; and to commissionate the Officers, and make all necessary preparations for, and equip the said Regiment as soon as possible.

Adjourned to Monday next, at ten o'clock, forenoon.

— Monday, June 17, 1776.

The following Letter was presented to the House, viz:

"To the Honourable House of Representatives for the Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

"Agreeable to the request of the late Congress of the Colony aforesaid to the Committees of Safety of the several Towns of the Colony, the Committees of the Towns of Dunstable, Hollis, Merrimack, and Litchfield, in said Colony, herewith return the names of Captain Leonard Whiting, Benjamin Whiting, and Samuel Cummings, Esqs., and Thomas Cummings, of Hollis, suspected persons of being unfriendly or inimical to the liberties and rights of the United Colonies, together with the evidences of such suspicion; which is humbly submitted to the examination and decision of the said honourable House of Assembly, agreeable to the handbills.

"Dated at Dunstable, 15th of June, 1776.

"REUBEN DOW, Chairman of Committee.

Whereas the Committees of Safety for the Towns of Dunstable, Hollis, Merrimack, and Litchfield, have returned the names of Leonard Whiting, Benjamin Whiting, Samuel Cummings, Esqs., and Thomas Cummings, as persons suspected of being unfriendly or inimical to the liberties of the United Colonies, together with the evidences of such suspicion; which having been heard and fully considered, and also the said Leonard Whiting, Benjamin Whiting, Samuel Cummings, and Thomas Cummings, being heard by counsel upon their petition before both Houses, it appears to this House that the said suspicion is not sufficiently supported, and that the said Leonard Whiting, Benjamin Whiting, Samuel Cummings, and Thomas Cummings, be acquitted, and fully discharged.

Voted, That the Pay-Roll of Captain Eliphalet Daniel, for his Company of Matrosses, from the 17th of May, 1776, to the 17th of June instant, amounting to £154 12s., be allowed and paid out of the Treasury, and that the President give order of payment.

Voted, That Jacob Wilson receive out of the Treasury 28s., in full for boarding and nursing James Winn, a sick soldier, and for his watchers, and that the President give order of payment.

Voted, That the Field-Officers and the Staff-Officers of the Regiment destined for Canada be paid out of the Treasury, each two months' advance pay, instead of the one month's advance pay heretofore voted them, and that the President give order of payment.

Voted, That Colonel Otis Baker, Mr. Elijah Grout, Colonel Timothy Walker, Samuel Dudley, Esq., John Dud- ley, Esq., Deacon Nahum Baldwin, Colonel Enoch Hale, and Captain Ezekiel Worthen, the several Mustermasters appointed to pay off the Troops destined for Canada, receive, each of them, out of the Treasury £780, to pay off the Soldiers (by them severally to be mustered) their bounty of $20 each, and their one month's advance pay, and to pay off the Captains and Subaltern Officers of said Troops two months' advance pay, instead of the one month's pay heretofore voted them; and that the said Mustermasters be severally accountable for said sum, and that the President give order of payment accordingly.

The Committee appointed to report their opinion of the necessities to fix off the Canada Regiment, agree to report, that Colonel Hurd be appointed to fix off all the Companies from Cohos, with ten days' provisions—except Captain Parker's and Captain Wetherbee's Companies, who we would recommend to be fixed off by Captain Prentice, at Charlestown, with ten days' provisions—to proceed by way of Crown Point; and that the persons appointed Mustermasters deliver each Company a day's provision for every twenty miles' travel, from the place they march from, until they come to Cohos or Charlestown—otherwise pay to each man 1d. per mile for said distance; and that said Hurd and Prentice deliver each man a quart of rum, and that six dozen of axes be immediately provided at Exeter, and sent forward.

M. THORNTON, Chairman.

Which Report being read,

Voted, That the same be received and accepted, and that orders issue from the honourable the President accordingly.

John Hale, Esq., Colonel of the Sixth Regiment of Militia in this Colony, together with Robert Reid, Esq., his Lieutenant-Colonel, and William McQuieston, Esq., his Major, came into the House and desired leave to resign their respective commissions appointing them to the command of said Regiment.

The following Vote was sent down from the honourable Board, viz:

"Colony of New-Hampshire, in Council, }
June 29, 1776. }

"The Council having taken into consideration the complaint of Samuel Penhallow, Esq., that he had, as a Civil Magistrate of this Colony, on a complaint made to him in said capacity, issued a warrant against a soldier in Colonel David Gilman's Regiment, for a flagrant breach of the peace, applied to said Colonel Gilman for assistance, to bring the offender to justice; and that said Colonel Gilman had replied that the soldiers under his command were subject to martial law, and were not subject to the Civil Magistrate for any offence, or to that effect:

"Voted, That it is the opinion of the Board that the said Colonel David Gilman is ignorant of the laws and received rules and regulations always practised in the English Constitution; and the military power setting up an authority uncontrollable by the Civil Magistrate, is subversive of the laws, rights, and privileges of Englishmen, and what our present inveterate enemies never attempted; and that Colonel David Gilman be summoned to appear before the General Assembly forthwith, to answer for his conduct."

The above Vote of Council being read and considered, Voted, That the same be concurred.

Adjourned to Monday next, at three o'clock, P. M.

Voted, That the Committees of Plymouth, Campton, and Thornton, have and receive out of the Treasury £250, for the purpose of purchasing Firearms, Powder, Lead, and Flints, for the use of said Towns; they giving security to the Treasurer to repay said sum when required; and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That General Folsom deliver to Captain Benjamin Hickocks two hundred pounds weight of Powder out of the Colony stores, according to the desire of the Committee of Portsmouth, in consequence of an order from the Committee of Newburyport, and that the President give order accordingly.

The whole Council and House being resolved into a Committee of both Houses, to confer on the necessary measures to be immediately pursued in the present alarming circumstances of our Canada affairs, &c.:

Having met in the Town-House, at Exeter, the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq., in the chair, after conferring upon the said measures;

Voted, That the General Court proportion to each Colonel or Commanding-Officer of each Regiment in this Colony, how many men shall be raised in each Regiment forthwith, to reinforce our Army in Canada; and that the said Colonels and Commanding Officers shall be directed to proportion the said men among the several Companies in their respective Regiments, including the Alarm List; and that the number of men to be raised shall be fifteen hundred, including the seven hundred and fifty men already voted to be raised for that service; and that they remain in the service till the 1st day of December next, and have the same allowance, pay, and bounty, as those heretofore appointed to be raised for Canada.

The above Vote being read,

Voted, That the same be made a Resolve of this House.

Also, Voted, That Captain Long, Mr. Abbot, and Captain Moore, be a Committee of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to make a proportion of what number of men shall be raised in each Regiment in this Colony for a reinforcement of our Army in Canada.

Voted, That there be paid by the Treasurer, for all such good Firearms as shall be manufactured in this Colony, and brought to the Treasurer, agreeable to a former vote of this House, within one year from this time, 10s. each, in addition to the £3 heretofore voted.

Voted, To choose a Committee of three of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to consult and examine into the expediency of delivering Powder to the inhabitants of Walpole, Westmoreland, New-Chester, Rumney, Wentworth, Warren, Lyme, and Salisbury, and what quantity and on what condition the same shall be delivered to each of said Towns, and make report thereon as soon as may be; and that Captain Moulton, Deacon Knowles, and Mr. Wheeler, be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Adjourned to three o'clock, afternoon.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That there be delivered to the Towns hereafter named, and to the several Colonels hereafter named, the several quantities of Powder hereafter mentioned, (they being accountable for the same,) viz: To the Town of Wentworth, 9 pounds weight; to the Town of Warren, 9 pounds weight; to the Town of Lyme, 30 pounds weight; to the Town of New-Chester, 30 pounds weight; to the Town of Rumney, 30 pounds weight; to the Town of Piermont, thirty pounds weight; to the Town of Orford, 15 pounds weight; to the Town of Alexandria, 20 pounds weight; to the Town of Salisbury, 25 pounds weight; to Colonel Benjamin Bellows, for his Regiment, to be divided between them in due proportion, 200 pounds weight; and to Colonel Samuel Ashley, for his Regiment, to be divided between them in due proportion, 100 pounds weight; amounting in the whole to 500 pounds weight, to be accounted for as aforesaid; and that the President give orders accordingly.

Voted, That Major Alexander Craige and Michael Dwyer have and receive out of the Treasury £45, for the purpose of purchasing Firearms, Lead, and Flints, for the use of the Town of Rumney, in this Colony; they giving good security to the Treasurer for the repayment of said sum into the Treasury when required; and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That Captain Jonathan Chandler have and receive out of the Treasury £50, for the purpose of purchasing Firearms, Lead, and Flints, for the use of the Town of Piermont, in this Colony, he giving good security to the Treasurer for the repayment of said sum when required, and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That Colonel Israel Morey have and receive out of the Treasury £50, for the purpose of purchasing Firearms, Lead, and Flints, for the use of the Town of Orford, in this Colony, he giving good security to the Treasurer for the repayment of said sum into the Treasury when required, and that the President give order accordingly.

Whereas it is strongly suspected that Major Robert Rogers, and one Samuel Dyer are inimical to the rights and liberties of Americans: Therefore,

Voted, That it be, and hereby is, strongly recommended to the several Committees of Safety and of Correspondence in this Colony, or either or any of them, that they take effectual care to seize the bodies of the said Samuel Dyer and Robert Rogers; whenever or wherever found in this Colony, and to secure them, or either of them, under a proper guard; and convey them or either of them to this House, or Committee of Safety of this Colony, as soon as may be, for examination.

Adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

— Wednesday, July 3, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That the following numbers of men be raised in the several Regiments hereunder mentioned, for the reinforcement of our Army in Canada, viz: Colonel Whipple's Regiment, 115; Colonel Evans's Regiment, 150; Colonel Moulton's Regiment, 88; Colonel Gilman's Regiment, 163; Colonel Ashley's Regiment, 100; Colonel Bellows's Regiment, 73; late Colonel John Hale's Regiment, 157; Colonel Bartlett's Regiment, 111; Colonel Thornton's Regiment, 66; Colonel Enoch Hale's Regiment, 107; Colonel Webster's Regiment, 55; Colonel Moore's Regiment, 126; Colonel Stickney's Regiment, 116; Colonel Badger's Regiment, 73—1,500.

And that General Folsom give orders to the several Colonels or Commanding Officers of said Regiments accordingly.

"The Committee on Colonel Morey's Account agree to report that the goods Colonel Morey has on hand, for which he charges £100, ought to remain as his own property, and the charge against the Colony taken off. And the state of the Account being such that they cannot at present enter into an examination thereof, they would recommend that no money be paid thereon until a proper settlement can be made.

M. THORNTON, Chairman."

Which Report being read:

Voted, That the same be received and entered as a resolve of this House.

Voted, That Captain Nathaniel Sartel Prentice have and receive out of the Treasury the sum of £200, for the purpose of purchasing Firearms, Lead, and Flints, for the use of Colonel Bellows's Regiment, he giving good security for the repayment of said sum when required; and that the President give order accordingly.

Whereas sundry Soldiers have inlisted out of the Regiment under command of Colonel David Gilman, at New-Castle, into the Regiment now going to Canada: It is hereby Voted and Ordered, That the reasonable expenses of such of the Officers in said Gilman's Regiment as shall recruit Soldiers to fill up said Regiment, shall be paid by the Colony.

Voted, That three hundred Handbills be immediately printed and distributed in this Colony, in the following words, viz:

“Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE to the Selectmen and Committees of Safety and of Correspondence, and to all Officers, civil and military, in the several Towns in this Colony:

“You, and each of you, are now called upon, in behalf of yourselves and your distressed country, to exert every nerve in forwarding the inlisting and making up the quotas of men in the respective places you belong to, that they may march forward and join their brethren under General Sullivan, and enable him to repel the Army coming against us from Canada.”

Voted, That eight Mustermasters be appointed for the eight Companies of Militia last voted to be raised for the reinforcement of our Army in Canada, viz: one for each of said Companies, who shall be empowered to muster the said respective Companies, pay them off, and see them fixed for marching, and give them marching orders; and also, that they receive blank commissions for the Captains and subaltern officers of their respective Companies; and when said officers shall be chosen by the soldiers, then to fill up said commissions and deliver them to the said respective officers, that they may march immediately; and that the said Mustermasters have power to preside at the meeting of the soldiers, to see a fair choice of the respective officers; and that Major Bartlett, Colonel Samuel Sherburne, Mr. John Bell, Major Samuel Philbrick, Colonel Moses Kelley, Deacon James Knowles, Mr. Asa Davis, and Colonel Samuel Ashley, be the Mustermasters of the said Companies.

Voted, That the Honourable Colonel Weare and Doctor Dearborn have and receive out of the Treasury £20, for the purpose of purchasing Paper, &c., for printing the Bills of Credit, and the Laws of this Colony, to be by them accounted for; and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That Colonel Joshua Wingate be appointed First Colonel of the Second Regiment now raising in this Colony for a reinforcement to our Army in Canada, and that Major James Hackett be Lieutenant-Colonel, and that Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel Connor be Major of said Regiment.

Voted, To choose a Committee, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to confer upon the expediency of appointing a Paymaster or Paymasters to the two Regiments now destined for Canada, and to make report as soon as may be; and that Captain Long, John Dudley, Esq., and Colonel Walker, be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Which Committee, being joined by a Committee of the Council, made the following Report, viz:

“The Committee of both Houses, appointed to consult on the expediency of appointing Paymasters for the two Battalions to be raised to join the Northern Army, are of opinion that they ought to be immediately appointed.

“July 4, 1776.”

“M. THORNTON, Chairman.”

Voted, That Captain Joseph Chandler have inlisting orders to inlist a Company of Soldiers for the Canada expedition, in the room of Captain Hadlock, who resigns.

Voted, That the several Mustermasters and Paymasters of the several Companies of the last Regiment destined for Canada have and receive out of the Treasury £940 each, for the purpose of paying off the several Companies their bounty and advance wages, and to be by them severally accounted for; and that the Mustermasters and Paymasters of the First Regiment destined for Canada, and now raising for that purpose, have and receive out of the Treasury £171 each, for the purpose of paying off the additional bounty voted to the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers of the said First Regiment; and that the President give orders accordingly.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Friday, July 5, 1776.

The House met according to adjournment.

Upon the information of the Committee of Safety of Stratham against Captain George Murch, as a person being inimical to the liberties of this country, &c.,

Voted, To choose a Committee of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to examine into the matter of their complaint and information, and to report thereon as soon as may be; and that Captain Prentice, Captain Harriman, and Matthew Patten, Esq., Mr. Samuel Moore, and Doctor Nichols, be the Committee for that purpose.

Which Committee, being joined by a Committee of the honourable Council, made report, that upon questioning said George March, and after reading sundry testimonies, they are of opinion that said March is inimical to his country, and that he ought to be taken care of in such manner as the said Houses shall judge proper.

M. THORNTON, Chairman.

Voted, To choose a Committee of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to give out inlisting orders, blank commissions, and instructions, to the Mustermasters and Paymasters of the two Regiments now destined for Canada; and that Colonel Evans, Captain Long, and Mr. Gibson, be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Voted, That Major Joseph Bass, of Portsmouth, be appointed Paymaster to the Second Regiment, now to be raised in this Colony, and destined for Canada, he giving bond in a respectable sum, with sufficient sureties, for the faithful discharge of his said trust.

Voted, That Noah Emery, Jun., of Exeter, be appointed Paymaster to the First Regiment, now to be raised in this Colony, destined for Canada, he to give bond, with two sufficient sureties, in a respectable sum, for the faithful discharge of his said trust.

Voted, To choose a Committee of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to nominate a proper person for a Maritime Officer, and also a proper person or persons for a Notary Publick or Notaries Publick, for this Colony; and that Mr. Cutts, Colonel Walker, and John Dudley, Esq., be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

An Act for establishing Courts of Law for the administration of justice within this Colony, was read a third time, and passed to be enacted.

Voted and Resolved, That the several Courts of Law within this Colony be, and hereby are, prohibited from trying any civil actions until the next Session of this Assembly; and that they proceed as usual to hear and try all capital crimes, misdemeanors, trovers, trespasses, assaults, batteries, robberies, thefts, and other breaches of the peace, committed within their respective jurisdictions; and that the fees to be taken or taxed in the several Courts shall be taken according to the last Table of Fees established in this Colony, until the last of the next session of this Assembly, or until otherwise ordered by the General Assembly, and no longer.

Voted, That the Constable of Exeter be directed to seize the body of George March, and safely keep him till called for by this House, to be examined and tried on suspicion of his being inimical to the liberties of this Colony; and that the Clerk make out a warrant accordingly, and send out summons for witnesses by Major Barker.

Voted, To choose a Committee, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to consult and nominate a proper person, or proper persons, out of whom this House shall appoint one, to be a Justice of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas in the County of Rockingham, in the room and stead of George King, Esq., who refused to accept that office; and also to nominate some proper person to be a Special Justice of said Court, in case of the death or incapacity of either of the standing Justices, and to make report as soon as may be; and that Major Downing, Captain Long, and Captain Worthen, be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Voted, That Eleazer Russell, Esq., of Portsmouth, be appointed Maritime Officer of the Port of Piscataqua; and that the Honourable Wyseman Clagett, Esq., and John Pickering, Esq., be appointed Notaries Publick and Tabelions for this Colony.

Voted, That Samuel Penhallow, Esq., of Portsmouth, be appointed a Justice of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas for the County of Rockingham, in the room and stead of George King, Esq., who refuses to accept that office.

Voted, That William Knight, Esq., be appointed a Special Justice of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas for the County of Rockingham, in case of the death or incapacity of either of the standing Justices.

Adjourned to three o'clock, afternoon.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, To choose a Committee of this House, to join a Committee of the honourable Board, to nominate fifteen persons of the Council and of this House, to be a Committee of Safety for this Colony, to transact the business of both Houses in the recess of the General Court; and that Colonel Walker, Colonel Baker, Captain Prentice, Mr. Brainard, Mr. Bell, and John McClary, Esq., be the Committee of this House for that purpose.

Voted, That Simeon Dearborn, Esq., and Mr. Nathaniel Balch, have and receive out of the Colony stock, thirty pounds of Powder, for the use of the inhabitants of the Town of Wakefield, to be by them accounted for, and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That Samuel Jones, of Canaan, and Elisha Bingham, of Enfield, receive out of the Colony stock seventy-five pounds of Powder, for the use of the inhabitants of the said Towns of Canaan and Enfield, and to be by them accounted for; and that the President give order accordingly.

Voted, That Samuel Jones, of Canaan, and Elisha Bingham, of Enfield, have and receive out of the Treasury £5, for the purpose of purchasing Lead and Flints for the use of the inhabitants of said Towns, they giving good security to the Treasurer for the repayment of said sum when requested; and that the President give order accordingly.

The Council and House, taking into consideration the accusations laid against Captain George March, of Stratham, as being inimical to the liberties of this country, and a full hearing being had thereon before both Houses, and sundry witnesses being sworn and examined, it appears to this Court that the said George March has uttered many things against the liberties and privileges of this country:

It is therefore Voted and Resolved, That the said George March confine himself to the limits of the farm which he now improves in Stratham, on pain of imprisonment, and that he recognise to the Government and People of the Colony of New-Hampshire, in the sum of £100, with two sureties in £50 each, for his good behaviour, until further order of this Court, and that, in the mean time, he be disarmed by the Committee of Safety of Stratham.

Voted, That the Pay-Roll of Captain Nathan Brown, up to July 1st, 1776, amounting to £267 4s. 7d., be allowed and paid out of the Treasury, and that the President give order of payment.

Voted, That the Pay-Roll of Captain Timothy Clement, up to July 1st, 1776, amounting to £238 15s., be allowed and paid out of the Treasury, and that the President give order of payment.

Voted, That the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq., Matthew Thornton, Nathaniel Folsom, Ebenezer Thompson, and Wyseman Clagett, Esquires, of the Council, and the Honourable Philips White, Esq., John Dudley, Timothy Walker, Matthew Patten, Otis Baker, Josiah Moulton, Benjamin Parker, Nathaniel Sartel Prentice, and Pierce Long, Esquires, of this House, be a Committee of Safety for this Colony, to transact all the business of both Houses in the recess of the General Court; with all the power and authority that any Committee of Safety of this Colony, before chosen or appointed, have had and exercised, and to appoint and commission officers, in case of the death or refusal of those that are already appointed; and on any emergency, to call the Council and House together, as occasion may require; and that any eight of said Committee be a quorum to do business.

Adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Saturday, July 6, 1776.

The House met according to adjournment.

Voted, That any person who shall manufacture in this Colony good Sulphur, and bring in the same to Dr. Josiah Gilman, at Exeter, within six months next ensuing, shall receive out of the Treasury at and after the rate of $10 for every hundred weight, upon certificate of the said Dr. Josiah Gilman that he has received the same of such person for the use of this Colony, such person being under oath that the same was manufactured in this Colony; and that any person who shall manufacture in this Colony good Bar-Lead within six months next ensuing, and deliver the same to Nicholas Gilman, Esq., Receiver-General, (who is to put such person on oath that the same was manufactured in this Colony,) shall be entitled to £6 per hundred weight therefor out of the Treasury.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety be directed to remonstrate to the Continental Congress against allowing any person or persons extravagant commissions for transacting the publick business in this distressing day.

Voted, That the Members of the honourable Council and of this House be paid out of the Treasury 6s. per day each for each day's attendance in this Session, and 2d. per mile travel to and from their respective homes, and that the consideration of the method how the same shall be replaced in the Treasury be postponed to a future day, and that the Secretary and the Clerk of the House make out the Pay-Rolls accordingly.

The House adjourned to the first Wednesday in September next, at three of the clock, afternoon, then to meet at the Court-House in Exeter.

ACTS PASSED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

An Act for establishing the style of Commissions, which shall hereafter be issued, and for altering the style of Writs, Processes, and all Law Proceedings within this Colony; and for directing how Recognisances to the use of this Colony shall in future be taken and prosecuted.

Whereas the hostile and vindictive proceedings of the British Administration against the United Colonies have obtained the sanction of the King of Great Britain, notwithstanding the frequent and dutiful Remonstrances of these Colonies against such cruel measures; and by his command a powerful Navy and Army are come and coming, with avowed purposes of spreading slaughter and desolation through this Continent, by which the good people of this Colony have been necessitated to have recourse to arms to repel such force, and to protect their lives and fortunes: And whereas, under such circumstances, the absurdity of issuing Commissions, Writs, Processes, or other proceedings in law and in Courts of Justice within this Colony, in the name and style of the King of Great Britain, is very apparent, and tends to keep up ideas inconsistent with the form and safety of this Government, and to give the people of this Colony great uneasiness:

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That all Civil Commissions, Writs, and Precepts, for convening the General Court or Assembly, which hereafter shall be made out in this Colony, shall be in the style and name of the Government and People of the Colony of New-Hampshire; and all Commissions, both civil and military, shall be dated in the year of the Christian era, and shall not bear the date of the year of the reign of any King or Queen of Great Britain.

And that all Writs, Processes, and Proceedings in Law, and in any of the Courts of Justice in this Colony, which have been used or accustomed, or by any laws of this Colony, are required to be issued, used, or practised in law, and in any of the Courts of Justice in this Colony, in the name and style of the King of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c., or in any other words implying or intending the same, shall, from and after the passing this Act, be made, issued, used, and practised in the name and style of the Government and People of the Colony of New-Hampshire, and no other, and shall bear the date of the year of the Christian era, and shall not bear the date of the year of the reign of any King or Queen of Great Britain, until some accommodation of the American Congress, or Act, Order, or Resolve, of a General American Legislature, or of the Legislature of this Colony, shall be made and passed, otherwise directing and prescribing.

And be it enacted, That all Commissions, civil and military, which have been issued by the Congress or General Assembly of this Colony before the passing of this act, shall have the same force and effect as if this act had never been made, the style and date therein notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted, That all Recognisances that heretofore have been used and accustomed to be taken to the King of Great Britain, by the style and title of our sovereign Lord the King, shall, from and after the date hereof, be taken to the Government and people of the Colony of New-Hampshire; and when scire facias, or other legal process, shall be issued thereon against the recognisor or recognisors, they shall be in the name and behalf of the said Government and people; and when judgment shall be rendered thereon, the money recovered and levied, shall be paid into the Treasury of this Colony for the use of the same.

And be it further enacted, That all suits upon Recognisances which have been taken heretofore, within this Colony, to the King of Great Britain, or otherwise, under any name, character, or form of words whatsoever, that have been, or that may be hereafter forfeited, (if any suits should be brought thereon,) shall, from and after the passing of this Act, be commenced and prosecuted in the name and behalf of the Government and people of the Colony of New-Hampshire, and not in the name of the said King; and the money recovered and levied on such suits, shall be likewise paid into the Treasury of this Colony, for the use and benefit of the said people.

An Act to prevent the forging and altering Bills of Publick Credit, and for preventing the depreciation thereof; and for making the Bills of Credit of the United Colonies, and the Bills of this Colony, a tender in all payments.

Whereas, by reason of the unjustifiable attacks committed against the United Colonies of America by the Troops of Great Britain, and the difficulty of collecting Money, Plate, and Bullion, to support the charges of their necessary defence, the Congress of said Colonies have thought fit, for the carrying on the publick affairs, and answering the present demands of soldiers and seamen employed by them, to order the imprinting and signing a certain number of Bills of Publick Credit of several sums, by Commissioners thereunto duly appointed and authorized: And whereas the Congress and General Assembly of this Colony have also, for the payment of seamen and soldiers employed in defence of the same, ordered that a certain number of Notes and Bills of Credit of several sums should be imprinted, and signed by Commissioners thereunto duly authorized and appointed: And whereas several of the United Colonies have, by their Governments, severally ordered the imprinting and signing a certain number of Bills of Publick Credit, for answering the demands of soldiers and seamen by them severally employed for their necessary defence; all which Bills have obtained a good currency, and have very much facilitated the carrying on the present war: nevertheless, some wicked persons, intending to defraud the inhabitants of the Colonies aforesaid, and for the sake of base and unlawful gain, have forged, altered, and uttered several Counterfeit Notes and Bills of the same, in imitation of the true Notes and Bills of this Colony, thereby imposing a vile cheat on unwary and less discerning persons: For the prevention of which evils in future,

Be it enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That whosoever shall presume to forge or counterfeit any Note or Notes, Bill or Bills, of the tenor, or in imitation of the Bills of Credit of the United Colonies, established by any resolve of the American Congress, or the Convention, Congress, or Government of this, or any of the United Colonies of America, heretofore emitted, or that may hereafter be emitted, or that shall utter any such counterfeit and forged Notes or Bills, knowing them to be such, or that shall counsel, advise, assist in, or procure the forging, counterfeiting, imprinting, or signing of any such false Notes or Bills, or engrave any plate, or make any instrument to be used in forging and counterfeiting such Notes or Bills, every person so offending, and being thereof convicted before the Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Assize, and General Jail Delivery for said Colony, shall be punished by being set on the gallows for the space of one hour, with a rope round the neck, and pay a fine for the use of this Colony not exceeding fifty pounds, and suffer six months imprisonment, and be publicly whipped, not exceeding thirty-nine stripes, and be incapable of holding any office under the Government of this Colony, or shall suffer all or any of the foregoing punishments in the discretion of the Court before whom the trial shall be, according to the nature and circumstances of the offence, and shall pay to the person or persons that shall be defrauded by such forgery, treble damages. And if such offender or offenders shall not be able to pay the charges of his or their imprisonment, the Court before whom the conviction is, shall order that, at the expiration of said term of imprisonment, such person or persons shall be sold in service a time sufficient to pay the same.

And it is also enacted by the authority aforesaid, That whosoever shall make discovery and give information of such vile and wicked practice of making or knowingly putting off any false and counterfeit Note or Bill, as aforesaid, so that the person or persons guilty thereof may be rendered to justice and convicted, every such informer shall have and receive, as a reward for his good services, on every such conviction, the sum of ten pounds, to be ordered out of the publick Treasury of this Colony by the President of the Council for the time being, on a certificate from the Court before whom the conviction shall be, that such person did inform of such offence according to this act.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every person convicted of altering or increasing the sum or figures set and expressed in the Notes or Bills of Credit of the said United Colonies, or either of them, or of forging or counterfeiting any hand, name, or stamps, or other private mark, that shall be or has been made, or set thereon, shall be, for either of said offences, punished in the same manner as is provided by this act against those who shall forge or counterfeit such Notes or Bills.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall, directly or indirectly, receive or pay any of the Bills aforesaid for a less sum than is in them expressed, such person shall be incapable ever after of holding any civil or military office in this Colony; and for every such offence pay a fine of fifty pounds, to be recovered before any court of record in the County where the same offence may be committed, by bill, plaint, or indictment; one moiety whereof shall be to the use of the person who shall sue or inform for the same, and the other moiety to the use of this Colony.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall set, or offer his, her, or their goods, wares, or merchandise, at a smaller or less price in gold or silver than what they are by him, her, or them, set at in the paper currency of the United Colonies, or either of them, he, she, or they, shall pay a fine of fifty pounds; one moiety thereof to the use of the person who shall sue for and recover the same, and the other moiety to the use of the town where the offence is committed.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Bills of Credit of the United Colonies that are or shall be established by the American Congress, and the Bills of this Government, that are or shall be emitted, shall be received in all payments within this Colony, and a tender of the same may be pleaded in bar to any action brought for the recovery of any money, or species of money, due by deed or simple contract, or in any way and manner whatever. And all Justices, Sheriffs, Grand Jurors, and Tithingmen, are hereby strictly commanded to bring to justice all persons offending against this act, or any part of it.

An Act to abolish the Court of Appeals in this Colony, and to empower the Superior Court of Judicature to sustain and determine all matters pending in said Court of Appeals, and to prevent the absurd practice of granting appeals to the King of GREAT BRITAIN in Council from judgments of any Courts in this Colony in future.

Whereas the granting such a multiplicity of appeals from Court to Court and trials consequent thereupon as hath been heretofore practised within this Colony hath been found to promote litigation, protract suits, and increase the charges thereof, rather than to serve the ends of justice in this Colony: And whereas the allowance of appeals in any cases to said Court of Appeals or to the King of Great Britain is depriving the people of this Colony of their great, inestimable, and inherent right of trial by jury, and opening a door for arbitrary decisions of their property, even in the causes of the greatest moment: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Council and House of Representatives for said Colony, in General Court assembled, That the said Court of Appeals heretofore held in this Colony shall be, and hereby is, totally abolished, and that no appeal heretofore granted by the laws of this Colony to the said Court of Appeals or to the King of Great Britain in Council from the judgment or sentence of any Court whatever in this Colony shall be granted; and that all appeals from any sentence of any Judge of Probate for any County in this Colony, which heretofore might by the laws thereof be granted to said Court of Appeals, shall for the future be granted only to the Superior Court of Judicature next to be holden for the same County wherein the same appeal may be granted, which said Superior Court shall hear and finally determine all causes and matters as may be brought before them by appeals from any Court of Probate within this Colony.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all appeals heretofore granted to, and matters now pending in, said Court of Appeals, may and shall be sustained, heard, and determined by the said Superior Court in the County where the action or appeal originated. All causes and matters now pending before said Court of Appeals by appeals from the Superior Court heretofore held in this Colony, may be brought before the Superior Court of Judicature established in this Colony, by writ of review, any time within three years from the passing of this act; and all causes or matters now pending in said Court of Appeals by appeal from any Court of Probate in this Colony may, and shall be, brought before the last-mentioned Superior Court, by entering the appeal there any time within two years, in the same manner as if it had been first granted to that Court.

An Act for encouraging the fixing out of Armed Vessels to defend the sea-coast of AMERICA, and to cruise on the enemies of the United Colonies, as also for erecting a Court to try and condemn all Ships and other Vessels, their tackle, apparel, and furniture, and all goods, wares, and merchandises belonging to any inhabitant or inhabitants of GREAT BRITAIN taken on the high seas.

Whereas it has been expressly resolved by the Grand Congress of America, "That each Colony, at their own expense, make such provision by armed vessels, or otherwise, as their respective Assemblies, Conventions, or Committees of Safety shall judge expedient and suitable to their circumstances and situations, for the protection of their har-bours and navigation on the sea-coast against all unlawful invasions, attacks, and depredations, from cutters and ships of war;" and also that it should be lawful for the inhabitants of the United Colonies to fit out armed vessels to cruise on the enemies thereof, and that all ships and other vessels, their tackle, apparel, and furniture, and all goods, wares, and merchandise, belonging to any inhabitant or inhabitants of Great Britain, taken on the high seas, or between high-water and low-water mark, should be deemed and adjudged a lawful prize, (excepting such vessels as may be taken in bringing any settlers, arms, ammunition, or warlike stores, to and for the use of the United Colonies, or any of the inhabitants thereof who are friends to the American cause, and warlike stores and effects of such settlers:) Therefore, for the more effectually carrying into execution the purposes aforesaid,

Be it enacted by the Council and House of Representatives, in General Court assembled, That all armed and other vessels that have at any time since the nineteenth day of April, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, been engaged in making unlawful invasions, attacks, or depredations, on the sea-coasts of America or the navigation thereof, or used in supplying the fleet or army which have been, or shall at any time be, employed against the United Colonies, or employed by the enemy in any respect whatsoever; and those vessels which have been carrying supplies of any kind to the enemy, or whose masters or supercargoes shall have designs of carrying supplies of any kind to the enemy, or that shall be returning from the enemy after having carried such supplies, and shall be found hereafter on the high seas, and shall be brought into the harbour of Piscataqua, or any other place within this Colony, or found within the same, and be convicted of any of the offences aforesaid, such vessel or vessels, with their appurtenances and cargoes, shall be deemed forfeited, and shall be condemned and disposed of as by this act is hereafter ordered and directed. And in pursuance of a resolve of the American Congress:

Be it further enacted, That all ships and other vessels, their tackle, apparel, and furniture, and all goods, wares, and merchandises, belonging to any inhabitant or inhabitants of Great Britain, taken on the high seas, or between high-water and low-water mark, and being brought into, or lying within, the Colony aforesaid, since the date aforesaid, shall be deemed and adjudged lawful prize; and the Judge of the Court Maritime, hereafter mentioned, shall be, and is hereby, empowered to proceed upon, try, adjudge, and condemn, all such vessels, with their cargoes and appurtenances, and all such British merchandises and property as shall be taken as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Council of this Colony, or the major part of them, shall be fully empowered to commission with letters of marque and reprisal any person or persons within this Colony, who shall, at his, or their own, or at the Colony's expense, fit out and equip for the defence of America, any vessel, as also any person who shall, by the owner of such vessel, be recommended therefor; and that all such persons, so commissioned as aforesaid, shall have full power, with such other persons as they shall engage to their assistance, to sail on the seas, attack, take, and bring into port in this Colony, all vessels offending or employed by, or being the property of, the enemy, as aforesaid; and also to retake and bring in as aforesaid any vessel or vessels that may be taken from any person or persons by said enemy.

Provided always, and be it further enacted, That the master or owner of such vessel shall, at the time he receives such commission, enter into bond, with one sufficient surety at least, for the faithful discharge of his office, and observing the law of this Colony relating to armed vessels; which bond shall be in the form following, viz:

"Know all men by these presents, that we, A B and C D, are holden, and stand firmly bound and obliged, unto E F, Treasurer and Receiver-General of the Colony aforesaid, in the full and just sum of £5,000, to be paid unto the said Treasurer and Receiver-General, or to his successor in said office. To the true payment whereof, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

"Sealed with our seals the day of , A. D., 17 ."

The condition of the aforewritten obligation is such, that whereas the said A B hath, on the day of the date hereof, received a commission to command an armed vessel called ———, burden about ——— tons, to make reprisal of all armed and other vessels, which shall be found infesting the sea-coast, or upon the high seas, or between high and low-water mark; such vessels being the property of, or belonging to, any inhabitant or inhabitants of Great Britain, (excepting such vessels as may be taken in bringing any settlers, arms, ammunition, or warlike stores, to and for the use of the United Colonies, or any of the inhabitants thereof, who are friends to the American cause, and warlike stores and effect of such settlers:) If, therefore, the said A. B. shall in and by all things well and truly observe and fulfil such instructions as he shall receive from the Council of this Colony, and shall, in all things and respects, conform himself to the directions given in and by an act entitled "An Act for encouraging the fixing out of armed vessels to defend the sea-coast of America, and to cruise on the enemies of the United Colonies; as also for erecting a court to try and condemn all ships or other vessels, their tackle, apparel, and furniture, and all goods, wares, and merchandises, belonging to the inhabitants of Great Britain, taken on the high seas,"—then the above-written obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force.

And be it further enacted, That there shall be erected and constantly held in the town of Portsmouth, or some town or place adjacent, in the County of Rockingham, a Court of Justice, by the name of the Court Maritime, by such able and discreet person as shall be appointed and commissioned by the Council and Assembly for that purpose, whose business it shall be to take cognizance and try the justice of any capture or captures of any vessel or vessels that have been, may, or shall be, taken by any person or persons whomsoever, and brought into this Colony, or any the captures that have or shall be taken and brought thereinto.

And be it further enacted, That any person or persons who have been or shall be concerned in the taking and bringing into this Colony any vessel or vessels employed or offending, or being the property as aforesaid, shall jointly, or either of them, by themselves, or by their attorneys or agents, within twenty days after being possessed of the same in this Colony, file before the said Judge a libel in writing, therein giving a full and ample account of the time, manner, and cause of the taking such vessel or vessels. But in case of any such vessel or vessels already brought in as aforesaid, then such libel shall be filed within twenty days next after the passing this act, and at the time of filing such libel, shall also be filed all papers on board such vessel or vessels, to the intent that the jury may have the benefit of the evidence therefrom arising. And the Judge shall, as soon as may be, appoint a day to try by a jury the justice of the capture of such vessel or vessels, with their appurtenances and cargoes; and he is hereby authorized and empowered to try the same. And the same Judge shall cause a notification thereof, and the name, if known, and description of the vessel so brought in, with the day set for the trial thereon, to be advertised in some newspaper printed in the said Colony, if any such paper there be, twenty days before the time of the trial; and for want of such paper, then to cause the same notification to be affixed on the doors of the Town-House, in said Portsmouth, to the intent that the owner of such vessel, or any persons concerned, may appear, and show cause, if any they have, why such vessel, with her cargo and appurtenances, should not be condemned as aforesaid. And the said Judge shall, seven days before the day set and appointed for the trial of such vessel or vessels, issue his warrant to any Constable or Constables within the County aforesaid, commanding them, or either of them, to assemble the inhabitants of their towns respectively, and to draw out of the box, in manner provided for drawing jurors to serve at the Superior Court of Judicature, so many good and lawful men as the said Judge shall order—not less than twelve, nor exceeding twenty-four; and the Constable or Constables shall, as soon as may be, give any person or persons so drawn to serve on the jury in said Court due notice thereof, and shall make due return of his doings therein to the said Judge at or before the day set and appointed for the trial. And the said jurors shall be held to serve on the trial of all such vessels as shall have been libelled before the said Judge, and the time of their trial published at the time said jurors are drawn, unless the Judge shall see cause to discharge them, or either of them, before; and if seven of the jurors shall appear, and there shall not be enough to complete the number of twelve, (which shall be a panel,) or if there shall be a legal challenge to any of them, so that there shall be seven, and not a panel, it shall and may be lawful for the Judge to order his Clerk, the Sheriff, or other proper officer attending on said Court, to fill up the jury with good and lawful men present; and the said jury, when so filled up and empanelled, shall be sworn to return a true verdict on any bill, claim, or memorial, which shall be committed to them, according to law and evidence. And if the jury shall find that any vessel or vessels, against which a bill or libel is committed to them, have been offending, used, employed, or improved as aforesaid, or are the property of any inhabitants of Great Britain as aforesaid, they shall return their verdict thereof to the said Judge, and he shall thereupon condemn such vessel or vessels, with their cargoes and appurtenances, and shall order them to be disposed of, as by law is provided. And if the jury shall return a special verdict, therein setting forth certain facts relative to such vessel or vessels, (a bill against which is committed to them,) and it shall appear to the said Judge by said verdict that such vessel or vessels have been infesting the sea-coast of America, or navigation thereof, or that such vessels have been employed, used, improved, or offending, or are the property of any inhabitant or inhabitants of Great Britain, as aforesaid, he, the said Judge, shall condemn such vessel or vessels, and decree them to be sold, with their cargoes and appurtenances, at publick vendue, and shall also order the charges of said trial and condemnation to be paid out of the money such vessel and cargo, with her appurtenances, shall sell for, to the officers of the Court, according to the table of fees last established by law of this Colony, and shall order the residue thereof to be delivered to the captors, their agents or attorneys, for the use and benefit of such captors, and others concerned therein. And if two or more vessels (the commanders whereof shall be properly commissioned) shall jointly take such vessel, the money which she and her cargo shall sell for, after payment of charges as aforesaid, shall be divided between the captors, in proportion to their men. And the said Judge is hereby authorized to make out his precept, under his hand and seal, directed to the Sheriff of the County aforesaid, or, if thereto requested by the captors or agents, to any other person to be appointed by the said Judge, to sell such vessel and appurtenances and cargo, at publick vendue, and such Sheriff, or other person, after deducting his own charges for the same, to pay and deliver the residue, according to the decree of said Judge.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any Constable within the said County shall neglect or refuse to obey the warrant of the Judge for returning said jurors as aforesaid, he shall pay a fine, as the said Judge shall order, not exceeding the sum of forty shillings; and if any juror so drawn, and having notice as aforesaid, shall not appear at the time and place directed in such warrant, or shall refuse, without reasonable excuse, to serve on such Jury, he shall pay such fine as the Judge shall order, not exceeding the sum of forty shillings. But before such fine shall be awarded, the Judge shall summon such juror to appear before him to show forth the reason of his neglect; and if such reason shall not be satisfactory to the said Judge, then he shall issue his warrant of distress for such fine, if the said juror shall neglect to pay the same, and (excepting the style and test) in such manner as is directed for the recovery of fine of jurors who shall neglect or refuse to serve in the Inferior Court of Common Pleas. Which fines so recovered shall be paid into the Treasury of this Colony, for the use thereof.

And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That any person or persons claiming the whole or any part or share, either as owner or captor of any such vessel or vessels, against which a libel is so filed, may jointly, or by themselves, or by their attorneys or agents, five days before the day set and appointed for the trial of such vessel or vessels, file their claim before the said Judge; which claim shall be committed to the Jury with the libel which is first filed, and the Jury shall thereupon determine and return their verdict of what part or share such claimant or claimants shall have of the capture or captures; and every person or persons who shall neglect to file his or their claim in manner as aforesaid, shall be forever barred therefrom.

And be it further enacted, That no person who shall take and bring in any vessel as aforesaid, shall use or improve such capture before condemnation; and every person who shall file the first libel against such vessel or vessels, shall be held to pay all fees established by law, in the same manner as hath been used and accustomed in the courts of common law within the Colony.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every vessel which shall be taken and brought into this Colony by the armed vessels of any of the United Colonies of America, and shall be condemned as aforesaid, the proceeds of such vessels and cargoes shall go and be, one-third part to the use of the captors, and the other two-thirds to the use of the Colony, at whose charge such armed vessel was fitted out. And where any vessel or vessels shall be taken by the Fleet and Army of the United Colonies, and brought into this Colony, and condemned as aforesaid, the said Judge shall distribute and dispose of the said vessels and cargoes according to the resolves and orders of the American Congress.

And be it enacted, That the process and proceedings upon any vessel which has been or shall be retaken from the enemy by any person or persons, shall be in the same manner as herein provided for other vessels. And any vessels of any of the inhabitants of the United Colonies which have been or shall be hereafter retaken from the enemy, before condemnation thereof had, the moneys which they and their appurtenances and cargoes shall sell for, shall be disposed of as follows, viz: If they have been in the possession of the enemy less than twenty-four hours, then one-eighth part shall go to the use of the recaptors; if more than twenty-four and less than forty-eight hours, then one-fifth part shall go to the recaptors; and if more than forty-eight and less than ninety-six hours, then one-third part; and if more than ninety-six hours, one-half shall go to the recaptors; and in every case the residue to the owner or owners, unless such vessel or vessels shall, after being so brought in, be legally condemned as a prize; in which case the recaptors shall have the whole.

And be it further enacted, That any person, owner, captor, or claimant, may take affidavits in any cause to be tried in the Court Maritime aforesaid, before any Justice of the Peace, under the regulation provided by the laws of this Colony for taking affidavits to be used in civil actions in any of the courts of common law. And any person on board such captures, when they surrender, may be admitted as a witness to testify to any fact in dispute between any of the captors. And the Clerk appointed by the said Judge is empowered to make out a summons to any person named as a witness by either party. And if any person served with such summons, and having the legal fees for his travel rendered him, shall unnecessarily refuse to appear and give evidence in such cause, he shall suffer such penalty as is provided by the laws of this Colony against witnesses who shall neglect to appear when legally summoned to give evidence in the Superior Court of Judicature.

And whereas the honourable Continental Congress have recommended that, in certain cases, an appeal should be granted from the Court aforesaid:

Be it therefore enacted, That from all judgments or decrees hereafter to be given in the said Court Maritime, on the capture of any vessel, appurtenances, or cargoes, where such vessel is taken, or shall be taken, by any armed vessel fitted out at the charge of the United Colonies, an appeal shall be allowed to the Continental Congress, or to such person or persons as they already have, or shall hereafter appoint, for the trials of appeals: Provided, The appeal be demanded within five days after definitive sentence given, and such appeal shall be lodged with the Secretary of the Congress within forty days afterwards: And provided, The party appealing shall give security to prosecute said appeal with effect. And in case of the death of the Secretary during the recess of the Congress, the said appeal shall be lodged in Congress within twenty days after the next meeting thereof; and that from the judgment, decrees, or sentence of said Court, on the capture of any vessel or cargo which have been, or shall hereafter be, brought into this Colony, by any person or persons, (excepting those who are in the service of the United Colonies,) an appeal shall be allowed to the Superior Court of Judicature, which shall next be held in the County aforesaid.

And whereas, no provision has been made by any of the said resolves for an appeal from the sentence or decree of the said Judge, where the capture of any such vessel or vessels may be made by a vessel in the service of the United Colonies, and of any particular Colony or person, together: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That, in such cases, the appeal shall be allowed to the next Superior Court, as aforesaid: Provided, The appellant shall enter into bonds, with sufficient sureties, to prosecute his appeal with effect. And such Superior Court, to which the appeal shall be, shall take cognizance thereof, in the same manner, as if the appeal was from the Inferior Court of Common Pleas, and shall condemn or acquit such vessel or vessels, their cargoes and appurtenances, and in the sale and disposition of them, proceed according to this act. And the appellant shall pay the Court and Jury such fees as are allowed by law in civil actions.

And be it further enacted, That when there shall be on board such capture any goods perishable by nature, the Judge aforesaid shall be, and hereby is empowered, to give license for the sale of such goods before the trial, and after a libel is filed as aforesaid: Provided, The person or persons filing said libel shall give security to the Judge for the payment of such moneys, as such goods are reasonably worth, to the captor or captors thereof, if the same shall be condemned, and if otherwise, to the owners thereof.

And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That when any merchant ship or vessel shall be taken by virtue of any resolve aforesaid, the wages of seamen and mariners who shall be taken on board the same, shall be paid out of the proceeds of the prize, up to the time of condemnation.

And be it further enacted, That the said Judge shall appoint an able Clerk, who shall keep a true and fair record of all the proceedings of the said Court, and shall be duly sworn to act in said office with truth and fidelity: And his attestations shall be received as evidence in all courts of law.

GENERAL LEE TO EDMUND PENDLETON.

Charlestown, July 7, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Rutledge will inform you by this express of the outrages committed by the Cherokees, which must be construed as the commencement of a war. As it is now certain that a capital and favourite part of the plan laid down by our enemies is to lay waste the Provinces, burn the dwellings of the inhabitants, and mix men, women, and children, in one common carnage by the hands of the Indians; and as this part of the plan, though a piece of inhumanity, is certainly more big with mischievous consequences than the rest, it appears to me absolutely necessary to crush the evil before it arises to any dangerous height. Indeed, if we avail ourselves of the event, it may prove a fortunate one. Perhaps we ought in policy to have wished for it. We can now, with the greatest justice, strike a blow which is necessary to intimidate the numerous tribes of Indians from falling into the measures of our enemies; and as these Cherokees are not esteemed the most formidable warriors, we can, probably, do it without much risk or loss. I think, then, sir, that without a moment's delay, a body of your frontier riflemen should be immediately furnished, and march into the country of the Overhill Cherokees, and make a severe, lasting, and salutary example of them. The Carolínians propose at the same time attacking their lower towns, and, with the coöperation of Virginia, entertain no doubt of success.

Clinton's army and Parker's squadron are pretty much in the same situation as when I wrote last. They daily, indeed, make some alterations in the position of their land troops, from one island to another; perhaps for new air or water, of which, the deserters say, they are in great want. They tell us, likewise, that considerable sickness prevails in the army, and greater discontents from hard duty and bad diet. The spirit of desertion begins to show itself. Five soldiers came over these two last nights, who assure us that, were they not on an Island from which it is difficult to escape, two-thirds of their army would soon be with us. I am myself inclined to believe them. Upon the whole, when I consider the difficulties which the enemy's Generals have to encounter, the temper and disposition of their troops, and the improving spirit of ours, I assure myself that the game is in our hands: God give us more grace than to shuffle it away.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To the Hon. Edmund Pendleton, President of the Convention of Virginia.

GENERAL LEE TO PATRICK HENRY.

Williamsburgh, May 7, 1776.

DEAR SIR: If I had not the highest opinion of your character and liberal way of thinking, I should not venture to address myself to you. And if I were not equally persuaded of the great weight and influence which the transcendent abilities you possess must naturally confer, I should not give myself the trouble of writing, nor you the trouble of reading this long letter. Since our conversation yesterday, my thoughts have been solely employed on the great question, whether Independence ought or ought not to be immediately declared. Having weighed the argument on both sides, I am clearly of the opinion that we must, as we value the liberties of America, or even her existence, without a moment's delay declare for Independence. If my reasons appear weak, you will excuse them for the disinterestedness of the author, as I may venture to affirm, that no man on this Continent will sacrifice more than myself by the separation. But if I have the good fortune to offer any arguments which have escaped your understanding, and they should make the desired impression, I think I shall have rendered the greatest service to the community.

The objection you made yesterday, if I understood you rightly, to an immediate Declaration, was, by many degrees, the most specious; indeed it is the only tolerable one that I have yet heard. You say, and with great justice, that we ought previously to have felt the pulse of France and Spain. I more than believe, I am almost confident, that it has been done; at least I can assert, upon recollection, that some of the Committee of Secrecy have assured me that the sentiments of both these Courts, or their agents, had been sounded, and were found to be as favourable as could be wished. But, admitting that we are utter strangers to their sentiments on the subject, and that we run some risk of this Declaration being coldly received by these Powers, such is our situation that the risk must be ventured.

On one side there are the most probable chances of our success, founded on the certain advantages which must manifest themselves to French understandings by a treaty of alliance with America. The strength and weakness, the opulence and poverty of every State are estimated in the scale of comparison with her immediate rival. The superior commerce and marine force of England were evidently established on the monopoly of her American trade. The inferiority of France, in these two capital points, consequently had its source in the same origin. Any deduction from this monopoly must bring down her rival in proportion to this deduction.

The French are, and always have been, sensible of these great truths. Your idea, that they may be diverted from a line of policy which assures them such immense and permanent advantages by an offer of partition from Great Britain, appears to me, if you will excuse the phrase, an absolute chimera. They must be wretched politicians, indeed, if they would prefer the uncertain acquisition, and the precarious, expensive possession of one or two Provinces, to the greater part of the commerce of the whole. Besides, were not the advantages from the latter so manifestly greater than those that would accrue from the imagined partition scheme, it is notorious that acquisition of territory, or even Colonial possessions, which require either men or money to retain them, are entirely repugnant to the spirit and principles of the present French Court. It is so repugnant, indeed, that it is most certain they have lately entertained thoughts of abandoning their West-India Islands. Le commerce et l'économie are the cry, down from the King to the lowest Minister. From these considerations, I am convinced that they will immediately and essentially assist us if Independence is declared.

But allowing that there can be no certainty, but mere chances, in our favour; I do insist upon it, that these chances render it our duty to adopt the measure, as, by procrastination, our ruin is inevitable. Should it now be determined to wait the result of a previous formal negotiation with France, a whole year must pass over our heads before we can be acquainted with the result. In the mean time we are to struggle through a campaign, without arms, ammunition, or any one necessary of war. Disgrace and defeat will infallibly ensue; the soldiers and officers will become so disappointed that they will abandon their colours, and probably never be persuaded to make another effort.

But there is another consideration still more cogent. I can assure you that the spirit of the people cries out for this Declaration; the military, in particular, men and officers, are outrageous on the subject; and a man of your excellent discernment need not be told how dangerous it would be in our present circumstances, to dally with the spirit, or disappoint the expectations of the bulk of the people. May not despair, anarchy, and finally submission, be the bitter fruits? I am firmly persuaded that they will; and, in this persuasion, I most devoutly pray that you may not merely recommend, but positively lay injunctions, on your servants in Congress to embrace a measure so necessary to our salvation.

Yours, most sincerely,

CHARLES LEE.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL LEE.

New-York, May, 1776.

MY DEAR LEE: Your favour of the 5th ultimo, from Williamsburgh, the first I have received from you since you left this city, came to my hands by the last post. I thank you for your kind congratulations on our possession of Boston. I thank you for your good wishes in our future operations, and hope that every diabolical attempt to deprive mankind of their inherent rights and privileges, whether made in the east, west, north, or south, will be attended with disappointment and disgrace, and that the authors in the end will be brought to such punishment as an injured people have a right to inflict.

General Howe's retreat from Boston was precipitate beyond anything I could have conceived. The destruction of the stores at Dunbar's camp, after Braddock's defeat, was but a faint image of what was seen at Boston: artillery carts cut to pieces in one place, gun-carriages in another; shells broke here, shot buried there; and everything carrying with it the face of disorder and confusion, as also of distress.

Immediately upon their embarkation, I detached a brigade of five regiments to this city, and upon their sailing, removed with the whole Army hither, except four regiments at Boston and one at Beverly, &c., for the protection of those places, the stores and barracks there, and for erecting works for defending the harbour of the former. Immediately upon my arrival here, I detached four regiments, by order of Congress, to Canada, (to wit: Poor's, Patterson's, Greaton's, and Bond's,) under the command of Brigadier Thompson; and since that, by the same authority, and in consequence of some unfavourable accounts from that quarter, General Sullivan and six other regiments (namely, Stark's, Read's, Wayne's, Irvine's, Winds's, and Dayton's) have moved off for that department; the last four regiments are from Pennsylvania and New-Jersey. The first brigade arrived at Albany on the 24th ultimo, and were moving on when accounts came from thence on the 27th. The other brigade must all be at Albany before this, as some of the regiments sailed ten days ago, and the last four and the winds very favourable. This has left us very weak at this place; whilst I have my fears that the reinforcement will scarce get to Canada in time, for want of teams to transport the troops, &c., to Fort George, and vessels to convey them on afterwards.

We have done a great deal of work at this place. In a fortnight more, I think the city will be in a very respectable posture of defence. Governour's Island has a large and strong work erected, and a regiment encamped there. The point below, called Red Hook, has a small, but exceedingly strong barbette battery; and several new works are constructed, and many of them almost executed at other places.

General Ward, upon the evacuation of Boston, and finding that there was a probability of his being removed from the smoke of his own chimney, applied to me, and wrote to Congress, for leave to resign. A few days afterwards, some of the officers, as he says, getting uneasy at the prospect of his leaving them, he applied for his letter of resignation, which had been committed to my care; but, behold! it had been carefully forwarded to Congress, and, as I have since learned, judged so reasonable, (want of health being the plea,) that it was instantly complied with. Brigadier Frye, previous to this, also conceiving that there was nothing entertaining or profitable to an old man, to be marching and countermarching, desired, immediately on the evacuation of Boston, (which happened on the 17th of March,) that he might resign his commission on the 11th of April. The choice of the day became a matter of great speculation, and remained profoundly mysterious till he exhibited his account, when there appeared neither more nor less in it than the completion of three calendar months, the pay of which he received without any kind of compunction, although he had never done one tour of duty, or, I believe, had ever been out of his house from the time he entered till he quitted Cambridge.

So much for two Generals. I have next to inform you, that the Paymaster-General, Colonel Warren, not finding it convenient to attend the Army, from the various employments and avocations in which he was engaged, also resigned his commission, and is succeeded by your old aid, Palfrey.

When I was speaking of the distressed situation of the King's troops, and the Tories, at their evacuation of Boston, I might have gone on and added, that their misfortunes did not end here. It seems, upon their arrival at Halifax, that many of the former were obliged to encamp, although the ground was covered deep with snow; and the latter to pay six dollars a week for sorry upper rooms, and stow in them men, women, and children, as thick, comparatively, as the hair upon their heads. This induced many of these gentry to return and throw themselves upon the mercy and clemency of their countrymen, who were for sending them immediately back, as the most proper and severest punishment they could inflict; but death being preferred to this, they now wait in confinement any other that may be thought due to such paricides.

All the ships-of-war have left this place, and gone down to the Hook, except the Asia, which lies five miles below the Narrows, and about twelve or fourteen from hence. I could have added more; but my paper will not admit of it. With compliments, therefore, to the gentlemen of my acquaintance with you, and with the most fervent wishes for your health and success,

I remain, your most affectionate,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Lee.

THOMAS BURKE TO GENERAL LEE.

Tyaquin, North-Carolina, June 11, 1776.

SIR: This moment yours of the 1st instant came to my hand. The note enclosed, directed to the commanding officer of the corps of Virginia forces intended for the station of Hillsborough, I will use my best endeavour to transmit, as soon as I can learn who he is, or for what part of Virginia they are ordered; of both I am now entirely uninformed, having heard nothing of such destination until I received your letter. If I can get no information in my neighbourhood, I will send your note to the commanding officer of Halifax, or of Mecklenburgh County, who, being stationed contiguous to this, are most likely to have received orders to march hither.

I cannot say, sir, that I rejoice that the enemy have abandoned their design on this Colony. Their force could not have effected much against us; but they may prove troublesome to some of our southern neighbours, who are probably not so well provided for defence as we are.

I beg leave, sir, to wish you all possible success in your generous efforts for the defence of the undoubted rights of mankind. Had the scene of action been where we first expected it, I intended to have put myself, as a volunteer, under your command, and to have contributed my little assistance towards that success which, I am assured, would have attended your command. Remote as the scene may be, I shall not bear absence from it with much patience, and, were it not almost ruin to my private affairs, no campaign should pass without receiving the little assistance I could personally give; for though I am no military character, nor ambitious of such distinction, the cause in which we are now engaged, and in which I have unremittingly struggled since the stamp act, makes me anxious to be a witness and an actor, however inconsiderable, in every scene of importance, whether military or civil, which may relate to it.

I have the honour to be, with singular respect, sir, your obedient servant,

THOMAS BURKE.

To Major General Lee.

GEORGE JOHNSON TO GENERAL LEE.

Philadelphia, June 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I heartily thank you for your letter, and regret that I cannot have the pleasure of meeting you. The great wish of my life is to see peace between two countries I almost equally love; while it is a question whether this or an exterminating war is to take place. I meant, in words I had learned from you, to set before you the many and mutual advantages both would derive from an agreement; and as the terms now offered are more for the interest of your favourite America than you ever hoped to obtain, I should have made no scruple to ask your good offices, and to engage my own, to remove any obstacles that might obstruct the peace. I should think it a greater honour to contribute in the smallest degree to this, than to have the greatest share in bringing about victory; these, to a thinking man like you, who has many friends on both sides, subject him to a double regret.

I may not find another occasion of meeting you easily; but I would travel far to have the pleasure of embracing you as a fellow-subject of the same empire, and a friend. You will see, by some speeches in the House of Commons, that others whom you value have the same wish. A celebrated poem, just published, says:

"By virtue, captive Lee is doubly blest."

A pamphlet, written by Governour Johnstone's brother, is much applauded by the nation, where a spirit prevails like that between tender relations, who are more disposed to love and respect, after a quarrel has convinced both of the advantage and value of friendship. I send you the pamphlet.

You do Sir H. Clinton great justice in believing him to be incapable of an inhuman or illiberal measure; you may, with great confidence, assert, that he had no share in the havoc that you say has embittered people's minds to a degree of madness. Your letter to me is the only notice he has of the burnings you mention. If any other houses besides magazines were destroyed, it must have been by the wantonness of soldiers, as the officer who formed the plan for destroying the preparations for the invasion of the island confined it to this object. The destruction of houses was no part of his project; otherwise he would have mentioned the success of it, which he has not done. I will deliver the messages you give me, and will ever seek every occasion to show that I am, with regard, dear sir, your most affectionate friend and humble servant,

GEORGE JOHNSON.

To Major-General Lee.

P. S. Sir Henry Clinton bids me thank you for your letter, and charges me to enclose one he has received for you from England.

GENERAL LEE TO COLONEL THOMPSON.

Charlestown, June 21, 1776.

SIR: It is a certain truth that the enemy entertain a most fortunate apprehension of American riflemen. It is equally certain that nothing can diminish this apprehension so infallibly as a frequent ineffectual fire. It is with some concern, therefore, that I have been informed that your men have been suffered to fire at a most preposterous distance. Upon this principle, I must entreat and insist, that you consider it as a standing order, that not a man under your command is to fire at a greater distance than one hundred and fifty yards, at the utmost; in short, they must never fire without almost a moral certainty of hitting their object. Distant firing has a doubly bad effect; it encourages the enemy, and adds to the pernicious persuasion of the American soldiers, viz: that they are no match for their antagonists at close fighting. To speak plainly, it is almost a sure method of making them cowards. Once more, I must request that a stop be put to this childish, vicious, and scandalous practice. I extend the rule to those who have the care of the field-pieces; four hundred yards is the greatest distance they should be allowed to fire at. A transgression of this rule will be considered as the effect of flurry and want of courage. Those who are accused of transgressing will be proceeded against, as acting from these principles.

I have, sir, the greatest opinion of your good sense and spirit, and flatter myself that you will not only issue orders of restriction on this head, but that you will be attentive that they are rigorously put in execution.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To Colonel Thompson.

P. S. I am likewise informed that your men pass without order or orders to Long-Island. Is this wise? Is it soldierlike? Is it to show the enemy where our weakness is?

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 7, 1776.

SIR: I have sent you three vessels at the request of Mr. Purviance, which I hope is right. He tells me that Mr. Tilghman spoke to him about the one that is to carry troops to Elk. I give you a line by each vessel, for fear that one may be before the others in getting down. They are to have 17s. 6d. per day while in the service. Each vessel will carry a company. They ought to be well ballasted, as the soldiers will be a top-heavy load. The skipper will hand you this from your humble servant,

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.

To the Chairman of the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

P. S. The vessels will find all they want for their own use.

E. JOHNSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Lower Marlborough, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The day I fixed on, in the week before last, to search into the cliffs on this river for salt, proved rainy, and thereby I was disappointed in many hands engaged; but, however, with what I had, I sunk a shaft, ten feet square and five feet deep, in the inside of the cliffs, free from any tide that ever flowed since the Deluge, and have found since, that a few days sun thereon has brought out some appearances of saline particles; so that I conclude that this earth will yield salt, and have ordered it to be tried, the success of which you shall know by next post. If this earth yields salt, the whole clift must also yield it, and of course the quantity is inexhaustible. Report says that the cliffs both north and south of this, on the same side of the river, are impregnated with salt. I have not seen any of them, except a small bank at my own plantation, at the mouth of Hunting Creek, south of the first-discovered clift, which is very salt; and shall, as soon as my harvest is secured, make some large experiments on, and, if successful, set to work to make what I can.

The owner of the land of the first-discovered clift will come upon no settled, fixed plan of proceeding to erect either a publick or private saltern; but says that, after harvest, he will join me in trying further experiments. The expense attending my sinking the shaft, in hire of negroes, provisions, and cooking for them, cost me twenty-five shillings currency, which I have paid; and if agreeable to you to charge to my saltpetre account, please to give me your order, or otherwise, as you may think proper. The time of my engagement, with my labour at my saltpetre manufactory, expired a few days ago, and we have not done anything since. My manager has brought in his account, and thirty-four pounds of good crude nitre, for which he demands a quarter of a dollar. Being informed that the May Convention gave him that sum, I have only paid a shilling, with promise to make it agreeable to the orders I am empowered to act by. I shall hire another labourer soon, to go on with the business, and shall continue it as long as I can find materials impregnated sufficiently. In a few months, the quantity of earth, &c., I have in my shed, will, I expect, yield two hundred pounds. The thirty-four pounds made at the manufactory, five-and-a-half pounds I bought, returned to the Convention in my account, makes thirty-nine-and-a-half pounds in my hands. Please to give me orders what I am to do with it.

I am, gentlemen, with all due respect, your humble servant,
E. JOHNSON.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety of Maryland.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.
In Committee, Baltimore, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Colonel Ware having informed us that he had drawn a plan of a fortification to be added to the works at Whetstone Point, we shall be glad to know whether you mean it should be finished, and if so, what further sum of money you will apply to that purpose; and we should be much obliged if you would favour us with the plan left with you.

I am, gentlemen, on behalf of the Committee, your most obedient servant,
WILLIAM LUX, Vice-Chairman.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.
Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Convention have given no order for laying out any further sum of money on the fortifications at or near Baltimore Town. If more money had been necessary, application should have been made to that respectable body. We consider ourselves not at large to comply with your request in advancing a further sum, and so we have repeatedly intimated when the plan was first offered to us. We send it you enclosed; and are your most obedient servants.

P. S. If the money you have for erecting fortifications be not expended, you will apply it to erecting the fortification desired.

COLONEL SMALLWOOD TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.
Sunday, July 7, 1776.

The bearers, Michael Hart and Lawrence Keenan, of the Artillery Company, having been released from jail, prosecution against them being withdrawn, have applied for a discharge, the date of which will properly commence the 7th day of May, when they were imprisoned, as I ordered them to be given up at that time to the civil power; and having no authority to discharge them, must refer them to the honourable Council of Safety for their discharges.

W. SMALLWOOD.

RICHARD TOOTELL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.
Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As the Surgeon-Major and his assistant must march with the battalion which was stationed in this city, to which corps they belong, I presume the deficiency of that battalion will be immediately supplied with Militia.

The troops stationed here for the safety of the city will stand in need of a Surgeon-Major and an assistant. I petition your Honours for the office of Surgeon-Major to the abovementioned troops.

I am, with great respect, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,
RICHARD TOOTELL.

To the Honourable Council of Safety.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GENERAL BUCHANAN.
[No. 2.] Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

SIR: You will perceive by the enclosed resolve that the Convention have directed the place of the regulars that are to march from Baltimore Town to Philadelphia should be supplied by the companies of the neighbouring Militia till the Flying-Camp can be ready. We must request, therefore, that you will consider what companies of your County may with the greatest convenience be stationed at Baltimore Town, and give orders for their march to that station as soon as the regulars leave it. We are, &c.

To Brigadier-General Buchanan.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL WEEMS.
[No. 3.] Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

SIR: You will perceive by the enclosed resolves that the Convention have directed the place of the regulars that are to march from hence to Philadelphia should be supplied by three companies of the neighbouring Militia till the Militia for the Flying-Camp can be ready. We shall be glad to see you as soon as you possibly can, that we may determine what companies of your battalion may with the greatest convenience be stationed at this place. We are, &c.

To Colonels Weems and Hammond, respectively.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN VEAZEY AND LIEUTENANT HARRISON.

[No. 4.]

Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

SIR: You will perceive by the enclosed resolves that your company is to march immediately to Philadelphia. The service requires the utmost despatch. We think it will be the most expeditious as well as convenient way to go to the head of Elk by water, and therefore recommend it to you to endeavour to procure a vessel for the purpose of transporting your troops thither. If, however, you cannot get one immediately, you will march up as speedily as possible. Wagons will be ready for you at the head of Elk to carry your baggage and a proper supply of provisions to Philadelphia. If a vessel is not to be had, you will please to get the necessary carriages in Talbot for your baggage, and lay in a sufficient quantity of provision for your men until you can reach the head of Elk. Colonel Smallwood's battalion will set off by water to-morrow or Tuesday. We are, &c.

To Captain Edward Veazey and Lieutenant Harrison, respectively.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN VEAZEY.

[No. 5.]

Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

SIR: You will perceive by the enclosed resolves that your company is to march immediately to Philadelphia. The service requires the utmost despatch. Wagons will be ready for you at the head of Elk, to carry your baggage and a proper supply of provisions from thence to Philadelphia. You will please to get the necessary carriages in Kent for your baggages, and lay in a sufficient quantity of provisions for your men until you can reach the head of Elk. Colonel Smallwood's battalion will set off to-morrow or on Tuesday by water, and so we expect will Lieutenant Harrison's division of your company, as we have given him his orders.

We are, &c.

To Captain Edward Veazey.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO RICHARD BUCHANAN.

[No. 6.]

Annapolis, July 7, 1776.

SIR: We are despatching the troops from hence to Philadelphia. Including those for Baltimore, they will amount to one thousand men, and they are to go by water to the head of Elk; when they arrive there, perhaps they may be at a loss for a supply of provision for their march, which may take them up four days from thence. We therefore think it necessary that you, or Mr. Cummings, or some person for you, should be there, to be ready to supply them, in case they should be in want. We are, &c.

To Mr. Richard Buchanan.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM JOHN ADAMS, DATED PHILADELPHIA, JULY 7, 1776.

The design of our enemy now seems to be a powerful invasion of New-York and New-Jersey. The Halifax fleet and army is arrived, and another fleet and army under Lord Howe is expected to join them. We are making great preparations to meet them, by marching the Militia of Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New-Jersey, down to the scene of action, and have made large requisitions upon New-England. I hope, for the honour of New-England and the salvation of America, our people will not be backward in marching to New-York. We must maintain and defend that important post at all events. If the enemy get possession there, it will cost New-England very dear. There is no danger of the small-pox at New-York; it is carefully kept out of the city and the Army. I hope that your brother, and mine too, will go into the service of their country at this critical period of its distress.

Our Army at Crown-Point is an object of wretchedness enough to fill a humane mind with horror; disgraced, defeated, discontented, dispirited, diseased, naked, undisciplined, eaten up with vermin; no clothes, beds, blankets; no medicines; no victuals, but salt pork and flour. A chaplain from that Army preached a sermon here the other day, from "Cursed is he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully." I knew better than he did who the persons were who deserved these curses; but I could not help myself, nor my poor country, any more than he. I hope that measures will be taken to cleanse the Army at Crown-Point from the small-pox, and that other measures will be taken in New-England, by tolerating and encouraging inoculation, to render that distemper less terrible.

I am solicitous to hear what figure our new Superior Court made in their eastern circuit: what business they did; whether the grand juries and petit juries were sworn; whether they had tried any criminal, or any civil actions; how the people were affected at the appearance of courts again; how the Judges were treated—whether with respect, or cold neglect, &c. Every Colony upon the Continent will soon be in the same situation. They are erecting Governments as fast as children build cob-houses; but, I conjecture, they will hardly throw them down again so soon.

The practice we have hitherto been in, of ditching round about our enemies, will not always do. We must learn to use other weapons than the pick and the spade. Our armies must be disciplined, and learn to fight. I have the satisfaction to reflect that our Massachusetts people, when they have been left to themselves, have been constantly fighting and skirmishing, and always with success. I wish the same valour, prudence, and spirit, had been discovered everywhere.

JOSEPH HART TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 8, 1776.]

Warminster, Bucks County, July 7, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: This day, Mr. Wynkoop delivered me your letter of the 3d instant, directed to the Committee of our County, requesting that the troops we are raising to form the Flying-Camp might be immediately sent to New-Brunswick. This I dare say our Committee will readily comply with; but they are not yet formed, and to-morrow the election must be attended. On Wednesday, however, our Committee are to meet to appoint officers; and when that is done, I am of opinion the men will turn out immediately, and which I believe our Committee will encourage, to the utmost of their abilities.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOSEPH HART

To the Hon. John Hancock, President.

GEORGE ROSS TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Lancaster, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The present situation of publick affairs having made it necessary that the Militia of Pennsylvania should be immediately marched to the Jerseys, to act until the Flying-Camp shall be formed, and the resolves of the Congress and Committee lately convened at Philadelphia, directing and approving of this measure, having been made known to the Associators here, they have almost to a man determined to march on this service. The Committee, considering the dangerous situation of the town, exposed to the fury and ravages of near four hundred of the prisoners taken at Chamblly and St. John's, who are stationed here, and cannot be confined day or night, in the present open state of our barracks, have been under the necessity of checking the ardour of the Associators in the town, and permit but a part to leave the place; but as these will have our best arms with them, and those who remain are not in numbers equal to those prisoners, the remainder of the inhabitants and their property are, we think, rather too much exposed. Upon these prisoners first coming to Lancaster, the Committee asked the sentiments of Congress as to enclosing the barracks ground, and keeping a guard over them there. The Congress then thought this measure unnecessary, doubtless from a persuasion that by the prisoners mixing and working with the inhabitants, they would learn and be convinced of the justness of our cause, and become rather the friends than enemies of the rights of America. But experience evinces the contrary. By their mixing with the people, they have done much mischief. They adhere, with an extraordinary degree of firmness, to their tyrannical master and his cause, and every action and expression convinces us that they would seize every opportunity to promote it and distress us.

We have lately found several of them in the dress of our riflemen, and as that dress is now become a kind of passport for those who wear it, we cannot help hinting to Congress the danger of these people carrying intelligence between our enemies in that garb, and that, as they are now placed, we cannot prevent it. Indeed, it is probable that the officers from Lebanon have gone off in that disguise. We have had it hinted that some of them are travelling through the country, procuring signers to some paper, which, it is more than probable, is of bad tendency, and shall therefore endeavour to detect them. That they have had the most early intelligence of events which have happened in Canada, we have had experience. We therefore cannot help mentioning to Congress our opinion as to the necessity of having them in some manner secured, so as to prevent their straggling, carrying intelligence, or insulting or injuring the inhabitants; and that, while at liberty, they are a dangerous set of people, and beg leave to request the direction of Congress in the premises.

As it is proposed to march part of the town Militia on Thursday next, we shall be happy in having the sentiments and directions of Congress before that time.

And have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant.

By order of the Committee:

GEORGE ROSS, Chairman.

To the Hon. John Hancock, President of the Honourable Continental Congress.

DOCTOR COCHRAN TO THOMAS MCKEAN.

New-Brunswick, July 7, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The bearer, Lieutenant Woodman, of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment, taken prisoner at Ticonderoga last summer, has resided in this town ever since, on his parole. As far as I know, he has behaved himself with decency respecting publick matters; nor do I find that he has ever been charged with taking part either with one side or the other. He has made a _____ in this town, and is at present employed in repairing it. He is married to a daughter of Mr. Legranger, of this place, and has a family of six children, which renders his removal from hence rather distressing; therefore, if any indulgences, consistent with the publick safety, can be allowed him, I hope they will not be improperly bestowed. I know your readiness to do acts of humanity; therefore leave the matter of it particularly to your own judgment and the publick security.

I am, dear sir, your very obedient, humble servant,

JOHN COCHRAN.

To Thomas McKean, Esq., Philadelphia.

GENERAL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 7, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: By Captain Swan, of the new levies, just going off for the city, I take the liberty of enclosing a rough draught of the Sound and Jersey shore, from Elizabeth Point to Amboy, with an abstract of the different posts I have directed along the same. Although this may not be of any essential service, yet I thought it not amiss, as it might give you an idea of what I had done, that your Excellency might rectify anything that was amiss in the arrangement.

Since writing the above, a deserter is brought in to me, whose examination I have taken, and enclose it; and forward this by express, lest it should be delayed. I have also this moment received intelligence from Philadelphia, that the Pennsylvania forces marched the 5th instant to our assistance, and that the principal part of the strength of Pennsylvania will soon be on their march, for the same benevolent purpose.

I received your Excellency's letter respecting the persons apprehended at Amboy, and I shall send them all (except Smyth, whom I think I can trust on his parole) to the Convention to-morrow morning.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most humble servant,
 WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.
 To General Washington.

GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Staten-Island, July 7, 1776.

MY LORD: The Mercury packet is despatched to inform your Lordship of the arrival of the Halifax fleet, on the 29th of June, at Sandy-Hook, where I arrived four days sooner in the Grayhound frigate. I met with Governour Tryon, on board of ship at the Hook, and many gentlemen, fast friends to Government, attending him, from whom I have had the fullest information of the state of the Rebels, who are numerous, and very advantageously posted, with strong intrenchments both upon Long-Island and that of New-York, with more than one hundred pieces of cannon for the defence of the town towards the sea, and to obstruct the passage of the fleet up the North River, besides a considerable field-train of artillery. Having made inquiries of these gentlemen respecting the face of the country between Gravesend Bay in Long-Island, and the enemy's works in the neighbourhood of Brooklyn, their accounts were so satisfactory that I had determined to disembark the Army at Gravesend; and with this intention the fleet moved up to the bay, on the 1st instant, in the evening, in order to land the troops at the break of day next morning; but being more particularly informed during the night of a strong pass upon a ridge of craggy heights covered with wood, that lay in the route the Army must have taken, only two miles distant from the front of the enemy's encampment and seven from Gravesend, which the Rebels would undoubtedly have occupied before the King's troops could get up to it; and from the minutest description, judging an attack upon this post, so strong by nature, and so near the front of the enemy's works, to be too hazardous an attempt, before the arrival of the troops with Commodore Hotham, daily expected, I declined the undertaking, and passing the Narrows with three ships of war and the first division of transports, landed the Grenadiers and Light-Infantry as the ships came up, to the great joy of a most loyal people, long suffering on that account under the oppression of the Rebels stationed among them, who precipitately fled on the approach of the shipping. The remainder of the troops landed during the next day and night, and are now distributed in cantonments, where they have the best refreshments.

In justice to Captain Reynar, of his Majesty's ship Chat-ham, who was directed by the Admiral to make the disposition of boats for landing the troops, and to Captain Curtis, commanding the Senegal sloop-of-war, who was to superintend the execution, I must express my entire satisfaction in the conduct of those gentlemen, and the dependence to be placed upon their future services in this line.

I propose waiting here for the English fleet, or the arrival of Lieutenant-General Clinton, in readiness to proceed, unless by some unexpected change of circumstances in the meantime, it should be found expedient to act with the present force. In case Lieutenant-General Clinton's southern operations should prevent his joining the Army here, I am apprehensive the possession of Rhode-Island, though of the most important nature, must be deferred until the arrival of the second embarkation from Europe, unless General Carleton should penetrate early into this Province, which may enable me to spare a corps adequate to that service. But as I must esteem a previous impression upon the enemy's principal force, collected in this quarter, to be the first object of my attention, I shall hold it steadily in view, without losing sight of those which, comparatively, may be esteemed collateral.

Vice-Admiral Shulldham was joined on his voyage by six transports belonging to the Highland corps, having three companies of the Forty-Second and three of the Seventy-First on board. There is no other intelligence of this embarkation, excepting an account published in the New-York papers, that two transports of the fleet were taken by the enemy's privateers, and carried into Boston; that Major Menzies was killed in the engagement, and Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, of the Seventy-First, made prisoner, with sixteen other officers, and about four hundred and fifty men. Sir W. Erskine is among those that are absent.

Governour Franklin, who for a long time maintained his ground in Jersey, has been lately taken into custody at Am-boy, and is at this time detained a prisoner in Connecticut; and the Mayor of New-York was confined a few days ago, upon a frivolous complaint of his sending intelligence to Governour Tryon, brought to trial, and condemned to suffer death; but, by the last intelligence, the sentence was not carried into execution.

Notwithstanding these violent proceedings, I have the satisfaction to inform your Lordship, that there is great reason to expect a numerous body of the inhabitants to join the Army from the Provinces of York, the Jerseys, and Connecticut, who, in this time of universal oppression, only wait for opportunities to give proofs of their loyalty and zeal for Government. Sixty men came over two days ago, with a few arms, from the neighbourhood of Shrewsbury, in Jersey, who are all desirous to serve; and I understand there are five hundred more in that quarter ready to follow their example. This disposition among the people makes me impatient for the arrival of Lord Howe, concluding the powers with which he is furnished will have the best effect at this critical time; but I am still of opinion that peace will not be restored in America until the Rebel Army is defeated.

I beg leave to represent to your Lordship the inconvenience arising from the want of camp-equipage at this time, which may continue during the course of this rebellion, unless sent out the year before it is to be used; also the necessity of an early supply of woollens, linen, and shoes, for the Provincial troops that I may retain in pay during the winter, as these things are not to be had here on any terms, and the distress of the inhabitants in general is so great, from the want of those articles, that the friends of Government will suffer much, without assistance from Europe.

Lieutenant-Colonel Blunt, of the Fourth Regiment, who has my leave to return to Britain from the particular situation of his affairs, will deliver this despatch; and I have the honour to be, &c.,
 W. Howe.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-York, July 7, 1776.

SIR: I have been honoured with your favours of the 3d and 4th instant, and return you my sincere thanks for your kind intention to afford me every assistance in your power at this truly critical and alarming period. The situation of our affairs calls aloud for the most vigorous exertions, and nothing less will be sufficient to avert the impending blow. From four prisoners, taken the other day, we are informed that General Howe has already about ten thousand men, being joined by the regiment from the West-Indies and some of the Highland troops in his passage hither; that he is in daily expectation of the arrival of Admiral Howe; and that nothing would be attempted till he came, having come from Halifax in consequence of advices received a few days before from England, that the Admiral was ready to sail with a fleet of one hundred and fifty ships, with a large reinforcement to join him here. These armies, when united, you will readily conceive, will be extremely formidable, and such as will require a large and numerous one, on our part, to oppose them. But yet I have been under the necessity of informing Colonel Silliman that it will be impossible to subsist the horses of the three regiments ordered; and if it could be done, the expense would be enormous, and what I do not apprehend I have authority to assent to. At the same time, knowing the important advantages that may result from their aid, I have entreated his exertions to prevail on the men to come themselves. I hope, on the one hand, they will see the propriety of my objecting to their horses, and on the other, the necessity there is of coming themselves. My anxiety leads me to request a continuance of your good offices in forwarding the battalions ordered with all possible despatch. The interest of America is now in the balance, and it behooves all attached to her sacred cause, and the rights of humanity, to hold forth their utmost and most speedy aid. I am convinced nothing will be wanting in your power to effect.

The situation of the Northern Army is certainly distressing, but no relief can be afforded by me. This, I am persuaded, you will readily agree to. I should suppose, if proper precautions are taken, the small-pox may be prevented from spreading. This was done at Cambridge, and I trust will be continued by Generals Schuyler and Gates, who are well apprized of the fatal consequences that may attend its infecting the whole Army. But a small part of the forces here have had it; were it not the case, neither policy nor prudence would allow me to send any more from hence that have seen the least of service. Too many have been already detached; to part with more would be to put all to the hazard.

The retreat of the Army from Canada, I doubt not, will occasion a general alarm to the frontier inhabitants, and our enemies, without question, will use every means they have to excite the savages against them; but I would fain hope their incursions will be prevented and repelled without much difficulty. The first opportunity I have, I will transmit a copy of your letter to Congress upon this subject, and request their attention to it.

I am, sir, with sentiments of great esteem, your most obedient humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, July 7, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 30th ultimo, and I doubt not but the powder claimed by the Assembly of New-Hampshire was lent the Continent. The exposed situation of their frontiers renders every precaution necessary for their defence.

I think it would be proper to send a quantity of it to some safe place on the communication betwixt this and Boston, there to be ready in case of accident, or if it should be wanted. I therefore wish you to lodge at Norwich (which I suppose will be as secure as any other place) from three to four hundred barrels. In my letter of the 1st, I desired you to send a quantity of the Highlanders' muskets that were taken. I pray your attention to my request, and that they may come with all possible expedition; the deficiency here in this essential article is greatly alarming. I am extremely sorry that your indisposition has increased, and I hope in a little time you will be relieved. It is now before Congress to determine whether the Continental Regiments at Boston should not be ordered from thence, as there is almost a moral certainty that the enemy mean not to make an attack there, but to bend their whole force against this Province. Four prisoners that fell into our hands last week, on a separate examination, agree, that General Howe, being joined by some regiments from the West-Indies, and part of the Scotch Highlanders, on his passage hither, has now about ten thousand men; that a few days before they left Halifax, an express packet arrived, ordering him to come to this place, where he would be joined by Admiral Howe, with a fleet of one hundred and fifty sail, with troops on board, which was about to sail when the packet did; that they are daily expected, which has been the reason nothing has been yet attempted. If Congress withdraw the regiments, you will be instantly relieved; and if they do not, I must send a General Officer (inconvenient as it is to spare one at this critical time) to take the command. I expect to know the result of their deliberations in a day or two. It will be right to comply with the order of the Board of War and Ordnance, and a list may be transmitted of the persons you have judged most proper to fill the vacancies.

I am, sir, with my best wishes for your recovery, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Ward.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO WILLIAM WATSON.

New-York, July 7, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of the 19th ultimo, and directed the papers you wrote for to be transmitted you, but find, upon inquiry, they are not among any in my possession now. Colonel Moylan, who used generally to receive and examine the papers appertaining to the prizes, being called upon, says that previous to his departure from Cambridge, he made up all the prize papers, and put them in such a channel as he thought most likely to convey them to the different agents. He supposes these were with the rest; he cannot recollect to whom they were delivered. If they cannot be got, you must try the legality of the captures upon such evidence as you can collect from the men who were in the vessels when they were taken, and from other circumstances. If they were going to Nova-Scotia for the purpose mentioned by the claimants, I presume it will not be difficult for them to prove it by witnesses. I am, sir, your humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To William Watson, Esq., Plymouth.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL JAMES CLINTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 7, 1776.

SIR: I received yours by Major Rensselaer, and am pleased to find you are making the necessary preparations to repel the enemy in case of an attack. I hope you will be able to get arms sufficient for the men under your command who are destitute; but if not, you are to dismiss all those whom you cannot equip, (I mean to confine myself to the Militia wholly,) as it is equally absurd and unjust to keep men in Continental pay, who will be of no service in time of action for want of arms; it is, in fact, amusing ourselves with the appearance of strength, when at the same time we want the reality. Colonel Knox informs me he has no carriages to spare, but you can have the carriage wheels, which, with the iron, will be delivered to the care of Major Rensselaer. As to the balls for the small-arms, they should be sent if the sizes could be ascertained, so as to fit the muskets exactly; but as that cannot be done, I shall order a sufficient quantity of lead to be sent up, which you will direct to be cast into balls suitable for your purpose. You must furnish the bullet moulds in the best manner you can, as there are none here. With regard to the appointment of Doctor Tappan, I would just mention, that as it is a matter transacted between you and the Provincial Congress, in which I am quite unconnected, I would choose it should continue so; however, by renewing your application to the Congress, you will doubtless receive a satisfactory answer.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Colonel James Clinton.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

New-York, July 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I was yesterday honoured with your favour of the 2d instant, with the proceedings you have adopted in compliance with the requisition of Congress and my application since; for which, and your kind wishes for my success, I beg your acceptance of my most hearty thanks; and am, gentlemen, with sentiments of the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. the General Court of Massachusetts-Bay, at Watertown.

HOSPITAL REGULATIONS.

Regulations agreed upon betwixt the Director-General of the American Hospital and the Regimental Surgeons and Mates at New-York, the day of July, 1776.

Rule 1. That every full Regiment or Battalion, provided with a Surgeon and Mate, or each Brigade, as the occasion may point out, ought to have some convenient quarters, to be appropriated by the proper Quartermaster, for the reception of such of the sick of that corps, and entitled a Regimental Hospital; which sick are to be attended by their own regimental Surgeons and Mates.

2. That it shall be the business of the Surgeons and Mates in all Regiments, to examine the soldiers in the same who are reported to be unfit for duty, and to separate from the well those who are sick, and to receive them into the Regimental Hospital.

3. That they keep a Register of those who are admitted into the Regimental Hospital, containing the patient's name, the company he belongs to, the days of his admission into and discharge from the Hospital, (agreeable to a form annexed.)

4. That he shall make daily returns of the sick in his Regiment to the commanding officer of the same, that it may be known who are fit for duty and who are not; and that such as are on the doctor's list may not be included in the provision return of the Regiment.

5. That the Surgeon shall every day prescribe the diet of each sick person under his care, according to the diet tables established in the General Hospital, or other suitable tables to be agreed on, under the titles of full diet, half diet, spare diet, dry diet, milk diet, &c.

6. That he make out and sign the provision return every day for the sick, and draw upon the Director-General of the Hospital, agreeable to the tables of diet before mentioned; for the regulation of which, weekly returns of the number sick (in that week) shall be made out on a stated day, so that whatever the price of diet drawn for said sick shall fall short of the rations stopped from the sick during the week, so much may be drawn for their use in other stores, as wine, rum, sugar, coffee, tea, molasses, candles, soap, &c.

[If that surplus of money is not sufficient, there are no other ways to supply than either to do it by stoppages of the soldier's pay, as in the British Army, or by its being advanced by himself, or by the Colonel or the Captain of the regiment to which he belongs, and allowed in his abstract; the General Hospital having nothing to do with the expenses of Regimental Hospitals, and no provision for the purpose being yet made by the Congress.]

7. That no Regimental Surgeon shall send any sick from his Regiment or Regimental Hospital to the General Hospital, without a ticket expressing the name of the sick, his Company, and the Regiment to which he belongs, signed by himself or mate, and mentioning likewise the disorder he labours under, and the time he has been ill.

8. That he send none to the General Hospital labouring under infectious, putrid, or malignant diseases; for the introduction of such fevers into a general hospital will only injure the person sent, and may endanger the Surgeons' Mates and other officers, as well as all that are sick of other diseases in the General Hospital, engender the jail or hospital fever, and ruin the Army. Such sick are to be kept separate if possible, and be taken care of by the Regimental Surgeon.

9. That whatever stores or utensils may be wanted for the use of a Regimental Hospital, whether kettles to cook victuals, blankets, &c., they ought to be got from the Quartermaster-General's store, or procured from the same place and in the same manner as the like articles are procured for the well soldiers of the regiment: to be provided by an order from the Colonel, the Surgeon to give his receipt for and take care of the same; for the preservation of which, he may establish such regulations as he sees fit.

10. That as the medicine chest, and a number of articles, as old linen, bandages, &c., have been supplied to regiments at the voluntary motion of the Director-General of the General Hospital, with the approbation of the Commander-in-Chief, whenever the regiments are disbanded, all such particulars are to be returned into the General Hospital; otherwise, when new troops are levied, under the present scarcity and difficulty to procure them, it may not be practicable or easy to supply the Army again with those articles for another year.

11. That for every Regimental Hospital a cook ought to be allowed, to prepare the diet of the sick agreeable to the tables, or nurses who may serve for cooks, one to every ten men: the pay the same as in the General Hospital, viz: half a dollar per week, and rations allowed, (by the regiment.)

12. That each Regimental Hospital ought to have a corporal's guard, or at least three men, one of which to stand sentinel at the Hospital door, to prevent the sick from leaving the Hospital without permission from the Surgeon, and to keep persons from going in, without orders, to disturb the sick, or carry liquor to them. The other persons, whilst relieved from standing sentinel, to serve for the time as waiters, and obey the Surgeon and his Mate, in respect to any assistance which may be reasonably required in behalf of the sick.

Lastly. That in all cases not provided for by the foregoing or any future regulations that may be agreed upon, the Surgeons and Mates shall observe the customs and usages of the British Army, and shall at all times obey such orders as they shall (in the way of duty) receive from the Director-General for the treatment of the sick, or for the discharge of the duties of their station.

COMMITMENT OF JOHN LEWIS.

New-York, July 7, 1776.

John Lewis, a resident in the city of New-York, confined in the City-Hall for his drinking healths to King George and success to his fleet, and manifesting his intention to join the said fleet or the army of the enemy, against the Continental Army, by

Jos. SPENCER, Brig. General.

H. GLEN TO COLONEL FONDA.

Schenectady, July 7, 1776.

DEAR SIR: As I am at present not able to complete as many boats as the service requires, I have sent off Ernst Van Epps with three, which are all I can as yet complete, having recommended him to you to procure four batteaus for here for two trips to the Falls, as he is then to return here, after having done that work, he having tolls complete for seven boats. You will please load him with flour, for which article I am directed by Walter Livingston, Esq., to apply to you. I believe twelve barrels will be a good load. Excuse my intruding on you for batteaus, which I should not do could I get them any other way; but the urgency is such that I cannot avoid it. I am yours, &c., H. GLEN.

To Colonel Fonda.

H. GLEN TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Schenectady, July 7, 1776.

SIR: Since I wrote to you yesterday by Lieutenant Turnavel, of the Artillery, I have succeeded in getting some more batteau-men, whom I have ordered to take flour from Colonel Fonda's, to bring to the carrying-place; so that I hope to be able, by the time the batteaus that take up the artillery, &c., can return to the Falls, to have a load of provisions ready for them there to take to Fort Stanwix, to which place Major Barber has informed me that, on the arrival of the artillery, you were to go; so that you will please give them directions for that purpose, not to come across the carrying-place till that business is done, but then to come down here to this place. I am, sir, yours, &c., H. GLEN.

To Colonel Dayton.

H. GLEN TO JOHN PETRIE.

Schenectady, July 7, 1776.

SIR: As a quantity of flour will be brought to the Falls for the troops above you, I am to request of you, after the same is brought over the carrying-place, to have the same put in your barn, and that you will be so good and have a lock over it, so that it is not destroyed. The stay will be but short, as the batteaus that go over are to take it away as soon as they can return; the riding and your little trouble shall be paid for by, sir, yours, &c. H. GLEN.

To Mr. John Petrie.

COLONEL HURD TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Concord, July 7, 1776.

SIR: By several persons I have met with on the road coming from Coos, and by the last intelligence I can collect, I find the inhabitants there, especially those on and near Connecticut River, from the Upper to the Lower Coos, are much more alarmed and apprehensive of danger from the enemy than we imagined; several families are already removed and removing from thence; among the rest, I have found Mrs. Hurd, with part of my family, here at Concord, who was advised by the most discreet of the people to leave the place, unless she could submit to live, as they must do, crowded into a garrison, and which they were all preparing for. The particulars of this, the bearer, Colonel Bayley, who goes express on the occasion, can acquaint you of, and of the very critical situation of all that part of the country; that it is of the utmost consequence the first of the reinforcements which can be raised should be sent into that quarter, and that immediately.

It is yet uncertain whether General Sullivan has retreated to Crown-Point. There is a person in town (one Kinsman) who informs that Messrs. Gyles and Betton (whom he heard of on the road) had altered their course, and were gone for Albany, and who were at Otter Creek this day week, within twenty miles of Crown-Point. He tells us there was then no account of Sullivan's having crossed the lake; that he was thought still to be at Isle-aux-Noix, or not far distant; and if so, it may be best that great part of the new levies should rendezvous at Coos, as at first designed; they might then, by ranging the woods, give some check to the enemy, and draw off part of their forces from pursuing General Sullivan's Army, as well as to be a protection to our settlers, who must otherwise desert many of their plantations and lose the benefit of the approaching harvest, that is now very promising; this may be a double loss to us. I shall proceed on my journey to-morrow for Haverhill, leaving my wife here; and if anything important occurs, I will immediately advise you, but must beg leave to repeat my request, that we may have some very speedy assistance. Why may not Captain Harper's company, if mustered, or any other first in readiness, march off for this purpose? It can be no detriment, and little out of the way, should they afterwards be ordered to Crown-Point. Shall be glad to hear something of this sort by return of Colonel Bayley, for the quiet of our people.

In the mean time remain, with great esteem and respect to you and the gentlemen of the Committee of Safety, sir, your most obedient servant,

J. HURD.

To the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq.

MEMORIAL FROM CONWAY, FRYBURGH, AND BROWNFIELD.

To the Honourable General Court of the Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

The memorial of the Committee of Conway, in the County of Grafton, and Fryburgh and Brownfield, in the County of York, and Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, united, humbly sheweth: That the abovesaid new Plantations, consisting of about thirty families, are situated at a place called Pig-wacket, upon Saco River, which nearly unites with a branch of the Androscoggin River, about thirty miles northerly from other settlements, and lie greatly exposed to incursions from the savages, by the following natural communications, as frequented by the Indians that come to those places: one from Chaudiere River into Umbagog Lake, which empties itself into Androscoggin River; another from St. Francois River, into a branch of Connecticut River, and by that into Androscoggin River; another from Kennebeck River, by the way of Muschamcontocock, into Androscoggin River; that these several ways are by water, except a few short carrying places, which bring them within twenty miles of these settlements; that the greatest part of these twenty miles is water carriage; that Androscoggin River runs farther to the northward than the head of Connecticut River; that a party the last year was sent out from Coos to reconnoitre the woods over to Umbramagog Lake, which empties into the St. Francois River, from thence they set out eastwardly, in order to strike Connecticut River, but headed it, and struck Androscoggin River, came down that river, and came into these settlements; that last fall three men from Colonel Arnold's party came into these settlements by the way of Androscoggin River; four or five persons from Quebeck, last May, came in here the same way. It appears that whenever the frontiers are exposed, these settlements are in danger; that from the alarming accounts we have lately received from Canada, we think it necessary to make preparation for defence; and as it is not likely we can provide ourselves with arms and ammunition without the aid of the honourable Court, therefore the memorialists entreat the favour of the honourable Court to the application that may be made for the above purpose and for protection, if the time should come that the frontiers are in danger. And we, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

RICHARD KIMBALL, Chairman of Committee.

Dated at Fryburgh, this 7th day of July, 1776.

N. B. Last night came in here one family from the Upper Coos, and all the rest of the inhabitants are removing as fast as possible.

DEPOSITION OF JARRET WILLIAMS.

Fincastle, Virginia, Monday, July 8, 1776.

The Deposition of Jarret Williams, taken before me, Anthony Bledsoe, a Justice of the Peace for the County aforesaid, being first sworn on the holy Evangelists of Almighty God, deposeth and saith: That he left the Cherokee Nation on Monday night, the 8th instant, (July;) that the part of the nation called the Overhills, were then preparing to go to war against the frontiers of Virginia, having purchased to the amount of one thousand skins, or thereabouts, for mockasins. They were also beating flour for a march, and making other warlike preparations. Their number, from a calculation made by the Raven warriors, amounts to about six hundred warriors; and, according to the deponent's ideas, he thinks we may expect a general attack every hour. They propose to take away negroes, horses, &c., and to kill all kinds of cattle, sheep, &c., for which purpose they are well stocked with bows and arrows, &c.; also to destroy all corn, burn houses, &c. And he also heard, that the valley towns were, a part of them, set off; but that they had sent a runner to stop them, till all were ready to start. He further relates, that Alexander Cameron informed them that he had concluded to send Captain Nathaniel Guest, William Faulin, Isaac Williams, and the deponent; with the Indians, till they came near to Nanachukey; then the Indians were to stop, and Guest and the other whites abovementioned were to go to see if there were any King's men among the inhabitants; and if they found any, they were to take them off to the Indians, or have a white signal in their hands, or otherwise, to distinguish them. When this was done, they were to fall on the inhabitants, and kill and drive all they possibly could. That on Saturday, the 6th instant, in the night, he heard two prisoners were brought in about midnight; but the deponent saw only one. That the within Williams saw one scalp brought by a party of the Indians, with a prisoner; but from accounts, they had five scalps. He also says, that he heard the prisoner examined by Cameron, though he gave a very imperfect account, being very much cast down. He further says, that the Cherokees had received the war-belt from the Shawanese, Mingo, Taawah, and Delaware Nations, to strike the white people; that fifteen of the said nation were lately in the Cherokee towns, and that few of the Cherokees went in company with the Shawanese, &c. That they all intended to strike the settlers on Kentucky; and that the Cherokees gave the said Shawanese, &c., four scalps of white men, which they carried away with them. The said Shawanese and Mingoes informed the Cherokees, that they then were at peace with every other nation; that the French were to supply them with ammunition, and that they wanted the Cherokees to join them to strike the white people on the frontiers, which the Cherokees have agreed to. And the deponent further saith, that before he left the nation a number of the Cherokees of the lower towns were gone to fall on the frontiers of South-Carolina and Georgia; and further saith not.

JARRET WILLIAMS.

Signed before ANTHONY BLEDSOE.

DR. C. WIESENTHALL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In all the troops which designed, or are taking the field, there is a necessity for a medical department abstract from that of the battalion, and which is committed to the superintendency of a physician or surgeon-general, or director-in-chief, who has the care of the hospitals, and gives the proper directions thereof, as well as to the troops in general.

This was that station I meant when I accepted the service; very well knowing, as surgeon in common, several might be had to fill that station, because during engagements, they chiefly act in dressing wounds, &c., where very little art is necessary; but after the removal of the wounded to the hospital, the proper applications are made.

The first surgeon of a battalion or regiment is called Surgeon-Major, and his province goes no farther than his battalion, only except he is contiguous to the hospital, and has time, then he assists his men belonging to the battalion.

You were pleased, gentlemen, to give me a commission of first surgeon of Colonel Smallwood's battalion only, which I accepted, with the promise of having it laid before the Convention in order to increase the salary adequate to the abovementioned station. I have acted all along in that station according to the extent of the circumstances. I have taken and caused to be taken care of the sick of the ship Defence as often as they left the harbour. I have advised and visited them when in harbour. I have even twice furnished them with a surgeon in absence of their own. The Militia when called to town made likewise application during their stay. Several instances more might be mentioned, but the above will be sufficiently convincing, and leave the method to your consideration, being, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most humble and most obedient servant,

C. WIESENTHALL.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

COL. HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Elk, 7 o'clock, July 8, at Evening.

SIR: Yours of the 7th per express is now before me. Every requisite necessary shall be provided for expediting the troops with despatch. Could wish something had been said regarding provisions, as I am now at a loss whether to provide or not; and am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

H. HOLLINGSWORTH.

To Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, President of the Council of Safety.

COLONEL TYLER TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You have, enclosed, a list of the arms in my battalion. I am informed by Major Williams, who examined the guns, that all those said to be in good order are such as the owners would choose to make use of in case of an emergency. By this return, the guns in the battalion amount to no more than three hundred and fifty-one, which I am sorry to hear are so few; however, the many good ones make amends.

I have further to inform you, that for the sake of satisfying the people, I allowed them to choose a second Major, who is wanting, from the resignation of Colonel Joshua Beall, and that Captain John McGill had the voice of a very great majority. I therefore recommend him as very worthy your notice, and hope you will appoint him to that command. I beg you will send commissions of Mr. Williams's, Mr. Snowden's, and my promotions, by Mr. Millikin, who has the care of this letter. I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

ROBERT TYLER.

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, Sunday afternoon, July 8, 1776.

SIRS: At the request of Mr. Purviance, I have sent down three vessels that will carry three companies of the soldiers to Elk, or where they may be wanted. I do this at his request, not doubting but it may be right, as he says you desire it. But please when you want anything done by me, write a line, as I could tell better how to proceed, and with greater certainty. I shall finish unloading the brigs to-morrow; but the delay was owing to the owners not beginning at your first request. From your friend and humble servant,

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.

P. S. I am to pay for each of these vessels 17s. 6d. per day, and they find them in hands and provisions.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO MATTHIAS HAMMOND.

[No. 7.] Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: Two companies of Colonel Hall's battalion will be immediately ordered to the city of Annapolis, for its defence, agreeable to a resolution of Convention. And as it will be proper that you, as Quartermaster, should provide quarters and provision for them, we have thought fit to give you this early information of it, that you may adjust matters accordingly; the service requires expedition, and that not a moment should be lost in taking the necessary measures.

We are, &c.

To Mat. Hammond, Quartermaster.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO STEPHEN STEWART.

[No. 8.] Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety will take Mr. Sprigg's vessel if you are of opinion that she will make a fast sailer, draw little water, and suit this Province as an armed vessel, of which please to advise us in writing; and request she may be got ready with the utmost despatch. We hope and expect a fortnight will complete her. When can you set off for the Eastern-Shore to examine the vessels which are offered as suitable for the purpose? We want them. You promised to be with us on Friday, but we did not understand whether you could immediately go over the bay. This matter requires despatch, and we beg your immediate answer. If you can go, we shall be much pleased; if you cannot go, do you know any one who would be proper to send on that business? We are, &c.

To Mr. Stephen Stewart.

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL DORSEY.

[No. 9.]

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: You will see by the enclosed resolve that the Convention have directed the place of the regulars that are to march from hence to Philadelphia should be supplied by three companies of the neighbouring Militia till the Militia for the Flying-Camp can be got ready. The Council of Safety have thought proper to order a company of your battalion to march down here immediately, and we desire you will despatch them with the utmost expedition. We expect a sufficient number of the Militia for the Flying-Camp will be raised in a very short time to supply the place of yours, with the other companies which shall be discharged, as soon as possible. Colonels Weems and Hammond are now with us, and intend that the company they are respectively to furnish shall be composed out of the whole battalion companies if wholly ordered out, may be much distressed and very indifferently armed. We are, &c.

To Colonel Thomas Dorsey.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THOMAS SMYTH.

[No. 10.]

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety request you will agree with Blake for the cartridge-boxes, &c. The price of the whole is twelve shillings, but we cannot ascertain individually, not having yet been furnished with the contracts by Mr. Alexander, who made them. We are, &c.

To Thomas Smyth, Esq.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CHARLES RIDGELY.

[No. 11.]

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: We have immediate occasion, on account of the Province, for some swivels and small cannon, from four-pounders downwards, and shall (as we are informed your furnace is in blast) be very glad to know whether you can cast them. If you can, be pleased to let us know the terms, and by what time you can furnish us with them. We are, &c.

To Messrs. Charles Ridgely and John Weston, respectively.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

[No. 12.]

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Convention have ordered that the sum of ten thousand pounds be appropriated to fortify the city of Annapolis, and to place obstructions in the river Severn; but as we have not, nor know of an Engineer properly qualified to carry on the works, and your station may perhaps afford you an opportunity of assisting us with one, we beg you will make inquiry for and recommend to us some person of knowledge and experience in that science. We are anxious to comply with the resolve of Convention, as Annapolis is very undefensible; and we presume, from its advantageous situation, will be an object with the enemy. We are so thronged with business that we cannot now write you fully, but will as soon as we have a little leisure. As the conveniences may not be provided for Colonel Smallwood and the troops by the time they reach Philadelphia, we request you will give him all the assistance you can. We send you, enclosed, a resolve of our Convention, relating to our regular forces, which we desire you will communicate to the Brigadier-General of the Flying-Camp. We are, &c.

To the Deputies for Maryland in Congress.

P. S. We take the liberty of recommending Captain Stricker to you, as a person for a field officer in the German battalion, and think the service will be benefited by his appointment. If he should be commissioned, the sooner it is done the better, as it will probably be a great inducement to his countrymen to enlist.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO ROBERT ALEXANDER.

[No. 13.]

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety are much at a loss in respect to the contracts made by you in Baltimore; they have written to you several times to transmit them, but have never had the pleasure to receive them or a line from you on the subject. There is a real necessity for their being lodged here, as some of the artificers do not comply with their contracts; and we are subject to two inconveniences—the ignorance of the real contract, and the want of power to enforce it.

We are, &c.

To Robert Alexander, Esq.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 8, 1776:

Present: S. Purviance, Chairman, William Lux, Vice Chairman, J. Calhoun, W. Aisquith, A. Brittain, Andrew Buchanan, B. Nicholson, Charles Ridgely of William, Z. McCubbin, T. Sollers, and J. Griest.

Messrs. Selah Barbon and James Seddon applied to this Committee to be released from the fines assessed on them as Non-Enrollers, as they had now enrolled with Captain Cromwell; which was granted.

On representation of Richard Taylor that he was fined £10, which he is utterly unable to pay, without greatly distressing his family of a wife and seven children, the Committee, taking the same into consideration, agreed to remit £5 of said fine.

An express arrived from the Council of Safety with copies of a Letter from the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Congress, to the Convention of Maryland, dated the 4th July, advising of the arrival of General Howe, with a considerable Army, at Staten-Island, and requesting, in the most earnest manner, the march of the Militia voted by this Colony for the Flying-Camp. Also, several Resolves of the Convention of this Province, dated 6th July, among which is a resolve that two Companies of Germans be raised in this County, to consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, and seventy-six Privates, and that the Committee recommend the Officers of said Companies, and certify the same to the Council of Safety.

Resolved, That this Committee will meet on Thursday, the 11th instant, and that publick notice be given thereof, in order that all those who are desirous of commissions may apply.

Attested: GEORGE LUX, Secretary.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour of enclosing sundry resolves of Congress, to which I beg leave to refer your attention, and which are so explicit that I need not enlarge.

In obedience to the commands of Congress, I have written to Generals Schuyler and Gates, and have recommended a mutual confidence and harmony in their military operations. Their joint labour and exertions are requisite in that quarter; nor have I the least doubt but they will act on all occasions with the most perfect unanimity.

You will please to appoint suitable places of rendezvous for the battalions raising for Canada, and communicate the same to the Assemblies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Connecticut, and New-York, and also to issue orders for supplying the men with rations, tents, month's advance pay, and other necessities.

I am so pressed for time, that I can only add that I am, most truly, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Washington.

P. S. The enclosed please forward to General Schuyler and General Gates.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: In consequence of your letter to General Washington, stating that a difference of opinion had arisen between General Gates and yourself with regard to the command of the troops in the Northern Department, I am to inform you that Congress have this day taken the matter into consideration, and directed me to transmit the enclosed resolution.

You will there perceive that it was the intention of Congress to give General Gates the command while the troops were in Canada, but no longer. As they think it expedient he should still continue to act with you, I am most earnestly to recommend to you to cultivate a harmony in your military operations. The Congress highly approve of your patriotism and magnanimity in not suffering any difference of opinion to hurt the publick service.

A mutual confidence and good understanding are at this time so essentially necessary, that I am persuaded they will take place on all occasions between yourself and General Gates, and that by your joint exertions in the cause of freedom, your country will receive the most essential benefits.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Schuyler, Albany or elsewhere.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL GATES.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: The Congress being informed by letter from General Schuyler to General Washington, which was laid before them at the request of the former, and by your own consent, that a difference of opinion had arisen between General Schuyler and yourself, with regard to the command of the Army in the Northern Department, they immediately took the matter into consideration, and have this day come to the enclosed resolution, which I do myself the honour of transmitting in obedience to their commands.

You will there perceive that Congress are of opinion your command was totally independent of General Schuyler while the Army was in Canada, but no longer; and, indeed, the terms in which the resolve relative to your appointment is conceived, seem to show that this was their intention. You were expressly, by that resolve, to take the command of the troops in Canada; words which strongly imply that they had no design to divest General Schuyler of the command while the troops were on this side Canada.

I am, however, to inform you that Congress highly approve your resolution and magnanimity that the publick service should receive no detriment from any difference of opinion on the occasion. It is their most earnest desire that you will go on to act in the same manner, and cultivate harmony in all your military operations. A good understanding and mutual confidence are so essentially necessary in order to give success to our measures, that I am convinced they will take place on all occasions between you. He deserves most of his country, and will undoubtedly meet with the greatest applause, in whatever rank or station he may be, who renders her the most useful and signal services.

I have the honour to be, sir, with great respect and esteem, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Gates.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL ROBERDEAU.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: I have it in charge from Congress to direct that you do not order Captain Peters out of this city, his service being necessary as Secretary to the War Office.

I am also to inform you that the Postmasters, while in office, are excused, by order of Congress, from all military duty.

I am, sir, with respect, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Gen. Roberdeau, commanding officer in Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO JAMES MEASE.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: I have it in charge from the Congress, to direct that you pay one month's advance to such of the Militia as will engage to serve in the Flying-Camp; which you will please to notice accordingly.

I am, with respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To James Mease, Esq., Commissary and Paymaster, Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO REV. JACOB DUCHE.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

SIR: It is with the greatest pleasure I inform you that the Congress have been induced, from a consideration of your piety, as well as your uniform and zealous attachment to the rights of America, to appoint you their Chaplain.

It is their request, which I am commanded to signify to you, that you will attend on them every morning at nine o'clock.

I have the honour to be, sir, with respect, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Rev. Mr. Jacob Duché.

JOSEPH HEWES TO SAMUEL JOHNSTON.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have received your favours of the 23d May, and 6th and 11th of June. The first of these came last to hand. I have not had an opportunity to forward your letter to Elmsly. Tryon is not to be trusted with it. I send it by some vessel bound to France or Spain. I cannot find out any other way of conveyance, and that is very precarious.

I shall endeavour to get for you a proper account of the linen manufactory here. I have been several times at it, but have not been hitherto fortunate enough to meet with any of the directors. I expect, in the course of our political convulsions with Great Britain, I shall be rendered incapable of holding any share in any publick manufactory for want of stock. I will think of it when I get home, which I hope will be towards the end of August.

I received a letter from your Committee of Secrecy, War and Intelligence, respecting the expediency of fortifying the harbour of Cape-Lookout. I laid the matter before a committee of Congress appointed to consider what places were proper to be fortified; but before they consider and make report thereon, it is absolutely necessary that they should have a plan or map of the harbour, with proper explanations and descriptions. These should be taken by an engineer on the spot, who should form a plan of the fortifications necessary to be made, and the expense that would attend the erection of them. I have written to Mr. Harnett twice on this subject; but as I have reason to believe many letters miscarry, I now mention the matter to you, in hopes you will endeavour to prevail on the Council of Safety to get the matter done as early as possible. I find a disposition in most of the Members of Congress to grant to our Province all that can be reasonably expected. It is not in their power to assist us at present with cannon; but as several forges are beginning to cast twelve and eighteen-pounders, I hope towards winter they will not only have it in their power, but be heartily disposed to assist us with some heavy pieces to put into such places as may be thought most advisable. This is all you can expect—it is all that is done in the like cases. The work must be done at your own expense, or by such Continental troops as may be in the Province for the time being. I give you this as my opinion. Perhaps they may do more for our Province: it stands high in rank and high in estimation. I wish it may be able to support its good character in future.

A hellish plot has been lately discovered at New-York to murder General Washington and some other officers of the first rank, blow up the magazine, and spike up the cannon. The persons employed had it in charge, and have actually enlisted a number of men for the King's Army. It was to have been put in execution on the first arrival of the Army from Halifax. One of General Washington's guards has been put to death for being concerned in it. The Mayor of the city, and some others, are confined. I believe many of them are guilty. It is said the matter has been traced up to Governour Tryon.

What has become of my friend Hooper? I expected to have seen him here ere now; otherwise I should have written to him respecting some of his connexions at Boston, who are like to suffer by having property in the hands of Tories who have fled from that country.

My friend Penn came time enough to give his vote for Independence. I send you the Declaration of Independence enclosed. All the Colonies voted for it, except New-York. That Colony was prevented from joining in it by an old instruction. Their Convention meets this day, and it is expected they will follow the example of the other Colonies.

I had the weight of North-Carolina on my shoulders within a day or two of three months. The service was too severe. I have set some days from six in the morning till five and sometimes six in the afternoon, without eating or drinking.

My health was bad; such close attention made it worse. I nevertheless obstinately persisted in doing my duty to the best of my judgment and abilities, and attended Congress the whole time, one day only excepted. This I did contrary to the repeated solicitations of my friends, some of whom I believe thought I should not be able to keep soul and body together to this time. Duty, inclination, and self-preservation call on me now to make a little excursion into the country to see my mother. This is a duty which I have not allowed myself time to perform during almost nine months that I have been here.

General Howe and his Army are in the neighbourhood of New-York, sometimes on shore on Staten-Island, and sometimes on board the fleet. It is thought that he has not more than seven or eight thousand men with him. He is waiting for Lord Howe's fleet to arrive, when he expects to be joined by twenty thousand men. All the regiments in Continental pay, that were raised in this Province, are now at New-York and on the lakes. Six thousand Militia from this Province, and three thousand four hundred from Maryland, will march in a few days towards New-York. The Jersey Militia are all in motion. I fear these Colonies will suffer greatly for want of labourers to get in the harvest. Some people are of opinion that many fields of wheat will remain unreaped, and be totally lost. Our northern Army has left Canada and retreated to Ticonderoga and Crown-Point. The small-pox has made great havock among them. Several regiments had not well men enough to row the sick over the lakes. Men were drafted from other regiments to do that service. In short, that army has melted away in as little time as if the destroying angel had been sent on purpose to demolish them, as he did the children of Israel.

We are endeavouring to get the lakes fortified in the best manner we can, to prevent Burgoyne from passing them and entering the Colonies on that side.

A paper has been privately laid on the Congress table, importing that some dark designs were forming for our destruction, and advising us to take care of ourselves. Some were for examining the cellars under the room where we sit. I was against it, and urged that we ought to treat such information with contempt, and not show any mark of fear or jealousy. I told some of them I had almost as soon be blown up, as to discover to the world that I thought myself in danger. No notice has been taken of this piece of information, which I think is right.

I enclose you a resolve of Congress, which please to forward to your Council of Safety. I also enclose a letter to Mr. Burke. If you can do anything for the gentlemen who subscribe it, I hope you will do it. They are my friends, and friends to America. I sent you a commission of this kind some time ago; you have not mentioned it in any of your letters.

I will trespass no longer on your patience. Remember me to your family and connexions; and be assured I am, with affection and regard, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

JOSEPH HEWES.

To Samuel Johnston, Esq.

P. S. I copy no letters—take them with all their imperfections.

THOMAS JEFFERSON TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

DEAR SIR: For news I refer you to your brother, who writes on that head. I enclose you a copy of the Declaration of Independence, as agreed to by the House, and also as originally framed. You will judge whether it is the better or worse for the critics. I shall return to Virginia after the 11th of August. I wish my successor may be certain to come before that time; in that case I shall hope to see you, and not Wythe, in Convention, that the business of Government, which is of everlasting concern, may receive your aid.

Adieu, and believe me to be your friend and servant,

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

To Richard Henry Lee, Esq.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO JOHN LANGDON.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: Yours of the 24th ultimo I have received. It grieved me that the frigates cannot be got to sea, which I am sensible they might before this, had proper attention been paid to cannon in season. I have been a long time endeavouring to draw the attention of the Committee to the regulation of the Navy, but hitherto without success. The present establishment certainly needs amendment, but business is so exceedingly pressing that it is impossible to form a judgment when it will be done. In my opinion a purser is a necessary officer; but as no provision is made for a purser, I think it necessary you should appoint a steward. I submit it to you whether it would not be best to appoint a man that would do for a purser, as the wages at present are much higher than will be allowed for stewards if pursers are established.

I must refer you to the papers for news, as time just now is very precious. The Declaration will no doubt give you pleasure. It will be published next Thursday at the head of the Army at New-York. I am told it is to be published this day in form in this city.

As I am obliged to catch leisure minutes to write, perhaps something may turn up between this and to-morrow morning; if so, shall give it you. Governour Hopkins, who has the direction of matters respecting the cannon at Providence, promises me that he will order the cannon for the Raleigh to be sent from thence immediately, provided the Committee there think that the furnaces will be able to cast more for those ships by the time they will be ready to receive them. So you may expect to hear from thence on this subject.

General Howe has landed part of his Army on Staten-Island, which you know was not in General Washington's power to prevent; however, the Jersey and Pennsylvania Militia, with three thousand from Maryland, are now on their march, and will soon form a very formidable army on this side Hudson's River, and General Washington has, by this time, got twenty thousand men at York, including the Militia of York and Connecticut. I cannot help flattering myself that all this, with the smiles of Providence, will enable us to give a good account of these fellows before the campaign is over. I assure you the people here begin to feel themselves. Governour Franklin is sent to Connecticut for his good behaviour.

I am, with great truth, sincerely yours,

WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

I hope you will take care that the Declaration is properly treated. Colonel Bartlett desires his compliments, and that you will excuse his writing, as he is much engaged.

Philadelphia, July 8, 1776.

This day the Committee of Safety and the Committee of Inspection went in procession to the State-House, where the Declaration of the Independency of the United States of America was read to a very large number of the inhabitants of this City and County, which was received with general applause and heartfelt satisfaction; and in the evening our late King's Coat-of-Arms was brought from the Hall, in the State-House, where the said King's Courts were formerly held, and burnt, amidst the acclamations of a crowd of spectators.

Easton, Northampton County, July 8, 1776.

This day, the Declaration of Independency was received here, and proclaimed in the following order: The Colonel, and all other Field-Officers of the First Battalion, repaired to the Court-House, the Light-Infantry company marching there with drums beating, fifes playing, and the Standard, (the device for which is the Thirteen United Colonies,) which was ordered to be displayed; and after that the Declaration was read aloud to a great number of spectators, who gave their hearty assent with three loud huzzas, and cried out, "May God long preserve and unite the Free and Independent States of America."

Trenton, July 8, 1776.

The Declaration of Independence was this day proclaimed here, together with the new Constitution of the Colony, of late established, and the resolve of the Provincial Congress for continuing the administration of justice during the interim. The members of the Provincial Congress, the gentlemen of the Committee, the officers and privates of the Militia, under arms, and a large concourse of the inhabitants attended on this great and solemn occasion. The Declaration and other proceedings were received with loud acclamations.

The people are now convinced, of what we ought long since to have known, that our enemies have left us no middle way between perfect freedom and abject slavery. In the field, we trust, as well as in council, the inhabitants of New-Jersey will be found ever ready to support the freedom and independence of America.

GENERAL MERCER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 8, 1776.

SIR: On examining Bergen-Neck I found some stock of black cattle and horses still remained there; and that some families on the point held an intercourse with the enemy. Colonel Ford assured me he would have all those removed to-day. His force amounts to no more than three hundred and fifty, and those begin to be dissatisfied at remaining on duty, while the Militia of the neighbourhood are dismissed. After leaving proper guards at the ferries of Hackensack and Passaic, there is not a number sufficient in this quarter to reinforce the party on Bergen-Neck to five hundred. We are informed of a body of Militia being on the march from Pennsylvania. On their arrival I shall order part of them to Bergen-Neck. I hope for instructions as to the destination of them generally. Colonel Putnam has directed some works for the defence of Elizabethtown-Ferry, and adjacent approaches to this place. No ground from thence to Newark-Bay will serve for erecting a battery. On the Bergen shore the land is proper, but the channel is so wide that little advantage will accrue as to guarding that bay.

The boats and canoes along this shore to Amboy are removed up the creeks, and secured under guards.

One William Ash, with his wife and family, taken last Tuesday, on their way from York to Newark, came in to-day from Staten-Island, by a pass from General Howe. Their intelligence coincides with what we had formerly, that the number of the enemy amounts to nine or ten thousand; they lie cantoned in the farmers' houses along the shores of the Island, slack on their guards and no intrenchments. The frigate that lay some days' ago in Princess-Bay was this morning under sail, making towards the town of Amboy. I intend for that place to-day.

I have the honour to be, sir, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

HUGH MERCER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

EXAMINATION OF WILLIAM ASH, FROM STATEN-ISLAND.

July 8, 1776.

He left New-York last Tuesday morning, in a boat bound to Paulus-Hook, commanded by Joseph Harcomb, belonging to New-York. Instead of landing him at Paulus Hook, he would go over the Bay to the Kills. When examinant saw the tender, he told the boatman it was a tender; the boatman said it was the Amboy privateer, and immediately a gun fired, when the boatman dropped sail and came to. Captain Dickinson, of the Greyhound, came aboard, and told them that all the passengers should go ashore, but the boatman was to stay.

They went on shore next morning, where they were kindly treated. General Howe lives in Mr. Bancker's house, but Mr. Bancker is sent on board a man-of-war. Their numbers were reported to be between eight and nine thousand men. The men appeared to be hearty. They could get no provision but a little pickled pork, which cost them seven pence per pound. That the Jersey people had taken off all the cattle; and there was nothing to be had. He thinks if they cannot get provisions from somewhere else they must starve. No vegetables to be had; even the General could get none. He saw Doctor Mallet, Oliver De Lancey, Stephen De Lancey, one Prior, a carpenter, Barrow, Cortlandt Skinner, Major Bayard, one Perry, (Yates's clerk,) and one Troup; with red hair; and others whom he knew. George Barnes and Richard Lawrence appeared violent against him.

Governour Tryon was at Cuckold's Town on Saturday last, inlisting men. He was to enlist thirteen hundred men from Long-Island and Staten-Island, who were to be joined by thirteen hundred regulars, who were to be left for the defence of the Island. They looked for the reinforcement every day. Some say they are to land on Long-Island, and others that they are to run up by New-York. His pass is signed by C. Cuyler, aid-de-camp. General Howe suffered him, with his wife and children, to come off this morning. They have four field-pieces at Decker's, and two more, with two howitzers, opposite Bergen-Point.

A boy and a Nantasket Indian were killed, and some wounded from Bergen shore; but the Captain was not killed, he having seen him since. He heard that both the boy and Indian were prisoners. The Indian had both his feet shot off. A person told him that a number of them on the Island had got together and burned forty pounds in Continental money, damning the Congress, and saying that they had nothing more to do with the Congress.

A man told him he was present when Governour Tryon offered one hundred dollars for Justice Mercereau, dead or alive. Richard Laurence is made a collector, as he was told. The Governour told them, at a meeting in Cuck-old's Town, that if they could not subdue New-York they would burn it, and never give them the liberty of building there again, but would build a city on Staten-Island; that he had liberty to go where he pleased, and found the men very thick along shore in every house, but no lines or breast-works anywhere, not even round the General's quarters.

COLONEL GALBRAITH TO LANCASTER COMMITTEE.

Elizabethtown, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In pursuance of your resolve of the 5th instant, we do certify that William Hoy was unanimously chosen (by the volunteers) Captain; Robert Clerk, First Lieutenant; Patrick Hoys, Second Lieutenant; William Patterson, Third Lieutenant;—officers for the company draughted from our battalion to form, in part, the six thousand Militia Flying-Camp, whom we do recommend to you for their further appointment; and are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

BARTREM GALBRAITH, Colonel.

ALEXANDER LOWREY, Lieutenant-Colonel.

JAMES CUNNINGHAM, Major.

To the Standing Committee of Observation and Inspection, Lancaster.

LEWIS OGDEN TO JOHN JAY.

Newark, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have just now received the order from our Congress, of which the enclosed is a copy; and inform you thereof, that we may correspond and coöperate, as the execution of the trust reposed in us may require.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

LEWIS OGDEN.

To John Jay and Gouverneur Morris, Esquires, at New-York.

GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Staten-Island, July 8, 1776.

MY LORD: Having yesterday submitted to the Admiral's consideration the propriety of sending a naval force up the North River, above the town of New-York, with a view to distress the Rebels on that Island, by obstructing supplies coming down the river, and other good consequences dependent upon that measure, which meeting with his approbation, orders are given for two ships, (one of forty, and another of twenty guns,) to proceed upon that service the first favourable opportunity; and I flatter myself that these ships, more than which cannot be spared at present from the protection of the transports, will prove of sufficient force to support themselves against all attempts of the enemy from the upper river, and to answer the purposes for which they are intended.

Several men have come over to this Island, and to the ships, since my letter of yesterday; and, by a newspaper of the 6th, I learn that the Continental Congress, on the Tuesday preceding, had declared the United Colonies free and independent States. The same paper mentions, that thirty sail of transports, a fifty-gun ship, and several small ships-of-war, had got over Charlestown Bar, in South-Carolina, without specifying the time, or any circumstance in consequence, besides a summons for the town to surrender, which was rejected. Having no better authority for this intelligence than the newspaper, I decline making any observations upon it; and have the honour to be, &c.,

W. HOWE.

Admiralty-Office, August 10, 1776.

By a letter received this day from Vice-Admiral Lord Shulldham, dated Staten-Island, near New-York, the 8th of July last, it appears that his Lordship arrived there on the 3d of that month, with his Majesty's ships under his command, and the whole fleet of transports, victuallers, and store-ships, under his convoy, without any loss or separation; that his Majesty's troops, under the command of General Howe, were landed, on that day and the next, upon Staten-Island, without any opposition or interruption, the inhabitants having, immediately on the troops landing, surrendered, and put themselves under the protection of his Majesty's arms; that two hundred of the inhabitants were imbodied; that the whole Island had taken the oath of allegiance and fidelity to the King; and that a party of sixty men, with their arms, had made their escape from the Province of New-Jersey, and joined the King's troops.

The arrival of Lord Howe, and the reinforcement under Commodore Hotham, were daily expected at Staten-Island, Lord Shulldham having stationed his cruisers in the most proper manner to fall in with and direct them thither.

GOVERNOUR TRYON TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Dutchess of Gordon, off Staten-Island, July 8, 1776.

MY LORD: I have the satisfaction to acquaint your Lordship of the arrival of the fleet under the command of Admiral Shulldham in this port, on the 29th ultimo, and that General Howe disembarked the troops under his command on Staten-Island, the 2d instant, without opposition, on which occasion the inhabitants of the Island came down to welcome the arrival of their deliverers, and have since afforded the Army every supply and accommodation in their power.

On Saturday last I received the Militia of the Island at Richmond town, where near four hundred appeared, who cheerfully, on my recommendation, took the oath of allegiance and fidelity to his Majesty. To-morrow, I am to have another muster, for the enlistment of volunteers to form a Provincial Corps for the defence of the Island, as the General finds it an important quarter to hold against the Rebels. This testimony, given by the inhabitants of the Island, of loyalty to his Majesty, and attachment to his Government, I flatter myself will be general through the Province, as soon as the King's Army gets the main body of the Rebels between them and the sea, which will leave all the back country open to the command of the King's friends, and yield a plentiful resource of provisions for the Army, and place them in a better situation to cut off the Rebels' retreat, when forced from their stronghold.

In the promotion of general officers in America, I do not find it has been his Majesty's pleasure to employ me in this country in my military character. I shall, however, do everything in my power, in my civil capacity, to promote his Majesty's service.

The fortifications in and about New-York have, I am told, undergone little change since the enclosed observations were delivered. Every matter of further information I have laid before General Howe since his arrival, as they came to my knowledge.

I am, with great respect, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient servant,

WILLIAM TRYON.

To Lord George Germaine.

LORD GEORGE GERMAINE TO GOVERNOUR TRYON.

Whitehall, May 17, 1776.

SIR: Since my letter to you of the 28th March, I have not received any of your despatches, nor have I any commands of his Majesty to signify to you; but I have the satisfaction to acquaint you that the embarkation of the troops destined for the reinforcement of General Howe's Army have succeeded so happily, that the corps of Highlanders sailed from the Clyde the 29th of last month, and the first division of the Hessians were clear of the Channel on the 10th instant, and we are in hourly expectation of the arrival at Spithead of the remainder of that body, which has been some time on board the transports in the Wesel. So large a reinforcement will, I trust, enable General Howe to open the campaign with advantage, and to strike some blow which will give spirit and vigour to the friends of Government, and incite them to take an active and resolute part in freeing themselves from that cruel oppression under which they have so long groaned.

The Province of New-York will certainly be a main object of the General's attention; and as I am not without hopes that before this letter comes to your hands you will have the satisfaction of seeing him, it is unnecessary for me to acquaint you further with the operations which are intended to be carried on in that Province. I shall therefore only add my most hearty wishes for their success, and that they may, in their issue, restore the blessings of peace and legal Government to his Majesty's faithful subjects.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE GERMAINE.

To Governour Tryon.

LORD GEORGE GERMAINE TO GOVERNOUR TRYON.

Whitehall, June 11, 1776.

SIR: Your several despatches by the Swallow packet, numbered from one to nine inclusive, and two private letters dated the 17th April, were received at my office the 3d instant, and I immediately laid them before the King.

The intelligence contained in the papers you transmit with these despatches is of the greatest importance; and although you do not say what degree of credit ought to be given to it, yet, as the accounts stated to have been received at New-York of the Rebels' having met with a second repulse at Quebeck are corroborated by many circumstances, and particularly by the measures they have taken for strengthening their posts on the frontiers, we flatter ourselves that the first vessel which arrives from Quebeck will bring a confirmation of this good news. I will not, however, anticipate the consequences of an event which is not yet confirmed; but if it proves to be only in part as favourable as your intelligence represents, I shall have little doubt that our operations on that side will have all the success we could wish, and that Crown Point and Ticonderoga will be restored to his Majesty's possession before the campaign is ended.

It was to have been expected that the departure of the troops from Boston would turn the attention of the Rebels to New-York; but I trust General Howe has ere this fixed his Head-Quarters in that city, and that he will soon find himself in sufficient force to drive the Rebels out of the Province, and give effectual protection to his Majesty's loyal subjects; and I will hope that not only those who have adhered to their duty, but even many who have been misled into a concurrence with the Rebels in some of their measures, will be induced to take up arms and join the King's standard, from a just sense of the dreadful consequences which they have experienced, and which must ever follow a departure from the mode of government established by the Constitution, and an opposition to lawful authority.

Your influence and advice at such a time must be attended with the happiest effects, and I am commanded by the King to repeat to you his Majesty's great satisfaction in your continuance in your Government; and that the firm and prudent conduct you have persevered in, notwithstanding all the difficulties you have encountered and the hazards to which you have been exposed, is very much approved by the King.

The facility with which Lieutenants Campbell and Grant have enlisted men at New-York is a very pleasing proof of the good disposition of the people to return to their duty, if they were assured they might do it with safety; and I doubt not General Howe will reward the diligence of those officers, by continuing them in the command of the companies they have raised. But I must acquaint you, that in this instance, as well as in all others which may occur, the officers who are appointed to command corps raised in America, are to be on the same footing in respect to rank as the Provincial troops employed in the last war; and that they are neither to expect rank in the army after their reduction, in consequence of such commissions, or to be entitled to half-pay. I should be very glad to show every attention to your recommendation, but, from what I have told you in respect to the Lieutenants Campbell and Grant, you will readily perceive the difficulties which oppose themselves in the way of Captain Stevenson's request.

Two hundred copies of the pamphlet you mentioned in your letter of the 6th April, will be sent to you with this despatch by the packet; and I shall order five thousand more to be put on board the first ships that sail from hence for New-York. I am, &c.,

GEO. GERMAINE.

To Governour Tryon.

P. S. When I was closing my letter Major Caldwell arrived express from Quebeck, with the account of the raising the siege, which you will see in the enclosed Gazette Extraordinary; and although it shows our former intelligence to have had no foundation, it happily agrees with it in the event, on which I most heartily congratulate you.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, July 8, 1776.

SIR: Congress having resolved to raise a regiment of Germans, to counteract the designs of our enemies, I must beg leave to recommend to their notice John David Wilpert, now a First Lieutenant in Colonel Shea's battalion, to the office of Captain in said regiment. I am personally acquainted with him, and know that he joined the Virginia forces under my command, in the year 1754, and continued in service the whole war, during which he conducted himself as an active, vigilant, and brave officer. He is a German, and his merit as a soldier entitles him much to the office he wishes for.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

New-York, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: At the request of an old officer of mine, and who at present is a First Lieutenant in Colonel Shea's battalion, I am induced to recommend him to your honourable Committee as a fit person to command a company in the German battalion directed by a resolution of Congress to be raised in your Province. John David Wilpert, late of your city, is the person I mean. He is a German by birth; was a soldier in his own country; served many years as an officer in the regiment I had the honour to command in the Virginia service; always supported the character of a diligent and brave officer; and, as far as I know and believe, is a man of good character. If, therefore, he could be appointed to the command of a company in the above regiment, I would, from my knowledge of the man, pledge myself for his good behaviour and meriting of it.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of Safety for the City of Philadelphia.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL SEYMOUR.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 8, 1776.

SIR: By a letter from his Honour Governour Trumbull, received on the 5th instant, I was informed he had ordered three regiments of Horse on to this place, (under your command,) with all possible despatch, and was desired, in case they were not wanted, to inform Colonel Silliman thereof. Accordingly, I wrote Colonel Silliman, acquainting him it was my desire the men might come on, provided they could leave or send back their horses, which letter did not go forward as soon as I intended. Major Starr this morning waited on me, informing of his arrival with fifty of the troop, and that the rest were on their march. I have ordered him to find some pasture for his horses this day, and immediately ride forward and acquaint you that there is not more forage on hand, or to be had, than is absolutely necessary for the use of our working and artillery horses; and that it is my desire your men may be halted some way in the rear of this place, and their horses sent back: otherwise the men can only be a moth and a check to the service, as they cannot act as horsemen in case of action, or if they could, forage could not be found to support them. I think it absolutely necessary the men should be here till the new levies all arrive; but for the above reasons shall be necessitated to order their return, unless they can be persuaded to come on without their horses. I would not be supposed, by this, to discourage the troops of horse from being in constant readiness in the different States, as I am fully persuaded they will be much more useful than the militia to throw in succours to a place in an emergency. I am pleased to see with what cheerfulness and alacrity the troops from your Province step forward to the assistance of their countrymen, whenever called, and doubt not it will continue.

Major Starr will be able to inform you fully, from what I have mentioned to him, the absolute necessity for the men, and the utter impossibility of keeping the horses. Baggage-wagons may be hired to bring on baggage for your men, from any place they leave their horses.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Colonel Seymour.

PROCEEDINGS OF A CONFERENCE OF GENERAL OFFICERS.

At a conference of General Officers and others, at Headquarters, July 8th, 1776:

Present, His Excellency General Washington; Major-General Putnam; Brigadiers-General Heath, Spencer, Greene, Scott, and Wadsworth; Colonel McDougall; and Messrs. Randolph, Green, Dennis, and Duer.

A proposition having been made to the General to sink hulks in the North River, at Tappan Bay, in order to stop the enemy's progress, it was fully discussed, and agreed that the same be carried into execution: Captain Grenell to sound the channel, and fix the buoys; Captain Dennis to take up the vessels; Captains Lawrence and Tudor to have them sunk in a proper manner; Captain Grenell to take notice of the commanding ground, so that, if works should be hereafter erected, they may be made in the most proper manner.

The General proposed to the General Officers, what should be done with the troop of Horse from Connecticut?

Agreed, That the men be detained until the new levies arrive, but the horses be sent home as soon as possible.

The Congress having referred to the General's determination the propriety of marching three Regiments of the Continental troops from Boston to the Northern Army, and, in case of need, substituting the Militia in their place,

Unanimously agreed, That the said three Regiments be immediately despatched to join the Northern Army.

GENERAL GREENE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Camp on Long-Island, July 8, 1776.

SIR: The bearer, Doctor Sentor, by whom this will be handed you, is a gentleman from Quebeck. He was surgeon of Colonel Church's regiment last year, and went from Boston to Canada in General Arnold's detachment. His merit and services render him worthy your notice; as such, I beg leave to recommend him to your acquaintance.

Believe me to be, with the greatest respect, your most obedient humble servant,

NATHANAEL GREENE.

ULSTER COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Committee Chamber, Kingston, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We beg leave once more to trouble you with a complaint which has now become general, which is, that notwithstanding our frequent applications, we are yet left destitute of powder. And, gentlemen, we have reason to believe that this is not owing to a scarcity of that necessary article, neither do we believe it to be a neglect of your honourable Board, as we have been informed that an order has been issued from thence for that purpose. But, gentlemen, whatever may be the reason, it is unknown to us. It is, however, a matter of fact, that we have received none as yet. It is also well known that our town has, for a long time, been crowded, and is yet, with a set of ministerial cut-throats, regular officers and soldiers, sent here as prisoners. A detachment of our Militia has been lately sent down to New-York; and although strictly charged to come with arms and ammunition, they were obliged to go without powder, for we had none. The southern and northern Ministerial armies are drawing near. Above all, the savages threaten slavery, death, and destruction, for us; and for aught we can see, it is likely that the whole Militia will be called upon to defend the dearest rights and liberties of our country. Considering these circumstances, how unaccountable is it that we, who stand foremost in defence of our invaded liberties, should be left destitute of the only means by which we can defend ourselves. This being the case, we most earnestly beg the favour of you to take this matter into your most serious consideration, and grant us such timely relief as you, in your wisdom, may think proper.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient and most humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

JOHANNES SLEIGHT, Chairman.

To the President of the Provincial Congress of New-York.

P. S. We just now received a letter from a member of the Committee of Rochester, an extract whereof is in the words following:

"I yesterday spoke with Silas Bowker, from Papaconk. He informs me that an old savage (a friend of his) has advised him to abandon the place, without delay, with his family, to prevent their destruction. Alas! if they attempt, we are undone. We must fall piecemeal, without revenge, as the tenth man among us cannot produce a charge of powder. If the Congress can pass this unnoticed, then adieu America!"

JOHANNES HARDENBURGH TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Rosendall, Ulster County, July 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I think it my duty to lay the following before your honourable Board, by way of complaint against the proceedings of the County Committee, held at the house of Mrs. Ann Dubois, on or about the 13th day of June last, when there was laid before the Committee the order from your honourable Board for me to give my reasons why I had signed and delivered two credentials to our Delegates, dated on one and the same day: I happening to be there that day, to deliver some papers to that Committee, which were in my hands as chairman of the former County Committee, which I conceived necessary to be delivered to them—when I was there, in the latter part of the day, I was informed by the chairman of said Committee that there was an order from your honourable Board for me to give my reason why I had signed two credentials, on one and the same day; on which notice to me, I desired of the said Committee some days' time, to draw up and give in my reasons at their next meeting, which I was denied; but ordered to give my reasons on the next day, at eleven or twelve o'clock; which I thought impossible for me to do, being then twelve miles from home; and having none of my papers with me, was obliged to ride home that night, where I came at one o'clock in the morning, when I examined the proceedings of the County Committee of the 16th and 25th of April, as also of the 13th of May, and then drew my reasons, which I conceived would be satisfactory to your honourable Board, in the best manner the time I was allowed would admit of.

What follows the extraordinary proceeding of that admirable County Committee? On the 29th of June, I received a letter from the chairman, dated the 28th of June, to attend the said Committee on the 4th of July next, to account for the money in my hands, which I had received by an order of the former County Committee from your Treasurer, Mr. Van B. Livingston, in the presence of two of your members, (whereof, I think, Mr. Van Zandt was one,) and then to deliver the remainder to such a person as they appointed to receive it; on which notice I attended on the Committee, and accounted for the money then in my hands. The balance then in my hands was two hundred and sixty-seven pounds, which balance I conceived I could not give out of my hands, as I stand accountable for the said sum of three hundred and sixty pounds at any time to the honourable Congress, when they, or any of them, shall be pleased to call me to account, or to answer such contingencies of the County as they shall think a proper County charge, or such allowances as have been made a contingent County charge.

Gentlemen, whereas I was, on the 13th day of May last, empowered by the then County Committee to receive the before-mentioned sum of money, to pay the contingencies of the County to such persons as had a just right thereto; and on the 28th of June, by a new County Committee, ordered to deliver the sum then in my hands, on the 4th of July, to such person as they directed me,—I conceive those proceedings to be such a reflection on my character, that I must either be guilty of some malpractice, or of not performing my duty in the payment of the money intrusted to my hands: with neither of which I can charge myself, and defy any person to charge me with any misconduct in the payment of that money. I therefore thought it my duty to lay the same before your honourable Board, and shall be ready, at any time, to obey your orders in the payment thereof, or such others as have a right to dispose thereof, pursuant to the directions of your honourable Board.

Gentlemen, as I have had the trouble to get the money brought from New-York here, I expect to have the paying thereof to such persons as have a just right to the same; but in case your honourable Board should be of opinion to order me to pay it to any one person, I shall think myself entitled to the same fees as if I had paid it to many.

Gentlemen, the confidence I put in the Provincial Congress, from which I expect the clearest streams of justice will flow to every person that may come before your honourable Board, has induced me to lay this before the honourable Congress; and remain, gentlemen, with esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHANNES HARDENBURGH.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Province of New-York.

ADDRESS TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

To the Hon. JOHN SULLIVAN, Esquire, Brigadier-General, lately commanding the Army of the United Colonies in CANADA:

The humble Address of the Field-Officers, lately under his command:

We, the Field-Officers of the several Regiments now composing the Army of the United Colonies, in the Northern Department, having been informed of your Honour's intended departure from hence, esteem it would be unpardonable in us, should we forego this opportunity of tendering the homage due to him who, upon the late most trying occasion, has comforted, supported, and protected the shattered remains of a debilitated army, and, with unwearied care, watchfulness, and attention, has landed the publick stores, of every kind, without almost the least diminution, safe at this place. It is to you, sir, the publick are indebted for the preservation of their property in Canada. It is to you we owe our safety thus far. Your humanity will call forth the silent tear and grateful ejaculation of the sick; your universal impartiality will force the applause of the wearied soldier. Permit us, then, worthy sir, to take our leave, wishing you every happiness and success your most sanguine inclinations can suggest, or our most fervent prayers procure.

Crown-Point, 8th July, 1776.

To the Field-Officers of the several Regiments composing the Northern Army.

GENTLEMEN: Your polite and friendly Address, presented at this hour of my departure from the Army, demands my most cordial thanks. The favourable opinion you are pleased to entertain of my exertions, in protecting and supporting our distressed Army in Canada, gives me the highest satisfaction.

If the publick are in any measure indebted to me for the preservation of their property in Canada, or the Army for its safety thus far, your generosity in voluntarily giving your testimony thereto, at this time, evinces that generous spirit which I have ever found you to possess. The debilitated state of our Army rendered the task of saving it extremely arduous; and had not your zeal and activity so strongly seconded my endeavours, it must have been impossible. Duty to my country demanded that humanity to the sick, and impartiality to the soldiers, which you are pleased so politely to mention; it gives me the most sensible pleasure to find my conduct in this respect meets with the approbation of officers so truly deserving.

Gentlemen, I deeply deplore the necessity I am under of quitting this department; and most sincerely wish that I could, with honour, have remained to share with you the fortune of the campaign; yet, give me leave to assure you, that wherever fortune may place me in future—whether the alarm of war may summon me again to the field, or domestick affairs call me to private life—your safety and success I shall deem inseparable from my own. That an indulgent Heaven may grant you success equal to your merits, reward your toil with the conquest of your unnatural enemies, and in due time return you, crowned with laurels, to your respective families, shall be my most earnest prayer.

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Crown-Point, 8th July, 1776.

COMMITTEE OF OBSERVATION, SKENESBOROUGH, CHARLOTTE COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

The Committee for this town having had due process against Lieutenant Daniel Brundage of this town, according to the Association of the Continental Congress, and finding him obstinately unfriendly, in full opposition to the spirit of said Association, hereby give notice to the publick, that he may be treated with all that neglect and contempt which is so justly his due, for his incorrigible enmity to the rights of American Liberty.

By order of the Committee:

Attest,
July 8, 1776.

GARRET KEATING, Chairman.
JAMES BURROUGHS, Clerk.

CHARLES CUSHING TO HIS BROTHER.

Camp at Crown-Point, July 8, 1776.

DEAR FRIEND AND BROTHER: After my love to you and my sister, I will endeavour to relate to you a true state of facts with regard to the Army in Canada, (as well as my own private concerns,) which I believe you have never yet had, being very much imposed upon by publick prints and letters from some gentlemen in high office, inserted in the papers. After our arrival at Albany, our regiment was the first that marched for Canada. Three regiments more of the same brigade followed as fast as they could, one after another. We were forced on in the greatest hurry, passing through great difficulty and fatigue, being told by all who came from that country that there was no doubt but Quebeck would be surrendered by the time we could get there, or soon after, as there were several batteries opened and playing upon the city. And we went on with good spirits and in good health till we came to the mouth of the river Sorel, where, to our great surprise, we heard of the retreat of the army from Quebeck. Here we first made a stand, and being soon joined by something of an army, erected considerable fortifications. We had here a considerable number of cannon and several row galleys; but we were in a most pitiful situation. We had never drawn any provision from the time we left Albany but pork and flour, and the inhabitants would not take paper money, and we had no other. We were now at a great distance from our own country, and the pork and flour came in so slowly that the store was almost exhausted, especially the flour. In some days we could get none, or not more than half the allowance. Although there was flour in the country, yet, such was the disposition of the people, that we were obliged to take it with fixed bayonets; and the most of the flour expended in Canada since our arrival was taken in that manner. The inhabitants about Sorel seemed more friendly, but they had no provisions to spare. The retreating army from Quebeck began to scatter into Sorel soon after our arrival, having the small-pox among them, and boat loads sick with it were landed among us, so that there seemed no possibility of escaping it, and it was contrary to general orders to inoculate. Although our situation was unhappy, that of the army at Quebeck was much more so. They had but three pieces of small cannon mounted, and no shot suitable for them. They had one small mortar, which they kept in play to no purpose. The enemy kept up a heavy cannonade from the city, and once in a while would throw out a shell filled with molasses, or open a port and fire a pistol, by way of contempt.

Our army had no breastwork or fortification but what was built with snow. Their lines extended near thirty miles distant, and a great part of them sick with the small-pox, having lost a great number. As I was credibly informed, no less than thirty captains died with it, and not more than one in three lived through it that took it the natural way. They had gone through every hardship and fatigue that men could possibly live through, the winter past. The weather was most inclement, and the men almost starved, for sometimes they had no bread, and sometimes no meat.

On the arrival of General Thomas, he found the army in such a situation that a speedy retreat was necessary, which, by a council of war, was agreed to. Their lines being so extensive and their army so scattered, it could not suddenly be effected; and the enemy getting intelligence of it from an officer who deserted, immediately pursued them. In that situation, one may easily imagine the confusion they were in, every one making his escape as well as he could, leaving the sick to the mercy of the enemy. Yet many of them who had the small-pox out thick on them came off, and went through the greatest fatigue, and were exposed to wet and cold, without blankets or anything to cover them, and I afterwards saw them at Sorel. What ordnance stores they had were taken, and much of their baggage. The first stop they made was at Point de Chambly, forty-five miles from Quebeck. The General then sent an express to Sorel for provisions, boats, and assistance, to bring off what sick they had there, for they were continually taken down with the small-pox. Captain Bent and my first lieutenant, with two hundred and fifty men, were sent off with boats to their assistance. They then retreated to the Three Rivers, forty-five miles from that place, and from thence to Sorel.

The New-England forces now began to be very uneasy about the small-pox spreading among them, as but few of them had had it. It was death for any doctor who attempted inoculation. However, it was practised secretly, as they were willing to run any hazard rather than take it the natural way. Some inoculated themselves, and several officers and myself began it in our regiment at Sorel. We had been at Sorel but ten days, when our regiment was ordered up to Montreal, forty-five miles above, on the river St. Lawrence. Colonel Paterson's regiment, which arrived at St. John's in two days after ours, was directly ordered from thence to Montreal, by land, about twenty-seven miles across; and soon after Major Sherburne, with one hundred and twenty men, was detached to The Cedars, to the assistance of Colonel Bedel's party, and another party was left as a guard to La Prairie. Colonel Paterson's regiment was now so reduced by detachments, that it was expected the inhabitants of Montreal would rise, as it was easily perceived they were making preparations. Our regiment was now under the necessity of getting there as fast as possible. We rowed till after dark, when, it coming on to rain very hard, we went on shore. Some pitched their tents, and some got into a small house and barn where we landed. I got into the barn, which was shattered almost to pieces, and being much fatigued, I slept very well. I was now under a mercurial preparation for the small-pox. In the morning we set off for Montreal, the current running very strong. We were not like to get there that day, and about four o'clock P. M., we landed on the point of the Island. At five P. M., the regiment marched for the city, leaving myself and a sufficient number of men to carry up the boats and baggage. About eleven at night they arrived there, having marched fifteen miles. During this fatigue we had nothing to eat but flour and water, and lake water to drink, as we had no other since we came into Canada. As soon as they came into the city they were so fatigued as to lie immediately down under the walls to sleep, and some lay there until morning, it being impossible to move them. But happily they arrived as they did, for that night was appointed for the Tories to take possession of the place. Here we tarried about ten days, and soon after our arrival the regiment in general were inoculated for the small-pox. General Sullivan's brigade beginning to come in, and a detachment sent up from Sorel, our regiment was ordered over to St. John's, to have the small-pox. Accordingly, we set off for La Prairie about four P. M., May 31, the current very strong, and in some places the falls being so great that we were obliged to unload the batteaus and haul them over by land. About dark we got up to Nun's Island, where we tarried all night. The next morning went over to La Prairie, the weather being very rainy all day, the men much exposed to it, most of them beginning to feel the effects of the disorder. The next day we marched to St. John's, eighteen miles. The small-pox was then turning on those who were first inoculated. When we came to St. John's, the most of us went into tents, except some of the worst, who went into a large house and a barn. Here we could get nothing to nourish us without hard money, except the allowance of flour and pork and a little molasses, which we drew for the use of the sick. The inhabitants would exchange milk for pork, but at the rate of two or three pounds for one quart.

I must now return to the Army below. General Thomas took the small-pox the natural way, came up to Chambly, and there died on Sunday, the 2d of June. His death was much lamented by the New-England troops. General Sullivan, with his brigade, is now at Sorel, and he takes command at that place. Immediately after his arrival there, he sent General Thompson, with two thousand men, towards the Three-Rivers; but before they got there, they were attacked by a large body of the enemy, who defeated them, and took the General, Colonel Irvine, and a large number of officers and men, prisoners; and it is supposed that two hundred more perished in the woods, as they retreated in the greatest confusion, the officers without men, and the men without officers. But it gives me pleasure to acquaint you, that none of the "damn'd Yankees" were there, as the southern troops are pleased to term us. We had been at St. John's but ten days, when we had orders for as many of the regiment as were able to go to Sorel. Accordingly, there was a petty surgeon's mate sent to examine the men, (not trusting to our own doctor, who was a good physician,) who reported two hundred, who had been off duty but ten days for the small-pox, fit for the service. Although they had the disorder light, no one could think them fit to go through so much fatigue. We were reduced very low by dieting, and had nothing to recruit with afterwards.

June 13. We set off for Sorel with heavy hearts, none of us expecting to come back again, for General Burgoyne and all his troops were come in, our Army but small in comparison to his, and if we were defeated, there would be no retreat. We got to Chambly the first day, and the next morning set off for Sorel, and before night met Colonel Greaton about twenty-three miles from the mouth of the river, who came directly from there. He informed us the Army were retreating as fast as possible, that the enemy's fleet was just below them, and he ordered us to go on shore and cook some victuals, and then return back to Chambly as fast as possible. After refreshing ourselves a little, we set off about dark, and rowed all night very hard, the current running rapidly. In the morning, about seven o'clock, we got up to Chambly, when, after refreshing ourselves with a little breakfast, we were obliged to assist in getting the batteaus, cannon, and other stores, above the lower Rapids; and then it is as much as twenty men can do to tow a loaded bateau up the river in many places. After our party had drawn over two batteaus, two pieces of cannon, and all their tents and baggage, and put them on board, we set off with three or four boats up the river. In some places, the men were obliged to wade up to their middle. At dark, having got about half-way up to St. John's, we pitched our tents, and lay down to rest. In the morning, we proceeded to St. John's. During this fatigue, the men had but little to eat but pork and flour, and lake water to drink. The Army at Sorel brought off all their artillery and other stores, and arrived safe at Chambly; and in eight hours after their departure, the enemy had come up with their fleet, and taken possession of Sorel. At Chambly, General Sullivan made all the despatch possible in getting over the artillery, stores, and boats, there being a large quantity of them, and not less than a hundred batteaus. We lost one or two pieces of cannon by staving the boats, and one or two more were left. The row galleys were burnt, and I think we left but little else, except four schooners that we burnt in the river.

Our Army, consisting of about six thousand men, were now all retreated safely to St. John's, and the enemy at Montreal and Chambly. We then sent the sick and some of the stores to the Isle-aux-Noix, the Isle-au-Motte, and Point-au-Fer, not having boats to carry the whole Army and stores at once; and as soon as the boats came back, the whole Army embarked and went to the Isle-aux-Noix. Here, what boats could be spared were sent to Crown-Point with sick and stores, as a great part of the Army were sick, many with the small-pox, and many of those who had had it were sick with the flux. Here we were obliged to wait for boats eight days, where we could get nothing but pork and flour. The island being small, not more than one mile in length, and a quarter of a mile in width, the land low, the days hot, and at night great dews, and such a number of men on so small a spot, and many of them sick—the place stunk enough to breed an infection.

At length the boats returned from Crown-Point. We were ordered to strike our tents, and put all our baggage on board, and the invalids who were not able to march by land. Those of our regiment who were well, and about a thousand more, were set over to the west side, to go by land to Point-au-Fer, about twenty-six miles. During our stay at the Isle-aux-Noix, there went a number of officers about a mile below to a house to drink spruce beer; but unfortunately were beset by a party of Indians, who killed and scalped one ensign, one captain, and two privates, and took several prisoners. We heard the guns, and saw the fire. A party was immediately sent to their assistance; but the enemy were gone, and had left the dead stripped all to their shirts. They were brought to the Isle-aux-Noix, and decently buried. They all belonged to the rifle regiment. The Indians attacked several boats on the lake, that went above after some flour, killed two or three men, and wounded six more; the others escaped. About noon, we marched for Point-au-Fer, and soon came where there was only an Indian path, and a wet swamp, which was for a great distance almost up to our knees in mud and water. Besides this, it rained very hard all the afternoon. At dark, we came out against a bay in the lake, within about six miles of Point-au-Fer. We had now nothing but the ground to lie on, and the heavens to cover us; and what with the rain, sweat, and mud, we had but little about us that was dry. We soon built fires, and dried ourselves as well as we could, and then lay down to rest with our feet to the fire. I slept very well, and got up in the morning refreshed. The weather cleared off pleasant; we got some breakfast; and about nine o'clock, there came boats enough to take us all off. The remainder of the Army came in batteaus from the Isle-aux-Noix, and all arrived at the Isle-au-Motte that night. We soon had boats enough to carry the whole Army to Crown-Point, and, I think, nothing remarkable happened till we arrived there.

I am afraid that the retreat from Canada will make a great noise in the country, and many reflections be thrown out by inconsiderate and ill-minded persons; but I am sure that any person of sense, when he comes to know the truth, must be satisfied. Some scandalous reflections have been thrown out upon General Thomas for his proceedings; but I am sorry the character of so worthy a gentleman as he was should suffer by men who are striving for places they are not worthy of. There is one thing I have omitted, which is this: that a great part of the Army at Quebeck inlisted for no longer than the 1st of April, and, as soon as their time was out, would stay no longer. I am very sure that the state of the Army in Canada has never been rightly represented. They have been shamefully neglected and imposed upon through the means of some persons who were appointed to provide for them. You will find, in the New-England Chronicle of the 27th of June, a passage in a letter from General S——r, where he says that the Army in Canada has been well provided for, that the inhabitants were very kind to them, and supplied them with everything necessary, &c.; the whole of which is false; for we had never yet drawn any allowance but pork and flour or bread, except once a few peas at Sorel, and what I have before mentioned; and had we the money for what the vegetables and other things allowed us by the resolve of Congress have fallen short, it would now amount to more than two thousand dollars in our regiment. It is not the money I mind, but it is what we have suffered for want of those necessities.

I will now endeavour to give you some description of the country. It is full of navigable rivers. The land is very good on them, but the buildings are but mean. The land a little back of the rivers is unsettled, and appears to be very poor. The river St. Lawrence is sufficient for a large fleet of ships to come up to Montreal, one hundred and eighty miles from Quebeck. The river Sorel is navigable up to Chambly; besides many others which empty into the St. Lawrence. Till we have a fleet sufficient to come into the mouth of the river, it will be impossible for us to do anything in Canada. Had we taken Quebeck, we could not have kept it, as the enemy could come in with their fleet, and cut off all communication; and nothing has hurt our cause so much as coming to Canada, where, in my opinion, we had nothing to promise ourselves. Our Army have very much imposed upon the inhabitants, and promised them what they could never perform, which will set them against us; whereas, if we had never concerned ourselves with them, they would at least have remained neuter; and if, instead of spending our time, lives, and health, in Canada, we had been fortifying our own frontiers, we should now have been able to repel any force they could send.

We have lost a vast number of men with the small-pox, it being very mortal to those who took it the natural way; but our regiment has been remarkably preserved, and my company in particular. We have lost ten or eleven in the regiment, and those took the disease in the natural way. I led a company of seventy-six men into Canada, and brought them all out, seventy-four of whom had the small-pox while we remained there. One lad, belonging to the Cape, who thought he had had it before, took it the natural way, and died here at Crown-Point.

July 10. We have now been at Crown-Point eight days, and the sick considerably longer; and since their arrival, we have buried great numbers—some days not less than fifteen or twenty; but few have died, except with the small-pox. Some regiments which did not inoculate have lost many; and Colonel Read, in particular, says that, by the time it has gone through his regiment, he shall lose one-third of them. When we first came to this place, our men were very feeble. Besides all their fatigue, they were followed with severe fluxes. But they recruit very fast, having good ground to encamp upon, and good water to drink, and some fresh provisions; but have not yet had any vegetables of any kind. Here are likewise sutlers who have spirits of all kinds—wines, sugar, chocolate, &c., to sell, though at a very dear rate—sugar three shillings, lawful money, per pound, &c.

These are only the outlines; to relate every particular, would fill a volume; but I fear I have tired your patience already.

Your sincere friend and brother,

CHAS. CUSHING.

P. S. Please to give my regards to Colonel Lincoln, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Norton, and all friends, and let as many of them see this letter as have a mind to; for I have nothing against any one seeing it but the irregularity with which it is put together.

Hartford, July 8, 1776.

Last Wednesday passed through this place Governour Franklin, of New-Jersey, on his way to Governour Trumbull, at Lebanon; and last Saturday he returned from Lebanon to Wallingford, where he is stationed.

Friday last, a pack of Tory prisoners, forty-nine in number, taken some time since at Johnstown, were brought to this town, under a guard, from Albany, and delivered to the Committee for the disposition of prisoners in this Colony. We hear a number more of the same clan are on their way to this place.

Several regiments of Foot, ordered to be raised in this Colony, together with three regiments of the troop of Light-horse, have marched for New-York, to assist in the defence of the capital of that invaded Province.

Last week, twenty-two prisoners, taken from on board a barge belonging to the British fleet, as they were sounding the channel below New-York, arrived safe at Farmington.

ELISHA CORNISH TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Synsbury, July 8, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: The Committee of Inspection of this town, in conjunction with sundry of the members of the Committees of the towns of Farmington and New-Hartford, convened at said Symsbury, to consult upon matters of importance, that fall under their cognizance, taking into consideration the present situation of Newgate prison, beg leave to represent to your Honour, that, since sundry persons have been sentenced by the Superior Court of this Colony to said prison, as enemies to their country, who, it is generally apprehended, are not in safe custody; and since said present keeper has repeatedly manifested to said Committee and to others an uneasiness under the burden of his office, which uneasiness is not peculiar to him, but pervades the body of the people in these towns; in our opinion, some effectual measures should be taken to prevent the consequences which we apprehend may soon take place, to the detriment of the cause we are endeavouring to defend. Permit us to suggest to your Honour, whether it is not necessary, under the present situation, to secure said prison with a sufficient guard, under the conduct of such person or persons as your Honour shall think fit to appoint. Further, we entertain the most sanguine hopes, that in some future time, as speedily as may be, your Honour, in conjunction with the General Assembly, will cause an addition to be made to said prison-house, wherein a prison-keeper, to be appointed, may dwell. Such a step, we imagine, will be a mean of retrenching much unnecessary expense. The apprehensions of imminent danger have compelled us to take this measure. Any impropriety in it, your Honour will benevolently impute not to our arrogance, but to the love we bear our country.

We have the honour to be, your Honour's most obedient and most humble servants.

Per order of the Committee:

ELISHA CORNISH, Chairman.

BENJAMIN PAYNE TO JAMES WARREN.

Hartford, July 8, 1776.

By direction of the Committee for superintending prisoners of war in this Colony, I have to inform you that a certain John Graves, of Pittsfield, in your Province, was sent here by order of the Committee of said Pittsfield, some time in May last, he being accused of aiding and assisting Captain McKay, a prisoner stationed here, in making his escape, in direct violation of his parole. And said Graves being examined touching the matter, it evidently appeared, by his confession and other evidence, that he had made two journeys to Hartford in the course of the last Spring, the last of which was about the 17th of May, the time when said McKay escaped; that he (said Graves) was not only concerned in concerting measures for effecting said McKay's escape, but actually undertook and acted as his pilot, and when they had got as far as Pittsfield, furnished him (this man) with fresh horses. On which he was committed to the jail in this town, where he hath remained ever since in close confinement. He appears to be a low-spirited, insidious fellow, and to have entertained strong prejudices against the liberties of America, and no doubt ought to be brought to trial for his aforesaid offence; but as he is a subject of your Government, it is doubtless most proper that he should be brought to trial there, notwithstanding he so far perpetrated his crime here as to bring him within the jurisdiction of our Court; yet his estate, if he hath any, lieth in your Province, and the evidence (in case he should not on trial confess the matter) would most likely be more full and clear against him, not only to this particular crime, but with respect to his general character. Besides, to take up the subjects of one Government and carry them into another for trial, which might, with as great propriety, be had in the Colony where such offender belonged, may prove, on occasion of a misunderstanding between Colonies, of dangerous consequence at all times, but more especially at the present day; which on all occasions ought to be carefully avoided. It is therefore expected that your Assembly will take the affair into consideration, and give orders for his removal from hence to such place as they shall think proper, in your Province, in order to take his trial for his aforementioned offence.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most humble servant,
BENJAMIN PAYNE.

To the Honourable James Warren, Esq.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO JERATHNEEL BOWERS.

Watertown, July 8, 1776.

SIR: As it is of importance that the Colony vessels should be immediately equipped and fixed for sea, the Board have ordered me to desire you to use your utmost endeavours to have the two vessels (built under your directions for the use of the Colony) completely equipped and fixed as soon as may be. I am, sir, your humble servant,

JOHN AVERY, Deputy Secretary.

To Jerathmeel Bowers, Esq.

SAMUEL ELLIOT TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Boston, July 8, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: Some days past I did myself the honour of informing you (very briefly) of Captain Harding's engagement. I purpose forwarding the particulars as they appear upon trial, which is appointed to be on the 23d of this month. I am now just setting out for Reading, to obtain Colonel Campbell's deposition, which, with the other evidences, shall be duly handed you. I shall esteem it a favour in your Honour to inform Captain Harding (who will doubtless be with you by the time this reaches you) the trial is to be on the 23d, not 26th, as he was informed; as it is absolutely necessary that two intelligent persons who were on board the brig should attend the trial. Three days will make an amazing difference. There are many claimants; but my counsel affirms that half the ship George and brig Annabella will be adjudged to the Colony brigantine. Captain Harding will assign the particular reasons for leaving this port. It was the opinion of all his friends that he could not justify himself in staying while the small-pox was so prevalent in this place, and so many on board the brig liable to take the infection. We parted with regret. His polite and genteel carriage and easy deportment has gained the esteem of all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

I must request the favour of particular directions respecting those who had the misfortune to be wounded in the engagement. They have had the best attendance. I have discharged their bills, with the Captain's consent. If any allowance is made to them, it ought (I think) to be deducted. Captain Harding mentioned that an allowance of about thirty or forty pounds was to be made for the loss of a limb, but could not tell with respect to the others. I should be glad for it to be ascertained, as it should be taken out before there is any division.

I must beg your Honour's pardon for thus troubling you; but I thought it my duty to mention every (although some may be trivial) circumstance that I am in doubt of. With pleasure I would acquaint your Honour the prize brig Annabella is brought up, and laid along side Hancock's wharf. She is damaged, but not so much as I expected. There may be some directions necessary for regulating my conduct: your Honour may depend upon my strict observance and punctual fulfilment of any you shall at any time think necessary to favour me with.

I remain your Honour's most obedient and dutiful servant,

SAMUEL ELLIOT, Jun.,

Agent to Captain Harding.

P. S. Yesterday Captain Johnson, in a sloop of ten carriage guns, carried into Cape-Ann a large three-deck Jamaican, with near six hundred hogsheads best sugar, some rum, &c.; also, a brig loaded with rum from Antigua, both bound for London. She had been cruising about six weeks.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AMSTERDAM TO A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON, DATED JULY 9, 1776.

There is not a maritime nation in Europe but which privately carries on a trade with the British Colonies of North America: France and Spain in particular, who have the best opportunity for it. Witness, that commerce never flourished so much throughout all Europe as it has actually done since the beginning of the present American war. Thus Great Britain, formerly the provider of the whole globe, now suffers foreign nations to enrich themselves by trafficking with her own Colonies, while she is contending with them for power and vain superiority. The armament of France and Spain, which of late has so much taken up the notice of Europe, we now find to be for the following purpose: It is far from the intention of either of those two Powers to interrupt Great Britain whilst she is engaged in the present contest, but their views merely are, to carry on an open trade (warlike stores excepted) with the Colonies of North America. They argue thus: As the Colonies were kept in subjection by the mother country, the latter prevented other nations from dealing with them, and the former, through filial affection and mutual interest, submitted their trade to be monopolized by the mother country; but now, the ties being dissolved, the Colonies being declared as enemies, the monopoly ceases from itself, and every nation may go to market according to their interest. It was in the power of Great Britain to prohibit her Colonies to trade with foreigners, but it is not in her power to prescribe laws to other nations prohibiting them from trading with America; nor does it consist with the laws of nations; just as if Russia, as long as she was at war with the Ottoman Porte, would have prohibited all Europe from trading to Turkey. But if Great Britain should insist upon it that she has a right to prevent other nations from trafficking with North America, both France and Spain are determined to oppose her by force of arms; to which purpose a strong, united force of these two nations is cruising in the sea, merely to act in their own defence; and as it is impossible for Great Britain to submit to this, nothing is more sure than open hostilities, to be soon commenced at sea, which cannot fail of involving all Europe in a most horrid war.

THOMAS OLIVER TO DAVID PHIPS.

London, July 9, 1776.

DEAR SIR: This day I received your kind letter of the 9th of June. It gives me great pleasure, as it seems to carry with it a degree of satisfaction and contentment with your present situation. Happy I am that you did not leave Halifax, to encounter the expenses of this extravagant place. Every article of expense is increased fourfold since you knew it. What the many poor people will do who have steered their course this way, I cannot tell. Government, however disposed to relieve their necessities, will not be able to answer their numerous claims. Every Province of America affords its petitioners, and I apprehend the number of them will prevent the gratification of any.

I think it my duty, in point of friendship, to give you this hint; but keep it to yourself, lest it may be construed to a kind of reflection which I do not mean. Upon the score of secrecy, let me hint to you, that your friend General Gage is entirely in the private walk of life; he could not serve you; therefore, my good friend, you must be content to wait with patience the event of things. If any opening occurs, I will not fail to advise you of it.

I found Mrs. Oliver well, and settled in a little snug house at Bromton, in the neighbourhood of London. But I shall continue here no longer than I am able to find an economical retreat. I have not had time to look about me yet; some cheaper part of England must be the object of my inquiry. Colonel Vassall is at present in our neighbourhood, but he means to take a house in London, at the court end of the town, and enjoy the comforts of a plentiful fortune, at least for one winter.

We received the account of our successes in Canada about ten days before the arrival of your letters. It would have given me great pleasure to have received first from you. You know it would have given me an opportunity to have shown them to your advantage—"a word to the wise." If anything occurs which you think important, let me have it by the first opportunity. Direct to Lieutenant-Governor Oliver, London; it will be sufficient.

I hope this will find you, Mrs. P., and family, well, and as happy as your circumstances will admit; in which I shall ever take the part of a sincere friend and well-wisher.

THO. OLIVER.

To David Phips, Esq., Halifax.

COLONEL DORSEY TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Elk-Ridge, July 9, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received yours of yesterday, in consequence of which, have ordered the Elk-Ridge battalion to meet immediately, and will send the number of men required to Annapolis. Colonel John Dorsey tells me that you desire a company of the Flying-Camp might be sent, if they were made up. On inquiry, I find that there is no company near full, though perhaps on the day the battalion meets they may make up their number; if so, they will immediately march down; otherwise will find a company of Militia, which I imagine will be with you on Saturday. By a letter I have just received from Mr. Paca, I find the Congress have passed a resolve that the Militia of Maryland march to Philadelphia. I shall be glad to hear from your Honours on that head as soon as possible.

I am, with respect, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,
THOMAS DORSEY.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

STEPHEN STEWART TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 9, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have yours of yesterday, with a list of vessels. There are many people that have vessels who would be glad to get your money for them, whether they were suitable for your use or not. Will have as fine a vessel of our own as almost any in this bay, and goes pretty fast; I want to sell her very much, but am afraid she would not answer the end you want her for. Mr. Sprigg's snow goes fast, and is well calculated to be lengthened, by putting ten feet in her. She will draw but little water, and I think will go very fast; but I may be mistaken in her sailing, though she certainly sails fast now. I will be off on Friday, and go to Baltimore for you, or the Eastern-Shore; though your business requires my being in the yard, I will do what you think most advantageous for the Province. I think to get Captain Kilty to go to the Eastern-Shore, and will get him to come up with me for that purpose. I think the most of those vessels you send a list of, must be in Nanticoke and Wicomico. As these two rivers are blocked up, how are you to get them out, if they should suit your purpose? John Ball has applied to me to get the building of one of the row-galleys; which I have no objection to, if you think well of it. The more of them that are building in our yard, the more hands will be employed; therefore we shall be better able to protect them from the enemy; though I should be glad Mr. Ball and every honest man should have part of the Province business.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,
STEPHEN STEWART.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

Philadelphia, July 9, 1776.

SIR: I am so engaged in the execution of the resolves of Congress, that I have only time to transmit you the enclosed resolutions respecting your department; and, indeed, they are so explicit as not to require any addition.

I wish you happy, and am, with sentiments of esteem, sir, your very humble servant,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Joseph Trumbull, Esq., Commissary-General.

JOSIAH BARTLETT TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, July 9, 1776.

SIR: Your highly esteemed favour of the 18th ultimo, enclosing the instructions to join with the other Colonies in declaring these United Colonies free and independent States, came very seasonably to hand. As we were so happy as to agree in sentiment with our constituents, it gave us the greater pleasure to concur with the Delegates of the other Colonies in the enclosed Declaration, which was yesterday published in form in this city, and is to be published at the head of the Army at New-York next Thursday. A plan of Confederation is now forming, which, when finished, will be transmitted to each Colony for their approbation.

Major Rogers (whose conduct, it seems, was suspicious) was taken up some time since by order of General Washington, and sent under guard to this city. He requested leave to go to England, by way of the West-Indies; but Congress, not thinking it proper, have directed him to be sent to New-Hampshire, to be disposed of as the authority there shall think best.

We have the honour to be, with great respect, your most obedient servants,
JOSIAH BARTLETT,
WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

To Colonel Weare.

LEWIS GORDON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

In Committee, Easton, July 9, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: This Committee acknowledges the receipt of your letter of the 3d instant, by express; and being truly sensible of the critical and alarming state of our publick affairs, will most cordially comply with every resolve of the Continental Congress to sustain and promote the cause of liberty in America. This Committee, however, are entirely at a loss how to send any troops immediately out of this country, as no measures have hitherto been taken to raise men for forming a Flying-Camp; neither had we had the least intimation of such a requisition before we received your letter.

To remedy this defect as well as possible, we propose instantly to take out of our four battalions a proportional number, so as in the whole to compose a body of three hundred and forty-six men, which appears by General Roberdeau's letter of the 6th instant to be our quota of Associators allotted by the late conference of Committees for this County; but we are at the same time utterly unprovided with money, nor have we so much gunpowder nor lead as to carry the men to New-Brunswick. As to the article of tin for kettles, we are told there is none in the country; and we pray that some proper steps may be taken to furnish us immediately with those articles, to avoid delay as much as possible.

By order of the Committee:

LEWIS GORDON, Chairman.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. We could not avoid detaining the express till this moment, being eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

COMMODORE HOPKINS TO CAPTAIN HACKER.

Philadelphia, July 9, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of the 5th instant, and think you are pretty well hemmed in. I think it best you should keep your vessel in the best posture of defence you can, and assist the common cause all in your power with your sloop; but should it so happen that you can't help falling into the enemy's hands, you are to destroy the sloop, rather than let them get her. You will continue thereabouts, and do what service you can until further orders. You may draw for any supplies you may want.

I am, sir, your friend, &c.,

E. HOPKINS.

To Hoysed Hacker, Esq., Commander of the Fly, at Brunswick or Amboy.

ADVICES FROM THE INDIANS BY GEORGE MORGAN.

Philadelphia, August-15, 1776.

George Morgan, Esq., arrived in Philadelphia from the westward on Saturday, the 10th of August. On the 9th of July, whilst at one of the Shawanese towns on the Scioto, he received intelligence of three Six-Nation warriors having passed by there with two prisoners they had taken, sixteen days before, from Virginia. Mr. Morgan followed, and got to their own town before them, prevented the usual punishment of the prisoners on their entry, and insisted on their being immediately delivered up to them, unless they intended this breach of the peace as an open declaration of war. All the headmen of the Six-Nations, Shawanese, and Delawares, who were called together on this occasion, behaved in a very friendly manner, and joined with Mr. Morgan in his demand made to the warriors, who soon complied therewith, and were promised forgiveness, on condition of future good behaviour. These warriors told Mr. Morgan they had done no other damage, except they killed a young man they shot at when they took these prisoners; but he made his escape, though they believed the ball entered his breast. The prisoners are twin sons of Andrew McConnel, late of Pennsylvania, who removed last winter to Leestown, on Kentucky River, and were taken within a few hundred yards of the town. Mr. Morgan brought them to Pittsburgh, and delivered them to their uncle in Westmoreland County, in this Province.

Since then, a small party of Shawanese, in returning from the Cherokee country, killed and scalped two persons near the Big Bone Lick. They were pursued by a few of the neighbours, who killed and scalped two of the Indians; the others escaped. This breach is also likely to be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, as the headmen had expressed great concern at the conduct of their foolish young people, and promise to do all in their power to preserve our friendship. A treaty is to be held at Pittsburgh with the western Indians the beginning of October, when it is hoped they will listen to and follow their true interest, as they have promised to do.

The chiefs of the Six-Nations met in council at Onondaga, on the 18th, 19th, and 20th days of last June, promised Mr. Morgan to call all their warriors from Canada, and to listen to the Thirteen United States of America, being convinced that their advice was for their true interest, as they have no business to join either side in the present war between Great Britain and America. They accordingly sent off a party for the above purpose the 22d of June, and another party to Niagara, to insist on Colonel Butler's bringing all their people safe back immediately. They likewise sent off two large belts to the Lake and other western Indians, to inform them of their determination, and to desire they will also sit still.

CAPTAIN CRAWFORD (PRISONER) TO JASPER YEATES.

Reading, July 9, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Nesbitt, of Philadelphia, was so kind as to give me the enclosed letter, which, if I could have got a passport from the Congress, should have delivered myself when I had the pleasure of seeing you at Lancaster. You will see by the contents it is to assist me in procuring money for the soldiers of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment who are prisoners at your town. I beg, therefore, if Captain Strong, of said regiment, should be in want some time hence, on account of my not being able to get over, that you will be so obliging as to assist him, whose orders on me shall be punctually repaid at Messrs. Conyngham & Nesbitt's, as I shall advise them. Being unknown to you, sir, I must beg your pardon most particularly for this intrusion; and remain, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

JOHN CRAWFORD,

Captain and Paymaster to Twenty-Sixth Regiment.

To Jasper Yeates, Esq., Lancaster.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 11, 1776.]

In Provincial Congress, Trenton, July 9, 1776.

SIR: By a letter this day received from General Livingston, enclosing a copy of one from General Washington, we seem to be called upon to make provision for the entire defence of our own shores against the British forces at Staten-Island.

As our funds are very inadequate to this purpose, it becomes absolutely necessary that we know immediately what we are to depend upon in this very important article, that we may set about providing money, provisions, and ammunition.

We had thought that Congress would provide for the defence of every part of the continent; that for this end our brigade was to be formed for the defence of New-York in part; that the Flying-Camp was to protect such parts of the Middle Department as was on this side of the North River. And when we heard that General Mercer was appointed to the command in New-Jersey, we hoped provision would be made by the Continental Congress for the necessary supplies of the Army in this Colony, as well as for their pay.

Our Militia from the eastern Counties have turned out in great numbers, but they are very destitute, General Livingston informs us, of everything except provisions. When their place shall be filled, as we hope it will be, by the Militia of Pennsylvania and the Flying-Camp, and our people discharged to attend their business at home, which is very pressing at this season, they will expect pay. Must we pay them ourselves? Must we supply them with ammunition, &c.? We have no other resources but an application to the Continental Congress for the latter and as to money. They are in the place of the Flying-Camp—we contribute to the general defence of the continent, to the defence of New-York, of Boston, of Virginia, of the Carolinas. When we are pressed by the stroke of war in our turn, are we alone to sustain the burden? The continent we apprehend should defend the continent. We are loath to strike more money. Taxes to any very great amount would be highly imprudent at this time.

What are we to do?—what to expect? You will forgive us if we beg you to be explicit and speedy in your answer, as the exigency admits of no delay.

Colonel Broadhead, by our advice, has marched forward to Amboy, the Tories in Monmouth having been already crushed by our Militia. His presence at Amboy will not be unseasonable. We are, sir, your most humble servants.

By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. We omitted to mention that General Washington has dismissed a great part of our Militia from New-York, with orders to put themselves under General Livingston's direction in New-Jersey.

JOSEPH BARTON TO HENRY WISNER.

Newton, Sussex County, Jersey, July 9, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I received your favour of the 5th instant, relating to flint-stones. I have sent a sample of the flint our country abounds in. If there can be any way of manufacturing that sort of flint to any advantage, there is enough of it; besides, there are two other sorts—a red flint (which is found about Menesint, which far exceeds any flint imported from Europe) and a green. The green flint which I have sent you is better than the common sort of flint used. It is harder, and will fire oftener without sharpening. Besides these mentioned, there is a black flint, commonly found incorporated with limestone. Our country abounds in great plenty of this sort. I have often made use of it for gun-flints, but don't think they are equal to the other sorts. Another sort we sometimes use, which we call the crystal flint, resembling the diamond amongst us. They are commonly small, but at Membacas, near Esopus, they are very large. Could they be manufactured, would far exceed any imported. But, sir, we want none of the flint here: you may have them all, for we have no powder, which gives great uneasiness to the people in general, as we expect an Indian war, should our forces fail to the northward. For my own part, could I procure powder at forty shillings, should embrace the opportunity. As to lead, there is a good lead-mine at Nepenoh. I have used the lead oftentimes: we could help ourselves to that article.

I pray, if in your power, you would order powder, if it were but a quarter of a pound, each man. I should rest much easier for my part, and think we could defend ourselves, if attacked by our enemies, in some measure; but now we have nothing but our axes or sticks to fight with, should we be attacked. As to the lead mine, I could wish it might be worked in; I should be glad to undertake that matter, and would give considerable towards it myself. I have sent three different sorts of flint stone—the black is the limestone flint.

Sir, it gives a great turn to the minds of our people declaring our independence. Now we know what to depend on. For my part, I have been at a great stand: I could hardly own the King, and fight against him at the same time; but now these matters are cleared up. Heart and hand shall move together. I don't think there will be five Tories in our part of the country in ten days after matters are well known. We have had great numbers who would do nothing until we were declared a free State, who now are ready to spend their lives and fortunes in defence of our country.

I must, my dear friend, bid you farewell. May the Supreme Judge of all things sit at the head of our affairs, and give that great and august body, the Congress, wisdom to govern us, and by their wisdom make this continent a great and happy empire. I expect a great turn one way or the other before I see you again.

I am, sir, your loving and affectionate cousin,

JOSEPH BARTON.

To Henry Wisner, Esq.

N. B. I believe, sir, could the gentlemen see one Island in the drowned land near Jacobus Ducker's, called Flint-Island, they would think we could supply all Europe with gun-flints, besides our own country.

J. B.

IBBETSON HAMER (PRISONER OF WAR) TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Kingsberry, near Trenton, July 9, 1776.

SIR: I have some reason to believe that you have done me the favour to answer a former letter written you, which I have not been so fortunate as to receive. The reason of this my second application, is on account of a late order of the Continental Congress for removing the officers to the interior part of Pennsylvania; and as I suppose the order supersedes the leave you was so kind as to give me to reside near Princeton, I now take the liberty to acquaint you, that on my application to Mr. Tucker, he recommended it to me to make this application to you for leave to remain in the same quarter for some time longer, with permission to come as far as Trenton.

I should not have made this application, but for some circumstances which have happened, and which make it of the utmost consequence to my future happiness. Doctor Bryant, with whom I am now, is the bearer of this, and returns in a day or two, by whom I hope to be favoured with your answer.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

IBBETSON HAMER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., at Philadelphia.

GENERAL MERCER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Amboy, July 9, 1776.

SIR: Nothing extraordinary has happened here. The frigate that appeared yesterday under sail, standing towards the town, is now out of view—supposed to be in Prince's Bay. At this post and the Blazing-Star, are posted about one thousand of the New-Jersey Militia. They begin to be so anxious to return to their harvest, under the apprehension of their families' being without support, if they continue longer, that I have permitted a draught from each company to be discharged—about two hundred in all, and have assured the others they shall be relieved when the Pennsylvania Militia arrive.

Ten or twelve days hence the harvest, I am told, will be secured; when it is so, the Militia will return on duty with pleasure, and in the mean time will assemble at the first summons. Some troops from Pennsylvania are now at Brunswick; but whether they are composed of the Militia, or those intended to form the Flying-Camp, I have not yet been informed.

The enemy on the point, in view of town, appear to be but few—works of defence thrown up—two pieces of field artillery only.

We have found a convenient and strong situation for fixing an encampment within a mile of Amboy; but if the body of men intended to encamp here are to cover not only this Province, but Philadelphia, or occasionally march to New-York, I should think Brunswick, as being most central to all those, would be the most proper place to rendezvous. It seems to me most eligible to relieve the Jersey Militia with whatever troops come immediately from Pennsylvania; and about twelve days after, when their harvest is secured, to call them in to guard their own coast, or go upon any other necessary service. This, I am persuaded, they will do with the utmost celerity.

The present situation of the enemy discovers no intention of their attacking us; it rather points out an attempt on their quarters, which being made at once at different places, would probably succeed.

The contractors for the Army here (Colonels Denham and Lowrey) tell me they have a good stock of pickled pork—upwards of eighty thousand pounds. Any quantity of live-stock and flour necessary for our supplies, may be at once procured. Colonel Putnam will give his sentiments as to the practicability of defending this town. I fear it will require more cannon and ammunition than can be spared at present. As soon as I can procure returns of the ammunition and artillery in this Province, I shall communicate them.

I have the honour to be, sir, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

H. MERCER.

To General Washington.

CAPTAIN CREGIER TO THOMAS RANDALL.

Shrewsburytown, July 9, 1776.

WORTHY SIR: After my due respects to you and your honourable House, I am to inform you what has brought me to this place. You must, in the first place, know my business here is to draw on you for some cash, which Mr. John Murray has supplied me with—sixteen pounds sixteen shillings—on account of my schooner General Putnam, for which I have given a bill payable at three days' sight, which I hope will meet with honour. I should not have come this far, but I understood at Squam Inlet, where I left my vessel this morning, that there was a letter here for me; but it has been intercepted. Sir, on the 5th of this instant, being about nine miles distant to the southeast of Egg-Harbour, I saw two sail standing to the northward; I then gave them chase, the wind being light; I got out my oars, and rowed until three o'clock in the afternoon, when the wind came to the southwest. After eleven hours' chase, I drew near them. I then shortened sail, and got all clear for action. At four in the afternoon, I got within one hundred and seventy yards of the sternmost ship, in order to board her; but she, putting her helm hard a starboard, hauled up her ports, and gave me her whole broadside of ten guns. She proved to be a Ministerial pirate of twenty guns. I hauled my wind in for the shore; she did the same, and continued firing without intermission. When I was within four hundred yards of the shore, I made a small tack, but being very near her, I received her whole broadside, at which I hove about, and ran ashore about forty yards from Squam Inlet. I then got all my arms and ammunition on the beach, and the ship came to anchor about a quarter of a mile from us, and began a heavy firing upon us, and continued their fire for near half an hour, when at last she hoisted out two barges and manned them with about fifty men; but as they approached the shore, we handled them so roughly that they were obliged to make a scandalous retreat. She continued her fire until dark, when she weighed, expending upward of four hundred pounds of powder. I had seventeen large holes in my mainsail, and some shot in my hull. When the tide made, I got my vessel into this inlet, where I will repair as soon as possible, and hope to pay the pirates for this usage.

I am, sir, your humble servant, THOMAS CREGIER.

To Thomas Randall, Esquire, Member of the Provincial Congress, or in his absence, Jacobus Van Zandt, Esquire, Member as aforesaid.

P. S. They were both ships. The money I have taken up of Mr. Murray is to defray some expenses I am at for the vessel, and to purchase a little spirits for my people, who (some of them) are sick drinking the bad water that is on this coast. If you have any further orders for me, direct for me at James Randall's, at Cranberry. There has not been any vessel arrived in any of the inlets these six weeks past, which much surprises me. Please to deliver the enclosed letter.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 9, 1776.

SIR: By a letter received by Congress from Mr. Thomas Green, copy of which they did me the honour to enclose, I have the pleasure to hear of the arrival of Captain Chase, with a valuable cargo, at Providence. And as that honourable body have been pleased to order the flints at Rhode-Island belonging to the Continent, to be sent to me here, (as per their resolution enclosed,) I would therefore request you would cause it to be done without the smallest delay, together with the small-arms which came in the vessel. As to the duck, if it is of the kind suitable for tents, either the whole or part, I should be greatly obliged to you if you would order them made up as fast as possible, and forwarded to Norwich; but if it is coarse and stubborn, and of a quality unfit for the above purpose, it will be unnecessary to give yourself any trouble about the matter.

I am very sorry I cannot spare you a General Officer, agreeable to your desire, to take command of the forces belonging to Rhode-Island, but in the present critical juncture it is utterly out of my power to comply with your request. General Mercer is the only officer who has no brigade assigned him; and at a time when we are in constant expectation of some important movement of the enemy, his presence is so necessary here that it cannot possibly be dispensed with. The best expedient that can be fallen upon, I presume, would be to give the command to the senior officer of the troops till a Brigadier is appointed.

I have only to add, that I am, with much respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable Nicholas Cooke, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 9, 1776.

SIR: Yours of the — instant is safely come to hand. Colonel Seymour arrived yesterday with a few of his men, when I sent for and acquainted him it would be impossible for me to have his horses remain here. Forage is not to be procured; and if it could, it would only be a great expense, without a single advantage arising from it.

The men are absolutely necessary, till the arrival of the new levies. Colonel Seymour is to propose the matter to them this morning, and return me an answer. We have intelligence that may be relied on, of Lord Howe being on his passage for this place, with a large fleet and about fifteen thousand men, and is hourly expected. By several deserters from Staten-Island and the ships of war, whose accounts all agree, we learn that General Howe proposes no attempt on us till the arrival of this reinforcement, when, it is said, with a part of his army he will make a descent on the Jersey side, while the fleet and the other part of the army in conjunction, attack this city. To oppose this force, in which the Ministry put so much confidence, I think it necessary to exert our every nerve, and, by defeating their views this campaign, be enabled to meet them with double advantage the next. Should they think proper to pursue their unwarrantable measures, I hope the good people of your Colony or State will be ready on all occasions to fly to our assistance, if needed; I have a confidence in them, and doubt not they will be ready and willing.

To prevent the enemy from obtaining fresh provisions, is a matter highly necessary to be attended to. I am informed that there are great quantities on the Islands in the neighbourhood of New-London, viz: Fisher's, Block, Plumb, and Elizabeth Islands, and Martha's Vineyard; these are accessible to ships of force, and no doubt they will soon be on a plundering voyage. I could wish your attention to this matter, that the stock might all be removed quite out of reach of the enemy. The east end of Long-Island, I am told, is not less exposed than the others. I think effectual steps will be taken in regard to that, as I have had a conference with the Convention of this Province, and an order has gone out for driving all the stock from the sea-coasts.

In the conference of a full board of General Officers yesterday, it was recommended that I should apply to your Honour for the three row-galleys, being now at New-London, or in the river, together with as many heavy cannon as you can possibly spare; they are what will be much wanted here; and if you find it consistent, would beg you to forward them on as soon as possible.

I would not have it understood, from what I have said above in regard to the Horse, that I think their coming forward a wrong step. I think it a step which was highly advisable, and am much pleased to see with what cheerfulness and despatch your orders were executed. This body of Horse, provided they are well armed with good muskets, must always be of greater service, on sudden emergencies to throw in succours when called for, than the Militia.

I have the honour to be, with esteem, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull, of the State of Connecticut.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, July 9, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed Declaration will show you that Congress, at length impelled by necessity, have dissolved the connexion between the American Colonies and Great Britain, and declared them free and independent States; and in compliance with their order, I am to request you will cause this Declaration to be immediately proclaimed at the head of the Continental Regiments in the Massachusetts-Bay.

It being evident from a variety of concurring circumstances, that the British armies mean to direct their most vigorous operations this campaign against the State of New-York, to penetrate into it by way of the Lakes and the North River, and to unite their attacks, the importance of it has induced Congress to take further measures for baffling their designs and rendering it more secure. You will see by the resolves now transmitted, that the Northern Army is to be augmented by part of the troops under your command; and I do desire that you will immediately detach for that purpose three of the fullest regiments forthwith to march to Ticonderoga, or such other place as the said Army may be at, and put themselves under the order and directions of the General Officer commanding the same.

You will also perceive that Congress have resolved that the arms taken in the Scotch transports should be sent here. The President informs me that he has written to the agents respecting them; but as I presume they are in your possession, or in some of the stores by your order, you will have the whole of them forwarded with all possible despatch, in the usual route, and with necessary directions.

Congress have made some alteration in the establishment of Chaplains, and advanced their pay, as they have that of the Regimental Surgeons, as you will see by their proceedings, copies of which in these instances are also transmitted.

You will be particularly attentive to hastening the march of the three regiments, and give proper orders for their route, and to the Commissary and Quartermaster, that everything necessary for the same may be immediately provided. Their aid is much wanted, and may be of the utmost importance. When they have marched, you will be pleased to put the remaining regiments under the command of the oldest Colonel, with such instructions as you may judge necessary, and then retire, if it shall be agreeable to you, for the recovery of your health, as I cannot possibly request you longer to continue; and wishing you a speedy restoration of it, I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Ward.

P. S. I would have you consult with proper persons, and some of the members of the General Court, respecting the route of the three regiments to be detached to the Northern Army. And if they shall be of opinion, that they may probably arrive there as soon if they come to Norwich and embark from thence for Albany, I should think that would be most preferable, for two reasons: First, it will ease the troops of much fatigue; and, secondly, they might, if there was a necessity for it, afford succour here as they passed. I do not mean to give any direction in the matter; nor do I wish this mode to be adopted, unless there appears to be a probability of their arriving where they are intended to be sent by Congress, as early as if they pursued their march by land and across the country.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

New-York, July 9, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You will perceive by the enclosed Declaration, which I have the honour to transmit to you, that Congress of late have been employed in deliberating on matters of the utmost importance. Impelled by necessity and a repetition of injuries insufferable, without the most distant prospect of relief, they have asserted the claims of the American Colonies to the rights of humanity, and declared them free and independent States.

Judging, from a variety of circumstances, that the British arms are meant to be directed this campaign against the State of New-York to effect its reduction, Congress have empowered me to order the three fullest regiments of their troops in the Massachusetts-Bay to reinforce our Northern Army, as you will see by a copy of their resolve, which I have enclosed. I have accordingly, by the advice of my General Officers, requested General Ward to detach them with all possible expedition to join that Army, and prevent the fatal and alarming consequences that would result from the enemy's passing the Lakes and making an impression on our frontiers. I am almost morally certain that no attempts will be made on the Massachusetts-Bay; and if there should, they must prove abortive and ineffectual—the Militia, independent of other troops, being more than competent to all the purposes of defensive war. However, should it be deemed expedient by your honourable body, Congress have authorized you to embody and take into pay a number of Militia equal to the regiments to be detached.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. General Court of Massachusetts-Bay.

Resolve for sending three Regiments from MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, to reinforce the Northern Army.

In Congress, July 4, 1776.

Resolved, That General Washington be empowered, if he shall judge it advisable, to order three of the fullest Regiments stationed in Massachusetts-Bay to be immediately marched to Ticonderoga, and that an equal number of the Militia of that State be taken into pay, and embodied for its defence, if the Government of Massachusetts-Bay judge it necessary.

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

The fourth instant was rendered remarkable by the most important event that ever happened to the American Colonies; an event which will doubtless be celebrated through a long succession of future ages, by anniversary commemorations, and be considered as a grand era in the history of the American States. On this auspicious day, the Representatives of the Thirteen United Colonies, by the providence of God, unanimously agreed to, and voted a Proclamation, declaring the said Colonies free and independent States, which was proclaimed at the State-House, in Philadelphia, on Monday last, and received with joyful acclamations. Copies were also distributed to all the United Colonies. On Tuesday last, it was read at the head of each Brigade of the Continental Army posted at and near New-York, and everywhere received with loud huzzas, and the utmost demonstrations of joy.

The same evening, the equestrian statue of George III., which Tory pride and folly raised in the year 1770, was, by the sons of freedom, laid prostrate in the dirt, the just desert of an ungrateful tyrant! The lead wherewith this monument was made is to be run into bullets, to assimilate with the brain of our infatuated adversaries, who, to gain a peppercorn, have lost an empire.*

DUTCHESS COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

In General Committee,
Dutchess County, July 9, 1776. }

This is to certify, that John R. Livingston proved to the satisfaction of this Committee, by his own affidavit and the affidavits of the principal millwright and principal manufacturer, that his Powder-Mill in this County was completed before the 20th day of May last, and that the quantity of one thousand pounds of good merchantable gunpowder was manufactured at the said mill in one week, or seven days successively. By order of the Committee:

EGBERT BENSON, Chairman.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO CAPTAIN SHAW.

Lebanon, July 9, 1776.

SIR: On receipt of this, you are desired to prepare and forthwith transmit to me a particular account of the cannon left at New-London by Commodore Hopkins, their number, size, bore, and weight, how they are disposed of, and where to be found at this time; also, an account of the other cannon at New-London belonging to the Colony, their number, size, bore, and weight; particularly distinguished from those brought in by Commodore Hopkins. There is high probability that the fortifications building at the harbour of New-London will be at Continental expense. I thank you for yours of yesterday. The law has made provision for the supply of Captain Richard Deshon. The arms you imported may be purchased by the Selectmen, and paid by order to the Pay-Table for that end.

From your humble servant, JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Captain Nathaniel Shaw, Jun., New-London.

P. S. Please send me also, by itself, an account of the stores left by the Commodore, and how we are provided for necessities for the cannon, shot, &c.

* Lord Clare, in the House of Commons, declared that a peppercorn, in acknowledgment of Britain's right to tax America, was of more importance than millions without it.

WILLIAM HILLHOUSE TO NATHANIEL SHAW.

Lebanon, July 9, 1776.

SIR: The Colony arms to be divided among the towns that I spoke to you about. New-London's share is seventeen, which may be had at Captain Brainard's, at Hadam. Mr. Hosmer, I suppose, has given orders accordingly.

I am, sir, your humble servant, WM. HILLHOUSE.
To Mr. Nathaniel Shaw.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, July 9, 1776.

SIR: The small-pox in our northern Army carries with it a much greater dread than our enemies. Our men dare to face them, but are not willing to go into a Hospital. I wish to have every precaution taken to prevent the spread of that infection. Surely, by care and good discipline, the infected may be cleansed, and a stop put to its progress. To promote this design, and afford every assistance in my power, I have sent up Major John Ely, a gentleman skilled in that distemper, whose fidelity may be relied on, to consult and assist in the matter. I shall coöperate in every measure tending to the security of the rights of the Colonies. The two battalions from this Colony will come on soon; beg they may be preserved from the infection. The two companies of ship carpenters will begin their march the beginning of this week. One meets at Middletown this day. I have written you by Captain Winslow. Captain Lester will follow soon. Do not doubt you will find both, with their companies, skilful workmen, and answerable to your expectations. They bring their tools. Neither of the head workmen, and but few of the others, have had the small-pox.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Major-General Schuyler.

MOSES MORSE TO COMMANDING OFFICER AT CROWN-POINT.

Worthington, July 9, 1776.

SIR: I am directed by the General Court of Massachusetts-Bay forthwith to send an express to Head-Quarters at Crown-Point, requesting the true state of the Army in that department, and the danger that the country is in at present from that quarter. Would inform that three thousand men are preparing with all expedition to come to the relief of that part of the country. Also, fifteen hundred more are ordered by the Continental Congress to be raised for that department. Boston is become a hospital with the small-pox. Also, have enclosed a copy of a resolve for a post-rider. Have appointed Joshua Morse, of Worthington, for the present.

Am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

MOSES MORSE.

To the chief Commanding Officer at Crown-Point.

"In the House of Representatives, July 6, 1776.

"Resolved, That Jonathan Brown, Esq., Doctor Moses Morse, Mr. Benjamin Guild, Oliver Wendell, Esq., and Major Jacob Davis, be a Committee to agree with two suitable persons to ride post to Crown-Point once a week until the last day of November next; and that the said Post take such route as the Committee aforesaid shall think best—the said Post to start from and return to Watertown until the further orders of this Court.

"And it is further Resolved, That some person be appointed at Watertown by the Committee aforesaid to receive and deliver such Letters as shall not be delivered before said Post's arrival at Watertown; and that all Letters to or from any persons in the Army be carried free of charge.

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

PETITION OF THE INHABITANTS OF TRURO, MASSACHUSETTS.

To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY in General Court assembled at WATERTOWN, July 9, 1776, the Petition and Memorial of the subscribers humbly show:

At a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Truro, legally warned, and held on the 9th of July, 1776, moved and voted, that Israel Gross, Reuben Higgins, and Sylvanus Snow, be a Committee to draft a petition to the honourable Council and House of Representatives for an easement of our Colony taxes; which is as followeth:

We, your petitioners, do humbly address your Honours to take into your wise consideration the many difficulties your petitioners at this time feel and labour under.

Firstly. The sandy and lightness of our soil, which is much blown over to sand, does not afford more than half a sufficient supply to support our inhabitants; and as Cape-Cod harbour is open to the enemy, and no convenient harbour in this town, we are at a great expense in transporting the most of our necessities from other places.

Secondly. The enormous loss we sustain by being restrained from our whale and cod fishery, which was our greatest support, besides a dormant and wasting substance of our vessels.

Thirdly. The exposed situation we are in to our unnatural enemies; as this town is a narrow neck of land, not short of twelve miles in length, and from a mile and a half to a half mile in breadth, and makes one side of Cape-Cod harbour, where the enemy may anchor in safety, and land and rob us of our stock, burn our buildings, and retreat off, before we can be reinforced from our neighbouring towns.

Fourthly. And that by reason of our distressed situation, from four years taxes our constables cannot gather enough to support our reverend pastor; as we were ever willing to pay the first money collected into the Province treasury, and left the town treasury empty; for which reason our schools, for six months past, have entirely ceased, and many of our necessary town charges remain unpaid; besides a great number of poor families, widows, and fatherless children, depend on the charity of the town; and although the greatest part of our men have gone into the war, yet we expect they will bring but little to support their families, by reason of extraordinary expenses. All of which your petitioners think it our indispensable duty not to conceal, but humbly to present it to this honourable Court, praying that your Honours, by taking our hard lot into your most serious consideration, would be pleased, so far to consider us as to cause an easement in our Colony taxes; and your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

By order of the Committee:

ISRAEL GROSS, Chairman.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO GENERAL WARD.

Watertown, July 9, 1776.

SIR: The Board was this day informed that you had given liberty to a number of Continental troops now stationed at Winter-Hill, to receive the small-pox by inoculation. The Board are unwilling to credit such a report, as there is an act of this Colony prohibiting inoculation except in the town of Boston. They therefore request, if you have given out any such orders, that you would immediately recall them, that the good people of Medford, &c., may be relieved of their apprehensions; and desire your Honour would not permit any of the troops under your command to receive the small-pox by inoculation, in any other town except the town of Boston.

To the Honourable Artemas Ward, Esq.

GENERAL WARD TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, July 9, 1776.

SIR: I am now to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of this day; and in answer thereto, say, there is no Continental troops at or near Winter-Hill, except a guard at the powder magazine, and they have all had the small-pox.

Yesterday the Selectmen of Medford applied to me for leave to make use of one of the barracks at or near Winter-Hill for a small-pox hospital, the small-pox having broken out in said town. I gave them leave to take some of them.

for that purpose. I thought then, and I think now, I had a right so to do.

I am, sirs, yours, and the honourable Board's most obedient and very humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To the Honourable John Avery.

BARNSTABLE (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

MESSIEURS PRINTERS: Please to give the following a place in your next, and you will oblige a friend, and help to vindicate the injured:

In the Watertown paper of last Monday, I then being in Boston, had the mortification to see a piece most artfully dressed up in the form of a Protest,* against the proceedings of the town of Barnstable, in a late meeting of theirs, which was held to choose a Representative in the room of that truly honourable gentleman, lately admitted to the Board.

These respectable gentlemen (as the protestors are pleased to call themselves) have endeavoured to make it appear, by their representation of the matter, that the town of Barnstable, in voting not to instruct their Representative, did positively give their sentiments as a town against the measure of Independency, even if the Congress should see fit to adopt it; and that they did thereby absolutely refuse to support such a determination, however necessary it may appear to the wisdom of the Continent. The subscriber to this, being an inhabitant of the town of Barnstable, and present at the said meeting, humbly requests the candid publick that they would for the present suspend their judgment of this matter (which, as it has been represented, must appear in the most unfavourable light) until such time as an attested copy of the above mentioned proceedings can be procured and made publick, when he hopes it will appear, not that the late Protest was designed as a malevolent aspersion of the town, but that the representation therein exhibited has not the truth for its foundation; in the mean time, I am the respectable protestors' humble servant,

STURGIS GORHAM.

Boston, July 9, 1776.

JOSEPH OTIS ON THE PROCEEDINGS AT BARNSTABLE.

Barnstable, July 18, 1776.

Mr. EDES: By Powers & Willis's paper of the 11th July I find an inhabitant of the town of Barnstable greatly mortified at a piece in your paper, dressed up in form of a Protest, and with a sneer at the persons whose names were annexed to the account, "begging the candid publick to suspend their judgment." Who dressed up the piece that gave him so much mortification I pretend not to say. But surely he showed but little address in taxing the protestors against

* We, the subscribers, inhabitants of the town of Barnstable, protest against the proceedings of said town, at their meeting held on Tuesday, 25th of June instant, respecting their giving the Representatives instructions with regard to the independency of the Colonies, as it was recommended to the several towns in this Colony, by way of resolve from the honourable House of Representatives: and as a vote was put in said meeting, to know whether the town would proceed to give any instructions to their Representatives agreeable to the aforesaid recommendation, which was carried in the negative. And judging it to be our duty to protest against said vote, we do it for the following reason: we think such a measure as proposed in said resolve to be the most salutary that can be gone into for the safety and well-being of the Colonies under our present oppressed situation. And as it is the duty of every individual to give his voice in favour of the aforesaid recommendation, in case the honourable Continental Congress see cause to declare these Colonies entirely independent, we are ready and willing to stand by such a declaration (if it should take place) to the uttermost of our power, with our lives and estates. And being very unwilling that the aforesaid vote should be passed over in silence, for fear of offending our own consciences in being thought to acquiesce in so strange a vote of the town, and of offending our countrymen and brethren in other towns who may go into contrary measures, entirely abhorring any principles but what are for the good of the United Colonies of America, and detesting those arguments brought by some men in said meeting to dissuade the people from complying with said recommendation, we take this method of letting the publick know our dissent from the aforesaid proceedings of the town, having no other way to make our sentiments known.

We request that this Protest may be entered in the Town-book, to let posterity know that there were a few in this town who dared to stand forth in favour of an injured and oppressed country, treated with every species of wickedness used by tyranny to enslave mankind; and it is a matter of great grief to us that the cause of liberty is treated with such indignity by some of the inhabitants of the town of Barnstable.

a proceeding of a town meeting with "artfully misrepresenting" in an article of intelligence, and which he insinuates was a "malevolent aspersion of their town," when the protestors were to a man unacquainted with the piece until it appeared in your paper. Nor has he the truth for his foundation when he says the "protestors call themselves respectable gentlemen," for, in truth, the protestors have hitherto been silent, and the paragraph in your paper only styles them "respectable inhabitants." An unfortunate advocate for truth and candour this, to appear in the first part of his performance destitute of both. I pronounce the account of our town meeting neither true nor false, nor do I determine whether, all circumstances considered, a negative upon the question of instructing relative to Independence was a negative upon the question of Independence; though if the inference was natural, it was unavoidable. The account of our town meeting in your paper "had the truth for its foundation;" but if the question was mistaken, or even "artfully" stated, I see not how the protestors are responsible. As a protestor, an inhabitant of Barnstable, and one at the meeting, I join issue with this "mortified" young man, state facts, and leave the publick to draw their inferences.

After it was debated largely whether the town would give any instructions to their Representatives, the question was put by yeas and nays. Thirty appeared for instructing, thirty-five against it. There was a long debate about declaring independency. One said "it was downright rebellion;" another, a staunch friend of Governour Hutchinson, said "our trade was as free as if we were independent;" and these were violently against the motion. And such-like weighty arguments, I suppose, obtained a majority against instructing, of which number our quondam Captain under Governour Hutchinson was one. The protestors, I am sure, for one, were far from rejoicing that the vote was carried as it was, and am as certain they have no desire of aspersing the town; though if exculpating themselves and stating facts "mortifies a part of the town, and our candid sneerer at the protestors amongst the rest, I am little solicitous about that consequence. I have no wish to set the town in a less reputable light. It is my opinion, if a certain party had not, by their boisterous, illiberal behaviour, intimidated the major part not to act, (for of one hundred and forty voters at the meeting sixty-five only voted upon the question,) the question would have been carried in favour of instructing, and the town would have saved its credit, at least in this affair.

The unprovoked attack upon me and the protestors has drawn me into the view of the publick upon this occasion, supposing my silence would be deemed a tacit acknowledgment of wrong, which is all my inducement to answer; for the sneers of a little emissary of a desperate cabal are as contemptible as their unremitting malice and abuse; happy in conscious integrity, though the love of my country and my efforts in her service have opened upon me the throats of deep-mouthed mastiffs, as well as occasioned the barking of lesser curs. This unprovoked attack will, I hope, apologize for publishing the Protest as it was hastily drawn up; and submitting to the judgment of an impartial publick, I am their humble servant,

JOSEPH OTIS.

She was bound from Antigua to Boston, and has on board a cargo of four hundred puncheons of rum.

Same day, was also sent in by Captain Johnson, the ship Zechariah Bailly, — — — master, four hundred and fifty tons burden, with a cargo of rum, sugar, spices, pepper, cotton, &c. She was taken about a fortnight ago, on her passage from Jamaica to London. This ship was a letter-of-marque of twenty-four guns last war.

When the above ships parted with the Yankey, she was in chase of several other vessels.

COMMITTEE OF MACHIAS TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Machias, July 9, 1776.

We, the Committee of Safety for Machias, beg leave to acquaint your Honours, that on Saturday last came into our harbour the Viper sloop-of-war, and she has taken five fishing vessels, two of which had about one hundred quintals of fish each; all of which vessels were taken as they were passing by our harbour, bound home; and said man-of-war, after tarrying here two days, sailed for Annapolis Royal, with her prizes, where the ship Merlin, of eighteen guns, lies, there to fix out one or two of the schooners for tenders, to cruise upon this shore for three months, to pick up every vessel that passes. Her station, as we are informed by Mr. Ralph Hacock, is from Mount Desert to Granmenan. Mr. Hacock was master of one of the vessels taken, owned in this place, and the Captain of the Viper gave him leave to come on shore, by his pleading the great necessity of his family; and Mr. Hacock gives further information that the Viper mounts ten guns, six-pounders, and twenty swivels, and has one hundred and thirty men; but have been on two-thirds allowance all their cruise. We would inform your Honours, that had the Machias privateers been here, we should have tried to have taken the Viper; but being destitute of any such assistance, we lie almost at the mercy of our enemies. If we cannot pass with our vessels, we can maintain our families but a short time in this place. Therefore, we beg that your Honours would take our difficult circumstances into your consideration, and grant us such relief as you in your wisdom shall think proper; and we, the Committee, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

By order of the Committee:

BENJAMIN FOSTER, Chairman.

To the Hon. Council and the Hon. House of Representatives for the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay.

THOMAS OLIVER TO EDWARD WINSLOW.

London, July 10, 1776.

DEAR NED: I received your very obliging letter of the 23d of May, by Mr. Simpson, with a number of other letters returned, which went out from England, directed to me at Halifax, or Boston; and I am much obliged, not only for your kind attention to my concerns, but for your early correspondence, containing a fund of intelligence and entertainment.

I wish it were in my power to make you a suitable return, by giving you such information as would be new and entertaining; but long, I hope, before this reaches your hands, you will have known the great preparations which are already made for prosecuting with vigour the American war. We hope that these appearances of determination may have great effect upon the southern Governments, in bringing them to a proper temper of mind for a speedy reconciliation; but have not the least expectation of the New-England people giving up without real correction.

At this season of the year, London is more barren of interesting events, or any great movements, than Nova-Scotia.

I am glad you did not come over, as I am confident you would have been disappointed, entre nous. The application from the sufferers in America are like to be so very numerous, that I apprehend it will prevent the gratification of any. There is scarcely a Province in America which does not afford shoals of petitioners hanging about the Treasury; and Administration, however well inclined, are unable to answer all the numerous demands. Therefore, my friend, I advise you to trust your fortune in the channel you are in. If times alter in America, it may alter appearances here. I am still in the neighbourhood of London, but mean to get into some cheaper part of the country. Colonel Vassal and family are well; they will continue in London. I am not able to form any conjecture whether I shall succeed in my West-India plan, for reasons before mentioned.

I remain, your affectionate friend,
T. OLIVER.
To Edward Winslow, Esq., Halifax.

LETTER FROM THE CAMP BEFORE GWIN'S ISLAND, DATED JULY 10, 1776.

Yesterday morning Brigadier-General Lewis, accompanied by the Colonels Stephens, Woodford, Weedon, and Bucknor, arrived here; when a vigorous attack was made on the fleet and camp of the enemy. The ships were so roughly handled that the Dunmore and several others were in a short time towed off, and the enemy abandoned their works, after carrying away all their cannon except a six-pounder. We have taken the Lady Charlotte tender, with three guns, a very fine schooner, and a pilot-boat, which they made use of as tenders. The want of boats prevented our seizing many Tories, all their cannon, the greatest part of their baggage, and the negroes; the enemy have burnt several of their vessels, among them a very fine ship, supposed to be the Dunmore, which was rendered unfit for sea. His Lordship lost his china, by a double-headed shot, and it is said he himself was wounded in the leg by a splinter. The fleet is driven off without water; and although they have plenty of prize flour, there is not a biscuit on board. The houses, ovens, and fortifications, which they have begun on the Island, plainly prove that they had no intention to leave it in so precipitate a manner. All the loss that we sustained was in poor Captain Arundel, of the Artillery, who was killed by the bursting of a mortar. The officers and soldiers of Colonel Dangerfield's regiment behaved with great bravery.

PARTICULAR ACCOUNT OF THE ATTACK AND ROUT OF LORD DUNMORE, WITH HIS PIRATICAL CREW, FROM GWIN'S ISLAND.

We got to the Island on Monday, the 8th of July, and next morning, at eight o'clock, began a furious attack upon the enemy's shipping, camp, and fortifications, from two batteries—one of five six and nine-pounders, the other mounting two 18-pounders. What forces the enemy had were encamped on a point of the Island, nearly opposite to our five-gun battery, covered by a battery of four embrasures, and a breastwork of considerable extent. Besides this, they had two other batteries, and a stockade fort higher up the haven, where troops were stationed to prevent our landing. In the haven, were three tenders—one a sloop, (the Lady Charlotte,) mounting six carriage-guns, a schooner of two carriage-guns, six swivels, and a cohorn, and a pilot-boat, badly armed—who had orders from Captain Hammond, of the Roebuck, to prevent our boats passing over to the Island, and to annoy the Rebels by every means in their power.

General Lewis announced his orders for attacking the enemy, by putting a match to the first gun, an 18-pounder, himself; and the Dunmore, being the nearest to us, at the distance of only four or five hundred yards, the shot passed through her hull, and did considerable damage. Our five-gun battery likewise began playing on the fleet, the enemy's camp, and works; and the fire soon became so hot, that the Dunmore was obliged to cut her cables and haul off, after receiving ten shot, some of which raked her fore and aft. The Otter lay next to her, and it was expected would have taken her birth; but the first shot we gave her took effect, supposed between wind and water, as she immediately slipped her cable likewise, and hauled out on a cable, without firing a gun. By this time, all the fleet any way near shore began to slip their cables, in the utmost confusion; and had the wind set in with a flood-tide, we must have taken great numbers of them. Our 18-pounders did great execution from the upper battery, which raked the whole fleet; and Captain Denny, who commanded the other battery, soon silenced the enemy at the point, knocking down several tents, which put their camp into great confusion. At half after nine, the firing ceased, which was renewed again at twelve, with double vigour, from both batteries; and nothing prevented our pushing to the Island, during the cannonade, but the want of vessels.

The General being determined to cross next day, gave orders for all the small craft to be collected together from the neighbouring creek that night, and two brass field-pieces, six-pounders, to be carried to a place called Lower Windmill Point, to attack the tender that lay there, and facilitate our crossing. Accordingly, in the morning Captain Harrison, who had the direction of those field-pieces, began playing upon the tenders, which he galled so much that the schooner ran up a small creek which made into the Island, where the crew abandoned her, and the sloop got aground in reach of our cannon; upon which, the General ordered Captain Smith, of the Seventh Regiment, with his company, to man the canoes and board her, which was done with alacrity. However, before our men came up with her, the crew got into.

their boats, and pushed for the Island; but Captain Smith, very prudently passing the tender, pursued them so close, that before they could reach the shore, he exchanged a few shot with them, and took part of them prisoners. The enemy's lookouts, perceiving our men close upon the lower part of the Island, cried out, "The Shirtmen are coming," and scampered off. The pilot-boat made no resistance.

General Lewis then ordered two hundred men, under Colonel McClanahan, to land in the Island; which was performed as expeditiously as our small vessels would admit of. On our arrival, we found the enemy had evacuated the place with the greatest precipitation, and were struck with horror at the number of dead bodies, in a state of putrefaction, strewed all the way from their battery to Cherry-Point, about two miles in length, without a shovelful of earth upon them; others gasping for life; and some had crawled to the water's edge, who could only make known their distress by beckoning to us. By the small-pox, and other malignant disorders which have raged on board the fleet for many months past, it is clear they have lost, since their arrival at Gwin's Island, near five hundred souls. I myself counted one hundred and thirty graves, or rather holes, loosely covered over with earth, close together, many of them large enough to hold a corporal's guard. One, in the middle, was neatly done up with turf, and is supposed to contain the remains of the late Lord of Gosport. Many were burnt alive in brush huts, which, in their confusion, had got on fire. In short, such a scene of misery, distress, and cruelty, my eyes never beheld; for which the authors, one may reasonably conclude, never can make atonement in this world.

The enemy left behind them, in their battery, a double fortified nine-pounder, a great part of their baggage, with several tents and marquees, besides the three tenders, with their cannon, small arms, &c.; also, the anchors and cables of the Dunmore, Otter, and many others, to the amount, it is supposed, of twelve or fifteen hundred pounds. On their leaving the Island, they burnt some valuable vessels which had got aground. Mr. John Grymes's effects on the Island have fallen into our hands, consisting of thirty-five negroes, horses, cattle, and furniture. Major Byrd, on the approach of our canoes to the Island, was huddled into a cart, in a very sick and low condition, it is said, and carried down to Cherry-Point, where he embarked. The second shot the Dunmore received cut her boatswain in two, and wounded two or three others; and she had scarcely recovered from the shock, when a nine-pounder from the lower battery entered her quarter, and beat in a large timber, from the splinters of which Lord Dunmore got wounded in the legs, and had all his valuable china smashed about his ears. It is said his Lordship was exceedingly alarmed, and roared out, "Good God, that ever I should come to this!" We had our information from one of his people that came ashore after the engagement, who was taken by our scouts; he likewise said that many were killed in the fleet, which had sustained some thousand pounds worth of damage. The Fowey and Roebuck were the lowermost ships; besides which, there were one hundred and large odd sail of vessels, which took their departure on Thursday afternoon, and are supposed to have gone into Potomack. In this affair we lost not a man but poor Captain Arundel, who was killed by the bursting of a mortar of his own invention, although the General and all the officers were against his firing it. His zeal for the service lost him his life.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED WILLIAMSBURGH, VIRGINIA,
JULY 13, 1776.

A battery of two eighteen-pounders was opened on the enemy's fleet on Tuesday morning, whilst another of four nine-pounders played on their works and camp on Gwin's Island. In a short time, the whole fleet was forced to tow out of reach of the battery; their fire ceased after a few rounds; their camp was thrown into confusion; and in the night, before we could procure boats to carry over our men, they removed all their tents except one, their cannon except one, and all their stores, &c. There were three tenders in the haven, which attempted to prevent our passage. Their works were still manned, as if they meant to dispute their ground; but as soon as our soldiers put off in a few canoes, they retreated precipitately to their ships. The tenders fell into our hands; one they set on fire, but our people boarded it and extinguished the flames. The enemy burnt two small vessels, and the night following, a very large ship, supposed to be the Dunmore, for she was very much damaged, having received four eighteen-pound shot through her sides, and a double-headed one through her stern, which raked her. Her mate was killed, a sailor had his arm taken off, and Lord Dunmore had his leg wounded by this shot. The fleet has sailed from the Island, which we are in quiet possession of. From their works, and preparations for others, and stock of cattle left on the Island, it is evident they left it much against their inclination, and long before they expected it. We found one hundred and fifty graves and twelve dead negroes lying in the open air. They have had a dreadful fever amongst them, and the small-pox. I wish our Army may not catch the infection. The Roebuck was at the mouth of Rappahannock. The Fowey and Otter did not choose to come to the assistance of the Dunmore, which, unfortunately for her, had changed stations with the Otter, and by this means came into the jaws of our battery, which was concealed. We did not lose a man.

LIST OF SHIPS IN LORD DUNMORE'S FLEET, JULY 10, 1776.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

EDWARD TILLARD TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.
July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have nearly raised my thirty men, as directed by my warrant, and I believe the Lieutenants and Ensigns are in a fair way of raising theirs; but they have but few or no firelocks fit for service among them. If you have none ready, I am told Mr. Stephen West hath some very good ones, which I do not doubt may be procured for the service. I would willingly have firelocks put into the hands of these men that could be depended on, and if you think proper to give me an order I will go and secure them, and fit out my company as soon as completed. I am told his price is six pounds currency apiece.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TILLARD.

To the Honourable Council of Safety.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.
[No. 14.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: We have four hundred and fifty yards of country linen cloth fit for making tents, and want a man from Baltimore immediately to make it up. We shall be much obliged to you if you will send us such a person down without delay, as the service will be greatly forwarded by it. If a person can be got to make it up in Baltimore it shall be sent to you on notice immediately. We are, &c.

To Mr. Jesse Hollingsworth.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO SMYTH, HANDS, AND NICHOLSON.
[No. 15.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Do you know of any one who will engage in the tent-making business for the Province? Pray inform us immediately, and as soon as the wagons arrive from below, advise us of it. We are, &c.

To Messrs. Smyth, Hands, and Nicholson.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GENERAL BUCHANAN.
[No. 16.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: There is an indispensable necessity that the Militia for the Flying-Camp should be provided as soon as they are raised with cartouch-boxes; but as this cannot be accomplished in proper time, without a return of those which were delivered the Militia in your district when the Otter sloop-of-war was up the bay, there not being a sufficient quantity without them, we desire you will immediately collect and return them to the magazine in this city, or Baltimore town. The service requires the utmost expedition in this matter, and will not admit of a moment's delay. We are, &c.

To Brigadier-General Buchanan.

[Copies of the above letter sent to Colonels A. Hall, Bond, Dorsey, and Rumsey.]

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO EDWARD PARKER.
[No. 17.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The service requires an immediate supply of linen cloth fit for making tents. The encouragement you have met with, and still may expect to meet, together with the punctuality hitherto shown by you, induces us to think you will exert your utmost endeavours to bring in as great a quantity of that sort, and in as small a space of time, as lies in your power. We are, &c.

To Mr. Edward Parker.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO AMOS GARRETT.
[No. 18.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: We request you will exert yourselves in supplying us with bayonets; they are much wanted for our Militia of the Flying-Camp. We are, &c.

To Mr. Amos Garrett.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO STEPHEN STEWART.
[No. 19.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: We are in great want of tents. Can your sailmaker engage in that business for us? We are, &c.

To Mr. Stephen Stewart.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO JOHN ARCHER AND JAMES HARRIS.
[No. 20.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You are by obligation bound to pay three hundred pounds borrowed of the Province, in linen; one-third thereof by the 1st of June, one-third by the 1st of September, and the residue by the 1st of December, in such sizes as should be wanted by this Colony. The publick service requires linen of about a six hundred, or coarser, fit for tenting, or tow linen wove thick, as our troops must very shortly take the field.

We have that confidence in your publick spirit, and ardour to serve your country, that you will, as soon as possible, furnish us with what quantity you can, as some of our countrymen may be too fatally exposed to the inclemency of the weather without it. We are, &c.

To Messrs. John Archer and James Harris.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO RICHARD DALLAM.
[No. 21.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The regular forces were ordered by Convention to march from Annapolis and Baltimore, and an equal number of the Militia to be raised for the Flying-Camp, were directed, when raised, to supply their places.

You must be sensible that all the arms we can procure in the publick way will be immediately wanted; therefore send what you have already made, and all you can make, down to Gerrard Hopkins, the Commissary of Stores at Baltimore.

It will be necessary that the barrels should be proved; the common proof is the weight of the ball in powder, and one ball; this may be done before Mr. John Rumsey and Doctor Thomas Andrews, or either of them, and a certificate taken thereof, as also of their delivery to the Commissary, unless you incline to have them proved before Captain Smith, in Baltimore. We are, &c.

To Mr. Richard Dallam.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO WILLIAM WHETCROFT.
[No. 22.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety have been informed that you have a servant who understands the business of tent-making; if so, and you are desirous of having him employed in that business, we will immediately set him to work, and find employment for him for some time. We are, &c.

To Mr. William Whetcroft.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL DORSEY.
[No. 23.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The regular forces in the pay of this Province leave this city this evening; the sooner, therefore, the company you are to send get here, the better. It will be proper, under the resolves of the Convention, that three companies of our neighbouring Militia should be stationed in Annapolis, until the places of the regular troops ordered from hence can be supplied by the Militia to be raised for the Flying-Camp. When Colonel John Dorsey was with us, we conceived that your company of Militia might be discharged when the company of Militia raised on Elk-Ridge for the Flying-Camp marched here; but upon further considering the resolve, apprehend there may be three companies of the neighbouring Militia in this city, until the places of the regular troops can be supplied by the Flying-Camp Militia. You may rely on it, however, that the company of your battalion which comes down shall be relieved as soon as possible.

You must be mistaken in what you wrote about the vote of Congress; those only of the Militia that compose the Flying-Camp, are to march to Philadelphia, or anywhere out of the Province. We are, &c.

To Colonel Thomas Dorsey.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEE OF HARFORD.
[No. 24.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The publick service requires that all the arms purchased by you, or manufactured in Harford under your direction, be transmitted to Baltimore town, to Gerard Hopkins, the Commissary, of whom you will be pleased to take a receipt, and transmit to us the number, quality, and value of the same.

We desire you will also furnish us with an account of the disposition of the four hundred pounds we heretofore sent you. We are, &c.

To the Committee of Harford.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN TILLARD.
[No. 26.] Annapolis, July 10, 1776.

SIR: We are glad to hear you and your officers are so forward in raising your company, as our forces are at present much wanted. Though it will be difficult to procure firelocks for all the men, yet we cannot agree to give so great a price as six pounds currency apiece. We have got very good at four pounds and a crown, but would on this occasion willingly advance as far as four pounds ten for such as are good and serviceable, fixed with bayonets.

We are, &c.

To Captain Edward Tillard.

Annapolis, Maryland, July 11, 1776.

Yesterday evening six companies of the First Battalion of Maryland Troops, stationed in this city, and commanded by Colonel William Smallwood, embarked for the head of Elk, in high spirits, and three companies of the same battalion, stationed in Baltimore town, embarked yesterday morning for the same place; from thence they are to proceed to Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.
Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed letter from Mr. Ephraim Anderson, I am directed to transmit by order of Congress. As Mr. Anderson appears to be an ingenious man, and proposes to destroy the British fleet at New-York, the Congress are willing to give him an opportunity of trying the experiment, and have therefore thought proper to refer him to you. The event only can show whether his scheme is visionary or practicable.

Should it be attended with success, (and the very chance of it is sufficient to justify the attempt,) the infinite service to the American States arising therefrom cannot be described; or should it fail, our situation will be in every respect the same as before.

Many things seem highly probable in speculation which, however, cannot be reduced to practice. And on the other hand, experiment has shown that many things are extremely practicable which our most accurate reasonings had taught us to believe were impossible.

I have the honour to be, sir, with the greatest respect, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington, at New-York.

GENTLEMEN: Being anxiously desirous of being serviceable to my country (in an eminent degree) at this time of publick calamity, I am ready immediately to undertake the destruction of the British fleet now at New-York. If I may be honoured with such directions from this Congress, my plan of operation I will communicate to any of the Members of the House for their approbation, convinced of the probability of success, and the infinite service such an enterprise would be to these States, particularly at this time. Shall be glad to execute it at the hazard of my life. An enterprise of the same kind I undertook at Quebeck, and should undoubtedly have succeeded, had not the enemy had intelligence, and stretched a cable across the mouth of their harbour, and myself by accident much burnt; but, thank God, am recovered perfectly again, and ready to make the like attempt. This, or any other appointment I may be honoured with, shall be thankfully received. As men well acquainted with military discipline are much wanting in our armies, I would offer myself to the Congress for an appointment in that department. Having served in the British Army last war, have had greater opportunities of being acquainted with the military art than most of our officers are. I shall wait the order of the Congress at the Conestoga Wagon, in Market Street.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient and most humble servant,

EPHRAIM ANDERSON,
Adjutant to 2d Jersey Battalion.

July 9, 1776.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO WILLIAM PALFREY.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

SIR: I am to inform you that Congress, in consideration of your zeal and attachment to the liberties of America, have thought proper to give you the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the Continental Army.

You will please to acquaint me whether General Washington has delivered a commission to Mr. Harrison or to Mr. Baylor, in consequence of their appointments. If he has, I will forward one to you; but if they have not received commissions, you will in that case, like them, take your rank without a commission.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To William Palfrey, Esq., Paymaster-General, New-York.

PETITION OF BENJAMIN FLOWER.

[July 11, 1776, read, and referred to the Board of War.]

To the Honourable the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA:

The Petition of BENJAMIN FLOWER, Lieutenant in the First Battalion of the Associators of the City of PHILADELPHIA, sheweth:

That your petitioner, animated with a just sense of the importance of the present contest, was among the first of the Associators in the Province of Pennsylvania; that he understands that the office of Conductor or Commissary of Stores for the Flying-Camp, is vacant; he therefore prays your Honours to appoint him to that office, and, as in duty bound, he will ever pray, &c.,

BENJAMIN FLOWER.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

PETITION OF MAJOR MELCHIOR.

[July 11, 1776, referred to the Board of War.]

To the Honourable the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA:

The Petition of ISAAC MELCHIOR, late Major of Brigade in CANADA, sheweth:

That your petitioner is desirous of serving his country in the present alarming state of publick affairs, in any station to which your Honours may think fit to appoint him. That he understands that the offices of Paymaster and Adjutant to the Flying-Camp and Militia are both yet vacant; to either of which, if your Honours think proper to appoint him, he hopes to act in such a manner as to give the fullest satisfaction. For his conduct in the campaign in Canada, he begs leave to refer to the letters of the late General Montgomery and of General Schuyler.

And your petitioner will both fight and pray, &c.

ISAAC MELCHIOR.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

MARINE COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN PARKER.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

SIR: The brig Despatch, of which you are hereby appointed the commander, in the service of the United States of America, being now ready for sea, you are to proceed immediately on board said brigantine for the port of Bordeaux, in France; and, on your arrival there, deliver the despatches given you herewith to Messrs. Samuel and J. H. Delap, merchants at that place. You are to consider these letters directed to those gentlemen as very important, and must deliver them yourself as soon as possible. You must have them hung at sea with a heavy weight, ready to throw overboard and sink them, in case you should be unfortunately taken by the enemy; but, to avoid that danger, you must make a standing rule to run from every vessel you see at sea. The Despatch is well found with plenty of sails, rigging, stores, and materials. You will therefore make good use of them, and endeavour to make a short passage by a diligent attention to winds and weather, carrying at all times as much sail as is proper.

The goods we have caused to be shipped on board this brig are consigned to Messrs. Delap, to whom you are to deliver the same; and when this is done, you must immediately set about arming the brig with eight or ten four-pounder cannon, as many swivels, blunderbusses, cohorns, howitzers, and muskets, as you think proper; but take care that the cannon, &c., are of the best and handsomest fit for ship's use. You may, if you think proper, fit her with close quarters, and mount some guns in the cabin, steerage, and fore-castle, or you may mount the whole on deck; and if she will bear more than ten cannon, you may buy them. You must procure a suitable quantity of powder and ball for the cannon, arms, &c., with cartridges, cartridge-paper, and all necessary apparatus thereto. You will complete this business with expedition, and procure the best advice and assistance in doing it. Messrs. Delap will recommend you to proper people for this purpose, and they will supply you with money to pay the cost. You must ship as many seamen as you can possibly get, especially American seamen, or those that have been much connected in this country; but you are not to confine yourself to these alone. We are in want of seamen, and you may bring people of all countries or nations that are willing to enter into the American service. You must make it known, in the best manner you can, that great wages and encouragement is now given to seamen in every part of America, both for the publick and for merchant service. You are therefore to bring over not only sufficient for your own complement, which, as an armed vessel, might be thirty to forty, but as many as you can conveniently give ship-room to, and you may contract with them for such reasonable wages as may be satisfactory to them. If any masters or mates want passages home, you are to accommodate them, free of any charge to them. You must lay in sufficient of provisions, and allow each man plenty, but suffer no waste. You are to receive from Messrs. Delap any goods they may desire to ship, or from any other persons goods that Messrs. Delap approve of being shipped on board; and when you are ready for departure, you are to wait on those gentlemen for their despatches; and when you receive the same, with their approbation for your departure, you are then to make the best of your way back for this coast. You know how it is lined with British men-of-war at present, and it is not possible for us to say what port may be safest by the time you return; but as we expect you will be well armed and manned, you need not fear small vessels; and by keeping constantly a hand at each mast-head to look out, we think you may avoid all large ones, especially as we expect the Despatch will be a flyer, and in France you may get another complete suit of sails for her; you must therefore put into the first safe port you can, anywhere in the United States of America, and by the time you return you may expect to meet with some of our own frigates, galleys, and cruisers. Little Egg-Harbour or Cape May will probably be as secure as any other places.

We deliver you herewith a commission, a list of agents for prizes, and the resolves of Congress respecting captures, by which you will learn how to conduct yourself in this respect; your business, however, is not to cruise, but to make quick passages; but if you meet any prizes on your return, so much the better, provided you do not lose time in seeking them; and in case of capture, you must send them in to some of the agents, who will do the needful for all concerned. We expect you will be careful of the brig, her stores, and materials, diligent in making despatch, both at sea and in port, faithful in the discharge of your duty, and the moment you reach any port in America, come, or send the despatches express to the Committee of Secret Correspondence.

We are, sir, your humble servants.

To Captain Peter Parker.

P. S. Should you meet Silas Deane, Esq., who lately went from this place for Bordeaux, you may consult with and be advised and directed by him in all things relative to your business with the brig Despatch.

MARINE COMMITTEE TO MESSRS. DELAP.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You will receive this by the brigantine Despatch, Captain Peter Parker, and with it some letters for Silas Deane, Esq., which, being of considerable consequence, we beg you will cause them to be sent or delivered to him with the utmost expedition; and we make no doubt he has left his address with you, should he have left Bordeaux.

You will find herein an invoice and bill of lading for some goods we have shipped on board this brig, consigned to you for sale. These goods you will please to receive, and make the most advantageous sale of them that your market will admit.

Captain Parker has orders to arm and fit out the Despatch in a warlike manner, and we hope you will advise and assist him in doing it. You will please to procure him the assistance of the most skilful persons, tradesmen, &c., for doing that business, and supply him with money to purchase cannon, swivels, howitzers, muskets, powder, ball, &c. He must fit her in a very complete manner, and must have plenty of those kinds of stores. He is also to procure as many seamen as he possibly can, to come with him in this brigantine, in which we also pray for your assistance, and that you will furnish him with money to pay advance wages for provisions and a new suit of sails; all which we hope he will soon get completed with your assistance. When you have paid all charges and expenses relative to this vessel, whatever balance remains from the sale of her cargo, you will please to invest in the purchase of some brass field-pieces, six and four-pounders, if you can procure them; good soldiers' muskets, gunlocks, powder, or saltpetre; or, if you cannot ship such articles, you may then invest the said balance in blankets, and other woollen goods, suitable for wear in a cold climate; and whatever you buy, ship on board the said brigantine Despatch, for address of the Committee of Secret Correspondence, on account and risk of the United States of America, and enclose to them an invoice and bill of lading for the same.

It is necessary that Captain Parker make despatch in fitting the brigantine and getting her ready for sea, and that you also complete your business for her as soon as you can; but she is not to sail until Mr. Deane sends his despatches; for those are the most immediate object of the present voyage. Therefore, if Mr. Deane is not at Bordeaux, you will please to keep him well informed when the brigantine will be ready to return, and the moment his despatches come to your hands, deliver them to Captain Parker, with an injunction to sail immediately for this coast, agreeable to his orders. Should Mr. Deane be in Bordeaux, Captain Parker must be directed by him entirely in all his proceedings; and if Mr. Deane desires any goods to be shipped on board the Despatch, they must be received on board. In short, the Captain is ordered to receive on board all goods you recommend. Therefore, you will please to ship any you may have, or that Mr. Deane may order Mr. John Daniel Schweighauser, of Nantz, that he may ship any he has for account of this Continent.

We hope you will assist in making it known that great wages and encouragement are given to seamen in America, and the seamen of every country will be alike welcome. We shall have frequent opportunities of addressing you; and remain, gentlemen, your obedient servants.

To Messrs. Samuel and J. H. Delap.

CAPITULATION AT THE CEDARS.

In Congress, July 10, 1776.

The Committee to whom the cartel between Brigadier-General Arnold and Captain Forster, and the several papers thereto relating, were committed, having had the same under their consideration, and made diligent inquiry into the facts, have agreed to the following Report:

They find that a party of three hundred and ninety Continental troops, under the command of Colonel Bedel, was posted at the Cedars, about forty-three miles above Montreal; that they had there formed some works of defence, the greater part of them picketed lines, the rest a breastwork, with two field-pieces mounted.

That on Wednesday, the 15th of May, Colonel Bedel received intelligence that a party of the enemy, consisting of about six hundred regulars, Canadians, and Indians, were on the way to attack his post, and were within nine miles of it; that Colonel Bedel thereon set out himself for Montreal, to procure a reinforcement, whereupon the command at the Cedars devolved on Major Butterfield.

That on Thursday, a reinforcement, under the command of Major Sherburne, marched from Montreal for the Cedars, while a larger detachment should be getting ready to proceed thither with Brigadier-General Arnold.

That on Friday, the 19th, the enemy, under the command of Captain Forster, invested the post at the Cedars, and for two days kept up a loose, scattering fire; that Major Butterfield, from the very first, proposed to surrender the post, and refused repeated solicitations from his officers and men to permit them to sally out on the enemy.

That on Sunday afternoon, a flag being sent in by the enemy, Major Butterfield agreed to surrender the fort and garrison to Captain Forster, capitulating with him (whether verbally or in writing, does not appear) that the garrison should not be put into the hands of the savages, and that their baggage should not be plundered.

That, at the time of the surrender, the enemy consisted of about forty regulars, one hundred Canadians, and five hundred Indians, and had no cannon. The garrison had sustained no injury from the fire, but the having one man wounded; they had twenty rounds of cartridges a man, thirty rounds for one field-piece, and five for another, half a barrel of gunpowder, fifteen pounds of musket ball, and provisions sufficient to have lasted them twenty or thirty days.

Report of the Committee on the Capitulation entered into between General ARNOLD and Captain FORSTER.

[Brought in June 17, 1776. Read, and ordered to lie on the table. Recommended June 24, 1776. Passed July 10.]

The Committee to whom were recommended the cartel between Brigadier-General Arnold and Captain Forster, for the exchange of prisoners, and the several papers relating thereto, have had the same under their consideration, and agreed to the following Report:

Your Committee having proceeded to make inquiry into the facts relating to the agreement entered into at St. Ann's, between Brigadier-General Arnold and Captain Forster, find a part of them well authenticated and others not; yet being apprehensive that silence on the part of Congress may be construed by some into a ratification of the said agreement, they have thought it best to state the same as they appear at present, with such resolutions as they will justify if found true, reserving final decision till the whole truth shall be accurately inquired into and transmitted to Congress.

Your Committee, on the best information they have been able to obtain, find—

That on the 24th day of May last a party of the enemy, consisting, as is said, of about six hundred men, under the command of Captain Forster, attacked a post at the Cedars, held by a garrison of three hundred and fifty Continental forces, then under the command of Major Butterfield.

That the said post was secured by a stockade sufficient to cover the garrison from the enemy's musketry; that there were mounted therein two field-pieces, and that the enemy had no cannon.

That the said garrison had ammunition and provisions sufficient to have lasted them ten days; that they had reason to expect a reinforcement in a few days, which, on a requisition from themselves, was actually on its way from Montreal; and, moreover, were so near the main body of the Army, that they could not doubt being joined by detachments from them sufficient to oblige the enemy to retire.

That the enemy, for two days, kept up only a scattering fire, by which not a single man of the garrison was killed or wounded, and that on the third day the garrison surrendered themselves prisoners of war, having capitulated for the preservation of their own baggage from plunder, and that their persons should not be delivered into the hands of the savages.

That the enemy broke the capitulation, utterly and immediately, on their part, plundering the garrison of their baggage, and stripping their clothes from their backs, and delivering the prisoners into the hands of the savages.

That they then proceeded against the reinforcement which was on its way, consisting of about one hundred and fifty men, under the command of Major Sherburne; that Major Sherburne and his party engaged and fought them with bravery; but being at length surrounded by numbers greatly superior, and informed that the fort and garrison were already in the hands of the enemy, they were obliged to surrender themselves prisoners of war also, but whether on capitulation or not, your Committee are not informed.

That after they had put themselves into the hands of the enemy, the said enemy murdered two of them, butchering the one with tomahawks and drowning the other, and left divers others exposed on an island, naked and perishing with cold and famine.

That by this time Brigadier-General Arnold, who had been detached by Major-General Thomas to relieve the fort at the Cedars, approached, and was making dispositions to attack the enemy.

That Captain Forster thereupon notified General Arnold, that if he attacked him, the prisoners (then five hundred in number) would, every man of them, be put to death; and proposing, at the same time, an exchange of prisoners.

It appears that General Arnold was extremely averse to entering on any agreement of that kind, and was at length induced to do it by no other motive than that of saving the prisoners from cruel and inhuman death, threatened in such terms as left no doubt it was to be perpetrated.

That an agreement was thereupon entered into between Brigadier-General Arnold and Captain Forster, bearing date at St. Ann's, on the 27th day of May, whereby the said Forster stipulated that he would deliver up all the said prisoners, except such as were Canadians, to General Arnold, who agreed, on the other part, that so many of equal

Major Butterfield knew that a reinforcement was on its way, and, moreover, was so near the main body of the Army that he could not doubt of being supported by that.

That immediately on the surrender, the garrison was put into the custody of the savages, who plundered them of their baggage, and even stripped them of their clothes.

That Major Sherburne having landed on Monday, the 20th, at Quinze Chiens, about nine miles from the Cedars, and marched on with his party, consisting then of one hundred men, to within four miles thereof, was there attacked by about five hundred of the enemy; that he maintained his ground about one hour, and then, being constrained to retreat, performed the same in good order, receiving and returning a constant fire for about forty minutes; when the enemy finding means to post advanced parties in such a manner as to intercept their further retreat, they also were made prisoners of war.

That they were immediately put into the custody of the savages, carried to where Major Butterfield and his party were, and stripped of their baggage and wearing apparel. That two of them were put to death that evening; four or five others at different times afterwards—one of whom was of those who surrendered on capitulation at the Cedars, and was killed on the eighth day after that surrender. That one was first shot, and while retaining life and sensation, was roasted, as was related by one of his companions now in possession of the savages, who himself saw the fact; and that several others, being worn down by famine and cruelty, were exposed in an island, naked and perishing with cold and hunger.

rank and condition should be returned to the enemy of those taken by our arms on former occasions; that the prisoners so stipulated to be given up to the enemy were not in the possession of General Arnold, nor under his direction, but were at that time distributed through various parts of the Continent, under the orders of this House.

That Captain Forster, in violation of this agreement, also detained a considerable number of the prisoners he had thus stipulated to deliver, and sent them into the Indian countries, for purposes unknown.

Whereupon, your Committee have come to the following Resolutions: Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that plundering the baggage of the garrison at the Cedars, stripping them of their clothes, and delivering the prisoners into the hands of the savages, was a breach of the capitulation on the part of the enemy, for which satisfaction ought to be demanded.

Resolved, That the murder of two of the prisoners of war was a gross and barbarous violation of the laws of nature and of nations, for which satisfaction should be made by the enemy, by delivering into our hands either Captain Forster, or the individuals concerned in committing the murder.

Resolved, That the agreement entered into at St. Ann's was a mere sponson on the part of Brigadier-General Arnold, he not being invested with powers for the absolute disposal of the Continental prisoners in general, and that therefore it is subject to be ratified or annulled at the discretion of this House, the sole Representative of the United Colonies.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that Major Sherburne and his party having fought as men should do, so much of the said sponson as relates to their exchange should be ratified and confirmed by this House, and that an equal number of captives from the enemy, of the same rank and condition, should be restored to them, as stipulated by the said sponson.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that so much of the said sponson as relates to Major Butterfield, and the garrison surrendering with him, ought not to be ratified, because we should redeem none but those who will fight, and because, too, the said sponson excepted the Canadian prisoners, and we will in no case admit a distinction of countries among men fighting in the same cause.

Resolved, therefore, That the said Major Butterfield and garrison should still be considered as prisoners of war appertaining to the enemy; but as, by the actual murder of two of the prisoners, and the threats at St. Ann's to put the others to death, the enemy are found capable of destroying their captives, the said prisoners ought not to be put into their hands, but should be permitted to remain in their own country; that, in the mean time, they shall not bear arms, nor otherwise act against the enemy; but are bound to demean themselves in all things in the manner of prisoners of war enlarged on their parole, and to hold themselves subject to be recalled by the enemy whenever proper security shall have been given that their lives shall be safe.

Resolved, That previous to the delivery of the prisoners to be returned in lieu of Major Sherburne and those captivated with him, satisfaction be required from the enemy for the murder of the two prisoners, by delivering into our hands Captain Forster, or the individuals concerned in perpetrating that horrid act; and likewise restitution for the plunder at the Cedars, taken contrary to the faith of the capitulation; and that till such satisfaction and restitution be made, the said prisoners be not delivered.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that if the enemy shall put to death, torture, or otherwise ill treat any of the hostages in their hands, or of the Canadians or other prisoners captivated by them in the service of the United Colonies, recourse must be had to retaliation, as the sole means of stopping the progress of human butchery; and that for that purpose, punishments of the same kind and degree be inflicted on an equal number of their subjects taken by us, till they shall be taught due respect to the violated rights of nations.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that a copy of this report be transmitted to the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Forces in Canada, to be by him sent to the British Commander there; and that he moreover make further and diligent inquiry into the facts therein stated, and such others as may relate to the same subject, and return the same, duly authenticated, and with all possible despatch, to Congress, for their final decision; and that, in the mean time, the prisoners delivered up by the enemy abstain from bearing arms, or otherwise acting against them.

That while Major Sherburne was in custody of the enemy, Captain Forster required of him and the other officers to sign a cartel, stipulating the exchange of themselves and their men, for as many of equal condition of the British troops in our possession; and further, that, notwithstanding the exchange, neither themselves nor men should ever again bear arms against the British Government; and for the performance of this, four hostages were to be delivered: which they, being under the absolute power of the enemy, did sign.

That, on Sunday, the 26th, the prisoners were carried to Quinze Chiens, when it was discovered that General Arnold was approaching, and making dispositions to attack them.

That Captain Forster, having desired Major Sherburne to attend a flag which he was about to send to General Arnold for confirmation of the cartel, carried him into the council of the Indians, then sitting, who told him that it was a mercy never before shown in their wars, that they had put to death so few of the prisoners; but that he must expect, and so inform General Arnold, that they should certainly kill every man who should thereafter fall into their hands. That Captain Forster joined in desiring that this bloody message should be delivered to General Arnold, and, moreover, that he should be notified, that if he rejected the cartel and attacked him, every man of the prisoners should be put to instant death.

That General Arnold was extremely averse from entering into any agreement, and was at length induced to do it by no other motive than that of saving the prisoners from cruel and inhuman death, threatened in such terms as left no doubt it was to be perpetrated, and that he did in the end conclude it, after several flags received from Captain Forster, and a relinquishment by him of the unequal article, restraining our soldiers from again bearing arms.

That the prisoners so stipulated to be given up to the enemy, were not in possession of General Arnold, nor under his direction, but were at that time distributed through various parts of the Continent, under the orders of this House.

That four hostages were accordingly delivered to Captain Forster, who were immediately plundered and stripped by the savages; and on his part were delivered one Major, four Captains, sixteen subalterns, and three hundred and fifty-five privates, as specified in a certificate of Captain James Osgood and others, of whom no specification by their names or numbers has yet been transmitted; that he retained twelve Canadians, alleging, in his justification, express orders so to do; and that being in a military Government, they were to be considered even in a worse light than deserters from his Majesty's armies. These he carried away in irons, but afterwards released. That he permitted the Indians to carry into their countries several others, natives of the United States, for purposes unknown.

That during the time of their captivity, not half food was allowed the prisoners. They were continually insulted, buffeted, and ill-treated by the savages; and when the first parties of them were carried off from the shore, to be delivered to General Arnold, balls of mud were fired, and at the last parties, musket-balls.

Whereupon, the Congress came to the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That all acts contrary to good faith, the laws of nature, or the customs of civilized nations, done by the officers and soldiers of his Britannick Majesty, or by foreigners or savages taken into his service, are to be considered as done by his orders, unless indemnification be made in cases which admit of indemnification; and in all other cases, unless immediate and effective measures be taken by him or his officers, for bringing to condign punishment the authors, abettors, and perpetrators of the acts.

Resolved, That the plundering the baggage of the garrison at the Cedars, stripping them of their clothes, and delivering them into the hands of the savages, was a breach of the capitulation on the part of the enemy, for which indemnification ought to be demanded.

Resolved, That the murder of the prisoners of war was a gross and inhuman violation of the laws of nature and nations; that condign punishment should be inflicted on the authors, abettors, and perpetrators of the same; and that, for this purpose, it be required that they be delivered into our hands.

Resolved, That the agreement entered into by General Arnold was a mere sponson on his part, he not being invested with powers for the disposal of prisoners not in his possession, nor under his direction; and that therefore it is subject to be ratified or annulled, at the direction of this House.

Resolved, That the shameful surrender of the post at the Cedars is chargeable on the commanding officer; that such other of the prisoners as were taken there showed a willingness and desire to fight the enemy; and that Major Sherburne, and the prisoners taken with him, though their disparity of numbers was great, fought the enemy bravely for a considerable time, and surrendered but on absolute necessity. On which considerations, and on which alone, it is

Resolved, That the said sponson be ratified, and that an equal number of captives from the enemy, of the same rank and condition, be restored to them, as stipulated by the said sponson.

Resolved, That previous to the delivery of the prisoners to be returned on our part, the British Commander in Canada be required to deliver into our hands the authors, abettors, and perpetrators of the horrid murder committed on the prisoners, to suffer such punishment as their crime deserves; and also to make indemnification for the plunder at the Cedars, taken contrary to the faith of the capitulation; and that until such delivery and indemnification be made, the said prisoners be not delivered.

Resolved, That if the enemy shall commit any further violences, by putting to death, torturing, or otherwise ill-treating the prisoners retained by them, or any of the hostages put into their hands, recourse be had to retaliation, as the sole means of stopping the progress of human butchery; and that for that purpose, punishments of the same kind and degree be inflicted on an equal number of the captives from them, in our possession, till they shall be taught due respect to the violated rights of nations.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing Report and Resolutions be transmitted to the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Forces, to be by him sent to Generals Howe and Burgoyne.

By order of the Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Capitulation of Major BUTTERFIELD.

Camp at the Cedars, May 19, 1776.

SIR: From the message I received from your flag of truce, I am glad to find that my motives for sending to you yesterday has had the desired effect.

I have again assembled the many chiefs of my Indians, and have been so fortunate as to overcome their resolution of yesterday after your refusal.

The disposition of the savages not being long certain, or governable to any particular will, to be the better able to keep my promises with you, it will be absolutely necessary that the fort be delivered up in half an hour after the receiving this.

Your persons and apparel you have on will be secured, as proposed yesterday, and the garrison will surrender at discretion.

The artillery, ammunition, batteaus, and stores of every kind, to be delivered on good faith to persons appointed for that purpose.

A part of the King's troops to take possession of the fort at the expiration of the appointed time.

The prisoners will be marched some distance from the fort, for their greater security, before the savages will be allowed to enter, exclusive of a few chiefs who may insist on going with the troops.

I am, sir, your most obedient,

GEORGE FORSTER,

Captain, commanding the King's Troops.

To Major Butterfield.

Articles between Major SHERBURNE and Captain FORSTER.

After the maturest deliberation on the customs and manners of the savages in war, which I find so opposite and contrary to the humane disposition of the British Government, and to all civilized nations, and to avoid the inevitable consequences of the savages' customs in former wars, (which, by their threats and menaces, I find is not changed,) that of putting their prisoners to death, to disencumber themselves in case of their being attacked by their enemy,—I have, therefore, in compliance with the above disposition in Government, and the dictates of humanity, thought fit to enter into the following Articles of Agreement with Major Henry Sherburne, and the under-subscribing officers in the name of the Power they were employed by, and of the officers and soldiers who shall be released by this agreement, whose rank and number shall be endorsed on this cartel :

1st. That there shall be an exchange of prisoners faithfully made, returning an equal number of his Majesty's troops of the same rank with those released by this agreement, as soon as possible, within the space of two months, allowing a moderate time for casualties that may render the performance of this article impracticable.

2d. That those prisoners taken in opposing Government shall not, on any pretext whatsoever, hereafter take up arms against the Government of Great Britain.

3d. That the prisoners shall be conducted with safety, and all possible convenience and despatch that circumstances will permit, to the south shore of the river St. Lawrence, from which they are to repair to St. John's, and return to their own countries immediately, without committing any waste or spoil on their march thither, allowing ten or twelve to go to Montreal to transact their private affairs.

4th. That the prisoners so returned shall not, under any pretext whatsoever, either in words, writings, or signs, give the least information to Government's enemies, or their adherents now in arms, in the least prejudicial to his Majesty's service.

5th. That the batteaus or other conveniences made use of to transport the prisoners to the south shore of said river, or the necessary people to conduct them, shall return unmolested.

6th. That hostages be delivered for the performance of these articles to the full, according to the sense and spirit of agreement, without any equivocation whatsoever.

7th. That the security of the subscribers be given to the inhabitants for all the waste and spoil committed by the detachment under Colonel Bedel, on fair accounts, attested and signed, being delivered in, for which the hostages are not to be answerable.

It being our full intention to fulfil the above articles, we mutually sign and interchange them, as assurances of performance.

Signed at Vaudreuil, this 26th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six.

By order of Captain George Forster, commanding his Majesty's forces at Vaudreuil.

Given under our hands, this 27th day of May, 1776, at Vaudreuil.

GEORGE FORSTER,
Captain, commanding King's Troops.

St. Ann's, 27th May.

ART. 2d. The prisoners shall be sent to the south shore of the river St. Lawrence, within one league of Caughnawaga, and from thence to St. John's, and their own country, except twelve, who have liberty to go to Montreal, for which purpose six days shall be allowed, and hostilities to cease on both sides.

4th. Four Captains shall be sent to Quebeck as hostages, and remain there until prisoners are exchanged.

6th. The Continental troops, from principle, have ever avoided plundering. Upon proof being made of any waste committed by Colonel Bedel's detachment, reparation shall be made.

B. ARNOLD.

To George Forster, Captain.

May 27.

But if the prisoners can be conducted in less time, this truce to cease on the return of the last boats employed on this service, on notice given.

GEORGE FORSTER.

May 27.

Answer: If Captain Forster will choose to have hostilities commence in less time than six days, it will be perfectly agreeable to me, provided the time is fixed on, and notice given this evening.

B. ARNOLD.

Copy of Proceedings of Council of War held in CHAMBLY, CANADA, May 30, 1776.

At a Council of War, held at Chambly, May 30, 1776:

Hon. Brigadier-General Wooster, President.

Brigadier-Generals: Arnold, Thompson, De Woedtke; Colonels: Greaton, Maxwell, Poor, Stark, Campbell, St. Clair, Livingston, Porter, Brown, Hazen, Allen, McAufie, Gilman.

1st. Resolved, That orders be immediately transmitted to the Commanding Officer at St. Ann's to attack the enemy at Quinze Chiens, as soon as the time fixed for the cessation of hostilities is expired.

2d. Resolved, That it is necessary that a General Officer should take the command of the forces sent to Quinze Chiens.

3d. Resolved, That five hundred men, including those ordered this morning, be immediately sent from Montreal to St. Ann's, and that their place be supplied by the troops from St. John's.

4th. Resolved, That, if practicable, it will be for the interest of the Colonies to keep Canada.

5th. Resolved, That it is not practicable or prudent, under our present circumstances, to keep possession of Deschambault.

Resolved, That the present post now occupied be kept for the present by the main body of the Army.

Montreal, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: On my return to this place, I received intelligence from Colonel De Haas that the enemy had abandoned their post at Quinze Chiens, the 30th ultimo, and were seen next morning three miles above the Cedars. On their way up they made a precipitate retreat, and left behind them a quantity of flour. I repeated my order to Colonel De Haas to burn and destroy the town and inhabitants of Canassadaga, and afterwards to destroy the fort at St. Ann's, and retire to La Chine. Last evening an express arrived from him, who advises that on the 31st they received intelligence by some Frenchmen that seven hundred Indians were arrived at Canassadaga from the upper countries, and were on the point of attacking St. Ann's, on which Colonel De Haas called a council of war, which concluded it best to retire from the fort. The express came away at three o'clock, P. M., and the troops were to leave it immediately after. The advice Colonel De Haas received from the Frenchmen appears to me very vague and uncertain, neither do I believe a single Indian has arrived from above. The orders I sent Colonel De Haas were very positive; and how he should think of calling a council to determine if he should obey them, appears to me very extraordinary. A fatality seems to attend every of our enterprises. Enclosed are sundry depositions respecting the affair at the Cedars. Our prisoners are most of them delivered up. I have sent all the sick from this to Isle-aux-Noix. Nothing new from below since you left us. Our future conduct must be governed by advice from that quarter. I am making every possible preparation to secure our retreat. I have secured six tons of lead, ball, and shot. Merchandise or the inhabitants I have not as yet taken hold of; I intend it to-morrow. It is impossible to know one hour beforehand the necessary steps to be taken. Everything is in the greatest confusion; not one contractor, Commissary, or Quartermaster: I am obliged to do the duty of all. I wish with all my heart we were out of the country. We had much better begin anew, and set out right and methodically.

Enclosed is the list of the prisoners who came into Caughnawaga, attested by Captain Osgood, who was appointed on my part to receive them. They were fired at on their leaving Quinze Chiens, and narrowly escaped. Major Sherburne will deliver you this, to whom I beg leave to refer you for particulars.

I am, with great esteem and affection, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To the Honourable Commissioners of Congress.

Major BUTTERFIELD's Testimony respecting a breach of the Convention at the CEDARS.

The savages did plunder the prisoners of almost all their clothes, beginning their pillage and plunder the evening we surrendered, but plundered us chiefly after Major Sherburne was taken. Captain Forster being acquainted with it, said it was not in his power to prevent it.

I believe Captain Forster and the other officers did not induce the savages to take any of the prisoners, but exerted themselves to redeem and rescue the prisoners out of their hands. I did not hear the Indians say that Captain Forster promised them all the plunder. Some of the prisoners said that they heard some of the Indians say that Captain Forster promised them all the plunder.

As to what number of prisoners the savages have taken or murdered, I am under a disadvantage of not knowing, by not seeing the last party that came in. They murdered one of my party the eighth day after we were taken. Have taken with them several young lads, and all the blacks, also one young child from one of the women. Of the whole number I cannot assert as yet what are killed and carried away by them.

There were nine Canadian soldiers, and one Lieutenant, a Canadian. Captain Forster did refuse to exchange them with the rest of the prisoners. He said it was not in his power to release them, signifying that they were liable to be treated as deserters from the King's troops by their taking up arms against their own military laws and Government. Did likewise carry the soldiers away in irons, and the Lieutenant with a guard. The number of prisoners taken with me were, according to my best knowledge, three hundred and ninety.

Test:

ISAAC BUTTERFIELD.

Montreal, June, 1776.

Captains EASTABROOK's and WILKINS's Testimony respecting a breach of Convention at the CEDARS.

Question 1. How long were you apprised of the approach of the enemy before you were attacked?

Answer. Three days.

Q. 2. Did you hear their numbers?

A. We heard that there were fifty regulars, and between three and four hundred savages; but when the fort was given up, we suppose that the enemy consisted of six hundred in all, including one hundred Canadians.

Q. 3. Did the Commanding Officer exert himself in getting provisions into the fort?

A. He did in procuring flour, but nothing else.

Q. 4. How much provision had you when attacked?

A. Three barrels of pork, one barrel and a half of beef, twenty bushels of meal, besides five or six horses.

Q. 5. Was any to be got in the neighbourhood?

A. None, unless by force.

Q. 6. How much ammunition had you for small-arms and how much for field-pieces when you capitulated?

A. Twenty rounds per man for small-arms, thirty for the smallest cannon, five cartridges for the largest, half a barrel of powder, and about fifteen pounds of musket-ball.

Q. 7. Did not the private soldiers and many of the officers beg of Major Butterfield to let them go out and attack the enemy?

A. They did; which he refused.

Q. 8. How much longer do you think you could have held out against the enemy?

A. We expected the enemy to make a general attack on Sunday night, the same night we gave up; which if they had, it is our opinion that we could have defended the fort from being taken, and even beat them if we had sallied out from the fort upon them.

Q. 9. Did Major Butterfield seem terrified or not?

A. He seemed much terrified.

Q. 10. How were you treated by the enemy after capitulation?

A. Cruelly insulted, and repeatedly stripped of almost everything, and several murdered.

Q. 11. How many were murdered, their names and companies, and for what reason?

A. Three or four; of their companies, and for what, we cannot tell.

Q. 12. Were you fired upon or any one killed after the articles were signed for the exchange of prisoners?

A. We were fired at, but none killed.

Q. 13. How were the prisoners sent off, and where delivered?

A. They began to send off the prisoners the 27th of May, and continued till the 31st. Five boat-loads were landed at Chateauguai, and the rest at St. Ann's.

Q. 14. Did Captain Forster promise plunder to the savages?

A. He was told by Lyanee, the Interpreter, in Captain Eastabrook's presence, that he had promised all the plunder to the savages, and that they should strip the prisoners to the skin, which Captain Forster did not deny.

DANIEL WILKINS,

JOSEPH EASTABROOK.

Personally appeared before me Captain Joseph Eastabrook and Captain Daniel Wilkins, and made solemn oath that the foregoing answers to the questions proposed to them, are just and true, to the best of their knowledge.

B. ARNOLD, Brigadier-General.

Montreal, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: On the strictest inquiry, I find that Major Sherburne has acted with great prudence, spirit, and resolution. I beg leave to recommend him as an officer worthy of your particular notice; and am, with great esteem and respect, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

Montreal, June 2, 1776.

Montreal, June 2, 1776.

The annexed schedule contains a true and just account of the prisoners which were taken at the Cedars, and some at Caughnawaga, amounting to one Major, four Captains, sixteen Subalterns, and three hundred and fifty-five Privates; most of them were set at liberty at Quinze Chiens.

JAMES OSGOOD, Captain.

Captain Osgood, who was appointed and sent to Caughnawaga to receive the prisoners according to articles entered into with Captain Forster, personally appeared before me, and made solemn oath to the truth of the above account.

B. ARNOLD, Brigadier-General.

CÆSAR RODNEY TO THOMAS RODNEY.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

SIR: You mention in your last that Mr. Wells is discharged the service. Colonel Haslett has not as yet reported that matter to Congress. When he does, I shall attend to what you have said on that head.

With respect to the other matters you sent me, I am of opinion that any good effect that might flow from them must be local—I mean, that it would be confined principally to the inhabitants of that County; and, on the other hand—at a time of such imminent danger, when powerful armies are actually knocking at our gates, and the serious attention of every friend to American liberty is employed in giving that manly opposition to those vile invaders of their just rights, privileges, and property—whether it would be prudent to hold out to the world such numbers of internal enemies, especially as, by the manly and determined spirit prevailing in the Congress, their wings must and will be clipped. The Declaration has laid the foundation, and will be followed by laws fixing the degree of offence and punishment suitable. Some people have done things which, if done in future, nothing less than life will be sufficient to atone for. These enemies to our righteous cause will (I apprehend) be less on their guard, if they are not held up in that publick way, than if they are, and will undoubtedly meet their due reward, provided you pursue steadily your line of patriotism, and at the same time keep a watchful eye toward their conduct in the politicks of your country. These things must and will be inquired into. But, sir, now is the time and season that our open and avowed enemies are pressing hard. They call forth the attention and utmost vigilance of the Congress to that point. They well know they have internal enemies in disguise; and whenever, by the blessing of God, their virtuous efforts shall be crowned with success, they will immediately turn their thoughts toward those sappers of the rights of mankind. It is also the business of every Government, so soon as formed, to take in hand that business. South-Carolina has already set them a good example. I have sent you a pamphlet, called Observations on the nature of Civil Liberty, &c., written by Doctor Price, in England. It is an excellent piece, and I do not doubt (properly used) will tend to strengthen your patriotick, or, in other words, independent party. I have also directed one to Doctor McCall as a present.

The Militia of Pennsylvania are beginning their march this day towards New-York; and I do suppose that by the last of this week General Washington will be thirty thousand strong at least. Colonel Haslett's battalion (except one company, which is to stay at Lewis) is ordered up to Wilmington, as a security to Philadelphia in the absence of their Militia, as well as to the lower Counties, and hopes, for this reason, the Committee of Safety will permit them to retain (while thus employed) the Militia arms belonging to the publick.

Neither Betsey's nor Sally's shoes are yet done, though the measures were sent as soon as I got to town. I am glad to find that you are of opinion my harvest will be down by the last of this week. Pray do attend to it. Perhaps wheat will bring something next year.

I am yours, &c.,

CÆSAR RODNEY.

To Captain Thomas Rodney, Esq., at Dover.

JOHN ADAMS TO MRS. ADAMS.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

You will see by the newspapers which I from time to time enclose, with what rapidity the Colonies proceed in their political manœuvres. How many calamities might have been avoided, if these measures had been taken twelve months ago, or even no longer ago than last December.

The Colonies to the South are pursuing the same maxims which have heretofore governed those to the North. In constituting their new Governments, their plans are remarkably popular, more so than I could ever have imagined; even more popular than the "Thoughts on Government;" and in the choice of their rulers, capacity, spirit, and zeal in the cause, supply the place of fortune, family, and every other consideration which used to have weight with mankind. My friend Archibald Bulloch, Esq., is Governour of Georgia; John Rutledge, Esq., is Governour of South-Carolina; Patrick Henry, Esq., is Governour of Virginia, &c.; Dr. Franklin will be Governour of Pennsylvania. The new Members of this city are all in this taste, chosen because of their inflexible zeal for Independence. All the old Members left out because they opposed Independence, or at least were lukewarm about it. Dickinson, Morris, Allen, all fallen, like grass before the scythe, notwithstanding all their vast advantages in point of fortune, family, and abilities. I am inclined to think, however, and to wish that these gentlemen may be restored at a fresh election, because, although mistaken in some points, they are good characters, and their great wealth and numerous connexions will contribute to strengthen America, and cement her Union.

I wish I were at perfect liberty to portray before you all these characters in their genuine lights, and to explain to you the course of political changes in this Province. It would give you a great idea of the spirit and resolution of the people, and show you, in a striking point of view, the deep roots of American Independence in all the Colonies. But it is not prudent to commit to writing such free speculations in the present state of things. Time, which takes away the veil, may lay open the secret springs of this surprising Revolution. But I find, although the Colonies have differed in religion, laws, customs, and manners, yet in the great essentials of society and government, they are all alike.

ADDRESS TO GENERAL ROBERDEAU.

To the Hon. DANIEL ROBERDEAU, Esq., First Brigadier-General for the Province of PENNSYLVANIA:

SIR: We are desired by the Board of Officers of the Second Battalion to inform you that they are fully sensible of the great attention and zeal with which you have conducted yourself while in the station of their Colonel, not only for the general and important interest of our bleeding country, but for those of the battalion in particular. Nothing but the consideration of your being advanced to a situation in which you can be more extensively useful, could alleviate the regret they feel on the removal of their Colonel.

We are instructed unfeignedly to congratulate you on your election to the distinguished department you now fill, which we have no doubt you will conduct with honour to yourself and advantage to the cause in which our lives and fortunes are so deeply engaged; and permit us to assure you that the officers and privates of the Second Battalion will always esteem it a peculiar privilege to be under your command, and you may depend upon their zeal and readiness on all occasions to support your authority and execute your orders.

Signed by order and in behalf of the Battalion:

JOHN BAYARD, Colonel.

JONATHAN SMITH, Captain.

SAMUEL MASSEY, Lieutenant.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

GENERAL ROBERDEAU'S REPLY.

GENTLEMEN: The sense which the Officers of the Second Battalion express, in this obliging Address, of my attention to, and zeal in, the service of my bleeding country, in that particular line of duty marked out by their free unanimous voice, is not only very honourable, but also highly pleasing, as it is a fresh proof of the regard of a corps with whom I have had uninterrupted happiness ever since our first connection, and whose esteem I would ever studiously cultivate. At the same time that I accept with thanks, as a further mark of regard, your congratulations on my late honourable appointment at Lancaster, permit me to say that neither that appointment nor your congratulations can prevent the pain of an ingenuous mind under the conscious sense of a want of talents for so important a station. However, the cause in which we are engaged is the cause of God, who loveth justice and hateth oppression. He can give efficacy to the feeblest efforts. The concurrence of officers and privates, in a general assurance of their zeal and readiness in the service of their country under my command, presages a happy, and, I trust, a successful campaign, for which they have my hearty thanks. I expect no less from every friend to America, engaged in the service, as I can have no private or sinister view, and it is evident union alone can serve our suffering country, whereas divisions would destroy it.

DANIEL ROBERDEAU.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1776.

LANCASTER (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Lancaster, July 10, 1776.

The necessity for Arms at present is such, that it is recommended to Thomas McClenaghan, a journeyman of Michael Rhinehart, (gun-barrel maker,) to go to work with the said Michael Rhinehart, as it is the opinion of the Committee that gun-barrel makers, and persons of such trades as are immediately necessary for the publick service, ought to continue at their particular employments.

BUCKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE

In Committee, Bucks County, July 10, 1776.

Resolved, That this Committee will use their utmost endeavours that the Resolve of the late Provincial Conference for embodying four hundred of the Associators of this County, be immediately put into execution; and that the following gentlemen be appointed Officers, being the proportion allotted to this County, viz: Colonel, Joseph Hart; Captains: John Followell, William Roberts, William Hart, Valentine Up, John Jamison; First Lieutenants: John Kræsen, Henry Duroch, Hugh Long, Philip Trumbower, Dennis Middle-swart; Second Lieutenants: Abraham Dubois, James Shaw, Jacob Drake, Samuel Dcane, John Irvine; Ensigns: — McKissack, William Hines, Joseph Hart, Stoffel Keller, John McCammon; Adjutant: John Johnson; Surgeon: Joseph Fenton, Jun.; Quartermaster: Alexander Benstead.

Resolved, That where any person or persons within any Township of this County, shall refuse to deliver his or their Firearms to the Collectors of Arms, either chosen or appointed, agreeable to a late resolve of the Assembly of this Province, the said Collectors, or any one of them, shall apply to the Colonel, or, in his absence, the next in command of the Battalion to which the Associators of that Township belong, who shall thereupon give orders to such officer and such number of men as he shall apprehend proper and sufficient to enforce the said resolve of Assembly.

Resolved, That where it shall appear to the Collector of Arms, that any person or persons have been possessed of good Firearms, and do not deliver them, or satisfy the Collectors where they are, the said Collectors, or any of them, cite such person or persons to appear before this Committee at their next meeting, and satisfy this Board how the said Arms have been disposed of.

Agreeable to two Resolves of the Committee of Safety of this Province, this Committee have appointed Gerret Dungan to cause the Firearms collected from Non-Associators in this County, to be immediately rendered fit for use.

Matthew Bennet is appointed for the First Battalion, and Jared Irvine for the Second, Third, and Fourth Battalions of Associators in this County, to seize the guns and mark the size on the breechpin, or lower end of the barrel.

By order of the Committee:

JOSEPH HART, Chairman.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 12, 1776. Referred to the Board of War.]

In Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, }
Trenton, July 10, 1776. }

SIR: By order of the Provincial Congress, I am to inform you that, on the sudden call of the Commander-in-Chief at New-York, the Militia of several of the eastern Counties have marched to the General's assistance; and also a number from the western part of the Colony there, together with the new levies for the requested brigade, have greatly drained us of men, at a time when the grain (the support of the Colony) is in imminent danger of being neglected and lost. The condition of this Colony, from the present situation of the enemy, has been such that the Militia have been necessarily detained hitherto. In such circumstances, we have with pleasure received information that the Militia of Pennsylvania is about to march to our assistance. While we thus enjoy the pleasing prospect of more effectually opposing our common enemy, we hope the Congress will give such directions as may afford an opportunity for immediately dismissing our Militia for the present, in order that they may save and secure their grain, already suffering.

At Trenton, where we understand the camp is to be formed, the Pennsylvania Militia cannot effect the purpose, which we have greatly at heart, of relieving our people from their attendance, that their harvests may not perish. We submit to Congress, therefore, the propriety of sending forward our friends from Pennsylvania to the eastern part of this Colony; if not all, at least such part of them as may be thought more immediately necessary.

Besides the danger of our harvest suffering, a more pressing one, if possible, urges us to this application, which is that of our people from the interior Counties deserting the service in order to preserve their crops; the rather as some of our Counties have in a great measure withheld their force, whilst others have turned out almost to a man.

We are, sir, your most humble servants.

By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

DR. WITHERSPOON TO COLONEL HARRISON.

Dr. WITHERSPOON's compliments to Colonel Harrison. The bearer of this is Mr. Rowland Chambers, recommended by the Provincial Congress of New-Jersey as Paymaster to the three thousand three hundred men raised in Jersey for the Army at New-York. He will be obliged to Colonel Harrison, if he is appointed, to let him know as soon as possible the condition of the bond to be taken of him, and the nature of the security, that no time may be lost in providing it.

Philadelphia, Friday, July 12, 1776.

In Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, }
Burlington, June 27, 1776. }

Resolved, That Mr. Rowland Chambers be recommended by this Congress to the honourable Continental Congress as a proper person to be Paymaster of the new levies raising in this Colony to reinforce the Army at New-York.

Extract from the Minutes:

WILLIAM PATERSON, Secretary.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED PRINCETON, NEW-JERSEY,
JULY 10, 1776.

Last night Nassau-Hall was grandly illuminated, and Independency proclaimed under a triple volley of musketry, and universal acclamation for the prosperity of the United States. The ceremony was conducted with the greatest decorum.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.
[Read July 11, 1776.]

New-York, July 10, 1776.

SIR: I am now to acknowledge the receipt of your two favours of the 4th and 6th instant, which came duly to hand, with their important enclosures.

I perceive that Congress have been employed in deliberating on measures of the most interesting nature. It is certain it is not with us to determine, in many instances, what consequences will flow from our counsels; but yet it behooves us to adopt such as, under the smiles of a gracious and all-kind Providence, will be most likely to promote our happiness. I trust the late decisive part they have taken is calculated for that end, and will secure us that freedom and those privileges which have been and are refused us, contrary to the views of nature and the British Constitution. Agreeable to the request of Congress, I caused the Declaration to be proclaimed before all the Army under my command, and have the pleasure to inform them that the measure seemed to have their most hearty assent—the expressions and behaviour, both of officers and men, testifying their warmest approbation of it. I have transmitted a copy to General Ward, at Boston, requesting him to have it proclaimed to the Continental troops in that department.

It is with great pleasure that I hear the Militia from Maryland, the Delaware Government, and Pennsylvania, will be in motion every day to form the Flying-Camp. It is of great importance, and should be accomplished with all possible despatch. The readiness and alacrity with which the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania and the other conferees have acted, in order to forward the associated Militia of that State to the Jerseys for service, till the men to compose the Flying-Camp arrive, strongly evidence their regard to the common cause, and that nothing on their part will be wanting to support it. I hope, and I doubt not, that the associated Militia, impressed with the expediency of the measure, will immediately carry it into execution, and furnish in this instance a proof of the continuance of that zeal which has so eminently marked their conduct. I have directed the Commissary to make necessary provision for their reception, who will also supply the Army for the Flying-Camp with rations. A proper officer will be appointed to command it.

In pursuance of the power given me by Congress, and the advice of my General Officers, I have written to General Ward, and desired him forthwith to detach three of the fullest regiments from the Massachusetts-Bay to join the northern Army, esteeming it a matter of the greatest importance to have a sufficient force there to prevent the enemy's passing the lake, and making an impression in that quarter. The gondolas and galleys will be of great service, and I am hopeful the carpenters you have sent from Philadelphia, and that will go from the eastward on your application, will be able to build a sufficient number in time to answer every exigency.

I have requested Governour Cooke, if the duck mentioned in Mr. Greene's letter is proper for tents, to have it made up as early as possible, and forwarded here. I have also desired him to send the flints and small-arms; as I leave General Ward those of the latter that were taken out of the Scotch transports, our deficiency in those necessary articles being still greater.

Observing that Congress have particularly mentioned a bounty of ten dollars to be paid to men of some corps directed to be raised in two or three instances, since their resolve of the 26th of June allows such bounty, I have been led to doubt how that resolve is to be construed; whether it is a general regulation, and extends to all men that will engage for three years: for instance, the soldiers of the present Army, if they will enlist for that time. If it is, and extends to them, it will be necessary to forward a large sum of money; many, perhaps, would engage. I also observe, by the resolve of the 25th June, for raising four regiments of Militia in the eastern Governments, to augment the troops in the Northern Department, that the Assemblies of those Governments are empowered to appoint Paymasters to the said regiments. This appears to me a regulation of great use, and I could wish that it was made general, and one allowed to every regiment in the service: many advantages would result from it.

The Connecticut Militia begin to come in; but from every account, the battalions will be very incomplete, owing, they say, to the busy season of the year. That Government, lest any inconveniences might result from their Militia not being here in time, ordered three regiments of their Light-horse to my assistance, part of which have arrived; but not having the means to support them, (and if it could be done, the expense would be enormous,) I have thanked the gentlemen for their zeal and the attachment they have manifested upon this occasion, and informed them that I cannot consent to their keeping their horses, at the same time wishing them to stay themselves. I am told that they, or part of them, mean to do so.

General Mercer is now in the Jerseys, for the purpose of receiving and ordering the Militia coming from the Flying-Camp, and have sent over our Chief Engineer to view the grounds within the neighbourhood of Amboy, and to lay out some necessary works for the encampment, and such as may be proper at the different passes in Bergen-Neck and other places on the Jersey shore, opposite Staten-Island, to prevent the enemy making impressions and committing depredations on the property of the inhabitants.

The intelligence we have from a few deserters that have come over to us, and from others, is, that General Howe has between nine and ten thousand men, who are chiefly landed on the Island, posted in different parts, and securing the several communications from the Jerseys with small works and intrenchments, to prevent our people from paying them a visit; that the Islanders have all joined them, seem well disposed to favour their cause, and have agreed to take up arms in their behalf. They look for Admiral Howe's arrival every day, with his fleet and a large reinforcement, and are in high spirits, and talk confidently of success and carrying all before them when he comes. I trust, through divine favour and our own exertions, they will be disappointed in their views; and, at all events, any advantages they may gain will cost them very dear. If our troops will behave well, which I hope will be the case, leaving everything to contend for that freedom they hold dear, they will have to wade through much blood and slaughter before they can carry any part of our works, if they carry them at all; and at best be in possession of a melancholy and mournful victory. May the sacredness of our cause inspire our soldiery with sentiments of heroism, and lead them to the performance of the noblest exploits. With this wish, I have the honour to be, with the greatest esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

New-York, July 10, 1776.

In pursuance of the Declaration for Independency, a general jail delivery, with respect to Debtors, took place here this day.

On Monday last, a small party of our men were sent to drive off cattle from Bergen woods; their curiosity led them to march along Bergen shore, to view the regulars on Staten-Island. On seeing two of their officers riding along the road towards Elizabethtown-Point, some of our men thought to scare them, and fired their pieces at them, over the river, nearly opposite Decker's Ferry. About two minutes after, they thundered away incessantly for some time at our people with their cannon, but did them no hurt, as they betook themselves to the woods; however, they continued their fire with great fury for a considerable time, thinking, no doubt, that we had been intrenching there with a great force. It was no small diversion to our men to see them throwing away their powder and shot among the trees. They picked up some of the balls and brought them away with them.

During the past week several of the newly raised regiments of Connecticut troops have arrived in town, and appear to be as fine a body of men as any engaged in the present grand struggle for liberty and independence. Among them, the Light-Dragoons, between five and six hundred, who came to town yesterday, and paraded on horseback through the city, made a noble and martial appearance; and as this corps is composed of the substantial yeomanry of a virtuous sister State, nothing could be more agreeable or animating to all true friends of their country. Some of these worthy soldiers assisted, in their present uniforms, at the reduction of Louisburgh, and their "lank, lean cheeks, and war-worn coats," are viewed with more veneration by their honest countrymen than if they were glittering nabobs from India, or bashaws with nine tails.

PETITION OF JOSEPH BLANCHARD AND OTHERS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of the Province of NEW-YORK:

The Petition of the subscribers, inhabitants upon LONG-ISLAND, in said Province, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioners were taken prisoners by a military power, and confined in jail in the City of New-York, which confinement your petitioners apprehend to be occasioned by some mistaken opinion of their political principles. They hereby beg leave to assure the honourable Congress that they nor either of them have, by any ways or means whatsoever, directly or indirectly given or offered any aid, assistance, or information, to the Army or Navy of the King of Great Britain, relative to the dispute now subsisting between Great Britain and these Colonies. That your petitioners are all tradesmen and farmers, and at this season of the year in particular their business must greatly suffer by reason of their absence. Therefore your petitioners most humbly pray that, in tender compassion to their health, their families, and circumstances, your Honours will take their case under consideration, and cause them to be discharged, or otherwise suffer them to be brought before your Honours, that they may know of what they are accused, and what is expected of them to do. And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

H. GLEN TO WALTER LIVINGSTON.

Schenectady, July 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 2d instant, accompanied with a deputation as an Assistant Deputy Commissary, is duly come to hand, and am much obliged to you for appointing me to that post. I would have written you sooner, but have been so busy in getting forward a party of men with some cannon, artillery, &c. They are now on their way to the German-Flats, to Colonel Dayton. I had no batteau-men to spare but what were wanted to take up the artillery stores and engineers' ditto, which I had orders to send first, but at the same time sent off fifteen wagons, loaded with sixty barrels of pork, to the German-Flats, directed to the Deputy-Commissary, which I find is as cheap as in boats, as the water in this river is very low. I have some reason to believe that Colonel Dayton, with his regiment (when the officer of the Train with the artillery comes to the German-Flats) will proceed to Fort Stanwix; and as the two companies of batteau-men, with twenty boats, are entirely loaded with artillery and engineers' stores, I have ordered the captains, whenever they have delivered their loading to Colonel Dayton, wherever he will please to order them; which will be at Fort Stanwix. The batteau-men, with three batteaus, are to proceed to the Little-Falls. Since the batteau-men went from here with the artillery, &c., came down one Captain Van Epps, who had undertaken to raise a company of batteau-men to take in flour at Major Fonda's, or wherever the Major may have it ready. I have ordered Van Epps with his men to make two trips, with flour, from Major Fonda's to the Little-Falls, which they are to carry up to Fort Stanwix before they come back. I shall by that time know if these companies of batteau-men are to remain in this river; if so, shall fix one of the companies between the Little-Falls and Fort Stanwix, before they come down, and the other company between this and the said falls; so there will be no occasion for transporting any of the batteaus across the Little-Falls' carrying-place. Your instructions I shall follow, you may depend on. The copies Mr. Beecher sent for entries I have received. The returns will be sent you at the day required. I can get no scales and weights, but I have taken my storehouse to store the pork and beef, and as I have scales, weights, &c., of my own, shall make use of them for the present.

I am informed that the Commissioners of Indian Affairs are going up to have a treaty with the Indians. I would be glad to know whether they are to have pork, and from where. The pork I sent to the Flats is intended for Colonel Dayton's regiment, and is to make up the loading I am to send to Fort Stanwix with flour from Major Fonda's.

I am, dear sir, your humble servant,
H. GLEN.
To Walter Livingston, Esq., Deputy Commissary-General, at Albany.

H. GLEN TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Schenectady, July 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 30th ultimo I received, and immediately, in conformity to your order to me of the 26th, began to put them in execution. I can now inform you that I have sent off all the artillery and engineers' stores to the German-Flats, to Colonel Dayton, with the Captains Lansing and Wolcott, loaded in nineteen batteaus, together with sixty barrels of pork in wagons, as the boats could not load anything more than the artillery, &c., and the river very low withal. I was considerably put to it in getting the cannon loaded, for want of proper implements, as the officer of the artillery had neglected to bring a gin with him. I have likewise been under the necessity to purchase three oilcloths for the preservation of the ammunition. I have also got them a gin made here, and procured a tackle, as I found it impossible for them to load the cannon on carriages and the like, so that I got them fixed after a good deal of trouble. The batteaus were but indifferent in general; neither was the complement here fit for service, as was expected. Since the first batteaus, under Lansing and Wolcott, went off, came down Ernst Van Epps, with twenty men. I did immediately on his arrival despatch him to Fonda's for flour, with seven boats to carry the same to the Falls, and ordered him to make two trips and then return here. The flour Van Epps will bring to the Falls, and the pork sent in wagons will, by computation, make a loading for Lansing and Wolcott when they return, after delivering the artillery anywhere Colonel Dayton will have it brought. So that there will be no occasion of having the boats carried over the carrying-place until they may have gone a trip more with provisions, which, by computation, will make out thirty-five days' provisions for seven hundred men, if they are supplied with a little fresh with the pork. By the time the batteaus may have done this work, I expect to be honoured with your further commands (as I have ordered them down here) what they are next to do. And should then anything be ordered to Colonel Dayton, at Fort Stanwix, where I have reason to expect he will be, I then intend to station one company above the Falls, to prevent the carrying of the batteaus over so often. You may rely on my exerting everything in my power to promote the service you have been pleased to honor me with.

I have the honour to be, dear sir, your very humble servant,
H. GLEN.

To the Hon. Major-General Schuyler.

COLONEL HARTLEY TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 10, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: I yesterday evening returned from a command which I hope I have executed to the satisfaction of your Honour and the other Generals. This absence has deprived me of the pleasure of seeing you here; but, as a matter of the last consequence to the Army is likely soon to be determined, I hope you will excuse my freedom. I have understood that the regiments are to be brigaded. If so, I should apprehend that it will tend to the furtherance of the service much, that the Pennsylvanians should be brigaded together. If there is no General proper to be appointed over them, Colonel St. Clair, an old and experienced officer, would be exceedingly acceptable, and every one would act with confidence under him.

I have a great regard for the eastern troops; but I am confident they will act much better alone than joined with us. Our policy and manners are so exceedingly different, that it would require a much greater time than can now be spent to blend them properly together. Much business is to be done this campaign; and I am certain, from what I have observed, that we shall be happier, and act better, if the eastern and southern troops are in distant brigades.

We shall preserve a polite and friendly intercourse, and will endeavour to wipe off all Colonial distinctions and prejudices; but it will, in my weak opinion, tend to increase them, if brigaded together at present. I write this with a real intention of advancing the service; and am, with the greatest respect, your most humble servant,

THOS. HARTLEY.

To General Gates.

IRA ALLEN TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Union River, July 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I learn you are alarmed at the retreat of our Army out of Canada. Can assure you the savages have killed and scalped a number of men by the river La Cole, on the west side of Lake Champlain. When they will visit us or you, is uncertain. Advise you to look sharp, and keep scouts out, but not to move, except some families much remote from the main inhabitants. Last Saturday, was at Crown-Point with General Sullivan. He assured me he would do all in his power to protect the frontier settlements.

I proposed a line of forts by this river to Cohos. He said he believed that to be the best place, and made no doubt but it would be done. He immediately ordered Colonel Waite and two hundred men to this place, here to remain, and grant all protection in his power to the inhabitants. Before I left there, Generals Schuyler, Gates, and Arnold, arrived. I conclude there is a determination before this time in regard to all the frontiers. I make no doubt but a line of block forts is agreed on by all, from this river to yours, and so round your frontiers. Had intelligence from St. John's about twelve days ago. Our enemy had but one hundred tents, which, at most, could not be for more than six hundred men. They did not appear to be in much preparation for war. At Chambly, there were but few men. It is thought by some that the enemy are busy in sending provisions and clothing to all the garrisons near the head of the river St. Laurence, and in supplying the Indians with all necessaries. The small-pox has almost gone through our Army; they are in much better health than they were. Gondolas are building; the vessels are preparing for war. I hope, in a short time, they will be able to beat all the powers of Britain on this Lake. Crown-Point is proposed for headquarters. In haste,

IRA ALLEN.

NATHAN MILLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Camp at Newport, July 10, 1776.

SIR: When I take pen in hand to address a gentleman with whom I have not the pleasure of an acquaintance, I feel myself abashed; but when I call to mind the injury received from your son, I feel myself bold.

I am Commissary to the troops in the Colony of Rhode-Island, appointed by the General Assembly of the said Colony; and when I heard the troops were like to be put under the Continental establishment, I wrote a letter to your son, of 30th May. A copy of the answer I herewith enclose you, dated the 9th June, to which requisition I complied, as you may see by a copy of another letter, of the 28th June, received by Peter Phillips, Esq., by which you will see the ungentle treatment of which I have abundant reason to complain. He, in his first letter, tells me how to proceed to make matters to his satisfaction, and, in his next, acknowledges them to be so; but informs me that Peter Phillips has a Colony appointment antecedent to mine. I acknowledge it; but it was to General Greene's brigade, which went immediately out of the Colony when raised, and Mr. Phillips with them, who might have remained, and no one have superseded him to this day. I am sure I should never have harboured such a thought, although I have the vanity to think I have been as good a friend to my country on every occasion as any one in it, according to my capacity;

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

and from the distraction of the empire, am now deprived of the profits of a very good branch of business, viz: ship-building, in which I have hitherto maintained a reputable character, till those distractions came on, which changed the face of matters in such a way, that business of that kind was at an end; and it pleased the Colony to appoint me to the place of Commissary to the Rhode-Island troops, where I was in a way still to support my character; and after the greatest encouragement, even to a promise, without a fault, and without any previous notice, gave Peter Phillips a commission to take my place; the justice of which I submit to your abundant goodness; while I subscribe myself, your Honour's most obedient, &c.

NATHAN MILLER.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

WILLIAM PITKIN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Hartford, July 10, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: I have, since the first of this month, kept a guard at my powder-mill, at the expense of seven shillings per night. I was urged into the measure by a great number of gentlemen that live forty or fifty miles distant. Threats have leaked out from Skene, and other inimical monsters, that it should be destroyed, if art or money could effect it. I intended to procure, in writing, the opinion of all the principal gentlemen in this town, that it is absolutely necessary some effectual measures should be taken at the expense of Government, to prevent the intended destruction, which they were fond of signifying to your Honour and Committee, but have not time. Mr. Bennet is now with me, pleading for powder. I have repeated applications from people at the northward in great distress, some of whom I have supplied, upon advice of gentlemen in authority in this town; but shall supply no further without your Honour's direction. Only add that I am, with the highest esteem, your Honour's obedient humble servant,

WM. PITKIN.

To Governour Trumbull.

P. S. Mr. Bennet, of Hartford, went from Ashford; has the character of an honest, good man, on whom your Honour may rely for intelligence, &c.

COLONEL HERRICK TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: A few days since, I received the within resignation from Captain Flint and his subalterns. They were commissioned by your Honours to command the second company in my regiment; so that said company is now destitute of officers; and I submit it to your Honours to judge what is proper to be done, and wait your orders.

I am, your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY HERRICK,

Colonel of 8th Regiment, in the County of Essex.

To the Honourable Council of Massachusetts-Bay.

Danvers, July 8, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: We, the subscribers, with profound respect to you, take leave to send you a few lines, to inform you that we have a real zeal for the good of our country, and nothing can be more agreeable to us than to see universal harmony and benevolence prevail in every regiment and company of Militia upon the Continent, being sensible that the exigency of the times requires it more immediately now than ever; but, sir, as we cannot think our accepting the commissions offered to us by the honourable Council of this Colony will be attended with peace in this company, and for some other reasons which one of us has heretofore given you, we take leave, in this manner, to acquaint you, that we utterly refuse to accept the commissions. Hoping that you will be directed to some better method of setting the company in peace, we are, sir, your humble servants,

SAMUEL FLINT,

DANIEL PUTNAM,

JOSEPH PUTNAM, JR.

WORCESTER COUNTY (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

The good people of this County are hereby informed, that there are a considerable number of Prisoners in this town, who are willing to go out to service, if proper persons should appear to hire them. The method of obtaining them is as follows:

The persons applying must have a certificate from the Committee of Safety, &c., of the town where each applicant belongs, recommending them to be friendly to the American cause, and must have a receipt from said Committee to be given to the Sheriff, and give a receipt to them, at the same time engaging to return the Prisoners whenever thereto required.

Worcester, July 10, 1776.

NORTHBOROUGH, (WORCESTER COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS.)
COMMITTEE.

Northborough, July 10, 1776.

At a meeting of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, it was voted unanimously, that Thomas Billings, and his son Sylvanus Billings, John Taylor, and James and John Eager, be all confined to the limits of their respective farms in said town; and that they should not pass said bounds on any occasion whatever, without leave it writing from the major part of said Committee, unless it be to attend publick worship or funerals in their own town.

As we consider these persons unfriendly to the cause for which the United Independent States of North America are contending, and as there have lately been many private meetings of them with others in other towns, (with ill design, as we have too much reason to think,) they are now held up to publick view; and all persons in town and out, who are friends to their country, are desired to concur with this Committee in their endeavours to prevent all such meetings for the future; and if the above-named persons are found beyond the limits aforesaid without a pass, to apprehend and return them to the Committee, or detain them in custody until they inform said Committee thereof. And all persons are warned not to have any commercial intercourse with them, agreeable to the Association of the Congress, as they would avoid being treated in the same manner.

By order of the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, of Northborough:

JOHN BALL, Chairman.
JETHRO PETERS, Clerk.

Attest:

SUBSCRIPTION TO ENCOURAGE INLISTMENTS.

Kittery, Maine, July 10, 1776.

Whereas some difficulty attends the raising the proportion of men assigned this town by the General Assembly, for the purpose of opposing our cruel and most implacable enemies, we, the subscribers, being duly affected with a sense of the justice of our present contest, and also of the absolute necessity that the said men be forthwith inlisted and sent to the place of destination, for encouragement and in order to expedite this measure, do severally promise to pay unto Charles Chauncey, Esquire, the sums respectively set against our names.

Charles Chauncey ,	- -	ten dollars.
Edward Cutts ,	- -	seven dollars.
N. Sparhawk ,	two joes,	or sixteen dollars.
William Moore ,	- -	one dollar.
Roger Dearing ,	- -	one dollar.
James Hearswell ,	- -	one dollar.
William Dearing ,	- -	one dollar.
Thomas Harnat ,	- -	half-dollar.
Joseph Gerrish ,	- -	two dollars.
Richard Cutts ,	- -	seven dollars.
Samuel Mitchell ,	- -	four shillings.
Jeremiah Mitchell ,	- -	three shillings.
William Mitchell ,	- -	four shillings.
Joseph Bitmer ,	- -	one dollar.
Benjamin Mogdridge ,	- -	one dollar.

London, July 11, 1776.

The following letter was received yesterday from Mr. Charles Barns, commander of the snow Blake, in the service of Government, dated Cadiz Bay, June 20:

"Yesterday morning I chased an American ship of about two hundred and fifty tons into this bay, but cannot take her, it being a foreign port. I never was more surprised in my life when I found there were three American privateers riding here at single anchor, and a number of their merchant vessels loading and unloading at the quays. A large Spanish fleet of men-of-war have sailed from this place, but to what part I cannot learn, all manner of business being conducted here with the greatest mystery."

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ST. EUSTATIA TO A GENTLEMAN
IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED JULY 11, 1776.

You have herewith a few West-India papers, and an extract of a letter received from Dominica, dated July 8.

We have a vessel here from Dublin, that sailed May 28. The captain brings accounts of A. Thompson, Newry, A. Bryan, and James Lecky, Dublin, being all taken up by order of the Privy Council of Ireland, for carrying on correspondence with the people of America. Mr. Bryan was discharged, but Mr. Thompson and Mr. Lecky were held to great bail; and when the Captain sailed, an officer was kept on Mr. Lecky's house, and his papers sealed up. It was the affair of the gunpowder he purchased last year for Mr. B. McClenachan, to be shipped by the Hancock and Adams, that Mr. Lecky was taken up for; and the appearance of Captain Forrest in Dublin from Nantz revived the story, and caused these disagreeable things to happen. Large subscriptions were made or offered for Mr. Lecky, to support him against this attack of the Council.

About ten days ago the Pomona frigate, Captain Eastwood, came down from Antigua, and came to in this road, where she stayed for several days, with intention, as we since find, to wait the sailing of a brig, Captain Booker, (owned formerly by Mr. Goodrich, of Virginia, but at present Dutch property,) bound to Amsterdam. As soon as the brig got under way, the Pomona followed and took her. She was sent into St. Kitts, and an express sent up to the Admiral at Antigua to know what to do with her. It appears that information was lodged against said vessel that she was bound to America with warlike stores, &c., and it is expected as soon as she is examined will be discharged.

While Captain Eastwood lay in this road, he sent a letter to our Governour, requesting leave to take possession of several American vessels then in the road, two or three of which were loaded with powder, dry goods, &c., and ready to sail. The Governour informed him he could grant him no such permission, and desired he might not attempt to commit any hostilities by offering a thing of this nature. The Governour and Council met on this occasion, and determined that, in future, if any English frigates or cruisers came within reach of the guns of any fort of this Island, with intention to obstruct the trade, the commanders of the different forts have orders to fire on them. The Pomona has kept within sight of this Island ever since, but has not attempted to come within reach of the forts.

Mr. De Graff (our late Secretary) is appointed Governour of this Island. His commission is expected out by the first vessel from Holland, and it is thought he will do everything in his power for the protection of trade.

P. S. Two of the passengers that came in the before-mentioned vessel from Dublin are just arrived here. They say that Captain Forrest arrived in Ireland from Nantz in a vessel under French colours, and on his appearance in Dublin was immediately suspected of coming for the powder he was disappointed in taking away before; on which his vessel was searched, and several letters and papers found on board, two of which letters were for Mr. Lecky and Mr. Thompson, in consequence of which they were taken up. Mr. Lecky is held to twenty thousand pounds bail, and Mr. Thompson to thirty thousand pounds, but Captain Forrest would not be admitted to bail, and was committed to prison in irons, where he lay when those gentlemen came away. It was the general opinion in Dublin that they would all three be removed to England for trial, and the consequence very uncertain.

CAPTAIN WICKES TO SECRET COMMITTEE IN CONGRESS.

On board the Ship Reprisal, July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This will inform you of my proceedings since I left Cape-May, the 3d instant. We left that place in company with thirteen merchantmen, who I think all got safe off, as we did not lose sight of them till they got a good distance from the land. We saw no ships-of-war at all on the coast.

We this day fell in with Captain Mackay, in the ship Friendship, from Granada, bound to London, loaded with rum, sugar, cocoa, and coffee, which ship I have taken, and sent John Parks in her prize-master, and have given him orders to get into Philadelphia, if possible; and if this should not be practicable, he is to run her into the first port in his power, and send an express to inform you immediately. Mr. Bingham is well, and desires his compliments to you. From, gentlemen, your most obliged, humble servant,

LAMBERT WICKES.

To the Committee of Secret Correspondence, Philadelphia.

P. S. Our people are all well to three or four. We are in longitude 57° west, and latitude 31°.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN PHILADELPHIA FROM SAVANNAH, GEORGIA, DATED JULY 11, 1776.

We have received, by several expresses, very alarming news from the Indians. Colonel writes that the savages have murdered four families on our frontiers; that two women were taken prisoners, one of whom afterwards made her escape, and the other had her hands tied behind her, and was naked, all her clothes being taken from her. Some men have likewise been taken, and since found means to get away, who say there is a report that these Indians are to be joined by six hundred Creeks, and a number of the King's men, who are to march down and cut the settlements all off. We are also informed that a great number of people are fled from the ceded lands, and that the Cherokees and Creeks were to join and come down on the frontiers of South-Carolina and Georgia. These things confirm the truth of the Ministerial plan, discovered by the intercepted letters of Stuart and others. I am in hopes the action on Sullivan's Island will defeat the prosecution of their horrid projects, and give a different aspect to our affairs.

ASSOCIATORS OF THE CITY OF ANNAPOLIS.

At a meeting of the Associators of the City of Annapolis, on Thursday, the 11th of July, 1776, William Roberts, Esq., Chairman, John Duckett, Clerk:

1st. Resolved, That it is the duty of every inhabitant of the City of Annapolis, and of all persons having property therein, to contribute every assistance in their power for the protection and defence of the City and the inhabitants thereof, and that Mr. James Brice, Mr. John Bullen, Mr. Charles Wallace, Mr. William Wilkins, Mr. Beriah Maybury, Mr. John Brice, and Mr. John Campbell, or a majority of them, or any three or more of them, be a Committee to act on behalf of the inhabitants of this City; and that they wait on the Council of Safety, and inform them that the inhabitants will afford every assistance in their power for the putting the City into the best posture of defence; and that the inhabitants will, in person, or by others employed at their expense, labour on any intrenchments or works which the Council shall think necessary.

2d. Resolved, That the said Committee be empowered to call on every inhabitant of the City, and every person having property therein, to labour in person, or to furnish some person to labour in his stead, at such time and place as the Committee shall think proper, on the works that may be ordered by the Council of Safety to be erected for the defence of the City.

3d. Resolved, That the said Committee be authorized to execute all matters which may be recommended by the Council of Safety for the defence of the City, or for the keeping peace and good order therein.

4th. Resolved, That no member of this meeting will, and that it is the opinion of the meeting that no inhabitant of the City of Annapolis ought, to buy from, or employ, any merchant, tradesman, or any other person, who has not subscribed the Association.

5th. Resolved, That application be made by the Committee to the Council of Safety not to employ in the publick service any Non-Associator, and that they be requested to give a preference to such tradesmen and others as have manifested their attachment and zeal to the liberties of America.

Ordered, That copies of the above Resolutions be transmitted by the Chairman to the Associators of Baltimore town, for their opinion and concurrence.

Ordered, That the names of the Non-Associators in this City be published, and distributed among the inhabitants.

Resolved, That this meeting be adjourned to the 10th day of August next, and that the Committee have power to call a meeting at any time before, if they shall think proper.

True copy of the proceedings.

Test: JOHN DUCKETT, Clerk.

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 11, 1776.

SIRS: The brigs are both discharged. On hoisting out the lower tier of the flour on board Mr. Lux and Mr. Bowly's brig, I find it is damaged. I have had two gentlemen to view the flour. The report they make, I send you. The flour appears to have been wet some time ago, as it is rotten all round the outsides and head of the barrel, and has since dried, so that it is hard and black, which answers with what Captain Sands reports concerning it, as he says that it has not been wet this some time, but was under water more than two months ago, and not since. His report I have taken down in writing, as I think there has been a fault. I would be glad that the blame should be fixed right. Mr. Spear has all the damaged flour in his custody, and says that he will bake all that can be baked, and the remainder must be returned. I suppose Mr. Lux ought to take it. If so, Mr. Spear says he will assist Mr. Lux in dividing it, and such as can be baked, he will bake. The bake-houses are going on; and I suppose there might be a parcel of bread, and part of Captain Woolsey's flour, sent to the brig that lately arrived with your powder. If it is practicable, and must be done, the sooner the better. I received yours this day, and shall speak to Mr. Jacobs this evening, about making the tents. I think the linen must come here, as the sailmakers would choose to work at home with their hands.

From yours,

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.

To the Honourable Council of Safety, at Annapolis.

Baltimore, July 12, 1776.

We, the subscribers, being requested by Mr. Jesse Hollingsworth to inspect some flour, (suppose near one hundred barrels,) said to be landed from the brig Fortune, belonging to Messrs Lux and Bowly, and which flour was purchased by them for the honourable the Council of Safety for this Province, do, to the best of our knowledge, believe that such of the aforesaid flour as we have examined has been damaged by bilge water, admitted into the hold of the said vessel, through insufficiency of said vessel, or neglect of the hands then on board, in not pumping her as often as necessary, and the said flour is now hard, rotten, and musty, and unfit for baking, or any other merchantable use.

MARK ALEXANDER,
BENJAMIN GRIFFITH.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 11, 1776:

Present: Samuel Purviance, Jun., Chairman, W. Lux, Vice Chairman, W. Buchanan, W. Aisquith, J. Calhoun, B. Griffith, J. Sterrett, and J. Griest.

The following appointment of Officers for the two German Companies to be raised in this County was agreed upon, and a copy thereof transmitted by letter to the Council of Safety:

Philip Greybill, Captain; John Shora, First Lieutenant; Christian Myers, Second Lieutenant; and Martin Shugart, Ensign.

George Peter Keyports, Captain; Samuel Garroch, First Lieutenant; William Ritter, Second Lieutenant; and John Lindenberger, Ensign.

Ordered, That the Chairman grant Dr. James Houston a permission to depart with his vessel, and that he advise the Committee of Somerset of our having taken security of the said James Houston in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds sterling for his good behaviour, and that the same was done from several suspicious circumstances which gave reason to believe him inimical to the interest of America, and requesting that they will give directions whether the said security shall be delivered up; which, it is presumed, they ought to do, provided the Committee of Somerset either choose to take security of the said Houston themselves, or have sufficient reason to believe him a friend to the country.

Whereas Abraham Evening, a person suspected of being inimical to the interest of America, was adjudged by this Committee to give security in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds sterling for his good behaviour, and hath neglected to do so, the Committee agreed to issue a warrant for the apprehending and commitment to prison of the said Abraham Evening, which was done, as follows:

Whereas a certain Abraham Evening was brought before this Committee on the 9th instant as a Non-Associator, and a person suspected of being unfriendly to the rights and liberties of America, and the Committee adjudged him, the said Abraham Evening, to find security in the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds sterling, agreeable to a resolve of the honourable Convention of this Province in that case made and provided, which security he, the said Abraham Evening, hath neglected:

These are therefore to require you to arrest the body of him, the said Abraham Evening, and deliver him, with this commitment, to the Sheriff of Baltimore County, who is commanded to receive into his custody the said Abraham Evening, and him in his Jail safely keep, until he finds the above mentioned security, or be delivered therefrom by the honourable the Convention of this Province, the honourable the Council of Safety, or this Committee; and for your so doing, this shall be your sufficient authority.

Given under our hands and seals this 11th July, 1776.

Signed by all present.

Attested:

GEORGE LUX, Secretary.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

In Committee, Baltimore, July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your instructions we have nominated the gentlemen, whose names are undermentioned, as officers for the two companies of Germans to be raised in this County.

We advertised a meeting of the Committee to be held this day for the very purpose, and have taken care to be as well informed as possible of the characters and qualifications of the persons who applied to us; and we have the satisfaction to assure you they are all persons whose merits and reputations appear to us in the most favourable light.

We are, with much respect, gentlemen, your most humble servants.

SAMUEL PURVIANCE, Jun., Ch'n.

WILLIAM BUCHANAN,

WILLIAM AISQUITH,

BENJAMIN GRIFFITH,

J. GRIEST,

JAMES CALHOUN,

JOHN STERRETT.

To the Honourable Council of Safety, at Annapolis.

Officers recommended for the two Companies of Germans to be raised in Baltimore County:

Philip Greybill, Captain; John Shora, First Lieutenant; Christian Myers, Second Lieutenant; and Martin Shugart, Ensign.

George Peter Keyports, Captain; Samuel Garroch, First Lieutenant; William Ritter, Second Lieutenant; and John Lindenberger, Ensign.

HARFORD COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to a resolve of the late Convention, empowering the Committee of this County to appoint the officers of a Rifle Company to be raised within this County, we have chosen and do recommend the following gentlemen as worthy of commissions, to wit: Alexander Lawson Smith, Captain; James White Hall, First Lieutenant; William Bradford, Second Lieutenant; and Josias Hall, Third Lieutenant; whose conduct, we flatter ourselves, will do honour to them and justice to the choice of this Committee.

We are, gentlemen, your most humble servants.

Signed per order of Committee of Harford County:

AMOS GARRETT, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL HALL.

[No. 25.]

Annapolis, July 11, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety think it proper that you and the battalion under your command should be stationed at this city and at Baltimore town, to supply the place of the regular troops that have marched from this Province to Pennsylvania. As we desire to see you as soon as possible, to concert the proper measures for the defence of this place, we request you will come to Annapolis as soon as you can. We send you enclosed your commission. We are, &c.

To Colonel Josias Carvil Hall.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BALTIMORE COUNTY COMMITTEE.

[No. 27.]

Annapolis, July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Council of Safety think it expedient to have a Magazine built at some place in your County, between five and ten miles back from Baltimore town. They would have it large enough to contain about four hundred barrels of powder, and a proportionable quantity of lead, arched and substantially built; and will be obliged if you will fix on any place you may judge safe and convenient, and contract for materials and attend to the construction of the same. They will supply the cash necessary to defray the expense whenever you will be pleased to call for it.

We are, &c.

To the Committee of Baltimore County.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COL. HOLLINGSWORTH.

[No. 28.]

Annapolis, July 11, 1776.

SIR: We are in immediate want of about four hundred bayonets, of different sized sockets, for the arms of the Eastern-Shore Militia, who are to compose part of the Flying-Camp, and have sent an order on you to Mr. Winters for them; and we request you will supply him with that number as soon as possible. The greatest exertions are necessary upon this occasion, and we doubt not your warmest efforts to enable us to carry into execution the resolves of our Convention with that despatch the exigency of the times require. We are, &c.

To Colonel Henry Hollingsworth.

JOHN ADAMS TO MRS. ADAMS.

Philadelphia, July 11, 1776.

You seem to be situated in the place of greatest tranquillity and security of any upon the Continent. I may be mistaken in this particular, and an armament may have invaded your neighbourhood before now. But we have no intelligence of any such design; and all that we now know of the motions, plans, operations, and designs of the enemy, indicate the contrary. It is but just that you should have a little rest, and take a little breath.

I wish I knew whether your brother and mine have enlisted in the Army, and what spirit is manifested by our Militia for marching to New-York and Crown-Point. The Militia of Maryland, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, and the lower Counties, are marching with much alacrity, and a laudable zeal, to take care of Howe and his Army at Staten-Island. The Army in New-York is in high spirits, and seems determined to give the enemy a serious reception. The unprincipled and unfeeling and unnatural inhabitants of Staten-Island are cordially receiving the enemy, and, deserters say, have engaged to take arms. They are an ignorant, cowardly pack of scoundrels. Their numbers are small, and their spirit less.

It is some time since I received any letter from you. The Plymouth one was the last. You must write me every week, by the post, if it is but a few lines. It gives me many spirits. I design to write to the General Court, requesting a dismissal, or at least a furlough. I think to propose that they choose four more members, or at least three more, that so we may attend here in rotation. Two or three or four may be at home at a time, and the Colony properly represented notwithstanding. Indeed, while the Congress were employed in political regulations, forming the sentiments of the people of the Colonies into some consistent system, extinguishing the remainders of authority under the Crown, and gradually erecting and strengthening Governments under the authority of the people, turning their thoughts upon the principles of polity and the forms of Government, framing Constitutions for the Colonies separately, and a limited and a defined Confederacy for the United Colonies, and in some other measures, which I do not choose to mention particularly, but which are now determined, or near the point of determination, I flattered myself that I might have been of some little use here. But now, these matters will be soon completed, and very little business will be to be done here, but what will be either military or commercial—branches of knowledge and business for which hundreds of others in our Province are much better qualified than I am. I shall therefore request my masters to relieve me.

I am not a little concerned about my health, which seems to have been providentially preserved to me much beyond my expectations; but I begin to feel the disagreeable effects of unremitting attention to business for so long a time, and a want of exercise, and the bracing quality of my native air; so that I have the utmost reason to fear an irreparable injury to my constitution, if I do not obtain a little relaxation. The fatigues of war are much less destructive to health than the painful, laborious, attention to debates, and to writing, which drinks up the spirits and consumes the strength. I am, &c.

RICHARD ELLIS TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[July 17, 1776, referred to the Board of War.]

Bohemia, Md., July 11, 1776.

HONOURED GENTLEMEN: The present critical and alarming season, the vengeful hand of tyranny, now ready to snatch from the subjects of our free and independent States all that is dear and sacred to them, to wit: their lives and liberties, make it necessary that each subject on the Continent should now, with a manly fortitude, assert their rights to the free donations of God and Nature. I presume that prudence will dictate to every American the necessity they are under of defending those inalienable rights, at the expense of their blood and treasure. It cannot be bought or purchased too dear, since life, liberty, and happiness, are thereby secured to the combatants and their posterity, on a happy conquest.

All that I can say for myself, as an individual, is, that a sense of the insult offered to my threatened, bleeding country, has begat in me an ardent desire to risk my life in its defence, and afford every aid in my power to its service and interest.

I hereby beg leave to inform the honourable Congress, that there are a number of likely men enlisted under my command already. They are to serve during the war between the American States and their enemies, or to the dismissal of Congress. To this number of men already engaged, can be added as many more as will make it a full company in three days. My officers are, Hezekiah Foard, Nicholas Vanhorn, and Thomas Bouldoin. If your Honours should think it meet and necessary to grant us commissions, we shall be ready to march in a few days from the date of our commissions, with a full company of healthy, stout, brave men, whose affection for each other are so interwoven, that it would be cruel to part them, as they are nearly all from our neighbourhood. Being fully assured your Honours will do every matter that may be productive of good to the States, with humble submission I wait the event of your answer.

In the interim, I am, gentlemen, with much respect, your Honours' obedient and very humble servant,

RICHARD ELLIS.

To the Honourable Continental Congress, Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 11, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to inform you that your several letters to this time have been duly received, in the order of their dates.

I now enclose sundry resolves, to which I must beg leave to request your attention.

Agreeable to the resolve herewith transmitted, I have enclosed Mr. Anderson's letter to you, and wrote you on the subject. He will present you with the letter himself.

The Postmaster having established a double post, in obedience to the resolve of Congress, a post will, after Monday next, leave New-York every morning, subject, however, to be detained or hastened whenever you think the publick service requires it.

It is with the greatest pleasure I inform you that the Militia of this Colony are in motion from one end to the other. Several companies marched yesterday, and a much greater number, I expect, will now march every day, until the whole are gone. A most laudable spirit seems to have taken place, and I am persuaded our exertions will exceed what I originally apprehended.

To that great and good Being who "poureth contempt on princes, and weakeneth the strength of the mighty," I beg leave most ardently to recommend you, and the cause you are intrusted to defend.

I have the honour to be, with much esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, July 11, 1776.

SIR: Your Excellency's letter of the 8th instant is received, but the Committee, having previously determined on the appointment of the four Captains of the German battalion, think themselves very unfortunate in not having it in their power to show the proper respect to the recommendation of Lieutenant Wilpert; the letter is, however, sent forward to the Convention of Maryland, who probably have not yet filled up the appointments committed to them by Congress.

The Committee, understanding that fire-vessels and rafts are preparing at New-York, and being told that the combustibles are managed there in a method different from ours, they are induced to send Captain Hazelwood to your Excellency, to offer his services in this business. They have the highest confidence in his skill and abilities, having given him the command of all their vessels and rafts. He has sent forward a quantity of useful materials, which he is told do not make any part of the composition at New-York.

The Committee do not mean he shall obtrude his opinion or advice upon those to whom your Excellency may have committed the direction of this species of defence; but they thought, on the comparison of different modes, some real improvements might be struck out. He takes with him Mr. Bedford, who has assisted in the construction of some of our fire-rafts.

I have the honour to be your most obedient, humble servant.

By order of the Board:

GEORGE CLYMER, Chairman.

To His Excellency General Washington, New-York.

PETITION OF FRANCIS MENTGES TO BE APPOINTED MAJOR OF THE GERMAN BATTALION.

[Read July 12. Ordered to lie. Referred to the Delegates of Pennsylvania and Maryland.]

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Thirteen UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in Congress met:

The Petition of FRANCIS MENTGES, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioner was lately appointed by the honourable Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania to the post of Adjutant of the battalion of Musketeers lately raised for the defence of said Province, and has continued since his said appointment in the faithful discharge of the duty of said office. That being a native of Germany, and hearing your Honours were about to raise a battalion composed of German only, in the Continental service, and humbly apprehending that he hath knowledge, ability, and experience equal to the duties of the post of Major, he humbly solicits from your Honours the appointment of your petitioner to the post of Major in the said battalion.

And, as in duty bound, &c.

FRANCIS MENTGES,

Adjutant in Pennsylvania Battalion of Musketeers.

July 11, 1776.

I do hereby certify, that the above gentleman, Mr. Francis Mentges, has acted as Adjutant in the battalion of Musketeers in the pay and service of the Province of Pennsylvania, under my command, with reputation. I therefore recommend him to the particular notice of the honourable the Continental Congress in the appointment of the officers for the German battalion to be raised for the service of the United Colonies.

SAMUEL T. ATLEE,

Colonel of Pennsylvania Musketeers.

July 11, 1776.

I approve of the above recommendation.

CALEB PARRY, Lieut. Col.

The petitioner is very capable of performing the duty of Major.

SAMUEL MILES,

Colonel of Pennsylvania Rifle Regiment.

WILLIAM WILL,

Captain First Battalion.

FRANCIS C. HASENLIUS,

Captain First Battalion.

FREDERICK KUHLE,

ISAAC MELCHIOR,

JACOB BARGE,

CHRISTOFFAL LUDWICK,

JOHN KEPPELE.

The Committee to whom it was referred to consider of proper Field-Officers for the German battalion to be raised in Pennsylvania and Maryland, beg leave to recommend Nicholas Hauseigger for Colonel, George Stricker for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Lodowick Welper for Major, of the said battalion.

The bearer, Captain George Stricker, of the Light-Infantry, in the First Battalion of Maryland Regulars, under my command, has served some time in the said corps, during which his conduct as a vigilant, good officer has gained my good opinion, and merited my approbation, which induces me to recommend him as a person qualified and disposed to form a good officer.

Given under my hand, this 9th day of July, 1776.

W. SMALLWOOD.

Annapolis, July 8, 1776.

SIR: If it should be the pleasure of Congress to appoint a Lieutenant-Colonel and Major of the German battalion from this Colony, I would beg leave to recommend to their notice Captain George Stricker and Mr. Lodowick Welper. Both these gentlemen are Germans, have been in actual service, and are much esteemed by all who know them. They have a considerable influence with their countrymen, speaking good English, and would greatly facilitate the raising of the men.

Captain Stricker commands a company of our regulars, and is capable of discharging the duty of Lieutenant-Colonel. Mr. Welper will make an active and intelligent Major.

I remain, sir, with every sentiment of regard and respect to yourself and the Congress, your most obedient servant,

SAMUEL CHASE.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

ACQUITTAL OF CAPTAINS SALTONSTALL AND WHIPPLE.

In Congress, July 11, 1776.

The Marine Committee, in pursuance of the order of Congress, reported that they have called before them divers of the inferior officers belonging to the ships Alfred and Columbus; and having heard their complaints against the Captains Saltonstall and Whipple, in their presence, are of opinion that the charges against Captain Saltonstall do not appear to be well founded, and that the charges against Captain Whipple amount to nothing more than a rough, indelicate mode of behaviour to his marine officers. Whereupon,

Resolved, That the Marine Committee be directed to order the Captains Saltonstall and Whipple to repair to their respective commands, and that it be recommended to Captain Whipple to cultivate harmony with the officers.

By order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

LANCASTER (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Inspection, Observation, and Correspondence, at the house of Adam Reigart, July 11, 1776:

Present: George Ross, Matthias Slough, William Atlee, Lodwick Louman, Christopher Crawford, Jacob Krug, William Bowsman, George Moore, Andrew Graff.

GEORGE ROSS, Esq., in the Chair.

Resolved, That one hundred and fifty men of the Associators be left as a guard in the Borough of Lancaster.

Resolved, That the said one hundred and fifty men be taken from among the Associators in the Borough of Lancaster.

On motion, Resolved, That Christopher Heyne, John Feltman, Michael Diffenderfer, and Nicholas Job, be requested to collect and purchase from the inhabitants of this town all the tin Camp-kettles they can procure, and for such prices as they think reasonable, for the use of the Militia now preparing to march by order of Congress.

Colonel Bartram Galbraith, Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander Lowrey, and Major James Cunningham, of the Sixth Battalion of Associators in Lancaster County, do certify, that the company of volunteers from their battalion to form a part of the six thousand Militia for the Flying-Camp, have chosen William Hay for their Captain, Robert Clark their First Lieutenant, Patrick Hays their Second Lieutenant, and William Patterson their Third Lieutenant; and the said Field-Officers recommending the said persons to the Committee for their appointment, the said certificate and recommendation is approved of, and the said William Hay, Robert Clark, Patrick Hays, and William Patterson, are, agreeable to the resolves of the conference of Committees of Pennsylvania, appointed the Captain and First, Second, and Third Lieutenants, of the said company, according to the choice and recommendation aforesaid.

Resolved, That the members of the County Committee in the different Townships be requested to give every assistance in their power to Commanding Officers of the Battalions and Corps in their District in procuring wagons and other necessary conveyances for their march to join the Militia of the Province in the Jerseys, agreeable to the resolve of Committees and recommendations of Congress.

GEORGE ROSS TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

In Committee, Lancaster, July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee, to enable the Militia to march immediately, have been under the necessity of drawing moneys for the several Captains of the troops to march from this town; and have prevailed on Messrs. Louman & Hubley, of this place, to advance to Captain John Henry the sum of one hundred pounds; to advance to Captain George Musser the sum of one hundred pounds; and to Captain Paul Zantzinger the like sum of one hundred pounds; amounting to three hundred pounds. And have prevailed on Mr. Christian Wirtz to advance to Captain Samuel Boyd the sum of one hundred pounds, and to Captain Peter Hoofnagle the sum of one hundred and twenty pounds; amounting to two hundred and twenty pounds. The whole sum advanced by these gentlemen being five hundred and twenty pounds. For which sums the receipts will be sent down to the honourable the Continental Congress.

These Captains and the troops commanded by them are of the First Battalion of Associators, in Lancaster County, commanded by Colonel George Ross.

The Committee hope their conduct will meet the approbation of the honourable the Congress, and that those gentlemen who have advanced these moneys will have it replaced on application.

We are, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient humble servants.

By order of the Committee.

GEORGE ROSS, Chairman.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 14, 1776.]

New-York, July 11, 1776.

SIR: I was honoured with your favour of the 8th instant by yesterday morning's post, with the several resolves to which you referred my attention. I shall duly regard them, and attempt their execution as far as I am able.

By virtue of the discretionary power that Congress were pleased to invest me with, and by advice of such of my General Officers as I have had an opportunity of consulting, I have ordered the two remaining regiments in the Massachusetts-Bay to march immediately for the defence of this place, in full confidence that nothing hostile will be attempted against that State in the present campaign. I have written to the General Court of Massachusetts-Bay, and transmitted a copy of the resolve for employing the Eastern Indians; entreating their good offices in this instance, and their exertions to have them forthwith engaged and marched to join this Army. I have desired five or six hundred of them to be enlisted for two or three years, if they will consent to it; subject to an earlier discharge, if it shall be thought necessary, and upon the same terms of the Continental troops, if better cannot be had, though I am hopeful they may.

In my letter of yesterday, I mentioned the arrival of part of the Connecticut Lighthorse, to assist in the defence of this place, and my objection to their horses being kept. Four or five hundred of them are now come in; and, in justice to their zeal and laudable attachment to the cause of their country, I am to inform you they have consented to stay as long as occasion may require; though they should be at the expense of maintaining their horses themselves. They have pastured them out about the neighbourhood of King's Bridge, (being unwilling to send them away,) at the rate of half a dollar per week each, meaning to leave it entirely with Congress either to allow or refuse it, as they shall judge proper. I promised to make this representation, and thought it my duty; and will only observe, the motives which induced them at first to set out were good and praiseworthy, and were to afford the most speedy and early succour, which they apprehended would be wanted before the Militia arrived; their services may be extremely important, being most of them, if not all, men of reputation and property.

The subject of the enclosed copy of a letter from Governor Trumbull, I beg leave to submit to the consideration of Congress; they will perceive from his representations, the disquieting apprehensions that have seized on the minds of the people since the retreat of the northern Army, and how exposed the northern frontiers of New-York and New-Hampshire are to the ravages and incursions of the Indians. How far it may be expedient to raise the battalion he conceives necessary to prevent the calamities and distresses he points out, they will determine upon what he has said, and the necessity that may appear to them for the measure; what I have done being only meant to lay the matter before them, in compliance with his wishes. I have also enclosed a memorial from the Surgeon's Mates, setting forth the inadequacy of their pay to their services and maintenance, and praying that it may be increased. I shall observe that they have a long time complained in this instance, and that some additional allowance may not be unnecessary.

As I am truly sensible the time of Congress is much taken up with a variety of important matters, it is with unwillingness and pain I ever repeat a request after having once made it, or take the liberty of enforcing any opinion of mine after it is once given; but as the establishing of some office for auditing accounts is a matter of exceeding importance to the publick interest, I would beg leave once more to call the attention of Congress to an appointment competent to the purpose. Two motives induce me to urge the matter: first, a conviction of the utility of the measure; secondly, that I may stand exculpated if hereafter it should appear that money has been improperly expended, and necessities for the Army obtained upon unreasonable terms. For me, whose time is employed from the hour of my rising till I retire to bed again, to go into an examination of the accounts of such an Army as this, with any degree of precision and exactness, without neglecting other matters of equal importance, is utterly impracticable. All that I have been able to do—and that, in fact, was doing nothing—was, when the Commissary, and Quartermaster, and Director-General of the Hospital (for it is to these the great advances are made) applied for warrants, to make them at times produce a general account of their expenditures. But this answers no valuable purpose. It is the minutia that must be gone into; the propriety of each charge examined, the vouchers looked into; and with respect to the Commissary-General, his vic-tualling returns and expenditures of provisions should be compared with his purchases, or otherwise a person in this department, if he was inclined to be knavish, might purchase large quantities with publick money, and sell one-half of it again for private emolument, and yet his accounts on paper will appear fair, and be supported with vouchers for every charge.

I do not urge this matter from a suspicion of any unfair practices in either of the departments before mentioned; and sorry should I be if this construction was put upon it, having a high opinion of the honour and integrity of these gentlemen. But there should nevertheless be some control, as well upon their discretion as honesty; to which may be added, that accounts become perplexed and confused by long standing, and the errors therein not so discoverable as if they underwent an early revision and examination. I am well apprized that a Treasury Office of Accounts has been resolved upon, and an Auditor-General for settling all publick accounts; but, with all deference and submission to the opinion of Congress, these institutions are not calculated to prevent the inconveniences I have mentioned, nor can they be competent to the purposes, circumstanced as they are.

We have intelligence from a deserter that came to us, that on Wednesday morning the Asia, Chatham, and Greyhound, men-of-war, weighed anchor, and, it was said, intended to pass up the North River above the city, to prevent the communication with the Jerseys. They did not attempt it, nor does he know what prevented them. A prisoner belonging to the Tenth Regiment, taken yesterday, informed that they hourly expected Admiral Howe and his fleet. He adds that a vessel has arrived from them, and the prevailing opinion is, that an attack will be made immediately on their arrival.

By a letter from General Ward, I am informed that the small-pox has broken out at Boston, and infected some of the troops. I have written him to place the invalids under an officer, to remain till they are well, and to use every possible precaution to prevent the troops coming from thence bringing the infection. The distresses and calamities we have already suffered by this disorder in one part of our Army, I hope will excite the utmost care that they may not be increased.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of the greatest esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

Lebanon, July 4, 1776.

SIR: The retreat of the northern Army, and its present situation, have spread a general alarm. By intelligence from Major General Schuyler, received last evening, I have reason to conclude that they are now at Crown-Point and Ticonderoga, in a weak state, and under the necessity of an immediate reinforcement to enable them to make a stand, and preventing the enemy from passing the lake and penetrating into the country. The prevalence of the small-pox among them is every way unhappy; our people in general have not had that distemper. Fear of the infection operates strongly to prevent soldiers from engaging in the service; and the battalions ordered to be raised in this Colony fill up slowly. Are there no measures may be taken to remove the impediment? May not the Army soon be freed from that infection? Can the reinforcements be kept separate from the infected? Or may not a detachment be made from the troops under your command, and the Militia raising in the several Colonies and ordered to New-York of such men as have had the small-pox, to be replaced by the troops raising for the Northern Department? Could any expedient be fallen upon that would afford probable hopes that this infection may be avoided, I believe our battalions would soon join the northern Army. I shall omit nothing in my power to expedite them.

The retreat of the Army from Canada exposes the northern frontiers of New-York and New-Hampshire to the ravages of the Indians, who will doubtless be spirited up to fall upon them. Some of the settlements on Onion River, I am informed, are breaking up and removing, and the whole filled with the most disquieting apprehensions. Some powder and lead, upon application, has been supplied them from this Colony; but the settlers there, from their infant state, and consequent poverty, are unable to devote themselves to the defence of their frontiers, unless they should be enabled to hire labourers to carry on the business of their farms in their absence. I could therefore wish that your Excellency might think proper to recommend it to the Continental Congress to order a battalion to be raised and stationed there for the defence of those settlements. It would, I trust, be immediately filled up with a hardy race of men in that quarter, to repel the attacks of the savages, and be ready to join and support the northern Army upon occasion, and who at all times may scour the woods, and furnish intelligence of the enemy's motions.

If these settlers are driven back, besides the loss of their property, a much heavier expense will fall upon some of the Colonies for the support of their families than the charge arising from the raising and maintaining a battalion of Continental troops, and we shall still have a frontier to defend. The anxiety of the friends and relations of many, if not most of those settlers who emigrated from this Colony, and the importance of the matter, will, I trust, be my sufficient apology for wishing to engage your influence with Congress to support the motion I judge advisable, and shall make, to have a battalion raised out of and stationed on these frontiers.

By a letter from General Schuyler of the 1st instant, received last evening, I am advised that Generals Schuyler, Gates, and Arnold, were to set out on Tuesday morning. I trust they are by this time at the end of their journey, and hope their presence may have a happy effect towards affairs in that quarter.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To His Excellency General Washington.

To the Honourable Brigadier-General Lord STIRLING:
The Memorial of the Surgeons' Mates of the several Regiments under your Honour's command, humbly sheweth:

That your Memorialists meant to be included in a late Petition presented to your Honour by the gentlemen Surgeons of the several regiments in the brigade under your Honour's command, for an augmentation of their wages, but through mistake of the Mates' signature, or by some other means, no notice has been taken of said Petition in their behalf; and your Memorialists find that, whilst employed in the common service of their country—which service they have and ever want to discharge with the greatest care and fidelity—their present pay will not support them in the character of gentlemen, even if used with the utmost frugality and economy. Your Memorialists, therefore, most earnestly request your Honour to represent their aggrieved state to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, and pray him, in their behalf, to lay the same before the honourable Continental Congress, or take such other measures as in your Honour's wisdom shall be found most expedient. And your Memorialists, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

SIR: I duly received your favour of the 6th instant, and return you my best thanks for the attention you have shown at this crisis, in preparing the several regiments of Militia which are nearest this place to be ready for marching when ordered. Some of the troops have arrived, and I hope the rest will follow without loss of time.

In my letter of the 9th instant I wrote you fully relative to the Lighthouse, which have arrived to the number of between four and five hundred; and have the happiness to acquaint you the officers and men of that corps have manifested so firm an attachment to the cause we are engaged in, that they have consented to remain here till such a body of troops are marched from your Colony as will be a sufficient reinforcement, so as to admit of their leaving this city with safety. I mention this matter with greater pleasure, as they have the additional merit of determining to stay, even if they are obliged to maintain their horses at their own expense. I have also written you with regard to sending any troops from hence to the northward, to be replaced by the Militia from your Province, and have stated the injudiciousness of adopting such a measure. It is indeed a great misfortune that the small-pox is so prevalent in our northern Army; but I conceive it would be highly impolitical, at this important period, to send away troops who have been a considerable time in the service, and to have their places supplied by men of much less experience, who belong to the Militia.

I have only to add, that I am, with much esteem, sir, your very humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull, Connecticut.

P. S. I must refer you to my letter above mentioned for my sentiments with respect to removing the cattle from the different places specified. As to the cattle on Montauk-Point, I can only say, some method must be devised to answer the purpose of preventing the inhabitants of East-hampton from suffering on the one hand, and the supply of the enemy with any stock on the other.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: At a crisis like the present, when our enemies are prosecuting a war with unexampled severity, when they have called upon foreign mercenaries, and have excited slaves and savages to arms against us, a regard to our own security and happiness calls upon us to adopt every possible expedient to avert the blow, and prevent the meditated ruin. Impressed with this sentiment, and impelled by necessity, the Congress have been pleased to empower me, as you will perceive by the enclosed copy of their resolve, which I have the honour of transmitting you, to call to our aid so many of the St. John's, Nova Scotia, and Penobscot Indians, as I might judge necessary. At the same time they have desired that I should request the assistance of your honourable body in carrying their views into execution, and to assure you, that whatever expenses you may necessarily incur in doing it, and as incident to it, they will reimburse. Esteeming their service of much importance, particularly if the enemy should attempt an impression into the interior parts of the country, I must entreat your kind offices upon this occasion, and your friendly exertions immediately to engage, on the best terms you can, five or six hundred men of these tribes, and have them accoutred with all possible expedition, to join the Army here. Having professed a strong inclination to take part with us in the present contest, it is probable they may be engaged for less pay and on better terms than the Continental troops; but if they cannot, they must be allowed it. The term of their enlistment should be for two or three years, unless sooner discharged, (the right of which should be reserved to us,) if they will engage for so long a time; if not, for such time as they will agree to, provided it is not too short. And it must be part of the treaty, and enjoined upon them, to bring, every man, his firelock, if it can be possibly effected. As the services they may render will probably depend on their early and timely arrival, it is unnecessary to suggest to you the necessity of the utmost despatch in the matter.

I well know the execution of the work will be attended with some trouble and inconvenience; but a consideration of the benefits that may arise from employing them, and your zeal for the common cause, I am persuaded will surmount every obstacle and apologize for my requisition; especially as it comes recommended and supported by authority of Congress.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of great respect, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the General Court, (or Committee of Safety in their recess,) Massachusetts-Bay.

P. S. Since I had the honour of addressing you on the 9th instant, I have received a resolve from Congress for calling the other two Continental regiments from the Massachusetts-Bay to join the Army here, (a copy of which I have enclosed;) and by the advice of my General Officers have written General Ward to detach them immediately—the accounts we have all agreeing that Lord Howe is every day expected with one hundred and fifty transports, with at least fifteen thousand troops, in addition to those already here.

— In Congress, July 8, 1776.

Resolved, That General Washington have permission to call forth and engage in the service of the United States so many Indians of the St. John's, Nova Scotia, and Penobscot tribes, as he shall judge necessary, and that he be advised to write to the General Court of the Massachusetts-Bay, requesting their aid in this business, and informing them that Congress will reimburse such expenses as may be necessarily incurred in consequence of the foregoing resolutions.

Per ROBERT H. HARRISON, Secretary.

— In Congress, July 8, 1776.

Resolved, That General Washington be vested with discretionary power to call to his assistance at New-York such of the Continental Regiments in the Massachusetts-Bay as have not already received orders to march to Ticonderoga, and that the General Court of that Province be requested to supply their places with Militia, if they think it expedient.

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I received your favours of the 1st and 2d instant, and agreeable to your request transmitted Congress a copy of the former and of its several enclosures. The important subject referred to them has met with their attention, and the letter accompanying this will inform you and General Gates of the result of their deliberations. I hope that harmony and a good agreement will subsist between you, as the most likely means to advance the interest of the cause you both wish to promote. They have determined the matter between Mr. Trumbull and Mr. Livingston, and decided the right of supplying the northern Army, and appointing persons for that purpose, to be in the former.

I gave orders immediately on the receipt of your favour, for the several articles you wrote for, to be sent you, if they could be had. Ball and buckshot could not be spared from hence, and I directed a quantity of lead to be sent you, out of which you must attempt to have them made.

I have not heard anything of the money mentioned by Mr. Duane. I imagine it has not been sent. If any accident has befallen it, the matter would have been known ere now.

Since my last, General Howe's fleet from Halifax has arrived, in number about one hundred and thirty sail. His army is between nine and ten thousand, being joined by some of the regiments from the West-Indies, and having fallen in with part of the Highland troops in his passage.

He has landed his men on Staten-Island, which they mean to secure, and is in daily expectation of the arrival of Lord Howe, with one hundred and fifty ships and a large and powerful reinforcement. This we have from four prisoners who fell into our hands, and some deserters, who state that an advice packet arrived at Halifax before they left it, informing that he was ready to sail when they came from England, to join General Howe here; in consequence of which he came with the present armament. They add that nothing will be attempted till his arrival. Their intelligence, I have no doubt, is well founded. Indeed, the enemy having done nothing yet, affords proof beyond question that they are waiting for more troops. We are strengthening ourselves as much as possible, and deem their staying out so long a fortunate circumstance, as it not only gives us an opportunity of advancing our works, but getting some relief from the neighbouring Provinces. From every appearance, they mean to make a most vigorous push to subdue us this campaign, and, for this purpose, to possess themselves of this Colony, if possible, as a step leading to it. Our utmost exertions must be used, and I trust, through the favour of divine Providence, they will be disappointed in their views. As having a large number of gondolas and galleys on the lakes will be of great importance, Mr. Hancock informs me, in his letter of the 6th instant, that fifty carpenters were gone from Philadelphia, in order to build them, and that he had written to Governour Cooke to engage and forward the same complement. I am advised by Governour Trumbull, in a letter just received, that he has procured two companies, of twenty-five men each, who were about to set out. When they arrive they will be able, I am in hopes, to turn several off the stocks in a little time.

It being evident that an attempt will be made by General Burgoyne to penetrate and make an impression into the Colonies by way of the lakes, unless there is a sufficient force to oppose him, I have exercised a discretionary power, with which I was honoured by Congress, and ordered three of the fullest Continental regiments that were stationed in the Massachusetts Government, to march immediately on receiving my orders to join the northern Army. I have directed them to come to Norwich, and there embark for Albany, hoping they will arrive as expeditiously this way, and with much less fatigue, than if they had pursued their route by land altogether, at this hot uncomfortable season. These, with such Militia as may be furnished from the several Colonies required to provide them, and the troops that were under General Sullivan in Canada, I flatter myself will be able and more than equal to repel any invasion that may be attempted from that quarter. It will be some time before their aid can be had, having never had the authority of Congress to order them till within this week.

You will perceive by the enclosed Declaration, that Congress of late have been deliberating on matters of the utmost importance. Impelled by necessity, and a repetition of injuries no longer sufferable, without the most distant prospect of relief, they have asserted the claims of the Colonies to the rights of humanity, absolved them from all allegiance to the British Crown, and declared them free and independent States. In obedience to their order, the same must be proclaimed throughout the northern Army.

A prisoner taken yesterday, belonging to the Tenth Regiment, informs that Admiral Howe is hourly expected. He adds that a vessel is arrived from his fleet.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

SIR: Since writing to you on the 9th instant, I have been honoured with a letter from Congress, enclosing a resolve, a copy of which you have transmitted herewith, empowering me to call to the assistance of the Army here the other two regiments of Continental troops, now in the Massachusetts Government, and not ordered in my last to be detached to join the northern Army.

I am now to request, by advice of my General Officers, that you will give immediate orders, not only to them, but to the three destined for the northward, to repair, with all possible despatch, to Norwich, where they will embark; it being the opinion of all the officers, that it will be better for the whole, as well the three intended for the northward as those to reinforce the troops here, to take this route in preference to any other. It may turn out the most expeditious, and it is certain the men will be eased from the fatigues of a long and disagreeable march at this hot and uncomfortable season. It will be necessary that you should write Mr. Huntington, at Norwich, to prepare as many vessels as will bring the whole of them. To the Quartermaster and Commissary you will give proper orders, that they may provide, in each of their departments, such supplies of necessaries for the route as may be wanted.

I have just now received your favour of the 4th instant, with its several enclosures. It is extremely unlucky that the small-pox should prevail in the Army at this time; but such is the necessity that every possible succour should be given to the troops here, and to those at the northward, at this critical period, that it is the sentiment of myself and other General Officers, that the whole of the regiments that are not infected with the disorder, should be instantly forwarded. The calamities that would flow from its being communicated to the whole Army are too obvious to need mention. You will therefore direct the utmost care and attention to be used to prevent those that are well from taking the infection, and for this end, that they may be kept separate and apart from those that have the disorder. Every precaution will not be more than necessary to prevent the fatal consequences that will attend their bringing and spreading it at this time. And I trust that nothing in your power to prevent it will be wanting. Such of the men who are down with it, and those you may suspect have received the infection, you will put under a proper officer or officers, to whom you will give orders to proceed with them to this place, as early as possible after they are well and clean of the infection. The company, or such part of the train of Artillery as are there, must remain, in case they should be wanted.

I request that you will have an accurate and exact return made of all the military and other stores belonging to the Continent, that I may be enabled to transmit it to the Board of War and Ordnance, agreeable to their order. You will charge the Commissary or Conductor with the care of them, and that he will remain and guard them in a safe and secure manner. He must be active and vigilant in his duty, that nothing may be lost or injured.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Ward, Boston.

REV. JOHN RODGERS TO GENERAL GATES.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Give me leave to introduce to your acquaintance the bearer, Mr. Tennent, who is my son-in law. He is one of the Chaplains appointed by the Colony of Connecticut for General Waterbury's brigade. I doubt not he will do his duty with fidelity and diligence, and your politeness and benevolence supersede the necessity of my asking your countenance and friendship to him, while he supports the dignity of his character.

For news, I must refer to our good friend Mr. Hazard and the bearer; for I take it for granted Mr. Hazard writes to you by this conveyance.

With every tender wish for your prosperity in your present important department, I am, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN RODGERS.

To General Gates.

EBENEZER HAZARD TO GENERAL GATES.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I intend writing to you the news by the post who sets out for Albany to-morrow, and will very probably reach you sooner than this. My only design at present is, to introduce to you my very particular friend, the Reverend Mr. William Tennent, of Greenfield, in Connecticut. He was solicited by General Waterbury to accept the Chaplaincy of a regiment, and is now on his way to Crown-Point for that purpose. Since the commencement of the present dispute, he has uniformly supported the American side of it, and his zeal has been commendable. For further particulars, I must refer you to a future acquaintance with him, which will give you a more just idea of him than anything dictated by the partiality of friendship.

I am, dear sir, yours affectionately,

EBENEZER HAZARD.

MEMORANDUM.

As much depends upon the expedition with which the expresses travel, that matter ought to be particularly attended to; more especially as the expresses in general have not outrode the stated posts.

Private letters (i. e. not on publick business) ought not to be sent by express, as it will lessen the revenue of the Continental Post Office, unless they are delivered to the Postmaster, that postage may be charged on them. As letters from the commanding officer in Canada are carried by the stated posts, free of postage, General Gates will be pleased either to enclose his for his friends in Virginia, &c., to Mr. Hazard, or write his own name at the bottom of the direction, that Mr. Hazard may be able to distinguish them.

GENERAL GREENE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp on Long-Island, July 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: A report was sent in last evening from the outguards at the Narrows, that there were two ships, one brigantine, and one schooner, standing in for the Hook last night.

I was mentioning, some few days past, that a putrid fever prevailed in my brigade, and that I thought it partly owing to their feeding too freely on animal food. Vegetables would be much more wholesome; and by your Excellency's permission, they may be provided for the troops without any additional expense to the Continent, if the Colonels of the Regiments were allowed to retrench in the article of meat, and that they should draw its value in money, to be applied by the Quartermaster of the regiment to the procuring necessary sauce, the Quartermaster to draw the money weekly and account to the commanding officer of the regiment how it is expended, and for what. This method may be a little more troublesome to the Commissary-General and the Quartermasters of the regiment; but if it will remedy so great an evil as now prevails, I think it worthy your Excellency's attention. The troops cannot complain that they are scant in their allowance: leaving them at liberty to draw either meat or money, as the inclination of the troops or commanding officer may lead them, puts it out of their power to complain. People often would adopt measures when left to their choice, that they would think a hardship to have imposed upon them.

Cleanliness contributes much to the health of the troops. They now do, and have done, so much fatigue, that the allowance of soap will not keep them clean. Their clothing gets exceedingly dirty, and they wear out twice as many clothes on fatigue as doing other duty. I should think it a piece of justice due to the troops for the extraordinary fatigue, to be allowed a double quantity of soap when they are employed so much on fatigue. This is a grievance I have often heard the officers complain of, that the fatigue wore out the troops' clothing faster than they could get them, and that they made themselves so dirty at work, that the allowance of soap would not clean them.

I have never mentioned anything of a further allowance of soap to any person except the other evening at Head-Quarters. I only beg leave to propose it to your Excellency's consideration, and leave it for your better judgment to determine the propriety and utility of such an establishment.

Believe me to be, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

NATHANAEL GREENE.

To His Excellency General Washington.

EXAMINATION OF DESERTERS.

The Examination of seven Deserters from on board the Enemy's Fleet, JULY 7, 1776.

John Hogan, James Jarras, John Joseph, William Downing, John Bragg, Robert Caswell, deserters from a victualing ship of the enemy's fleet, all taken in different vessels and put on board the fleet, except John Hogan, who was impressed at Halifax, say: That the ship they deserted from is called the Killingworth, Thomas Poundage master; that they took her boat about twelve o'clock last night, and came to Long-Island, and went up to General Greene's encampment; that the fleet consists of one hundred and fifty or one hundred and sixty sail of all kinds—it contains one sixty-four, two fifty, one forty, one thirty-six, the rest sloops of war (about four) and some tenders—no bombships, but two expected from England with the fleet; the fleet expected every day with about fifteen thousand troops; all the troops now here between eight and nine thousand—healthy; no Horse. They intend no attempt till Lord Howe arrives. Sixty-six men from New-Jersey and Staten-Island joined them. The troops and inhabitants appear friendly. One boy killed and six men wounded in the tender the other day. The Chatham, Admiral Shulldham's ship, well manned, but very sickly on board; several died since they left Halifax. The rest of the ships of war not so well manned; the transports badly manned; no troops but the Lighthouse left at Halifax; Artillery ashore, and encamped; the troops quartered. Lord Piercy commands ashore; General Howe on shipboard. About five hundred Highlanders and four companies from Antigua.

Matthew Kelly, who deserted from on board the transport brig the Admiral Gayton, which took him on the Banks, outward bound, from Newbury to Surinam, agrees in general with the foregoing. Three riflemen went on board the Greyhound last night was a week, and a brother-in-law of Captain James Ayscough. One Highlander, and another person, came on board the same night. Only three ships of war left at Halifax—the largest a frigate, the others sloops; one of them to convey some victualling ships to Quebeck.

Taken ten o'clock, July 7, 1776.

JNO. MORIN SCOTT, Brigadier-General.

Examination of EBENEZER COLEFOX, Sailor, deserter from the Enemy's Fleet.

On Monday evening, July 8th, 1776, deserted from on board the Amity's Admonition, commanded by Captain John Noles, (it being one of the fleet now lying in our harbour,) a certain Ebenezer Colefox, who says: That on the 22d of May last he was taken a prisoner in the sloop Macaroni, commanded by Captain John Arthur, belonging to Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, of New-London, of which sloop he was mate. That he was carried into Halifax by the vessel that took him. That the vessel in which he was a prisoner arrived in Halifax on or about the 10th of June last. That the number of the enemy is about eight thousand, who are all landed and billeted out in different parts of the Island, but that he knows not with certainty whether any of the General Officers are landed or not, but is certain that General Howe is yet on shipboard. That it is currently reported among the enemy that a reinforcement of twenty thousand men is daily expected; that they have landed their heavy artillery, though not their field-pieces, and that they have not yet erected any fortifications. That it is also currently reported on board the fleet that no descent would be made by the enemy until the arrival of the reinforcement, and that then an attack would be made on this city. That two sailors, who arrived at Halifax in a transport-ship from England, had got on board the vessel to which the examinant belonged, and declared that Lord Howe's fleet had actually embarked and sailed from England before their departure therefrom. That four hundred of the Fifth Regiment came from Halifax in the ship to which he belonged; that they were in the battle of Bunker's Hill; that most of them were very averse to the service, and wished to come to a field action, for that they did not care whether they died or lived. No bombships with this fleet, but some expected with Lord Howe. The Army healthy. Never was ashore himself on Staten-Island. No troops left at Halifax but the sick. Does not know that any ship of war was left at Halifax, except the frigate which took him, called the Cerberus. In the fleet in our harbour now are the Asia; two ships of fifty and one of forty guns; the Greyhound frigate; two sloops, commanded by Wallace and Ayscough; one small sloop cruising on the back of Long-Island, and a few small armed vessels. The tender on which we fired some days ago much damaged, and had one man killed and eight or nine wounded. The Army not suffered to take anything from the inhabitants of the Island without pay. The inhabitants sell them fresh provisions. There are to be two market-days in a week. He got ashore by swimming on a piece of plank to Long-Island; when near the shore he called out, and the guards came down and received him, almost spent with being in the water two hours.

Taken this 9th July, 1776.

JNO. MORIN SCOTT, Brigadier-General.

Examination of EMANUEL JOSEPHSON, of New-York, who made his escape from the Enemy, July 10, 1776.

Emanuel Josephson, of the City of New-York, was taken in a boat belonging to Newark, on Tuesday, the 2d of July instant. He was well treated, and all his baggage returned. General Howe lives at Banker's. He heard a sergeant say that the British forces were seven thousand only, consisting of the troops that left Boston, except three regiments that are left at Halifax, and four companies of Highlanders that have joined them since. No intrenchments, nor cannon, except two twelve-pounders, near Decker's. The men look very hearty, and have plenty of salt provisions and flour. He understood from them that they intended to remain on Staten-Island till the arrival of the fleet. They appeared rather afraid. Some of the subalterns and soldiers told him there was something preparing that the New-Yorkers little thought of. They were much afraid that our people would set the town on fire; that in general they thought they would go up the North River, and land there, and another party would land on Long-Island, and so take the city. It was reported in the camp that we treated our prisoners very ill; and especially, that some of the Highland officers were drummed through the town with the rogue's march. That a great number of different people from the Continent had joined them lately. He saw Messrs. Apthorp, De Lancey, Bayard, Barbarie, and Lawrence. He heard that Paxton, the barber, was there. Was treated with great politeness by Captain Williams, of the tender, and Captain Dickson, of the Greyhound. Richard Lawrence is building flat-bottomed boats on the Island. The people are afraid, if a reinforcement comes, they will be starved for want of provisions on the Island. Yesterday two men came from Bergen-Point, with all their baggage.

Examination of WILLIAM GARDENER, a Prisoner, July 11, 1776.

William Gardener, of the Tenth Regiment, commanded by Major Vattes, was going to get some milk, and being in liquor, lost his way and was taken by our men. Men in good spirits. Plenty of salt provisions, and an order issued for fresh provisions twice a week, but he had not seen any yet. No works yet thrown up. They are only waiting for the fleet. After they left Halifax they were joined by the fleet from Glasgow, said to contain three thousand men when sailed. They have an account that General Burgoyne is at Fort Edward. There are on the Island General Howe, General Grant, Lord Piercy, Brigadiers Jones and Smith. There is a brigade opposite to the Point, consisting of three regiments, commanded by Brigadier-General Jones. They have two field-pieces with each regiment. Each regiment consists of ten companies, and forty men to a company. He was told by a person who wrote for some of the officers, that the reason of leaving Boston was the want of provisions, but he thought it was time, as it was becoming very hot about their ears. He heard the Adjutant tell the Major that they had received intelligence from General Burgoyne, by land, that he had an army of thirty-five thousand men, regulars and Canadians. They expect the fleet in every hour. A vessel has arrived from them. The general idea among the men is, that they are to attack New-York, and can easily pass up the river. A Sergeant Deane, of the Fifty-Second Regiment, taken at Bunker's Hill or Lexington, came over to the Island within a few days, and was with General Howe, and supposes gave a particular account of what was doing.

Examination of ELIJAH STEPHENS and CHAUNCEY SMITH, deserters from the Enemy's Fleet, New-York, July 11, 1776.

On Wednesday night deserted from on board the Generous Friend, a transport, one of the fleet now lying in our harbour, Elijah Stephens and Chauncey Smith, who say: That on the 17th day of May they were taken prisoners in the schooner called the Leviathan, belonging to New-Haven, by the Cerberus man-of-war, and carried into Halifax, where they arrived on or about the 3d of June, and were turned over to the aforesaid transport. That they left Halifax on or about the 10th of June, where they left no troops but invalids. They say that the number of the enemy arrived in the fleet is (as nearly as they have been able to inform themselves) about seven thousand. That the troops were all landed on Staten-Island, and that they were on different parts of the Island. That there were a few tents, but that the troops were chiefly billeted out in houses. That besides those who have the small-pox, (of which there are fifty or sixty,) there are many sick among them. That many of the soldiers seem much averse to the service, and curse their fate for being engaged therein. They further say, that yesterday morning the Asia, Chatham, and the Greyhound, weighed anchor, and, as the examinants were informed, intended to sail past the city, up Hudson's River, and lie at some convenient distance above it, to prevent communication between it and the country. They also say that it was reported among them that the inhabitants of the Island were about forming themselves into companies, who, together with such of the enemy as were unfit for actual service, were to remain upon the Island, to defend it when an attack should be made by the troops; but that no attack was to be made until the arrival of the reinforcement from Europe, which reinforcement, they were informed, would consist of about fifteen or sixteen thousand men.

JNO. MORIN SCOTT, Brigadier-General.

Examination of JAMES McFARLAN, a soldier belonging to the Fifty-Fifth Regiment, (Colonel MEDIC,) deserted from STATEN-ISLAND on the 4th or 5th JULY, 1776.

The Colonel absent. The regiment now commanded by the Major, who is General Howe's Aid-de-Camp. He left Staten-Island about one or two o'clock yesterday afternoon. He came away in a skiff opposite the Blazing-Star Ferry. He left Halifax (where they went from Boston) about four weeks ago. Some of the Grenadiers and Light-Infantry landed on the Island on Tuesday night, and the battalions on Wednesday. They consist of nine thousand—about one thousand sick and lame. General Grant, of the brigade to which the examinant belongs, is about one mile and a half from Blazing-Star, inland, with three battalions (of eight companies each) of Foot. No breastworks or other remarkable works raised since Grant came on the Island; the men so weak and feeble, and the weather so hot, that they cannot work, and therefore don't intend raising any yet awhile. About four hundred of the inhabitants to be sworn yesterday to be true to carry arms, but not to go out of the country. He has not tasted a bit of fresh provision since he has been on the Island, but yesterday they began to buy. Their sentries are all along the shore—two together in the night-time. The report in the Army is, that they are waiting for the fleet from England. He thinks one-half of the Army are very easy about the dispute, and had rather let it alone; these are chiefly Scotch and Irish; but the English are very violent. They expect a reinforcement of ten or twelve thousand men. He thinks Admiral Shuldham commands the fleet. If they are to be attacked, now is the time. The Captain of the tender was killed on Thursday morning, as reported through the Army. A schooner was taken the other night loaded with flour, about two miles from Blazing-Star, supposed to be from Amboy. A great many flat-bottomed boats, with sixteen oars, will carry two companies; but are all yet with the fleet. In general, about thirty-six in a company, and many not that. There was a talk at Halifax about a regiment of Indians, but it all went over, and none came. The inhabitants of Staten-Island are well used; no soldier dare do anything against them. The other night the soldiers broke into a cellar belonging to a man who had deserted to Jersey, (supposed to be Mr. Mesereaux,) and knocked in the heads of some wine-casks and drank it, for which they were tried next day by a general court-martial. A large man, a ship-carpenter, (Richard Lawrence,) came aboard them with a likely young man the first night after they came from Sandy-Hook, and told them there was nobody on the other side of the Island but a parcel of jawing rascals, and five hundred of such as he would drive them all. The Army have the bloody-flux and scurvy. There are no Lighthouse among the Regulars; these were left at Halifax till they see whether they can make their landing good; but have riding and draught-horses. The Grenadiers and Light-Infantry are in a brigade by themselves, in the middle of the Island. The reinforcement is expected every day. The men are so weak that they cannot march twelve miles a day to save their lives. A great many (nearly twenty) boats from Long-Island came on board and helped them to land their men on Staten-Island; the boats are used to carry grass; they had been at the light-house a fortnight.

Examination of ABRAM VAN DUZAR, of New-York, from STATEN-ISLAND, July 9, 1776.

The examination of Abram Van Duzar, of New-York, who saith: That on Tuesday, the 2d day of July, he went over to Staten-Island, to bring over a horse he had some time before purchased; that he could not get a passage back again that night; and that the next morning he was forbid returning, guards having been set all round the Island. The examinant further saith, that he attempted to come away three times, and was hindered the two first times, but that the last (being this morning) he effected his escape in a skiff from Decker's Ferry; that guards are set all over the Island, but that no fortifications are made or intrenchments flung up anywhere. That on Saturday last, Governour Tryon called all the Militia of the Island together, and agreed with them that, on their taking the oath of allegiance to the King, he would give to them new commissions, and that then they were to be inlisted to serve during the war, and not to go off the Island; that they were to receive the same pay as the King's troops; and that he heard one Decker (an inhabitant of the Island) say the number of men belonging to the Island, and fit to bear arms, consisted of between four and five hundred. That they had raised a company of Horse, whose pay is one dollar per day when called to duty. That he saw Cortlandt Skinner on the Island, in high spirits, save that he laments a little the loss of his son. That he had heard it talked among both officers and soldiers, that when the fleet and army (expected to arrive every hour under Lord Howe) should arrive to their assistance, they were to land at Amboy and on Long-Island, and so force their way to New-York; and that Carleton was to come from Canada; and by their talk one among another, were of opinion that Carleton must needs be now in Albany; and that they seemed well assured of success; nor could they think their attempt could possibly fail. That the troops are very healthy, and look exceedingly well, and are impatient to attack us. That with the present fleet came only six men-of-war, sloops, tenders, and several bomb-ships. That he thinks, from the best judgment he can form, that the number of troops, exclusive of the marines, consists of twelve thousand; but that they, among themselves, give such different accounts of their number, that there is no kind of dependance on the accounts they give about it. That the troops are chiefly landed and scattered over the Island; that he thinks they are likely to want fresh provisions pretty soon. That he had been well informed that forty-eight men came and joined them from Amboy; that on Sunday evening last three Riflemen came over to them from Long-Island, and brought with them five rifles, and told the General that twenty-five more wanted to come over, but had no craft to bring them; that those three Riflemen joined the Army, and drew provisions and pay immediately. That when the fleet came in through the Narrows, our guns from the battery killed four men and a boy. That they had asked him how many in number our troops consisted of in New-York; that he had told them not less than fifty thousand, and more likely one hundred thousand. That they had talks of attempting the little privateer in the bay; and that he heard it talked among the officers, yesterday, that five men-of-war were to be sent up to town to-day, but that no general attack is to be made until they are reinforced by the fleet from England, with whom, they say, fifteen or twenty thousand troops will come. That they were going through with the people on the Island yesterday, tendering them the oath of allegiance; and that people in general took it cheerfully, without hesitation, as he was informed.

ABRAM VAN DUZAR.

Taken on this 9th of July, 1776, at Bergen town, by me,
JACOB FORD, Jun., Colonel.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

White-Plains, Westchester County, }
 July 11, 1776. }

SIR: In pursuance of the resolution of your honourable House of the 17th of June last, we have passed a resolve to authorize the Commander-in-Chief to call out all or any part of our Militia whenever he might think it necessary, of which we now enclose you a copy, marked No. 1.

We have also taken into consideration the recommendation of the Congress relative to the providing of clothing for the troops, and passed the resolution of which we enclose you a copy, marked No. 2.

As soon as we had received the resolution of Congress for raising a regiment in the Colony, in order to provide for those officers who had served in Canada, we referred it to a Committee, expecting from them an arrangement which would preserve the rank of those officers, and thereby prevent all disgusts and just grounds of resignation, it being our opinion that inferior officers should not be raised over their superiors, unless in cases of extraordinary and distinguished merit. And although we could not forbear observing that the recommendation of Mr. Dubois tended in some measure to impair that liberty of nomination, without which the privilege would be ineffectual, yet, as we conceived that such instances were not frequent, we had determined to comply with the request.

But, sir, we were much surprised and most deeply affected by the resolution of Congress of the 26th of June, by which it appears that your honourable House had taken from us the right of nominating, not only the Field-Officers, but also the Captains and Lieutenants of that regiment, a measure so contrary to the common usage hitherto observed and practised upon in all similar cases, as to raise a discrimination highly invidious to this State; and it is our great misfortune not to perceive the force of those three reasons which your honourable House have thought fit to assign to us.

The first, sir, is, that the Congress were furnished with a list of the officers who had served in Canada, and were therefore enabled to appoint without our interposition.

We shall readily admit that the Congress may in this and in other cases have sufficient information to enable them to make such appointments; yet we submit it to their superior wisdom, whether the ability they may thence derive to perform an act can constitute a right of doing it; and if, as we suppose, those appointments did (by the common usage) appertain to us, then how far the mere capacity of making them could vest the right in any other body whatsoever.

The second reason, sir, is, "that the Congress have appointed only such officers as were originally appointed and recommended by us; and that we should probably have fixed our choice on the same persons."

We shall acknowledge it to be merely possible, that in the course of human affairs we might, by some chance, have fixed upon those persons which are most agreeable to your honourable House. And it is strictly true, that the greatest part of the officers were appointed and recommended by us the last year, although not to the same rank and commissions which your honourable body have thought fit to confer upon them; but it is equally true, that several of them have never been recommended or appointed by us, and one of them, if not more, has never been in the service at all; and we are really at a loss to conceive that our nomination of officers in a regiment disbanded after the term of enlistment was expired, can, upon the raising of a new regiment, deprive us of that right of nomination, and vest it in the Congress. Nor can we be of opinion that another body ought to claim the right of choosing for us, from the mere conjecture that their choice would be similar to ours, even if that conjecture should be well founded; but we are sorry to observe, sir, that the arrangement made by your honourable House is materially different from that which we had prepared.

The third reason for depriving us, in this instance, of the right of nomination, is, "the good of the service, and the danger of delay."

We are deeply impressed with the idea that your respectable body are actuated by the purest intentions of serving this country; and we entertain so well founded an opinion of their wisdom and integrity, that we shall not presume to apologize for that plainness of speech which distinguishes freemen, and which can never give offence to those who, from the dignity of their private characters, impart lustre to the offices they hold. We shall observe, therefore, that although the necessity of the case has, in all ages and nations, been the fruitful source of extraordinary power, yet it has but too frequently sown with tares the fertile fields of liberty, and blasted the fairest fruits of patriotism and publick spirit. The whole history of mankind bears testimony against the propriety of considering the principle as the parent of civil rights, and therefore a people jealous of their liberties must forever reprobate it. At the same time, we take leave to assure you, sir, that however we may be calumniated by individuals whose censure we consider as praise, we shall ever continue ready and willing, with our lives and fortunes, to support the cause and rights of America.

We are extremely sorry to inform the Congress that the good of the service will not be promoted, nor the dangers of delay prevented, by the measures which they have taken, as many spirited and good officers have been so disgusted that some have resigned, and we have but too much reason to apprehend that others will refuse to accept of their commissions. We beg, therefore, that your honourable House will excuse us from interfering in the further arrangement of this regiment, and make out the few appointments which remain.

We have received from William Goforth, a brave and good officer, who served the last campaign in Canada, a letter containing his reasons for quitting the service, of which we enclose you a copy, marked No. 3, and also the copy of a letter from Colonel Fleming, on the same subject, marked No. 4.

We daily expect other resignations, and pray leave to observe, that we think the case of Lieutenant-Colonel Cortlandt is attended with singular hardship. He is a young gentleman of affluent circumstances, good family, and extensive connexions. He entered the service last year as a Lieutenant-Colonel, and served with spirit and fidelity, and has done the like this year. He is now inferior in rank to Mr. Dubois, who entered the service last year as a Captain. If by such neglect many respectable inhabitants among us, with their numerous and extensive connexions, be disgusted and remain inactive, we flatter ourselves that this Colony will not be censured for the ill consequences which may result from it.

The day before yesterday we took into consideration the Declaration of your honourable House, proclaiming the United Colonies free and independent States, and thereupon came to a resolution, of which we enclose you a copy, marked No. 5.

Governour Tryon has enlisted into the service of the King of Great Britain certain disaffected persons belonging to this Colony, New-Jersey, &c., some of whom are now in custody. We are really at a loss what to do with them, there being no laws according to which they can be tried and punished, and ex post facto laws are liable to many objections. We unanimously join in requesting the favour of your honourable House to advise us what would be proper to do in this case.

We take the liberty of suggesting to your consideration also, the propriety of taking some measures for expunging from the Book of Common Prayer such parts, and discontinuing in the congregations of all the denominations all such prayers as interfere with the interest of the American cause. It is a subject we are afraid to meddle with, the enemies of America having taken great pains to insinuate into the minds of the Episcopalians that the Church was in danger. We could wish the Congress would pass some resolve to quiet their fears, and we are confident it would do essential service in the cause of America, at least in this State.

We have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient and most humble servants.

By order: NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

[No. 1.] In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 21, 1776.

Resolved unanimously, That the Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the United Colonies be, and he hereby is, authorized and empowered to impress Carriages and Water Craft within this Colony, when necessary for the publick service; and also to remove Ships and other Vessels in Hudson's and the East Rivers, for the purpose of securing them from the enemy.

JUNE 30.—Resolved, That the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental forces be, and he is hereby, authorized and empowered, whenever he shall judge it necessary for the defence of this Colony, to apply to the Brigadier-Generals thereof, and in case of their or either of their absence, to the next Commanding-Officer, for any proportion of the Militia under their respective commands; and that on receipt of such application, they be, and hereby are, directed to call out such part of their Militia, and march to any place or places within this Colony, as the said Commander-in-Chief shall order for its defence; and that this order shall continue until revoked by this or some future Congress or Legislature of this Colony.

New-York, White-Plains, July 15, 1776. }

Resolved, unanimously, That if his Excellency General Washington should think it expedient, for the preservation of this State, and the general interest of America, to abandon the City of New-York, and withdraw the troops to the north side of King's Bridge, that this Convention will cheerfully coöperate with him in every measure that may be necessary for that purpose.

[No. 2.] In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 24, 1776.

Resolved and Ordered, That Colonel Curtenius be requested to procure, without delay, on account of this Congress, and on the most reasonable terms, all the coarse woollen Cloth that is for sale in and about this city, for the purpose of making Coats for the Troops raised and to be raised in the Colony for the present campaign; and if a sufficient quantity for that purpose cannot be procured in this city, that he send to the city of Albany, and the town of Schenectady, and elsewhere, and cause to be purchased as much more, in addition to the quantity purchased in this city, as will be sufficient to make one Coat for each soldier so raised and to be raised, as aforesaid.

That Colonel Curtenius procure, without delay, at the place aforesaid, and elsewhere, brain dressed Deer's Leather, sufficient to make each soldier as aforesaid one Waistcoat and one pair of Breeches, and that he employ a sufficient number of hands to make the said Coats, Waistcoats, and Breeches, with all expedition.

That Colonel Curtenius procure one Blanket, one felt Hat, two Shirts, two pair of woollen Hose, and two pair of Shoes, for each soldier raised and to be raised as aforesaid; and that he cause all the articles hereby ordered to be procured, to be baled, invoiced; and stored in proper places, there to remain subject to the order of the Continental Congress, or Commander-in-Chief of the American Army.

[No. 3.] New-York, July 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Having, in the course of the last year, been called by you from private life, without any solicitation, to the most honourable of all services, that of my country, I obeyed the call, and have, to the utmost of my poor abilities, exerted myself for the general good; and having, on my return home, found my toils amply rewarded, inasmuch as I had so far fallen under your notice as to be appointed to a Majority, which promotion I view as great as I could reasonably expect, or even have desired—nevertheless, when I look over the arrangement which you were pleased to make the last year, and call to mind that you then determined that the First Regiment should take rank of the Second, and find that I had the rank of fourth Captain in the First, and that Lewis Dubois, Esquire, had the rank of fourth Captain, and Jacobus Bruyn, Esquire, that of seventh in the Third Regiment, I view my appointment as speaking two things: first, that you have found men of greater merit than myself, and men who are better qualified for the public service, of which I am extremely glad; and, secondly, that your now appointing me to serve under two junior officers, is no more than taking the most genteel way of discharging me from the public service as an officer. Perhaps it may be said that this is no time to dispute about rank;

if so, I would just beg leave to inform you, that when in Canada last winter I viewed this argument to be of great force; but at present conceive myself to be in the state in which I was when I left home, and beg leave to decline the service; and with the utmost deference to subscribe myself, as in reality I am, a true friend to the free and rising States of America, and at the same time, your most obedient and most humble servant,

WILLIAM GOFORTH.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York.

[No. 4.]

New-York, June 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I take occasion to express the high sense I entertain of that honourable testimony of your approbation which you were pleased to give by unanimously appointing me Deputy Adjutant-General in the Continental Army, and extremely regret the necessity I am now laid under of making a resignation of the trust committed to me. I flatter myself that, considering my uniform conduct, and my circumstances in life, you will do me the justice to believe, that in accepting the office I was influenced by my zeal for and attachment to the cause of America; not by any avidity for the emoluments which might thence arise. It is unnecessary to say I left ease and competency, my wife, my children, and every thing dear to me, to encounter, at the expense of my health, as well as at the risk of my life, all the rigours, difficulties, and dangers of a long campaign in Canada. Neither is it my part to determine whether my behaviour in the station I filled has been reprehensible or meritorious; but this much I will venture to assert, that however moderate my abilities, my assiduity and attention to the discharge of my duty were unremitted. What share of zeal and perseverance I may pretend to can easily be ascertained by the term of my continuance in Canada, under all the discouragement of an excruciating disorder. At any rate, I am not conscious of any such neglect or desertion of my duty as may justly expose me to a manifest indignity; and when it is offered me I cannot forbear feeling it with the sensibility of a man.

As first Deputy I naturally expected to succeed to the Adjutant Generalship when it became vacant; but, to my great surprise, I find the Continental Congress have thought proper to give the preference to another. True it is, the Congress have adopted a resolution to reserve to themselves a right of dispensing preferments according to the merit of officers, and not the seniority of commissions; but even on that ground the preference they have given to another contains an implied censure on my conduct. It is a tacit declaration that I am not competent to the place of Adjutant-General, and of course that I have not acted with propriety in my former character; for no man capable of acquitting himself well in the post of Deputy Adjutant-General can be unqualified for that of Adjutant-General. I am, therefore, compelled to suppose the Continental Congress disapprove of my past conduct, and think me unfit for the place to which I was appointed; otherwise it cannot be imagined they would step aside from the plain path of succession by seniority, and take the pains to place a gentleman not at all within the line of the department over my head. This would be charging them with a degree of partiality of which I hope they are incapable.

I am now reduced to this dilemma, either to suppose that I have been much injured, and my honour as a soldier wounded in the tenderest part, by being excluded from a station without sufficient cause, to which I had a good right to aspire; or to close with the opinion of the Continental Congress, and consider myself as inadequate to the office you were pleased to honour me with. In either case it is evidently my duty to resign. In the first, justice to myself requires it; in the last, justice to my country.

On whatever ground I act, be assured, gentlemen, my affections to this country and my zeal for the preservation of its rights, will always remain unimpaired. As a private citizen, my property, my life, shall be cheerfully hazarded in defence of America.

I am, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most humble servant,

EDWARD FLEMING.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress.

A true copy, examined by ROBERT BENSON, Secretary.

[No. 5.] In Convention of the Representatives of the State of }
New-York, White-Plains, July 9, 1776. }

Resolved unanimously, That the reasons assigned by the Continental Congress for declaring the United Colonies free and independent States, are cogent and conclusive; and that while we lament the cruel necessity which has rendered that measure unavoidable, we approve the same, and will, at the risk of our lives and fortunes, join with the other Colonies in supporting it.

Resolved, That a copy of the said Declaration, and the foregoing Resolution, be sent to the Chairman of the Committee of the County of Westchester, with orders to publish the same with beat of drum at this place on Thursday next, and to give directions that it be published with all convenient speed in the several Districts within the said County, and that copies thereof be forthwith transmitted to the other County Committees within the State of New-York, with orders to cause the same to be published in the several Districts of their respective Counties.

Resolved unanimously, That the Delegates of this State in the Continental Congress be, and they hereby are, authorized to concert and adopt all such measures as they may deem conducive to the happiness and welfare of the United States of America.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

In Convention of the Representatives of the State of }
New-York, White-Plains, July 11, 1776. }

SIR: Your letter of the 6th instant, enclosing a copy of the Declaration of Congress proclaiming the United Colonies free and independent States, and requesting us to proclaim and publish the same in this Colony, has been received.

It gives us pleasure to inform you, that having been informed of that Declaration by our Delegates, we have anticipated the request of the Congress by our resolutions of the 9th day of July instant, a copy of which was enclosed in a letter we did ourselves the honour of writing to you this morning.

We have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient and most humble servants.

By order: NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress.

COLONEL SEYMOUR TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: Notwithstanding the singular circumstances of my family, I could not possibly avoid coming with the Lighthouse to this place, in the cause of our country. We got in on Monday, and make a body of about five hundred as fine men, and as well spirited, as any on the ground. The General was much rejoiced at the measure, and appears disposed to show us every mark of respect. He is something perplexed about the expense of foraging the horses. He fears he cannot be justified in it without the consent of Congress. He will write Congress upon the subject, and use his endeavour (he assured me) to have their approbation; if not, the men must rely upon the Colony for it. How long we shall stay, is uncertain—this depends much upon the arrival of our new levies; and as the men are principally farmers, have left their grass, their grain, and other affairs much unprovided for, they hope every method will be taken for their speedy relief; and in this respect they rely much upon your Honour's influence. The enemy are constantly in view, upon and at Staten-Island. Some measures, it is thought, are in contemplation to dislodge them, before they are reinforced. Tories grow scarce in the city, and I wish it may fall to the Lighthouse to purge the Colony of such vermin. I cannot omit mentioning to your Honour that the Captain of the troop at Norwalk (Belding by name) designedly neglected his duty, and so we have none of his men.

I am, with every sentiment of esteem, your Honour's most humble servant,

T. SEYMOUR.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

P. S. Independency is highly approved by the Army.

COMMISSARY TRUMBULL TO JEREMIAH POWELL.

New-York, July 11, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 1st instant, notifying me of the route of the troops from the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay to Ticonderoga. I find it coincides fully with my wishes. Captain Farnsworth will be at Np. 4, and every precaution is and will be taken to render the march of the troops as easy to them as possible, and the mileage paid them. As to the troops coming to this place, I will also take care to meet them with proper supplies at New-Haven.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To Jeremiah Powell, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL GATES.

Fort George, July 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Captain Varick, my Secretary, in a letter of the 8th instant, from Albany, advises me that the enemy had landed on Staten-Island, and that their fleet anchored about three miles above the watering-place on Wednesday last.

Immediately on my arrival here, I caused inquiry to be made for axes and intrenching tools: none of either to be had, except a few pickaxes, which I have ordered to be sent to you to-day. I will hasten up all I can procure at Albany.

Captain Veeder's company of Militia I have sent to Skenesborough to assist the carpenters there. Permit me to remind you of employing some of the Militia in bringing boards from the mill at Cheshire's.

The sick will be very comfortably accommodated at this place, and I hope so disposed of when they recover, as soon to join the Army without the danger of communicating any infection to it. Enclose you Colonel Alden's complaint against Colonel Wayne, which I forgot to leave you.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Gates.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Tyonderoga, July 11, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: This morning I received your favour of yesterday, and have this moment sent General Schuyler a copy of Colonel Hartley's Journal, as you desired. The distribution of the smiths, armourers, ship and house carpenters, is made according to your recommendation.

You give no opinion in regard to the Indians taken by Colonel Hartley. The neutrality of the Indians at this critical juncture is much to be wished, for many reasons, and especially for the sake of the poor frontier inhabitants; it therefore requires that we should be circumspect in our conduct, on the one hand neither rashly entering into hostility, nor on the other suffer ourselves to be the dupes of our credulity. Does it appear that the Indians taken were in arms and intending to take part against the United Colonies? If that is confirmed, they must be kept in confinement; if, on the contrary, they were inoffensive and peaceable, I think they ought to be released. After weighing this matter well in your mind, you will decide upon it. I suppose you will send the rest of the Pennsylvania troops here as soon as it is proper and convenient. One of the Captains of Artillery should come with the next cargo of ordnance stores; and if you have two ordnance guns at the Point, one should be sent here as soon as possible. General Sullivan and the gentlemen here are captivated with the ground intended for our new post, where the water is excellent. We have begun to clear the ground and make roads. No news yet from New-York. You may be assured of my sending you an express when any arrives.

I am, dear General, &c.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Tyonderoga, July 11, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed is Lieutenant-Colonel Hartley's report of the proceedings of the detachment under his command. How far he was right or wrong in taking the Indians prisoners, I cannot pretend to determine, until I see Colonel Hartley. The neutrality of these people is to be wished for; and if the inhabitants are not apprehensive of their enmity, I think it would, upon many accounts, be best to let them alone. General Arnold will, I suppose, resolve what measure to take with them; if not, I shall. By the information respecting the enemy contained in this Journal, you see how necessary it is, by every means, to expedite our naval armament. To that end, I have made the distribution of the carpenters and smiths between this and Skenesborough that you directed. You will not fail to send your orders to the commanding officer there to employ them to the best purpose. Musket-ball, of all sorts, buckshot, lead, and cartridge paper, are much wanted in this department, as are carpenters', smiths', and armourers' tools. The rest of our wants your own observation will inform you, and your zeal for the service will, I am confident, supply. No news yet from New-York. My compliments to Mrs. Schuyler and the young ladies.

I am, dear General, your affectionate, humble servant,
HORATIO GATES.

To Major-General Schuyler.

P. S. Axes and intrenching tools, I have great hopes you will speedily supply.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Colonel Hartley arrived from a tour down the lake last night. Enclosed is a copy of his Journal. I make no doubt the enemy have a number of vessels in forwardness, and will exert themselves in building, to command the lake.

I have made a draught of the artificers, and have sent you a number of each, as per the enclosed memorandum. I have ordered the oar-makers to go between this and Skenesborough. If timber cannot be procured there, they must return here, where it is plenty. I believe the armourers will be wanted at Ticonderoga, and some few of the blacksmiths. The others will have employ at Skenesborough. All the house-carpenters you will doubtless want. The ship-carpenters are divided into gangs of fifteen each, and will most or all of them be wanted at Skenesborough. I have employed officers to command the artificers, which I believe will expedite the works. I have ordered to Ticonderoga some boards, plank, &c. All that can be procured will be forwarded to you immediately.

I am anxious to hear from New-York. You will be kind enough to transmit to General Schuyler a copy of Colonel Hartley's Journal.

I am, with esteem and affection, dear General, yours,
&c., &c.,

B. ARNOLD.

N. B. I sent you about four tons lead yesterday, in sheets and ball. I have three tons remaining on hand. None can be found in the fort.

COLONEL HARTLEY TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Crown-Point, July 10, 1776.

In pursuance of General Sullivan's orders, I set off from hence on the 5th instant, in the afternoon. We had a very great storm that evening, which had near destroyed several of our boats, and much injured our arms and ammunition. Against a very strong north wind, we arrived the second evening at Cumberland Head. Proper dispositions were made to provide against a surprise, or oppose an enemy, if any should appear.

We, on the 7th, found a small quantity of ship-timber there, which we destroyed. I ordered out several parties, who scoured the woods for many miles around Cumberland-Head. I sent also a boat down the lake as far as the Isle Motte, early in the morning; but neither of the parties nor boat discovered an enemy.

My whole detachment, consisting of about two hundred and fifty men, came to one William Hays's, in Cumberland-Bay, on the 7th, in the evening. Hays had, within a few days, sent a child to St. John's; and one Cross, his neighbour, had sent his wife there, as a place of security. Neither Hays nor Cross did incline to remove themselves or their cattle to Crown-Point. They alleged they were in no danger of the enemy, and that they were sure the Indians would not hurt them. They objected much against my removing their cattle. I gave positive orders. They complied; but seemed very uneasy. Though General Sullivan had recommended that Hays should be removed, yet, as his wife was very ill with the small-pox, I did not inform Hays that I had any order relating to his person, but proposed that he should remain with his wife, and retain a milch cow and calf, and all his household goods. He chose to come up himself to advocate his cause, and has left two men to take care of his wife. I have brought him and Cross along with me. They are here, and are very pressing to return.

I found several saws, intrenching tools, &c., very necessary for the publick service, at Hays's. I caused an inventory of them to be taken, and brought them here.

I brought away the chief of Hays's and Cross's cattle. They are now here. There is an inventory of them.

I found a quantity of good plank and crooked timber for ship-building at Hays's, which is the property of Mr. Udney Hay. I ordered the same to be brought here in several batteaus, which are now at the landing.

There was about one thousand feet of plank some miles from the shore, which, at this time of year, could not be conveyed to the boats on account of some large swamps. As it could not fall into the hands of the enemy till winter, (when, perhaps, we might procure it ourselves, if wanted,) I thought it improper to burn it.

At Hays's, we found Hays, Cross, and two other men, and by some address we collected the following intelligence: That Cross's father-in-law had been there within a few days; that he had informed that Generals Carleton and Frazier were at St. John's with a considerable body of Hanoverian and other troops; that they were repairing the works at St. John's, and that one hundred men were daily employed in cutting wood between that place and the Isle-aux-Noix; that they were building three sloops and two schooners at St. John's, which they expected would be soon finished, and that they intended immediately to proceed to Crown-Point; and that the enemy did not mean to injure any of the common people in their settlements. We also understood that there were several Indians at the Isle-aux-Noix.

Before we came to Hays's, we were informed that he kept an Indian about his house, and was determined to do it during the summer. At Hays's, by gathering something from each of the four, (though they seemed all averse to communicate anything to us,) we learnt that this Indian had some time before gone to hunt about twelve miles distant, and that two Indians had come up the lake within a few days, and he had gone to join them; since which, nothing of them had been seen.

From the conduct of Hays and Cross, as well as of the Indians in general on these waters lately, I considered these Indians unfriendly, and was persuaded they would act against us if an opportunity should offer. We fixed a plan against these savages with the greatest secrecy. We were very lucky in having one (Sergeant Cross) who was acquainted with the country. I detached Lieutenant Grier, Ensign Haffner, Sergeant Cross, and twenty-three riflemen. They left Hays's about one o'clock in the morning of the 8th, in a boat to the mouth of the river Sable. The party divided. Lieutenant Grier (an excellent woodsman) with his division some miles up the river took the Indian tracks which had been made the day before. The enemy had ten dogs with them; but the division managed with such secrecy and judgment, that Lieutenant Grier surprised three Indian men and seven women and children, in a wigwam, just at daylight; they seemed much agitated and hallooed out; the party seized four guns and other arms. The officer prevented any of them from being put to death, though the late cruel murder and scalping of several worthy men of the Sixth Battalion might have justified it. These Indians had a watch-house on the lake at the mouth of the river Sable, to watch what passed on the lake—they were not employed by us; the house or wigwam had been very lately made use of. They had their females in such a remote place that they thought no white people could discover them, and the men might act occasionally.

However these Indians may have conducted themselves in former times, they now appear as unfriendly persons. Two of them, as has been observed, came up the lake within these ten days, and since the murders committed below.

The detachment who took them, ought to be rewarded for their good behaviour; they have had assurances of this sort from the late General. Should these Indians be discharged, it will damp the ardour of our troops and injure the service. Be pleased to take some steps that their persons may be properly secured; and should you consider the property of the prisoners to belong to the captors, I would be exceedingly glad you would order the same to be delivered to Lieutenant Grier, and disposed of for the use of his detachment.

Be pleased to direct what is to be done with the plank, timber, cattle, &c.

We also brought some cattle belonging to one Gay, which are now at the Point.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

THOMAS HARTLEY,

Lieutenant-Colonel 6th Battalion of Pennsylvanians.

To the Honourable Brigadier-General Arnold, Commander at Crown-Point.

List of Artificers sent from CROWN-POINT to TICONDEROGA and SKENESBOROUGH, July 10, 1776.

Captain Edward Williams, Lieutenant Solomon Bowman, with sixty-five blacksmiths and armourers. The former, with Captain Williams, to go to Skenesborough, the latter, with Lieutenant Bowman, to remain at Ticonderoga.

Lieutenant Benjamin Beal with thirty-four house carpenters, Lieutenant Thayer with thirty-four house carpenters, Mr. Noah Nichols with eight wheelwrights and gun-carriage makers.

Richard Fittock with thirteen ship carpenters, to Skenesborough. Lieutenant William Curtis with thirteen ship carpenters, to Ticonderoga, if wanted, otherwise to Skenesborough.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, July 11, 1776.

SIR: Agreeable to your directions, I have forwarded all the arms and accoutrements fit for use that were in the hands of the Agents, lately taken from the Scotch prisoners. The Agents, without my knowledge, parted with part of the arms; part of them were taken by the commander of a Connecticut privateer, who assisted in taking the transports; and some, I am told, were thrown overboard by the prisoners, and others were broken; but I have not been able to obtain an exact return of the arms taken.

I am, your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,

Sent to Norwich, to the care of Joshua Huntington, Esq.: 73 arms, 60 bayonets, 73 bayonet belts, 73 slings, 73 shot-pouches, 50 cartridge-boxes, 73 knapsacks.

NATHANIEL BARBER, Jun.,
Deputy Commissary of Artillery.

TO THE JUSTICES IN MASSACHUSETTS EMPOWERED BY THE COURT TO DEAL WITH THE TORIES.

GENTLEMEN: Lenity is a most excellent virtue; but there are certain seasons when it may betray us into a fatal neglect, by encouraging the determined enemies of the country to cabal and prosecute the basest measures for the destruction of our liberties. We may say of Toryism as of Popery, that it is always the same. There are worthy individuals among the professors of both; and a few rare instances of real converts from each, through an increase of knowledge; but the prevailing spirit of the parties is uniform and abiding. I do not mean that either of them should therefore be knocked on the head for their noxious sentiments, or be deprived of any privileges which can be enjoyed by them without hazard to ourselves, unless by their behaviour they have made or do make a forfeiture thereof. However, we are led by the first law of nature, the innate principle of self-preservation, to prevent their having it in their power to do us a mischief, when we know how ready they are to give in to the basest methods, that they may carry their point, and to think that the end will sanctify the means. Are any so weak as to imagine that their words are to be taken, and that they will be peaceable and inoffensive, and will not intermeddle more in the present dispute, seeing that they have been so tenderly dealt with by the publick in general, and so cordially received again into favour by particular individuals: let them hurry to New-York, and view that horrid, infernal plot, that their brethren had laid for the destruction of Generals, Army, and the whole American cause, at a single blow. Let them inquire whether—though they may now hang down their heads through chagrin that the plot has not succeeded, not through shame that it was ever laid—they have not lately behaved rudely towards the country; showed all possible publick friendship for the Highland officers, and concern at their captive situation, and allowed our brave countrymen to be styled Rebels at table, without animadverting upon the indecency of it. I am not for censuring a polite treatment to those gentlemen who, by the fortune of war, are thrown into our hands. No; let them see that we are not cowards, by our declining everything that looks like insolence and cask hams, 7 hogsheads and part of a hogshead rum, 361 black shoulder-belts, 74 bundles gun-straps, 1 field-bed and 2 bundles bedding, 4 markees, Colonel Campbell's camp equipage, the Quartermaster's camp equipage, 1 bundle, a bundle not directed, 3 field tents and materials, 6 bundles tent poles for markees, 12 bundles common tent poles, 7 bundles leather bullet pouches, 13 hair pouches, 3 cartouch-boxes, 62 camp tents, a remnant ticklenburg, 1 cask and 2 bundles tent pins, a cask tin canteens and 69 loose canteens, 10 tin pans, 23 camp kettles, 1 package tent stools, 3 bayonets, 4 halberts, 1 riding saddle, 1 travelling pack-saddle, 82 canvass knapsacks, 199 hair knapsacks, a bale containing 80 blankets, a bale containing 50 watch-coats, 1 box black plumes, 4 bundles soldiers' clothing, 1 bundle stockings, 3 pairs shoes, 2 bags with belts and knapsacks, 2 pieces plaid, 7 bonnets, 2 pieces and part of a piece duffels, 144 soldiers' blankets, 33 beds, 85 pillows, a bale brown paper, 44 hatchets, 1 bundle twine, 1 cask sheathing nails, 2 casks fivepenny nails, 1 set small weights, 2 iron spades, part of a cask currants, 13 barrels pease, 6 barrels flour, 2 barrels barley, 9 barrels pork, 27 barrels beef, 19 kegs butter, 15 barrels oatmeal, 2 tierces and part of a tierce vinegar, 2 barrels herring, 1 bag oats, 74 bags bread, 14 casks bread (damaged), 104 water casks, 74 dozen bottles.

J. BRADFORD, Agent.

brutality; that we are brave, by being humane and generous: but it is not for Ministerial Addressers and Associators, and such as have always avowed an enmity to the cause in which we are engaged, to push themselves forward and caress them. 'Tis an insult to the publick, that can be surpassed only by their repairing to and visiting them, when they will have the opportunity of consulting what can be done more effectually to embarrass us and serve the friends of Government—that is, the tools of tyrants.

Gentlemen, it has been wisely resolved by the Continental Congress, “that no man in these Colonies, charged with being a Tory, or unfriendly to the cause of American liberty, be injured in his person or property, or in any manner whatever disturbed, unless the proceeding against him be founded on an order of this Congress, or the Assembly, Convention, Council or Committee of Safety of the Colony, or Committee of Inspection of the district wherein he resides.” Are you desirous that this wise resolve should be strictly adhered to, step forth with undaunted boldness, and execute the trust reposed in you, without fear, favour, or partiality. Should you sit but seldom, suffering this, that, and the other, to keep you from the Bench; should you do little business, protracting examinations, and declining to give judgment; should you spare this man, because he is a relation to yourself or friends; that, because he is eminent in his profession, and a family doctor; a third, because that, should there be a change in affairs, his influence and connexions may be the means of saving you; should you keep up the appearance of designing to do something effectual, and after all do little or nothing,—the publick may expect that they are amused, cheated, and betrayed; resent it, and determine that they will have justice done them, though they take the execution of it into their own hands.

Gentlemen, would you prevent confusion and disorder, see, then, that you do your duty. The servants of the people are amenable to the people, from the Council to the Justice; and if the people find, upon trial, that no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been hitherto established, they have a right to instruct their present or any future Representatives to adopt such a mode of government as they themselves shall be of opinion will best conduce to their own happiness in particular, and of America in general. While I intend, gentlemen, in this way, to lay before you the sentiments of numbers, I would treat you with all that respect that can be reasonably desired from

PLAIN TRUTH.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR BENJAMIN GILES.

Colony of New-Hampshire,
In Committee of Safety, July 11, 1776. }

To Benjamin Giles, Esquire:

Whereas the General Court of this Colony have been notified that Captain Farnsworth, of Connecticut, is appointed by the Commissary-General of the Continental forces to provide for the New-Hampshire troops at Connecticut River, on their route to Crown-Point: but as our troops are nearly ready to march, and that they may not be delayed at No. 4, if anything should hinder Captain Farnsworth from having provision ready, you are desired to proceed with all possible despatch to said No. 4, and find whether any provision is there made for the aforesaid men, or likely to be seasonably made; and if not, to purchase and transport to said No. 4, with all speed, nine thousand pounds weight of pork, and the like quantity of bread, and deliver the several companies of New-Hampshire men, as they arrive there, to each man six days' provisions, allowing a pound of pork and a pound of bread per day. You will, if no further provision is made, provide and have ready to deliver to the first company that arrives, what provisions you can collect in that neighbourhood, while you are in the mean time collecting more. And for what provisions you may buy, you may engage the money to be paid as soon as you can send to Exeter therefor, which will be ready there in ten days from this time. Be expeditious, by all means; and when you have performed the said business, make return to this Committee, unless you should have an opportunity to settle the same with said Captain Farnsworth.

By order of the Committee.

MATTHEW THORNTON, Chairman pro tem.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COLONEL WYMAN.

In Committee of Safety, July 11, 1776.

SIR: I send you, by the bearer, your commission as Colonel of a regiment of our Militia in the service; also, thirty pounds, as two months' advance wages. As the troops will be along in a few days, it is expected you will go forward with them to Crown-Point, and join the Army there. The Captains Drew, Chandler, Shepard, Dearborn, Blanchard, Harper, Parker, and Weatherbee, with their companies, are to make your regiment. As it is of great consequence that the men are forwarded with speed, therefore expect you will do what is in your power that they make no delay at No. 4. You will also receive thirty-two pounds, advance wages, for your Surgeon, Adjutant, and Quartermaster, with this, and blank commissions for those officers to be appointed by you. Imploring the divine assistance on your endeavours to serve your country, and that you may return in safety, with laurels of victory, is the sincere desire of him who, in behalf of the Committee, subscribes himself your very humble servant.

To Colonel Wyman.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN WOODWARD.

In Committee of Safety, July 11, 1776.

To Captain DAVID WOODWARD, of Hanover:

You are hereby authorized to enlist thirty men, to serve under you as soldiers for three months, unless sooner discharged, to serve as scouting parties, to explore the woods and watch or oppose the motions of enemies coming against our frontier settlements; taking orders from time to time directing your route, from Colonel Jacob Bayley, Colonel John Hurd, and Colonel Charles Johnson, or any two of them, a Committee appointed for that purpose. You are to take special care to enlist none but good able-bodied, effective men, fit for such service, and they shall be paid the same wages (viz: forty shillings per month) as the Provincial troops raised and stationed for the particular defence of this Colony; and you shall be paid four pounds per month for your service, and one subaltern under you three pounds ten shillings per month. You are also to provide provisions for your company, giving them such allowance as is delivered other troops in the Army, for which you shall be paid on exhibiting an account. You are to appoint out of the number of men as above, two Sergeants, whose pay is forty-eight shillings each.

Petition of the Selectmen of PORTSMOUTH, Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

To the Honourable Committee of Safety of said Colony, humbly shows:

That the subscribers, Selectmen for said town of Portsmouth, your petitioners, have been requested by a number of the inhabitants of the town forthwith to call a town-meeting, to know whether the said inhabitants will vote to have a Hospital opened for inoculation for the small-pox under necessary regulations. That it is the opinion of your petitioners that there will be a very great majority of the people for having the said Hospital; and we beg leave to give your Honours this early notice thereof by express, and to request that this measure may have your countenance and sanction, as we suppose it will (from the accounts we hear) be utterly impossible to prevent the distemper's spreading in the natural way—a calamity we ought to take every method to guard against. We further humbly entreat that you will be pleased to order such rules and regulations for the good government of said Hospital as in your wisdom you shall think meet; and your petitioners shall ever pray.

A PROCLAMATION:

Whereas the present struggle for our invaluable rights and liberties in this Province makes it requisite to give every encouragement to all such persons who are willing to enter into the service of their country; and our Provincial Congress at their last meeting having taken the same under consideration, and being willing and ready to promote the welfare of every friend to the American cause, have thought fit to resolve, "That all persons inlisting in the service of this Province, who do faithfully serve in the present contest until a peace shall be concluded with Great Britain, or shall serve three years in the present war, shall be entitled to one hundred acres of land in this Province; and should any of the aforesaid men be killed in defence of this Province, his wife or family shall be entitled to the same."

I do therefore issue this my Proclamation, declaring that every man who shall inlist in any of the Troops of Horse, or Companies of Foot, raised for the defence of this Province, and shall serve agreeable to the terms above mentioned, shall be entitled to a grant of one hundred acres of land as aforesaid; and in case of accident, his wife and family shall receive and enjoy the same emolument.

Given under my hand and seal at Savannah, the 12th day of July, 1776. ARCHIBALD BULLOCH.

By his Excellency's command:

EDWARD LANGWORTHY, Secretary.

JOHN PAGE, PRESIDENT OF VIRGINIA COUNCIL, TO GENERAL LEE.

Williamsburgh, July 12, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: Your kind concern for my health made me happy, and the high approbation you express of my publick conduct highly gratified my pride. I had the pleasure of receiving your letter, which did me so much honour, about the 9th of last month. I was then at Mr. Harrison's, near Petersburgh, where I had gone with Mrs. Page for the recovery of her health. Our trip happily has answered our wishes, and we are once more fixed at Williamsburgh. It is now four weeks since we have received any certain account of the situation of affairs in either of the Carolinas. Even your letter to Brigadier Lewis, countermanding the march of the troops, did not arrive here till four weeks after it was written. The regiments had just begun their march; but had they not been scattered abroad on distant stations, and badly provided with necessaries for such an expedition, they would have reached the place of their destination before your express could have stopped them. It will be worth your while to examine into the occasion of this. I thought it a matter of so much importance to have such orders communicated with despatch, that I advised the Brigadier to send an express to you immediately, to inform you of the unaccountable delay that yours had met with, and to recommend it to you to establish a post throughout your district; but he was preparing for an expedition against Gwin's Island. The Brigadier set out last Monday on his way to our camp, attended by the Colonels Woodford, Stephens, Bucknor, Weedon, and some others, intending to examine into the strength of the enemy, and submit the propriety of an attack to a council of war. They reached the camp that night, and the next day, finding that the Dunmore had changed stations with the other, and had exposed herself very prettily to the very place where we had been preparing a battery for the Otter, they determined not to lose this good opportunity of beginning their cannonade, in which they might severely and principally chastise the noble Earl. At eight o'clock, A. M., Captain Arundel and Lieutenant Denny saluted the Dunmore and Otter with two eighteen-pounders; the very first shot at the Otter, though a full mile from our battery, struck her, as it is supposed, between wind and water, for she did not return the fire, but was towed off on the career. The Dunmore fired a broadside, and then was towed off, having received four shot through her sides. Whilst she was in tow she received a fifth through her stern, which raked her. Scarcely a shot was fired which did not do execution in some part of the fleet. A schooner lost one of her masts. Whilst Lieutenant Denny was firing on the fleet, their battery on the Island began to play on him, and a ball passed through the embrasure; on which he immediately turned his cannon on their battery, (for he had taken the precaution to have scope enough to take in the fleet, and that part of their battery,) and fired three times successively into their embrasure, which three rounds completely silenced that part of the battery;

the other part, facing our lines on the haven, was almost as soon silenced by our battery erected against it with four nines and three six-pounders. Part of their camp was a little exposed to both of our batteries, which fired a few rounds into it. This fire was as well directed as that against their ships, for it beat down many of their tents, and threw their camp into the utmost confusion. When this was discovered, the Brigadier ordered canoes to be brought down to enable the men to pass over into the Island; for, unhappily, we had not a boat on the shore: these could not be procured till the next day, when a smart cannonade began between the batteries; but as soon as our men had manned their boats, their fire ceased, and they retired with precipitation to their boats, and escaped safely to their ships, having first broken off the trunnions, &c., of their cannon. There were three tenders up the haven, which could not pass our batteries; these they abandoned; they endeavoured to burn one, but our men boarded it, and extinguished the flames. I understand that all these tenders have their swivels in them; but it is reported that they had thrown the guns overboard. We are now in possession of the Island. The fleet has retired, but is in sight. This might have been a complete affair, if proper measures had been preconcerted, and the whole well conducted. Our men, however, behaved well; our artillery was admirably served, and we have disgraced and mortified our enemies. In this affair we lost not a man; but, most unhappily, poor Captain Arundel was killed by the bursting of a wooden mortar, with which he was endeavouring to throw shells into the fleet. His loss is irreparable. He behaved with great spirit and activity, and was so hearty in our cause, that he is universally lamented.

Colonel Stephens is just returned from Gwin's Island; he says the enemy carried off all their cannon from their batteries, except one six-pounder, which they spiked. They left six carriage guns in one of the tenders; several negroes and a few whites were taken; two negroes and one soldier of the Fourteenth Regiment deserted to us. The prisoners inform that Lord Dunmore's mate was cut in two by a double-headed eighteen-pounder, which also took off one man's arm and another's leg, and drove a splinter into his lordship's leg. Tom Byrd was ill of a fever, and was carted off to a boat just before our people landed. They were obliged to burn two fine small vessels that day, and at night, in the mouth of the river, they burnt also a large ship, supposed to be the Dunmore, as she was not with the fleet next morning. The Fowey, it is said, was with the fleet, but did not choose to come within reach of our guns. The Roe-buck was at the mouth of the Rappahannock. The Colonel says when he came away the whole fleet had sailed, and were out of sight, and it was uncertain where they are gone—supposes to Maryland. They went off in a bad plight, without biscuit or water. Their works were found of excellent construction and considerable extent; they were preparing to build houses and a wind-mill; they had made a vast collection of materials for different works; their tents, which they moved off, except one marquee, which was left in their hurry, and through which a cannon-ball had passed, were capable of containing about seven or eight hundred men. From many circumstances it is evident they meant to stay there a considerable time.

I have been interrupted in writing, and before I could return to my scrawl, I had the happiness to receive your letter of the 3d of July. I most heartily congratulate you on your success: it was a most glorious affair—a noble defence! The British Navy has been happily checked in her proud career, and has received a most just and complete chastisement. What must the King think now? The whole Continent in arms against him, seven hundred and fifty of his favourite Highlanders in our possession, and his fleets repulsed and disgraced along our coasts for two thousand miles! I hope he will repent, and be contented to put up with the loss of America, or, if he does not, that he may meet with repeated disappointment.

The Marylanders were roused by the resolve of our Convention, and have lectured their Representatives so well, that they have unanimously voted for Independence—they have no occasion for our Riflemen on that account. However, I can assure you, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland there has been a considerable insurrection of Tories, inso-much that Colonel Fleming has been obliged to march with a hundred and twenty men to quell them. We have not yet heard the event of that affair.

I have just now received another letter from you, and am delighted with your description of the bravery of Colonel Moultrie and the garrison of Fort Sullivan. It is not flattery, my dear General, when I tell you that most of us here attribute the glorious display of bravery on that day to the animating presence of a commander, who, independent of his great military abilities and experience, appeared to be the evil genius of Clinton, who had followed him, and from whose presence he had seemed to retire and retreat along the coast, from Boston to Charleston. All that I could do, as there were not gentlemen enough in town to make a Council, was to desire Brigadier Lewis to send immediately to North-Carolina all the powder that could be spared out of the magazine. About four thousand pounds will be sent.

I am, most sincerely, yours,
JOHN PAGE.
To Major-General Lee.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Camp near Gwin's Island, July 12, 1776.

General Lewis cannot leave camp without expressing his approbation of the conduct of the Officers and Soldiers at this station. The fatigues through which they have gone with cheerfulness, and the great services they have rendered their country, justly entitle them to his hearty thanks, which he would have expressed at the head of each Company by the Captains.

MATTHEW TILGHMAN TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Talbot County, Maryland, July 12, 1776.

SIR: The resolution of our Convention to send up our regular troops as part of our quota for the Flying-Camp, has given some uneasiness to our commanding officer, Colonel Smallwood, who seems to apprehend that the Brigadier-General, (Mr. Dent,) who is to command the Militia sent from hence, may also take the command of his battalion. This, he justly observes, would be an indignity to him to which he could not in honour submit. To prevent any evil from hence, our Militia should be considered as different corps.

And what I have to request of you, sir, is, that you will be pleased to remind Congress of this circumstance. So, unless Colonel Smallwood can retain the command of his own battalion, (being under the control of a Continental superior officer only,) he will most certainly resign. He is a worthy man and good officer, a firm American, and much devoted to the cause; for which reasons, I cannot but hope that care will be taken to prevent the loss of such an officer, by exempting him from the command of a person under whom he thinks it improper for him to act, because, in his own Province, he takes rank of him.

The service requires that some attention be paid to this matter, and I trust you will readily excuse the trouble I have given you in it.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient and very humble servant,
MAT. TILGHMAN.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress, Philadelphia.

N. RUXTON NOORE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Annapolis, July 12, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: As there is a vacancy in Captain Nathaniel Smith's company of Artillery for a Second Lieutenant, I should esteem it a very particular favour, if your honourable Board would grant me liberty to fill that place. My reason for being so pressing to leave Annapolis is, I have never enjoyed my health since I have been here, and am afraid, should I not be benefited by the Baltimore air, I shall be obliged to resign my commission, though very much against my inclination, as I do not imagine I shall have my health while I remain here, and, as you well know, life is of little worth without health. I hope you will consider my case, and indulge me in my above request; and the obligation shall be ever gratefully acknowledged by, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,
N. RUXTON MOORE.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety.

JOHN WEEMS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 12, (eleven o'clock,) 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed is a letter I just received from Captain Chew. If it should prove true, please to let me know in what manner I am to act; and am, your most humble servant,
JOHN WEEMS.

To the Hon. Council of Safety, in Annapolis.

Saturday morning, seven o'clock.

DEAR SIR: I this moment received, by express, a line from Colonel Somerville, acquainting me that there are forty sail of square-rigged vessels as far up the bay as Point-Lookout. We have ordered the Captains of our battalion to call their companies together immediately, and to have their guns put in the best order they will admit of. Like for them to be ready to march at a moment's warning. Captain Parran's company is under arms. Have heard that the whole of the Militia of St. Mary's is in arms. If the vessels come up farther, which I make no doubt they will, Barbara begs that Mrs. Chew will come down here. I am in great haste; then conclude, by subscribing myself your most obedient humble servant,
JOSEPH WILKINSON.

To Captain Richard Chew.

THOMAS SMYTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Ship-Yard, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This will be handed you by my son Thomas, who waits on the Council for his commission, in pursuance of the honourable the Convention's order to him for inlisting a company of Militia. He has inlisted a company of stout, able young fellows, and almost all of them country-born. He informs me that they have very few muskets among them which are fit for service, and I believe it will be very difficult to borrow any from the inhabitants, as they do not know how soon they may be called on to use them. What guns belong to the Militia are generally very indifferent. Permit me, therefore, to solicit your honourable Board, that his company and Captain Perkins's may be armed out of the arms that will be made by Winters, and those which are sent for to Chingoteague. I hope they will be indulged with having their companies well armed, as they have been industrious enough to enrol them so soon at this busy season of the year.

As I apprehended, the Council have not been able to provide tents for the Militia that this Province has resolved to send to the Flying-Camp. I make them a tender of my best endeavours to get as many made as will be sufficient for my son's company, and, perhaps, Captain Perkins's, if they will order over one of those made at Baltimore, with the poles, the linen, and twine or thread to make them; the cruger would do much better than none; perhaps some of the sail-duck which is ordered up from Chingoteague might do better. It will certainly kill all our men, to be exposed to the open air in the months of August and September, when such heavy dews fall. I have two or three men in my service that have been used to making sails, and a tailor, who, I think, would make, in a few days, as many as will be sufficient for those two companies. If the Council should determine to accept of my offer, the sooner they send everything over the better, and I dare say I can soon get the tents made, especially if they are to be made of cruger, as many women can be employed in sowing such linen. If the Council have not provided baggage-wagons enough, I can furnish them with one very suitable for the purpose that is almost new, and in very good order. I wrote you some time last week, that a Robert Blake, a saddler in Chestertown, would undertake to furnish the Province with a quantity of cartridge-boxes, gun-slings, and bayonet-belts, at the same price which the saddlers of Baltimore had done, and requested an answer; but have not heard from the Council on that subject. Blake waits your determination. A report prevails here that some of the companies of Militia which are ordered to be raised for the Flying-Camp are to be stationed in this Province. My son earnestly requests that he may not be one of those companies, and that he may be permitted to march to the camp as first intended, and I hope the Council will indulge him in his request.

You will please to remember that the hire of the wagons sent to Chingoteague will amount to a pretty large sum. It will be some time before I can attend the Council, as I am much engaged in forwarding the building of the row-galley which I have undertaken, and am anxious to have her done very complete. Anything which the Council may have to do in the mean time in this quarter, they will command me. What has been done towards sending for the goods from Chingoteague, Mr. Nicholson has no doubt informed you.

I am, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient humble servant,

THOS. SMYTH.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

PETER CHAILLE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer, Mr. Samuel Smyly, is one of the owners of the schooner I informed you of when at Annapolis. She is well fitted as a merchantman, and think she will answer your purpose. What information Mr. Smyly gives you of her may be relied on, as he is a gentleman of integrity.

I am your most humble servant, PETER CHAILLE.

DORCHESTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Observation for Dorchester County, }
July 12, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: Basil Clarkson, of this County, was brought before us a few days ago, being charged with going on board the enemy's tenders, and carrying some men to join Lord Dunmore's party. And upon examining into the affair, we thought it our duty to send him over under the care of Captain Hindman, to take his trial before your Board. John Rumley was the only witness produced to us against him, whose deposition we have taken, and now send you enclosed. It is said Clarkson bears a very ill character, as to holding a communication with and carrying men in his boat to the tenders; and we have just now been informed that one Job Slocum, Jun., of this County, will prove that he endeavoured to persuade him and some others to go with him on board the tenders and join Lord Dunmore; but as the guard was just setting off with the prisoner, we could not delay them until we sent a summons for Slocum. There were several other persons apprehended in this County on suspicion of being unfriendly, and having a communication with the enemy; but upon our inquiring into their conduct, we could fix nothing criminal on them, and therefore discharged them, though some of them were under rather suspicious circumstances. And indeed we are sorry to inform you that we have lately discovered such an unfriendly disposition in many of the inhabitants about the islands in this County, that we are convinced that it will be productive of very ill consequences, unless some steps are taken immediately to keep them in proper order; and we beg leave to submit it to your consideration, whether it may not be absolutely necessary for the publick service that part of one of the Independent Companies be immediately stationed in that part of this County. The inhabitants there are so much exposed to the depredations of the enemy that we cannot help thinking many of them have been induced from that circumstance rather than from inclination to appear friendly towards them; and that many may be prevented from attempting to join the enemy could they see any forces stationed among them to afford them proper protection. Our Militia have been so long on duty, guarding our bay and river shores, to prevent the depredations of the enemy and the escape of Tories, that they have many of them lost considerably in their harvests, and suffered much in other parts of their property; and, we fear, if they are not assisted very soon they will be almost in a state of despair. Captain Woolford's company, which was originally intended for this County, is now taken from us, and part of it is ordered by Major Price to be stationed in Somerset, and the other part on the mouth of Nanticoke, whereby it is rendered almost useless to this County; and we are left in a manner defenceless, though as much exposed as any County in the Province. This being the situation of our County, we thought it necessary to inform you thereof, and we doubt not but your Honours will pay proper attention thereto.

We are, with great respect, your most humble servants,
Signed per order: JAMES MURRAY, Chairman.

P. S. We are greatly in want of Powder, and should be glad to receive a supply as soon as possible.

DEPOSITION OF JOHN RUMLEY.

John Rumley deposeth and saith: That he was taken by a tender's boat on the shore of Spring's Island; that while he was on board the tender he saw a boat standing out of Hooper's Straits, directly for the tenders in company with that which this deponent was on board of; that the said boat continued her course directly on board one of those tenders; and that it appeared to this deponent to be the voluntary act of those on board said boat to go to the tenders, as there was not a gun fired at them, or any measures taken by the tenders to send a boat, or use any other means to bring said boat to them; that said boat getting alongside one of the tenders, he knew it to be Basil Clarkson's boat, and that said Clarkson and three others were in her, all of whom got on board the tender; that soon after Clarkson and his company boarded the tender, this deponent heard men on board the several tenders hail each other, and say that the Defence was lying off Hooper's Island, and that Basil Clarkson and a certain John Baptist told them so; which said Baptist and two others went on board the tender when Clarkson came off from them in his boat, about one hour and a half after his going on board; and further saith not.

Taken before the Committee of Observation for Dorchester County, this 9th day of July, anno Domini, 1776.

Signed per order: JOHN C. HARRISON, Clerk.

To the Honourable the Convention of MARYLAND:

The Petition of Basil Clarkson most humbly sheweth: That your Petitioner now is, and hath been for a considerable time past, confined in the jail of the City of Annapolis for a supposed crime of which your Petitioner is in no wise guilty. Your Petitioner also begs leave to represent to your Honours that he is now in almost a starving condition, occasioned by the want of, not only the common necessities of life, with respect to bodily clothing, but also for the further want of bedding. That he is now craving your Honours to release your Petitioner from his confinement; and should your Honours deign to hear your Petitioner at the bar of your honourable House, your Petitioner is satisfied within his own mind that he shall be well acquitted. Should this Petition be adverted, your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will pray, &c.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO ELISHA WINTERS.

[No. 29.]

Annapolis, July 12, 1776.

SIR: The Convention having resolved that the firelocks of such of the Militia who are to compose part of the Flying-Camp as are not effective, but might be made so by repairs, should be repaired at the expense of this Province, and that we should cause muskets found by the Militia, borrowed or purchased, for the Flying-Camp, to be fitted with bayonets, iron ramrods, worms, priming-wires, brushes, belts or scabbards; and as we are apprehensive such repairs cannot be made or bayonets fitted on the Eastern-Shore, with that despatch and expedition the service may require, but at your shop, we desire you will immediately inform us whether you can engage in that business, and will undertake to repair and fit with bayonets such guns as shall be sent to you from the several Counties over the Bay for that purpose. If they can be done elsewhere, we shall not desire you to do them, as we would wish you should confine yourself as much as possible to the work you have in hand; but if they cannot, as there is an absolute necessity that the Militia should be immediately provided with good and substantial arms, we must request you will engage in that business for us. It cannot be expected that during the time you may be at work on the arms for the Flying-Camp, that you should comply strictly with your contract with the Province; yet it is hoped that you will be able to furnish some guns, as we stand in very great need of them. We have already belts and scabbards sufficient, and have advertised for persons to make priming-wires and brushes, and expect to get the ramrods in Annapolis, so that you will not have anything to do but repair the guns and fit the bayonets, unless to make swivels to sling the guns, which must likewise be done.

We enclose you a letter and order to Henry Hollingsworth for four hundred bayonets, of different sized sockets, for the Militia arms; if you engage for us in that business, you will send them by express; but if you cannot, you will be pleased to return them. We are, &c.

To Mr. Elisha Winters.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.
[No. 30.] Annapolis, July 12, 1776.

SIR: We have received both yours of the 11th and 14th, and have despatched the last vessel you sent down with the flour to Pocomoke. We are sorry to hear the flour on board Messrs. Lux and Bowly's vessel has been so much damaged by their negligence, but no doubt they will think it but reasonable to make us a compensation.

You will receive by Captain Nicholson, two hundred and fifty pounds, out of which you will be pleased to pay for the vessels that carried the soldiers from Baltimore, as also for those you sent down to Annapolis for that purpose. We are pleased with your conduct, and are obliged to you for the assistance you have given us.

We request you will purchase the timber Mr. Wells may want for building the two gondolas, and apply the remainder of the money in payment for the same; what more you may have occasion for, shall be sent you as you want it. While you are employed in the publick business, we really think it unreasonable you should be obliged to attend at musters; it is our desire, therefore, that you should be exempt from that attendance, and desire you will signify this to your officers; and we are, &c.

To Mr. Jesse Hollingsworth.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CHARLES RIDGELY, SEN.
[No. 31.] Annapolis, July 12, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety would be glad to see you immediately, on the subject of your Letter. We are, &c.

To Mr. Charles Ridgely, Sen.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.
[No. 32.] Annapolis, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Hughes, the bearer of this, has been under contract with the Convention to supply them with cannon; he has nearly complied with his contract with us, and has run himself and his partners to a pretty considerable expense to get his works into such order as may enable them to cast many more than we shall probably want for the use of this Province. The cannon of his first casting did not stand proof, but he has his furnace now in such order that the cannon they cast are very good. He has been informed that the Congress are in want, and would willingly contract with them, and would yet considerably enlarge his works, provided the Congress would take all the cannon he and his partners should cast before the first day of next January twelvemonth. We introduce him to you as a man of credit, and who will, in our opinion, comply with any contract he may enter into with the Congress. We are, &c.

To the Deputies in Congress.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO LANCASTER COMMITTEE.
Philadelphia, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed resolve, which I have it in charge from Congress to transmit, is so extremely explicit, that I have only to request you will have it carried into immediate execution with all the despatch in your power.

I shall write to the Committee of Reading to remove the prisoners in that place to your town.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.
Committee of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

In Congress, July 10, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committee of Lancaster be empowered and requested to keep a guard over the Prisoners in the Barracks of that Borough, and to surround the said Barracks with a stockade fort.

That the Privates who are prisoners in the Town of Reading, be removed to the Borough of Lancaster.

By order of Congress: JOHN HANCOCK, President.

THOMAS STONE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.
Philadelphia, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Yours, by Captain Stricker, was this morning delivered to me, and I shall pay particular attention to its contents, though I much fear our endeavours to procure an Engineer to suit your purpose will not be successful. Every man who ever fired a cannon, or was present at erecting any kind of fortifications, has been taken up for the Continental service.

There is no provision made here for quartering any troops which may pass through. Upon the first notice of Colonel Smallwood's approach I made inquiry of the state of the city barracks, and find that there are some soldiers in them who have the small-pox, of which I shall acquaint Colonel Smallwood before he gets into town. Indeed, there is danger in almost every part of the city, and I shall advise him to halt his men in the common for a while, until some safe place can be provided for their reception. They will feel severely the want of tents, of which there are none in the Continental stores. I submit to your consideration if it would not be proper to have tents immediately made, and sent after the troops. They will probably be stationed at a place where no quarters can be had. I expect to see them to-morrow. Captain Stricker will, I think, be appointed a field-officer in the German battalion, for which I have no doubt but he is well qualified, from what I have heard of him.

The Militia of this Province are daily marching to Trenton in the Jerseys, from whence they are to proceed to Amboy. This will be the route of our troops I presume. If Brigadier Dent should join the Regulars with the Militia to be raised in your Province, I don't know how it will be possible to settle the rank of the officers. As to keeping them distinct when they are to compose one army, it seems to me to be impracticable. The rank of each officer in the Army must be settled before service is entered on, or the greatest confusion will probably take place.

I ordered, by Mr. Stephen Stewart, a case of instruments, some paper, and a gun-carriage. Be pleased to inform me if you received them. Mr. Alexander writes me that Dr. Weisenthal wants the instruments very much.

Our affairs on the Lake are far from being so prosperous as I wish them, though we have heard nothing certain from that quarter since our Army retreated to Crown-Point. Considerable reinforcements are ordered, and if they arrive in time, I hope our enemies will receive a check.

General Howe remains on Staten-Island, exercising his men, and viewing the situation of the adjacent grounds. The inhabitants of the Island are generally Tories, who I suppose will assist him all they can without taking up arms, which I think few of them will do.

General Washington and the Army under him are in good spirits, and our strength daily increasing. We regret to hear of the arrival of a considerable reinforcement from Britain. We are daily in expectation of a more intimate acquaintance between the two adverse armies. May God send victory to the arm lifted in support of righteousness, virtue, and freedom, and crush even to destruction the power which wantonly would trample on the rights of mankind. Our Province is now unrepresented, though matters of the last consequence are coming on. I pray one of the Delegates may be desired to attend. Mr. Paca is out, which occasions me alone to address you.

I am, gentlemen, with most sincere esteem, your faithful and most humble servant,

T. STONE.

To the Hon. Council of Safety of Maryland, at Annapolis.

ALEXANDER WILCOCKS TO MARYLAND CONVENTION.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee of Safety take the liberty to enclose a letter from General Washington, (of July 8,) recommending Lieutenant Wilpert to a company in the German Battalion. They would have been happy in an occasion of showing proper respect to such a recommendation, but unfortunately it did not arrive till the appointment had been made. Should there be an opening left in the Maryland division of the battalion, they make no doubt but you will be pleased with an opportunity of providing for Mr. Wilpert, agreeable to the General's desire.

I am gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant.

By order of the Board:

ALEXANDER WILCOCKS, Chairman.

To the Convention of Maryland.

LANCASTER COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation, Inspection, and Correspondence, at the house of Adam Reigart, the 12th July, 1776:

Present: Matthias Slough, William Atlee, William Bowman, Lodwick Lowman, Jacob Klatz, Michael Musser, John Miller.

WILLIAM ATLEE in the Chair.

Colonel Ross laid before the Committee a Letter from Colonel Porter, directed to him, complaining of the ill behaviour of some of the Associators in his neighbourhood, who had seized the Arms which had been collected by his directions from Non-Associators and others, together with an answer written by him (Colonel Ross) to Colonel Porter; which answer, being read, is approved of, and ordered to be forwarded to Colonel Porter by his express.

And it is Resolved, That it be recommended to the Members of Committees in the several Townships from which Colonel Porter's Battalion is drawn, to give their best assistance to Colonel Porter in procuring Arms and necessaries for the Militia, to enable them to march.

The Committee think it will be best and most for the general good for Colonel Porter to march his Militia by Companies, as he can arm them, immediately to Philadelphia, or across the country to Trenton, where they stand the best chance of being supplied with camp-kettles and other necessaries, which are not to be procured in the country.

It being represented by Jacob Erb that the persons who were chosen Collectors of Arms in the Township of Warwick have neglected their duty, this Committee do therefore appoint Christian Hollinger, Matthias Hagey, and John Huber, Collectors of Arms in the said Township of Warwick, who are to do the duty required of Collectors of Arms by the resolves of Assembly.

Captain Zantzinger's Account of Rifles purchased from Jacob Dickert, for the use of his Company, to enable them to march to the Camp in the Jerseys, to the amount of £31 7s. 6d., was produced to the Committee, approved of, and Mr. Dickert referred to the Committee of Safety or Congress for payment.

Peter Bollinger, the Committee's Messenger, being now about to march with Colonel Slough's Battalion, produces his Account for services and expenses to this time, amounting to £8 16s. 4d., which being examined, is approved of and allowed; and it is recommended to the Commissioners of the County to pay the said Bollinger moneys of the County, as he may have immediate occasion for it to provide himself with necessaries for his march.

ASSOCIATION OF INHABITANTS OF DONEGAL, LANCASTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

We, part of the inhabitants of the Township of Donegal, having associated into a Company, and signed an agreement for the regulation of the said Company, as well Officers as Soldiers, understanding that the Committee for this County is to meet in Lancaster, in order to adjust and settle grievances, we conceive the greatest grievance is, that numbers of people, of different persuasions, will not join in the said Association; some for scruple of conscience, some for the loss of time and expenses, and others being disaffected at the cause which we associate for. Some of the said people are the wealthiest and best seated in the County. We imagine that there should be none of the inhabitants of this County exempted from joining the said Association, or paying in proportion for the finding of arms and other necessaries to those who are willing to do it, who are not of ability to provide themselves with such. We request of you that it be allowed that all the landholders and farmers in the County of Lancaster be obliged to find at least one good gun each, and that every other person, who is judged by the Committee to be of ability, likewise find a good gun, whether they be joined in Association or not. This will put the County in a state of defence. We request of you that such a sum as is thought reasonable by you be laid upon each and every person who will not join the said Association, exclusive of finding the arms aforesaid, in restitution of the time which the people that have joined the said Association have and will expend, learning exercise and other duties necessary; and that such sums of money and arms be paid and received into the hands of the Committee of the different Townships in the said County, or into the hands of any other persons which you shall appoint, to be laid for the use and support of the Associators of the Townships such sums and arms will be received in. If the said proposals be not put in execution by you, we, for our part, do intend to continue no longer in the said Association, as it will be entirely useless for the greatest number of our Company to continue in the same, who are not of ability to find themselves in arms or other necessaries. But, on the contrary, if no partiality is or will be shown by you, or indulgence to the enemies of the cause, but to have all persons in the said County equally concerned therein, according to their several abilities, we will, as we always have done, defend and protect the cause of our country, to the extremity of our power and ability.

YORK COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee of Inspection and Observation } for the County of York, July 12, 1776. }

Resolved, That in case Mr. James Rankin make suitable concessions, (as he proposes,) and give sufficient surety for his good behaviour in future, he shall be restored to his liberty and the confidence of his countrymen.

"As I have, in several instances, injured the Committee of York County, by sundry publick misrepresentations, as well as by personal insults, thereby obstructing the publick measures now so necessary for the safety of our country, but being convinced of the bad tendency of my past conduct, and desirous of being restored to a good understanding and friendship with my countrymen, I do thus publickly ask forgiveness of them, and do promise, on the faith and honour of an honest man, that I will in future pay due regard to the rules and regulations of the honourable Continental Congress, and behave, in all respects, as becomes a good citizen of the United States of America.

"JAMES RANKIN.

BRITISH OFFICERS (PRISONERS) TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Yorktown, Pennsylvania, July 12, 1776.

SIR: We have long suffered, without complaint, a series of ill treatment which our characters as British officers, and our conduct since the fate of war threw us in your power, has not merited. Should we continue silent under this usage, we might be esteemed by the world either deserving of it or afraid to complain, in neither of which predicaments would we choose to appear.

When an order of Congress, about four months ago, separated us from our men, we complained of the hardships that would accrue from it in as decent terms as circumstances would admit of, but without redress. We were brought to this town and a parole tendered us to sign, with the alternative of going to jail if we refused. Conscious that a compliance could not in the smallest degree be prejudicial to His Majesty's service, we acquiesced; for be assured, sir, had we entertained the least doubt of the contrary, we should have blushed to have hesitated a moment in our choice.

To enumerate the particulars of the many gross insults we have endured would far exceed the bounds of this letter. Let it suffice to declare, that outrage hath succeeded insult, and a violation of every law of humanity been dignified by the name of authority. Not content with depriving us of the liberty of leaving our rooms after nightfall, (contrary to the faith of the parole we signed,) they have now, as a further instance of their wishes to distress us and to render our situation as disagreeable as possible, taken from us our servants, which they tell us is by order of Congress.

We have, sir, too much generosity to conceive that that body would purposely issue an order to distress a few already too much injured individuals. Prejudice, wilfully mistaken, ever uses a language opposite to truth; and that the Committee of this place are prejudiced against us must strike the candour of every dispassionate heart; for we dare confidently ask the loudest advocate of their party to say that in any one instance we have infringed the least on the parole we signed, or that our conduct has been in any way reprehensible.

Through you, therefore, sir, as President of the Congress, we apply for redress, and desire that we may be treated as gentlemen and prisoners of war, who yielded only to an honourable capitulation; at the same time beg leave to remark, that if we must continue liable to such treatment, a jail would have a preference over our present situation; and remain, sir, your humble servants,

A. GORDON,
Captain Twenty-Sixth Regiment.

EPHRAIM BLAINE TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 18, 1776.]

Carlisle, Cumberland County, July 12, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: I take the opportunity by Mr. Boyd of drawing upon you for two thousand dollars, on account of blankets and hose purchased by order of Congress for our Army at Virginia. I sent seven hundred and fifty blankets and eleven hundred pair of hose three weeks ago; the residue shall send in three weeks from this date. Will not be able to procure above fourteen or fifteen hundred blankets: they have risen to a very great price. The people ask for old ones from 15s. to 22s. 6d., and for new from 45s. to 52s. 6d. per pair. You need not expect more than the above number. The Militia and our quota of troops to form the Flying-Camp, I fear, will not be supplied without applying to me, though as yet have refused giving any. As soon as I send off the residue, shall render you my account; and am, honoured sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

EPHRAIM BLAINE.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress, Sunday, July 14, 1776.]

New-York, July 12, 1776.

SIR: The design of this is to inform Congress, that at about half after three o'clock this evening, two of the enemy's ships-of-war—one of forty and the other of twenty guns—with their tenders, weighed anchor in the Bay opposite Staten-Island, and, availing themselves of a brisk and favourable breeze, with a flowing tide, ran a part of our batteries up the North River, without receiving any damage that I could perceive, notwithstanding a heavy and incessant cannonade was kept up from our several batteries here, as well as from that at Paulus Hook. They, on their part, returned and continued the fire as they ran by. I despatched an express to Brigadier-General Mifflin, at our encampment towards the upper end of the Island, but have not heard whether they got by or received any damage. The account transmitted by this morning's post, respecting the arrival of one of the fleet, seems to be confirmed. Several ships have come in to-day: among them, one this evening, with a St. George's flag at her foretopmast-head, which we conclude to be Admiral Howe, from the circumstance of the flag, and the several and general salutes that were paid. It is probable they will all arrive in a day or two, and immediately begin their operations.

As it will be extremely necessary that the Flying-Camp should be well provided with powder and ball, and it may be impracticable to send supplies from hence, on account of our hurry and engagements, besides, the communication may be uncertain, I must beg the attention of Congress to this matter, and request that they will forward, with all possible expedition, such a quantity of musket powder and lead, if balls of different sizes cannot be had, as will be sufficient for the Militia to compose that camp.

By an express this minute arrived (quarter past eight, P. M.) from General Mifflin, the ships have passed his works.

I am, in heart, with sentiments of great regard, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Minutes of a Conference of General Officers, JULY 8, 1776.

At a Conference of General Officers and others at Head-Quarters, July 8, 1776:

Present, His Excellency the General; General Putnam, General Heath, General Spencer, General Greene, General Scott, General Wadsworth, Colonel McDougall, and Messrs. Randolph, Green, Dennis, and Duer.

A proposition having been made to the General to sink Hulks in the North-River, at Tappan-Bay, in order to stop the enemy's progress, it was fully discussed, and agreed that the same be carried into execution: Captain Grenell to sound the Channel, and fix the Buoy; Captain Dennis to take up the Vessels and Raft; Captain Lawrence and Captain Tudor to have them sunk in a proper manner; Captain Grenell to take notice of the commanding ground, so that, if works should be hereafter erected, they may be made in the most proper manner.

The General proposed to the General Officers, what should be done with the Troop of Horse from Connecticut?

Agreed, That the Men be detained until the new Levies arrive, but the Horses be sent home as soon as possible.

The Congress having referred to the Generals' determination the propriety of marching three Regiments of the Continental Troops from Boston to the Northern Army, and, in case of need, substituting the Militia in their place,

Unanimously Agreed, That the said three Regiments be immediately despatched to join the Northern Army.

Proceedings of a Council of General Officers.

At a Council of War, held at Head-Quarters, July 12, 1776:

Present, His Excellency General Washington; Major-General Putnam; Brig. Generals Heath, Spencer, Greene, Lord Stirling, Scott, Wadsworth, and Heard.

The General proposed to the consideration of the Board a plan of a descent upon Staten-Island in different places, so as to form a general attack upon the enemy's quarters, and a question was made:

Whether, in our present situation, such a measure was advisable?

Agreed, unanimously, That it was not.

The General then proposed a Partisan Party, with a view to alarm the enemy and encourage our own Troops, who seem generally desirous that something should be done.

Agreed, That Major Knowlton, who is stationed at Bergen, and has reconnoitred the Island, do confer with General Mercer thereon; and if they, upon consideration, shall deem such a surprise practicable, and that the retreat of the men can be secured, the General be advised to prosecute it. That this enterprise be accompanied with a cannonade upon the fleet from Bergen-Point, if the distance will admit.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 5, 1776.

(Parole, Cambridge.)

(Countersign, Durham.)

Those Regiments which have not made a Return of their Officers, the ranks, and dates of their commissions, agreeable to a former Order, are now called on to do it without delay, and to mention in such Returns the Colony in which such Regiment was raised, the time when and period in which they enlisted, together with the vacancies in their respective Regiments.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 6, 1776.

(Parole, Essex.)

(Countersign, France.)

The Quartermaster-General to have all the empty casks which have been collected filled with fresh water, to be changed occasionally.

The General hopes the officers and soldiers will improve this opportunity to get their arms in the best order for service, as they cannot tell how soon, or how suddenly, they may be called forth.

Two hundred men, properly officered, (exclusive of the number ordered the 3d instant,) to parade to-morrow morning, five o'clock, at the Laboratory, with four days' provisions. They will receive tools and directions from the Chief Engineer.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 7, 1776.

(Parole, Goshen.)

(Countersign, Hartford.)

A working party of one hundred and fifty men, properly officered, to go to King's Bridge to-morrow, to march at six o'clock from the parade; they are to take two days' provisions with them; after which they will draw out of the stores there; to take their arms and tents with them; and when they get there, General Mifflin will give them orders.

As the enemy may make an attack early in the morning, when there may not be time for the soldiers to fill their canteens, the General directs that they be filled every evening; the officers to take care that it is not neglected, as it is a matter of much consequence at this season.

James Johnson, a soldier in Captain Hide's Company, and Colonel Wyll's Regiment, tried at a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Reed is President, for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his naked back. Sergeant George Douglas, John Davis, John Cooper, Robert Sawyer, and George Clarkson, all of Captain Van Wyck's Company, Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at the same court-martial for "mutiny and sedition." Sergeant George Douglass is acquitted; the others severally found guilty, and sentenced, Davis to be whipped thirty-nine lashes; Cooper thirty lashes; Sawyer and Clarkson to be whipped each twenty lashes, on their bare backs for said offence. The General approves of the foregoing sentences, and orders them put in execution at the usual time and place.

Some persons having barbarously wounded and maimed some cattle belonging to Leonard Lisenard, Esq., on Friday last, the General hopes no soldier in the Army is concerned in so base and scandalous an action; but if it should appear otherwise, such person may depend on the severest punishment. Any person who can give any information in the matter will be well rewarded.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 8, 1776.

(Parole, Johnston.)

(Countersign, Lebanon.)

The new levies from Connecticut and New-Jersey daily arriving, a report is to be made every day to the General of the number arriving, by the Commanding Officer of each corps, in order that proper arrangements may be made.

All officers are required to be careful that their men are acquainted with orders, that they may not plead ignorance.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 9, 1776.

(Parole, Manchester.)

(Countersign, Norfolk.)

John Evans, of Captain Ledyard's Company, Colonel McDougall's Regiment, Hopkins Rice, of Captain Pierce's Company, Colonel Ritzema's Regiment, having been tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Reed was President, and found guilty of "desertion," were sentenced to receive each thirty-nine lashes. The General approves the sentence, and orders them to be executed at the usual time and place.

Passes to go from the city are hereafter to be granted by John Berrien, Henry Wilmot, and John Ray, Jun., a committee of the city appointed for that purpose. Officers of the guards at the ferries and wharves to be careful in making this regulation known to the sentries, who are to see that the passes are signed by one of the above persons, and to be careful no soldier goes over the ferry without a pass from a General Officer. The North River guard to be removed to the market-house, near the ferry stairs, as soon as it is fitted up.

The honourable Continental Congress having been pleased to allow a Chaplain to each Regiment, with the pay of thirty-three dollars and one-third per month, the Colonels or Commanding Officers of each Regiment are directed to procure Chaplains accordingly; persons of good character and exemplary lives; to see that all inferior officers and soldiers pay them a suitable respect, and attend carefully upon religious exercises. The blessing and protection of Heaven are at all times necessary, but especially so in times of publick distress and danger. The General hopes and trusts that every officer and man will endeavour so to live and act as becomes a Christian soldier defending the dearest rights and liberties of his country.

The honourable the Continental Congress, impelled by the dictates of duty, policy, and necessity, having been pleased to dissolve the connexion which subsisted between this country and Great Britain, and to declare the United Colonies of North-America free and independent States, the several Brigades are to be drawn up this evening on their respective parades, at six o'clock, when the Declaration of Congress, showing the grounds and reasons of this measure, is to be read with an audible voice. The General hopes this important event will serve as a fresh incentive to every officer and soldier to act with fidelity and courage, as knowing that now the peace and safety of his country depends (under God) solely on the success of our arms, and that he is now in the service of a State possessed of sufficient power to reward his merit, and advance him to the highest honours of a free country.

The Brigade Majors are to receive, at the Adjutant-General's office, several of the Declarations, to be delivered to the Brigadier-Generals and the Colonels of Regiments.

The Brigade Majors are to be excused from further attendance at Head-Quarters, except to receive the orders of the day, that their time and attention may be withdrawn as little as possible from the duties of their respective Brigades.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 10, 1776.

(Parole, Ogden.)

(Countersign, Philadelphia.)

A working party of one hundred and fifty men, properly officered, to parade to-morrow morning, with their arms, near the Laboratory, at six o'clock. To take three days' provisions. The Commanding Officer to come to Head-Quarters for his orders. The Quartermaster-General to provide tents.

General Heath's Brigade, instead of repairing to their alarm posts to-morrow morning, to hold themselves in readiness to march. They will receive their orders from the Brigadier-General on the parade, at four o'clock. The Brigadier will attend at Head-Quarters, this afternoon, for the orders.

John Butler, of Captain Bridgham's Company, Colonel Bailey's Regiment, having been tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Reed was President, is found guilty of "desertion," and sentenced to receive thirty lashes. The General confirms the sentence, and orders it to be executed at the usual time and place.

Though the General doubts not the persons who pulled down and mutilated the Statue in the Broadway last night, were actuated by zeal in the publick cause, yet it has so much the appearance of riot and want of order in the Army, that he disapproves the manner, and directs that in future these things shall be avoided by the soldiery, and left to be executed by proper authority.

After orders.—Colonel Drake, who was ordered in the orders of yesterday for picket this day, being unable to mount, Colonel Bailey is to mount picket this day in his stead. Likewise, as Lieutenant-Colonel Stoutenburgh is sick, Lieutenant-Colonel Sheppard is to succeed in his place to-morrow.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 11, 1776.

(Parole, Quebec.)

(Countersign, Roxborough.)

General Spencer's Brigade, instead of repairing to their alarm post, to hold themselves in readiness to march to-morrow morning, at four o'clock. The Brigadier-General will attend at Head-Quarters this evening for orders, which he will deliver on the parade to-morrow morning to the Brigade.

As the weather is very warm, there will be the greatest danger of the Troops growing unhealthy, unless both Officers and men are attentive to cleanliness in their persons and quarters. The Officers are required to visit the men frequently in their quarters, to impress on them the necessity of frequently changing their linen, cleaning their persons, and, wherever it can be avoided, not to cook their victuals in the same room where they sleep. If any of the Officers apprehend themselves crowded in their quarters, they are to represent it to the Barrack-Master, who is ordered to accommodate them in such a manner as to be most conducive to health and convenience. The good of the service, the comfort of the men, and the merit of the Officers, will be so much advanced, by keeping the Troops as neat and clean as possible, that the General hopes that there will be an emulation upon this head; and as a scrutiny will soon be made, those who shall be found negligent will be punished, and the deserving rewarded.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 12, 1776.

(Parole, Somerset.)

(Countersign, Tunbridge.)

Thomas Blunfield, of Captain Darrow's Company, Colonel Parsons's Regiment, tried by a General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Reed was President, was found guilty of "desertion," and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to be executed at the usual time and place.

Lord Stirling's Brigade to be on the parade at four o'clock to-morrow morning, with their arms and accoutrements, ready to march. They will receive their orders from their Brigadier at the parade.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL GEORGE CLINTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 12, 1776.

SIR: Two ships of force, with their tenders, have sailed up Hudson's River. I am apprehensive that they design to seize the passes in the Highlands by land, which, I am informed, may be done by a small body of men. I must therefore request you instantly to desire General Ten Broeck to march down as great a force as he can collect to secure them, particularly the post where the road runs over Anthony's Nose.

Send off an express directly, if you please, to the west parts of Connecticut, desiring them to collect all their force at the same point, since I have the highest reason to believe it will be absolutely necessary, if it was only to prevent an insurrection of your own Tories.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Brigadier-General George Clinton, New-Windsor.

P. S. A return must be immediately made to me of the number of men you collect.

EBENEZER HAZARD TO GENERAL GATES.

New-York, July 12, 1776.

DEAR SIR: In my last I told you of the arrival of the fleet from Halifax, under General Howe. The troops under his command are about eight thousand in number, and have taken possession of Staten-Island, which has been peaceable hitherto, but very probably will not be so long, for I believe it is in contemplation to attack them before an expected reinforcement under Lord Howe arrives. No attempt has been made on this city or the adjacent country yet. Imagine General Howe will do nothing before he is reinforced. Desertions are frequent among them: almost every night some men make their escape. I do not learn that they bring any material intelligence.

Enclosed is the Congress's Declaration of Independence. It has been proclaimed in the State-House at Philadelphia, and in the Army here, and received, as might naturally be expected, with great joy. The King of England's Arms have been burned in Philadelphia, and his statue here has been pulled down to make musket ball of, so that his troops will probably have melted Majesty fired at them.

Our Convention now sitting at White-Plains have entered fully into the spirit of Independency, and have ordered it to be proclaimed by the Chairman of every Committee in the Colony within their respective districts.

No news from Boston lately; only Gordon writes that the Assembly are going to make thorough work among the Tories; and that a servant maid of Colonel Irwin's has returned from Halifax with a number of letters for Tories in and about Boston, which, instead of delivering them as directed, she put into the hands of the Committee. The contents of them have not yet transpired, but it is expected they contain useful information. I have not had the pleasure of a letter from you yet. Have only time to add, that I am yours,

EBENEZER HAZARD.

To General Gates.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 18, 1776. Referred to the Board of War.]

In Convention of the Representatives of the State of }
New-York, White-Plains, July 12, 1776. }

SIR: Nothing but regard to their duty could induce the Convention of New-York again to call your attention to a subject so disagreeable as complaints against the arrangement of the Canada Regiment formed by your honourable House. They this day received certain papers relative to that business from a number of officers, who think themselves deeply affected by it, of which papers the enclosed are copies. From thence it appears that, besides other appointments out of the line of rank, three Sergeants, a Corporal, and a Lieutenant Fireworker have been raised over the heads of commissioned officers.

I have the honour to be, sir, the Congress and your most obedient servant.

By order: NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress.

New-York, July 8, 1776.

We, the subscribers, do hereby resign the appointments we held in the regiment lately ordered to be raised and commanded by Lewis Dubois, Esq., for the following reasons:

First: We have been ungenerously superseded, which the old arrangement of officers made by the Provincial Congress will fully evince; for we assert that the youngest Lieutenant in the Third Regiment, to which Mr. Dubois belonged, is appointed a Captain over the heads of the First Lieutenants of the First and other regiments; likewise that Sergeants and Corporals, who went out in said Third Regiment, have superseded officers who bore commissions in the last campaign.

AARON AERSON, Lieutenant.

JONATHAN PEASE, Lieutenant.

RICHARD PLATT, Lieutenant.

DANIEL GANO, Lieutenant.

GARRET H. VAN WAGENER.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress.

White-Plains, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Whereas we have had the honour to serve in the Continental Army by your appointment last year, we beg leave to mention to you a state of facts which we esteem as real grievances, and look up to you for direction or redress.

When first the dire alarm of war was sounded in our land, we willingly stepped forth and offered our services to our bleeding country, and were much pleased with the appointments which you honoured us with. Urged on by the same motives which first induced us to engage, we endured all the hardships of a most severe campaign, with a pleasing fortitude, not doubting but whilst we were doing our duty we should meet with the applause of our country; that an equal distribution of honour would have been conferred on those who had not merited the reverse. But this has not been the case; a few have been promoted to high rank, while others, of equal standing and merit, are superseded or entirely neglected. Among the many instances of this procedure that might be given, the most recent is the late arrangement of the officers of a regiment to be commanded by Lewis Dubois, Esquire, the injustice of which we hope will fully appear to your honourable House, if you will please to look over the copy of the arrangement itself, which we take the liberty of enclosing to you.

We humbly desire you, gentlemen, to take this matter into consideration; and are, with due respect, (in behalf of the disbanded officers that served in Canada,) gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

SAMUEL SACKET,
AARON AERSON,
RICHARD PLATT.

To the Honourable Convention of the State of New-York.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER AT NEW-YORK TO HIS FATHER IN SALEM, MASSACHUSETTS, DATED NEW-YORK, JULY 12, 1776.

The enemy are now in the harbour, although they have not yet ventured themselves within gunshot of the city; but we hourly expect to be called to action. The whole Army is out between two and three every morning at their respective alarm-posts, and remain there until sunrise. This was something irksome to me at first, but is now very familiar and agreeable. I am morally certain that it will not be long before we have an engagement. God Almighty, of His grace, grant us courage and wisdom, and smile on our arms, that we may play the men valiantly for our God and the cities of our God. This campaign, if in our favour, I expect will prove decisive; hope there will be no effort wanting on our side to effect it. May we all be fired with a noble ardour and Godlike resolution, rather to die than submit; take for our motto, Liberty or Death, remembering that it is truly honourable to die for our country, and far better to die freemen than to live slaves. I make no doubt, considering the great, good cause we are fighting for, and the necessary preparations that are made, that, with the smiles of Heaven, we shall behave with becoming fortitude and conduct, and be enabled to vanquish those instruments of British tyranny and oppression, the enemies of God and mankind.

I most heartily congratulate you on the Declaration of Independence—a Declaration which happily dissolves our connexions with a Kingdom where the name of a King is synonymous to that of tyrant, and the name of subject to that of slavery. Our trade is courted by all nations, who would gladly enter into alliance with us for the sake of it; but in that respect we may do as we please, for our internal resources are great, and will, in a short time, be sufficient to supply our necessity; and what success may we not hope for and expect, under God, from the united efforts of this vast extended Continent.

July 14.—Just as I had finished the foregoing, we were alarmed by some of the men-of-war getting under sail and making for the city. We immediately repaired to our alarm-posts, which are at such a distance from the river that we had not a chance to fire a gun, but had a beautiful prospect of the whole engagement. We saw them pass by ten of our batteries. They all kept an incessant fire upon them until out of reach, but had not so much success as I could wish, though they were all hulled several times, and much damaged in their rigging; but wind and tide being in their favour, and a very brisk breeze, they soon got by. They poured their broadsides upon our batteries and the town as fast as possible, but without doing any damage. They kept their way up the river until they came near King's Bridge; and not knowing there was any battery there, they dropped anchor near the shore, when our people opened a battery of four twelve-pounders, six six-pounders, and two three-pounders, which did great execution. They weighed anchor with all possible expedition, and proceeded farther up the river, where they lie peaceably at present. Their rigging and hulls were very much damaged, so that they are obliged to keep continually pumping. One of the tenders was so much damaged, that the people all went on board of the large ships, and took her in tow; and by deserters from the Phoenix, of forty-four guns, the largest ship that went by, it appears that they lost, from that ship alone, twenty-four men killed and thirteen wounded, and that she had sprung a leak which they could not discover, that kept them continually pumping. We lost six men killed, and three or four wounded, by not spunging a gun. Mr. Conant, the bearer of this, is one of the wounded, who behaved with courage and activity. I expect we shall, in a few days, prevent those ships from returning, and any more getting to them. Which concludes me, after proper respect to all friends, your dutiful son.

* Officers of Third Regiment of New-Yorkers that were first promoted.

New-York, Monday, July 15, 1776.

Last Friday morning, it was reported in town that Lord Howe was arrived at Sandy-Hook, with a large fleet from England. Between one and two o'clock, P. M., two ships hove in sight, and joined the fleet at the Watering-Place. About an hour after, a ship, supposed to be the Phoenix, of forty-four guns, a frigate of twenty-eight, and three tenders, got under way at Staten-Island, and stood up for this city. The Army soon took the alarm, and in a few minutes every man was at his station, well provided with all necessaries for a vigorous defence; but as soon as the ships came near Bedlow's Island, they inclined towards the Jersey shore, to avoid our batteries, that then began to play upon them from every quarter, on both sides of the river; and, notwithstanding they must have received considerable damage, they stood their course up Hudson's River, firing several broadsides as they went along, without either killing or wounding any of our people, who, on the occasion, behaved with uncommon bravery. A strong southerly wind, and the tide of flood, facilitated the ships getting above the batteries near the town; but we hear they were roughly handled about twelve miles up the river, from whence they have not yet attempted to return, but we hear laid at Tarrytown, about thirty miles up the river, on Saturday evening.

Several shot went through different houses in the town; two into the house of Mr. Verdice Elsworth, at Paulus-Hook; three into Captain Clarke's house, at Greenwich—one of them went through the front, and lodged in a brick wall, at the head of Miss Clarke's bed, in her chamber; a second went through the house, and the third destroyed several trees before the door, and took its course into the woods. A ball also struck the house of Mr. Daniel Phoenix, and from that took its course to the new dwelling of Mr. Christopher Smith, in the opposite side of the street. Soon after these ships passed the town, a great number of salutation guns were heard in the fleet below, which, we are since told, was on the arrival of Lord Howe, with a few more ships.

On Sunday afternoon, a barge from the fleet appeared in our bay, with a white flag, which was there met by the General's barge, with several gentlemen of the Army on board. The flag was sent by Lord Howe, with a letter to his Excellency General Washington; but as the letter was improperly directed, it was not received.

Lord Howe came over possessed of unlimited power, and was much concerned he had not arrived a few days sooner, which would have effected a reconciliation, &c. However, it seems his unlimited power did not extend to the necessary preliminaries of a negotiation—an acknowledgment of the right of the persons, to whom he came, to treat with him. Indeed, the idea of coming over to propose a plan of reconciliation is, in every view, absurd and ridiculous. For, as the Colonies never invaded the rights of Britain, and only defended their own, there was no occasion at all for negotiation. The moment Great Britain receded from her unjust claims, the war was at an end. The very proposition, therefore, of a negotiation was a proof that Great Britain persisted in her encroachments on the rights of the Colonies, and was in itself an act of a hostile nature.

On Tuesday, another flag from the fleet appeared, and was met as before, when a letter was again offered, but, for the same reason as the former, rejected.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, July 12, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am just returned from Crown-Point, to which place I accompanied General Gates. On our way to that place we stopped at Ticonderoga, and left Colonel Trumbull to take a view of the grounds opposite to it, and on the east side of Lake Champlain. In the evening of the 5th we arrived at Crown-Point, and on the 6th Colonel Trumbull arrived, who made so favourable a report of the ground he had been to view, that, in a Council of all the General Officers, held on the 7th, it was unanimously resolved to take post there, as your Excellency will see by the enclosed paper, (No. 1.) On the 8th we returned to Ticonderoga, and on the 9th we went over the ground for the intended post on the east side, which we found so remarkably strong as to require little labour to make it tenable against a vast superiority of force, and fully to answer the purpose of preventing the enemy from penetrating into the country to the south of it. On the evening of the same day, I received a remonstrance by the hands of General Sullivan, copy whereof, (No. 2,) with copy of my answer, (No. 3,) I also enclose.

The most descriptive pen cannot describe the condition of our Army: sickness, disorder, and discord, reign triumphant—the latter occasioned by an illiberal and destructive jealousy, which unhappily subsists between the troops raised in different Colonies.

General Sullivan is on his way down, the occasion of it your Excellency will see in his letter to me, copy of which (No. 4) is enclosed, together with copy of my answer, (No. 5;) the former General Gates saw soon after I received it, and the latter (of which he approved) before it was sent.

By the advice of the General Officers, I have ordered all the sick to Fort George. Two houses, capable of containing about three hundred and fifty, are ready for their reception, and a sufficient quantity of boards is collected, under which to shelter the remainder comfortably until hospitals can be erected.

The waste that has been made of provision is incredible. Flour we have in plenty; but of pork not more than six hundred barrels, and fresh beef extremely difficult to be procured. I hope the Commissary-General will send up pork.

Intrenching tools of every kind are wanted; no one can tell what is become of them, nor can we find above fifty of the vast number of axes that have been sent up. I expected to find a scarcity of both, and before I left this gave orders for collecting all that could be got. In procuring the former, we have had no success; of the latter, something better than three hundred are to be forwarded to-morrow. Perhaps the scarcity of intrenching tools at New-York no longer subsists; if so, be pleased to order all that can be spared. Axes I am in hopes to procure.

Your Excellency will please to press Congress for their pleasure on the resolution (No. 6) for raising six companies to guard the frontiers, which we conceived could be much better done by the inhabitants themselves than by others. None of the Militia from the eastern Colonies are yet arrived; they are extremely apprehensive of being infected with the small-pox, and not without reason, as it proves fatal to many of them.

The excessive high price which the troops are to pay for the clothing bought for them will give great disgust, and be attended with the most disagreeable consequences. I wish Congress could see fit to order an abatement on the first cost so considerable as that the soldiers might see the attention paid them.

I am informed that there is a resolution of Congress that no officer should hold double commissions. There are several such appointed in Canada by the Generals that commanded there. I have made one here, by giving my Aid-de-Camp, Captain Van Rensselaer, a company in Van Schaick's, that became vacant by the death of Captain Mills. If such a resolution exists, I wish to know it, with your orders for my conduct in regard to those already appointed.

We have reason to believe that the Indians will be very numerous at the ensuing treaty. I set out to-morrow to meet them. We have had no intelligence from Canada since that contained in General Sullivan's letters, which passed me on my way to Crown-Point.

No carpenters are yet arrived from New-England. Those from Connecticut were to leave Hartford some day this week.

Please to order up the sundry articles mentioned in the enclosed list of naval stores, (No. 7.)

Lead is an article we stand in great need of; if any can be spared, your Excellency will be so good as to order it to be sent up.

July 13th. The lead is just arrived, but the anchors and cables I fear are by some mistake landed at Poughkeepsie. Be so good as to order Mr. Hughes to make inquiry into the matter.

* * * * *

unanimously agreed that I should write to the different Governments from whence troops had been sent, entreating the Governours and Commanders-in-Chief to issue their proclamations promising pardon to all such as should return by a limited time, to be fixed by such Governours, &c.; and to require all officers, civil and military, in their respective Governments, to apprehend all such deserters as should not comply with the terms offered, which I hope will meet with your approbation.

I am, dear sir, with the most unfeigned esteem and respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

MINUTES OF A COUNCIL OF WAR.

At a Council of War held at Crown-Point, July 7th, 1776, the Honourable Major-General Schuyler, President; Honourable Major-General Gates, Brigadier-General Sullivan, Brigadier-General Arnold, and Brigadier-General De Woedtke, Members:

Resolved, That under our present circumstances the Post of Crown-Point is not tenable; and that, with our present force, or one greatly superior to what we may reasonably expect, it is not capable of being made so this summer.

Resolved, therefore, That it is prudent to retire immediately to the strong ground on the east side of the Lake, opposite to Ticonderoga, with all the healthy and uninfected troops; and that the sick and infected with the small-pox be removed to Fort George; it appearing clearly to the Council that the post opposite to Ticonderoga will the most effectually secure the country, and removing the infected with the small-pox obviate every objection that may at present retard the Militia (ordered by Congress) from joining the Army.

Resolved, That the most effectual measures be taken to secure our superiority on Lake Champlain, by a naval armament of gondolas, row-galleys, armed batteaus, &c.

Resolved, That one or more Surveyors be immediately employed to trace out a road between the high ground opposite to Ticonderoga and the road leading from Skenesborough to the Northern settlements.

JOHN SULLIVAN,

[No. 2.]

REMONSTRANCE OF COLONEL STARK AND OTHER FIELD OFFICERS TO MAJOR-GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Crown-Point, July 8, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We, whose names are hereto subscribed, Field-Officers of the several regiments in the Continental service now at this place, beg leave, with the utmost respect, to acquaint your Excellency, that when we have been heretofore called upon in a council of war to give our opinion respecting the propriety of a retreat from Canada, we were informed by the then commanding officer in chief, that the positive orders of the Continental Congress were, "to dispute every inch of the ground in Canada."

That order we have complied with, so long as we or our General (in council) thought would be most conducive to the publick weal. And at the last council of war to which we were called, it was almost (if not quite) unanimously resolved to retreat to this place, and here make a stand against the Ministerial Army.

Since our arrival at this place we have been informed by your Excellency that the honourable Continental Congress have ordered and directed the superiority of the lakes to be maintained. Also, that the Army are to be removed to Ticonderoga.

We would not pretend to dictate to you, sir, or to the other Generals, what orders you should issue; neither will we ever decline obeying them; but at the same time beg leave to remonstrate to your Excellency that the order for our removal to Ticonderoga appears to us to militate with both the foregoing orders of Congress, in the spirit (if not in the letter) of them, for the reasons following, viz:

1st. We cannot but judge from our own observation of the ground here, that we can maintain it against any forces our enemy can send against us.

2d. That this post appears to us to be the only one where we can maintain a naval superiority upon the lakes.

3d. That whenever we quit this post, we give our enemy an opportunity of taking possession of it, with all the advantages already made by former works, which it will be impossible for us ever to retake from them without an amazing expense of blood and treasure.

4th. By admitting the enemy to get the possession of this place, it not only entirely destroys the communication with the lower parts of the lakes, but opens a plain and easy passage for them into the heart of the four New-England Governments and frontiers of New-York.

5th. Our retreat from this place to Ticonderoga must occasion the retiring of hundreds of families from their farms, and quitting their crops of grain, which would be much more than sufficient to maintain themselves, and drive them upon other towns, which must occasion a consumption of whatever could be spared for the publick service, if not a famine amongst them.

6th. That this place will afford an asylum for the savages, from which they may much easier make excursions upon the frontier settlements and secure their retreat.

7th. That the place to which we are ordered to remove, has ever proved extremely unhealthy, and will tend to increase the distresses our Army have laboured under by reason of sickness.

These, sir, are some of the many reasons which we beg leave to offer to your Excellency's consideration why we are not entirely easy with the determination of the General Officers respecting our removal, and hope our zeal for the publick good, which induces us to make these observations, will be a sufficient apology for this interruption upon your publick business, and that your Excellency will pay such regard hereto as the importance of the affair demands.

We are, with great esteem, your Excellency's most obedient humble servants,

JOHN STARK, Colonel,
ENOCH POOR,
WILLIAM MAXWELL,

[No. 3.]

Ticonderoga, July 9, 1776, nine P. M.

GENTLEMEN: Your remonstrance of yesterday's date was delivered me at eight o'clock this evening by General Sullivan. Previous to any observations on it, give me leave to remind you of a mistake you have made in supposing that I informed you that Congress had directed me "that the Army was to be removed to Ticonderoga." My expression was exactly in these words: "That it be recommended to General Schuyler to form a strong camp in the vicinity of Ticonderoga or Crown-Point." I observed, that as I quoted from memory, and had not the resolution with me, I could not repeat the very words of it. I rather wish to impute your mistake to misapprehension, than to any intentional false repetition of what I said, which I cannot suppose any gentleman can be guilty of.

The reasons which induced the council of General Officers unanimously to give their opinion to remove the main body of the Army from Crown-Point, I cannot conceive myself at liberty to give without their consent. For myself, I declare with that frankness which I wish always to characterize me, that the measure seemed not only prudent, but indispensably necessary, for a variety of reasons, against which those you have given do not, in my opinion, bear a sufficient weight to alter it—some of which are evidently nugatory, and all of which might be contrasted with much more cogent ones in support of the resolution. I assure you at the same time, that if I were convinced of the impropriety of the measure, I should not be in the least tenacious of supporting my opinion, but immediately give way to conviction, and rescind the resolution so far as it depended on me to do it.

I am happy, gentlemen, that you declare your readiness to obey the resolution of the General Officers, although it does not meet your approbation—a sentiment which every good officer ought not only to entertain, but to inculcate on others, as a principle on which the preservation of every army, in a very great measure, depends. Such a sentiment will always induce me, and, I dare say, every other General Officer, to receive with patience and pleasure the advice of his officers, and act accordingly, where I or they are convinced.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Colonel Stark and the other gentlemen who signed the remonstrance to General Schuyler, dated the 9th July.

[No. 4.]

Crown-Point, July 6, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: The command of the Army in Canada having unexpectedly devolved on me, I with reluctance accepted the arduous task; and however unsuccessful I may have been in my attempts, yet I may venture to say that the ill success never happened by my rashness, imprudence, or cowardice. I must beg leave further to add, that I am not conscious, in any one instance since I was honoured with a commission from Congress, that I have neglected or refused to do my duty; for the truth of which I appeal to the candour of those officers with whom I have had the pleasure to serve. I readily confess that I ever was desirous of some officer of superior rank to relieve me from the disagreeable command, and should with pleasure have remained in the Army and served under him; but Congress having thought proper to supersede me by appointing General Gates, (who had not, by the rank they were pleased formerly to confer on us, the same pretensions as myself,) I can construe this in no other light but by supposing Congress was apprehensive that I was not equal to the trust they were pleased to repose in me. If this be the case, I am bound in justice to my country to relinquish a command to which I am not equal. If this was not the foundation, and they had not such an opinion of me, surely my honour calls upon me to leave the service after a person is put over me without any impeachment of my conduct. I should not have the least objection to being commanded by General Gates, as I have no personal objections to him, and would willingly have served under him, had he in the first instance held a commission superior to the one Congress was pleased to honour me with. But this not being the case, and the procedure so strong an implication against my conduct or abilities, I must beg leave to quit this department, with my family and baggage, as I cannot with honour act in future, and shall, as soon as possible, repair to Congress, and petition for leave to resign my commission.

This indulgence, dear General, shall ever be acknowledged by your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To the Hon. Major-General Schuyler.

[No. 5.]

Crown-Point, July 7, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of yesterday's date was delivered me this morning.

The merits of the reasons which induce you to ask leave of absence from the Army, I would not by any means wish to enter into. It is, however, a justice I owe you to declare, that your conduct since the command of the Army in Canada devolved on you, has been perfectly agreeable to me, and that every manœuvre of yours, as far as they have come to my knowledge, and I am capable of judging, has been conducted with a prudence and discernment that leave your character as an officer unimpeached.

Although I most sincerely wish you to remain with the Army, yet as I wish to evince the utmost tenderness to the feelings of every gentleman who conceives himself injured, I cannot withhold my consent to your waiting on the Commander-in-Chief, with such gentlemen of your suite as you choose should follow you. I am, &c.,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Sullivan.

[No. 6.]

Minutes of a Council of General Officers.

At a Council of General Officers, held at Crown-Point, July 8, 1776:

Present: Major-General Schuyler, Major-General Gates, Brigadier-General Sullivan, Brigadier-General Arnold.

The inhabitants residing on the east side of Lake Champlain having, by Colonel Warner, and several other gentlemen, represented the distressed situation of the inhabitants, and that they will be under the necessity of quitting their habitations, unless a body of men is stationed on the east side of Lake Champlain, and to the northward of the settlements, to prevent the incursions of the savages, and that they were willing to raise a body of men for the purpose on the Continental pay, Major-General Schuyler informed the Court that he was not empowered by Congress to raise any men for that or any other purpose, and therefore requested the opinion of the Court on the following questions:

Whether, the weak state of the Army considered, and the fatal consequences that may result from the inhabitants' above alluded to quitting their habitations, and thereby alarming and creating terror in the more southern inhabitants, it would not be advisable to raise a body of men for the purposes above mentioned from among said inhabitants?

Resolved, That it is advisable to raise out of the said inhabitants six Companies, to consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, three Sergeants, three Corporals, and fifty Privates; and that General Schuyler, or officer commanding, issue warrants for the purpose.

Resolved, That General Schuyler immediately transmit a copy of this Resolution to Congress, praying to be immediately informed if they should disapprove of this measure.

PHILIP SCHUYLER, HORATIO GATES,
JOHN SULLIVAN, B. ARNOLD.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Albany, July 12, 1776.

SIR: On my way to Crown-Point, I was honoured with your letter of the 2d instant, an answer to which I could not conveniently send from thence. This day at two I returned here, and about four received your favour of the 9th, by Mr. Brown. I am extremely happy to learn that I may soon expect the carpenters. The allowance your Honour recommends shall be complied with; and if any account of disbursements, paid or ordered by you, be transmitted to the Deputy Paymaster-General here, he will immediately discharge it. On our way to Crown-Point, we left your amiable son, Colonel Trumbull, to reconnoitre the grounds opposite to Ticonderoga. His report was favourable, and accompanied with such judicious remarks that they confirmed me in my opinion that it was the properest place effectually to prevent the enemy from penetrating into the Colonies; and I had the pleasure to find that it was unanimously embraced by the other General Officers. Copy of their resolutions I enclose. On our return from Crown-Point, General Gates, the Chief Engineer, your son, and several other officers, again minutely surveyed the ground, and found it capable, with little labour, to be made tenable against a vastly superior force. On this spot we propose to encamp, and employ the Militia; and here they will be separated from the others by the lake, which is at this place about half a mile wide. The sick and infected with the small-pox are all ordered to Fort George, where hospitals are built and building for their reception. I believe the last of these unhappy people will be there this evening or to-morrow at farthest.

It gave me great pleasure to meet my much esteemed friend General Waterbury this morning at Saratoga. His vigilance will second my wishes, and I dare say we shall prevent the unhappy malady, which has so greatly distressed us, from reaching the troops now marching up to our support.

The enemy, from the last accounts, were fortifying at St. John's. From the number of tents there, they do not exceed one thousand, at St. Therese about one hundred and fifty, and as many at Chamblly. What further numbers they may have we know not.

We are greatly distressed for felling axes. All I shall be able to procure here will be vastly short of what we shall want. Your Honour's goodness, and the despatch with which everything comes from you, will expose you to much trouble and many applications; but as I know where your consolation lies, I do not hesitate to beg your assistance on this occasion. I flatter myself that a great many axes may be procured from what the inhabitants of your Colony may have for their own use, and wish your Honour to appoint some person to do it, and to deliver them at Albany, for which he will be paid whatever consideration you shall be pleased to promise, together with every attendant expense. I do not know how conveniently to transmit the money to pay for the axes; perhaps it may be furnished out of your Treasury, to be replaced immediately by the first safe conveyance. I wish to have as many (under one thousand) as can be procured.

When I was at Crown-Point, I proposed to a council of officers an expedient to procure the return of the deserters from the northern Army; and it was unanimously agreed that I should write to the different Governments from whence troops had been sent, entreating the Governours and Commanders-in-Chief to issue their Proclamations, promising pardon to all such as should return by a limited time, to be fixed by such Governments, &c., and to require all officers, civil and military, in their respective Governments to apprehend all such deserters as should not comply with the terms offered. May I be permitted to entreat your Honour to issue such Proclamation in your Colony.

We expect a very numerous meeting of the Indians at the German Flats. My colleague Commissioners set out with me to-morrow for that place.

I am, with perfect esteem and respect, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable J. Trumbull, Esq.

GENERAL GATES TO MOSES MORSE.

Ticonderoga, July 12, 1776.

SIR: I this moment received your letter of the 9th instant, and entirely approve of the establishment of a post between Watertown and the northern Army. I am sorry for the unhappy account you give of the sickness in Boston, and wish the same pestilential disease had not for some months sorely afflicted our troops in this department. Three thousand of the Army are now in hospitals, and others daily falling sick; so that, what with the losses sustained at Quebeck, the Three-Rivers, and the Cedars, and the consequent retreat from Canada, together with the death and desertion that has happened since the 1st of April, our Army is diminished upwards of five thousand men, exclusive of the sick above mentioned. This miserable situation of our affairs, and other circumstances considered, induced the council of war, which General Schuyler held a few days ago, unanimously to resolve, that the Army should immediately retire from Crown-Point to Ticonderoga, where, upon the strong ground on the eastern side of the lake, directly opposite to the east point of Ticonderoga, an encampment is marked out for the Army. The sick and infected are removing to the fort at the south end of Lake George, where the general hospital is fixed. Our naval force upon the lake is, in the mean time, refitting with the utmost diligence; but the loss of all the field-cannon in Canada, with many carriages and artillery stores, very much retards this business, as carriages are to be made here, where our conveniences for doing it are very scanty. Brigadier-General Arnold is at Crown-Point, forwarding the troops, artillery, stores, and provisions, to Ticonderoga; as fast as these arrive, I shall endeavour to place them in a situation to maintain their post; but should the enemy gain a naval superiority upon the lake before this Army is augmented by at least six thousand men, I think our possession of any ground upon the navigable part of these lakes exceedingly doubtful.

By intelligence received yesterday from St. John's, the enemy are very busy constructing three sloops and two schooners. General Carleton and General Frazer are said to be at that post, with a large body of troops. General Schuyler has ordered a number of gondolas to be built at Skenesborough; three are already finished, but the providing them with artillery and rigging will be a work I am apprehensive will take more time than we have to spare.

As I would not detain the express, I have only given you a general description of the state of affairs here. General Schuyler, who commands in this department, assured me he would write particularly to the Eastern Governments; he left Ticonderoga the day before yesterday, to go to an Indian treaty that is to be held the 15th instant at the German-Flats, upon the Mohawk River.

I am exceedingly anxious to know the true state of affairs at New-York, from whence I have not heard a syllable that can be depended upon since the 1st instant.

The Almighty may chastise us for a time, but he surely will not suffer our righteous cause to perish. That the peace and freedom of America may, in his good time, be established, is the fervent prayer of, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HORATIO GATES.

P. S. I desire the Militia sent to our assistance may come complete in arms and ammunition.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 12, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Enclosed is a list of officers and seamen, which I have sent you under the care of Captain Mayhew. I have engaged them the same wages as the seamen now on board the fleet. They will all be wanted to fix the vessels and gondolas; after which, I think it will be best to divide them into gangs of twelve or fifteen men for the gondolas now building. Captain Mayhew has in charge thirteen Indians, taken by Colonel Hartley and Major De Hart, who it will, perhaps, be best to send to Albany, and retain as hostages for the good conduct of their tribe. Enclosed is a letter I have written General Schuyler on the subject, which I beg the favour of you to forward.

All the artillery and stores will go off this day: one company of the Train are ordered to Ticonderoga, to receive and take charge of the same, and the others will go off to-morrow. The whole Army may leave this place on Sunday, unless you think proper for part of them to remain here until barracks can be built at the new camp, as many of them are destitute of tents. I should be glad of your instructions by return of the first boats. I have not had the pleasure of hearing from you since you left us. I am very anxious to know how matters go at New-York, and surprised we have no intelligence.

I am, with respect and affection, dear sir, your obedient humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To Major-General Gates.

P. S. Dear General: Since writing the foregoing, I have received yours of yesterday. The gin I have ordered down. I am greatly at a loss to know what to judge of the Indians. It is a matter of so much importance, I would not choose to decide on it myself. They have an interpreter with them. I could wish you would be at the trouble of examining them yourself.

I am, with great respect and esteem, dear General, most sincerely yours,

B. ARNOLD.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 12, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: The bearer (Mr. William Hay) and Henry Cross were taken from their farms at Salmon River, about fifty miles down the lake, on the west side; the former has left his wife behind, in the small-pox, and three children; the latter has sent his wife to St. John's. Part of the cattle of both are brought up here. They are suspected of being inimical to us; and having it in their power to give intelligence to the enemy, were ordered here by General Sullivan. There is a number of families under the same predicament. These people appear inoffensive. It will answer no purpose to remove a part, except the whole are removed; in which case provision must be made for them. I have referred them to you for decision; and am, dear General, your most humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To Major General Gates.

COLONEL BEDEL TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 12, 1776.

SIR: I am now under confinement these forty days or more, for a crime I am sensible I am innocent of, and which I hope your Honour will find. I am under a court of inquiry—only wait the decision of the affair. Shall be glad your Honour will let me have the liberty to repair to Ticonderoga, and have it determined. The President and part of the members are there; shall be glad the rest might be ordered to attend. The present situation of my regiment—I not being in a capacity to look after them—renders it very disagreeable; also my private affairs at home, in regard to my family and interest, which lies upon one of the frontier towns which is most liable to be exposed to the rage of the savages; and the news I might receive from that part, that they are all destroyed, would be no more than might be expected, when their situation is considered, as we may suppose the savages have penetrated that way. Colonel St. Clair, who is President of the court of inquiry, will be able to inform your Honour into the affair. I cannot help repeating a desire to have the affair settled as soon as possible, so that I may have a final determination, according to my deserts.

I am your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

TIMOTHY BEDEL.

To Major-General Gates.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, July 12, 1776.

SIR: The bearer hereof, Captain Jonathan Lester, of Norwich, in this Colony, an approved builder, has undertaken and raised a company of carpenters, in consequence of your requisitions, and entered into the articles of contract by you proposed, but in haste has inadvertently omitted taking a duplicate of the contract properly executed by his whole company, which may yet be done, as his men will be with him on the spot. From this hint you will perceive what will be needful to be done in that respect. You will find Captain Lester to be a gentleman of honour and probity, industrious and skilful in his profession, and one that governs his men with prudence and good example. From the knowledge I have of him, I can heartily recommend him to be worthy of trust and favourable notice. His men are on their march, and will probably arrive to receive your particular orders as soon as possible.

I am, most respectfully, sir, your obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Hon. Major-General Schuyler.

CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety of Connecticut, at Hartford, Friday, July 5th, 1776:

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Titus Hosmer, Jedediah Elderkin, and Nathaniel Wales, Esquires.

Governour Franklin, of New-Jersey, was brought hither last evening, having been taken up by the Convention of his Province as a virulent enemy to the United Colonies, and to be confined in such place and manner as the Continental Congress shall direct; and they have directed him to be sent to Governour Trumbull, with the following Resolve, viz:

"In Congress, June 24, 1776.

"Whereas the Convention of New-Jersey has declared William Franklin, Esq., to be a virulent enemy to this country, and a person that may prove dangerous, and that the said William Franklin be confined in such place and manner as the Continental Congress shall direct:

"Resolved, That William Franklin, Esq., be sent under guard to Governour Trumbull, who is desired to take his parole; and if Mr. William Franklin refuse to give his parole, that Governour Trumbull be desired to treat him agreeable to the resolutions of Congress respecting prisoners."

Letter and Resolve brought in last evening by Thomas Kenny, Esq., officer of the guard of escort, and this morning he applied for direction; and a parole was prepared; and said Franklin, moved by letter, for alteration, and liberty to return on his parole, &c., and answer made, &c., in writing, &c., took up most of the forenoon.

The subject of answering, and manner how, of many Letters from Congress, &c., considered, and good deal discoursed, &c.

Finding he could not be returned to Jersey, &c., moved by the officer to have leave to go to Stratford, and was told by officer he might go to Wallingford.

Message was returned in writing, &c., that Governour Trumbull might do as he pleased with him, &c.

Colonels Dyar and Williams waited on him, by desire, &c., and finally he consented to go there, and signed his parole accordingly.

Mr. Job Winslow, builder of the Galley Crane, laid in his Bill and Accounts, and the same were examined, adjusted, and allowed, being in the whole £1013 6s. 10d.; he having received, by two drafts, £700, the balance, being £313 6s. 10d., is ordered to be drawn for; and orders given accordingly. (Delivered to said Winslow.)

Letters partly prepared for Congress, and many weighty matters, &c.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Saturday, July 6, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Present, as yesterday: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Titus Hosmer, Jedediah Elderkin, and Nathaniel Wales, Esqrs.

Congress Letters received, and considerations about an answer, &c.

Colonel Mott came in, moving about his affairs, &c.

Captain Niles moving for Instructions, &c.; on consideration, voted the following Instructions:

"To Captain Robert Niles, of the Colony armed Schooner Spy, greeting:

"You are hereby instructed carefully and diligently to attend the duty of your station and department; to keep a careful watch and lookout for any and every hostile ship or vessel which may be hovering about our coasts, take any that you can, give every signal and intelligence of and concerning them in your power; and for the advantage of the trade and friends of the country, you are also to take care and prevent, as far as lies in your power, any smuggling trade and clandestine management, contrary to the laws and embargo of this Colony, and any prohibitions of the honourable Continental Congress; for which, and every faithful exertion for the good of the Colonies and the support of the laws, this shall be your sufficient warrant.

"Given, &c."

Signed by the Governour, and copy delivered Captain Niles.

Instructions to Doctor John Ely, to visit the Army at the Northward, infected with the small-pox, &c., viz:

"By the Governour and Council of Safety for the Colony of CONNECTICUT:

"Whereas two Battalions are raising in this Colony to reinforce the Northern Army, in pursuance of the recommendation of the Continental Congress; and as very few of the people of this Colony have passed through the small-pox, now prevalent in that Army, recruiting for that service is likely to be greatly retarded, as there is a high probability of that infectious distemper spreading among the new troops as fast as they arrive, which more effectually retards entering into the service than any other prospect of danger, or fear of the enemy:

"This Board are of the opinion, therefore, that it is highly proper to remove that impediment as far and as soon as possible, and do, therefore, as an expedient for that purpose, appoint, empower, and direct Major John Ely, Physician and Surgeon, and as a gentleman who has had great experience in that disease, to repair forthwith to the Army in the Northern Department, wait on the General and proper officers, and find and learn the true state of said Army with respect to that infectious disease; advise and consult with the General, &c., concerning the most proper methods to cleanse and remove said infection from the Army, and prevent the further spreading thereof, if it should be found practicable and expedient; and afford his best advice and assistance for those purposes, and in general of whatever may contribute to the health of said Army, as far as may be proper and suitable in his character, with the allowance and approbation of the General. And he, the said Doctor Ely, is hereby recommended to the said General, in the character and for the purposes aforesaid; and the said Doctor is to transmit an account and report of his proceedings to his Honour the Governour, and of the circumstances of said Army, relating to the premises, as soon as may be, and from time to time, until he shall return."

On application of Colonel Dyar, &c.,

Voted, That the Selectmen of Westmoreland may receive at Messrs. Elderkin and Wales's Mill not exceeding two hundred pounds of Gunpowder, they to account to the Colony therefor, at the price of 5s. 4d. per pound, or in such manner as shall be ordered by this Board, or the General Assembly, giving their receipt accordingly.

(Copy given, delivered to Colonel Dyar.)

About ten o'clock, adjourned to Tuesday next.

Tuesday, July 9, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Richard Law, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, William Hillhouse, and Nathaniel Wales, Esquires.

The Governour laid before us many things done since last meeting.

Colonel Mott, present, laid in a paper, &c., amounting to a declining or resigning of his Colonelcy of a northern Regiment, in the room of Colonel Douglass, &c.

Voted, That the Committee of Pay-Table be desired to settle and adjust and pay Captain Edward Mott's Account and Pay-Roll of his Company, raised by resolve of this Board, according to the regulations thereof, which may appear by the orders he has for that purpose, and according to any rule of the General Assembly, he having received £250, to be accounted for in said settlement.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table, for Jesse Brown, the Governour's Postrider to the Northward, for the sum of £10, towards his expenses for riding, &c., to be accounted for on settlement of his account for said service.

(Order drawn, and delivered to said Brown.)

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Committee of Pay-Table, for Major John Ely, for the sum of £60, to be improved towards payment of his Company, wages and billeting, and to be accounted for on settlement of his account. (Order drawn, and delivered to said Ely.)

On motion of Doctor Ely, allowed that he may carry with him to the northern Army, where he is going, &c., by order, &c., to take care about the small-pox, &c. viz: one Peter Granger, a French neutral, much used with him to nurse the small-pox, &c.; to be improved for such purposes as he shall find necessary and convenient.

Captain Nathaniel Saltonstall, of a Company of Matrosses, is here, and much to be done about regulating the Company, &c.; and it is considered and Voted, That said Companies consist of forty Men each, exclusive of Officers; that there be one Captain and three Lieutenants for each; that there be eight Gunners to each Company; that their Pay be £2 4s. per month.

Voted, That Captain Niles be allowed one-and-a-half per cent. on his purchases and payments of his Crew, &c., on board the Schooner Spy.

Colonel Wolcott was present this day, and many persons on various applications, which took up a good deal of time. Colonel Mott also, and much to do about settling the affair of his going in his command to the northward, he having almost resigned, &c., &c.; but finally accepted.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, July 10, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Present: the same as yesterday, and also Titus Hosmer, Esq.

Colonel Ward was present; a good deal to say about his affairs, and orders to receive, given, and many to converse about, with him, &c., &c.; stayed till noon.

Jonathan Chester, of Groton, owner of the land where the Fort is built at Groton, is here, pressing about an allowance for land taken up by said Fort, and damages done him, &c., and finally came to the following agreement, viz:

"Whereas Governour Trumbull and Committee of Safety, agreeable to directions from the General Assembly, have ordered a Fort to be erected in the Town of Groton, on land belonging to Captain Jonathan Chester; and said Chester having applied to this Board to pay for the land so used, and as the value of said land is not known to this Board, and said Chester offering to submit the appraisal of the same to indifferent men, mutually chosen, to say what sum the Colony shall give for what land they have already taken, or shall have occasion to take, for the use of said Fort, with the damages done his lands not so taken:

"It is now agreed between Governour Trumbull and the Committee of Safety, on one part, and the said Jonathan Chester, of Groton, on the other part, that Luke Perkins, of Groton, William Witter, of Preston, and William Manwarring, of New-London, Esquires, shall appraise the land that is already taken up, or shall necessarily be wanted for the use of said Fort, and the said damages; and thereupon said Chester doth hereby agree and oblige himself to give a proper deed of conveyance of the land so appraised to the Colony, and a discharge of the damages done; upon which the said Chester shall receive an order on the Treasury for his money, according to appraisal; and said Chester doth hereby acknowledge the receipt of £10, lawful money, in part payment thereof. Dated this 10th day of July, A. D. 1776.

JONATHAN CHESTER.

"Signed in behalf of said Governour and Committee of Safety: Wm. WILLIAMS, Clerk."

Original delivered to Mr. Law and Mr. Hillhouse.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table, for said Chester, for the sum of £10, to be accounted for on settlement of his account. (Order drawn accordingly.)

This Board do appoint Mr. Royal Flint, of Windham, to be Paymaster of Colonel Ward's Regiment.

Voted, That Richard Law and William Hillhouse, Esquires, either, or both of them, be a Committee to apply to and procure the gentlemen agreed on by the Governour and Committee of Safety, and by Captain Jonathan Chester, of Groton, to appraise the value of the lands taken up, used, and wanted for the Forts and works of defence built on his land at said Groton, and to move them to proceed to the place, and attend on said business, according to the agreement made this day between said parties, and to lay the matters before said appraisers, and appear in behalf of, and represent the Colony in said appraisement; that they apply to the Colonel of the Regiment at New-London, and the Engineers, for their advice and directions as to the quantity of land wanted for the use of said Fort and its necessary accommodations, which is to be the quantity appraised and purchased; and said Committee are to take a good authentick deed, well executed, of the same, to the Governour and Company; giving their receipts therefor, and engaging said Chester an order of said Governour and Committee of Safety for the sum of which the same shall be appraised, deducting £10 which he has already received; and make report of their doings to this Board.

Captain Tinker, of the Row-Galley Crane, present, applies for directions about many things; and thereupon Voted and Resolved, That Captain Tinker, of the Galley Crane, take two three-pounders at the old Fort at New-London for said Galley, to be delivered him by the keeper thereof: that he receive eight Swivel Guns as soon as they can be obtained: that he receive ten Muskets, to be delivered him by Colonel Williams, which he procured of Jonathan Goodwin: that he receive of Mr. N. Shaw, Junior, such Powder, Ball, and Military Stores as he, said Shaw, shall judge necessary: that he receive, from time to time, a supply of salted Beef, Pork, Bread, Flour, sufficient for the support of the Officers, Sailors, and Marines, on board said Galley, of Captain John Deshon, who is directed to deliver the same; and that the said Tinker provide all other necessary provision for them, and take order that the same be dealt out prudently, without spoil or waste, with such fresh Fish as they may take; and that he keep a just and true account of the purchase and expenditure of such Provisions, and the same render to his Honour the Governour, at the end of two months, for his consideration and further orders in the premises; and that the place of his general rendezvous be for the present at New-London, and to cruise from Stonington to the mouth of Connecticut River, and southward as far as Montauk-Point, with proper precaution and prudence; that he, his Officers and Men, and all others in the sea service, be under the rules and laws of the Continental Fleet, as far as they are applicable, and until more particular or further rules can be made.

Captain McCleave, of the Galley Whiting, also applies for directions, &c.; and Voted and Resolved, That Captain McCleave may receive of Captain John Deshon such supplies of salted Beef, Pork, Bread, and Flour, sufficient for the support of the Officers, Sailors, and Men, on board his Galley, who is directed to deliver the same; and that said McCleave provide all other necessary Provisions for them, and take care that the same be dealt out prudently, without spoil or waste, with such fresh Fish as they may take; and that he keep a just and true account of the purchases and expenditures of such Provisions, and the same render to his Honour the Governour, at the end of two months, for his consideration and further orders in the premises: that he receive necessary Powder, Ball, and Military stores, of Mr. N. Shaw, Junior, at his (said Shaw's) discretion; and that he shall receive eight Swivels, as soon as they can be obtained: that he may receive five Muskets of Captain Mott, or the proper officer of his late Company; he having reported that he had a surplus in his hands, having received fifteen before: that he rendezvous for the present at New-London; and to cruise from Stonington to New-Haven, and southward as far as Montauk-Point, with proper prudence and caution: that he, his Officers and Men, and all others in the sea service, be under the rules and laws of the Continental Fleet, as far as they are applicable, and until more particular or further rules can be made.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Committee of Pay-Table, in favour of Capt. Robert Niles, of the Schooner Spy, for the sum of £477 6s. 9d., the balance of said Schooner's accounts to the 8th June, (he having received £400,) and also for £200 more for the use of said Schooner from that time forward; and to render his account.

Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, Junior, of New-London, is appointed Agent for the Colony, for the purpose of Naval Supplies, and for taking of such sick seamen as may be sent on shore to his care. (Copy given, sent by Captain Harding.)

Voted, That Letters be sent to the Purchasers of Pork, by order of Assembly, as soon as possible; inform the Governour of what they have obtained, at what price, and where stored; and wrote accordingly.

Ordered, That Colonel Jabez Huntington send what Cannon-Powder he has received, per Colonels Elderkin and Wales, to Mr. Shaw, taking his receipt.

Voted, That Orders be drawn on the Treasurer, in favour of Captains McCleave and Tinker, for the sum of £100 each, to be improved to purchase necessaries for the use of their Crews, and to render their accounts thereof; and order given on paper, delivered them, present.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Thursday July 11, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Richard Law, Titus Hosmer, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, Nathaniel Wales, and William Hillhouse, Esquires.

Voted, That twenty-five Arms, Bayonets, &c.; which had been fixed up by Mr. David Trumbull, of Lebanon, of barrels brought from Crown-Point, &c., now in the hands of John Leffingwell, be delivered to Captain Joshua Huntington, for the use of his Company, to be returned for the use of the Colony. (Order given, and delivered Colonel Huntington.)

On recommendation of the Captains, appointed William Latham, Junior, Captain-Lieutenant of Captain Ledyard's Company of Artillery or Matrosses; Jonathan Leeds to be Lieutenant of ditto; Archas Sheffield to be Second Lieutenant of ditto: commissioned. And for Captain Saltonstall's Company, Nathaniel Coit, Jun., to be Captain-Lieutenant; Daniel Starr, Lieutenant; Samuel Champlain, Jun., Second Lieutenant: commissions given.

Captain Coit came in moving for an appointment.

Congress Declaration of Independency received in a letter from Colonel Trumbull to me.

Colonel Oliver Wolcott having lately returned home from the Continental Congress, by reason of ill health; and it being the opinion of this Board, that it is of importance that the Colony should have a full representation at Congress, and that it is also the opinion of the Assembly, that their full number of Delegates should be present, &c.; and by a letter from Colonel Wolcott, expressing also his desire that another member should attend, &c.; this Board, having at turns discoursed on the subject, at several days and times, do conclude, that William Williams, Esq., do, as soon as may be, repair to and attend said Congress, as one of the Delegates appointed by the General Assembly—Mr. Hosmer and he having discoursed, and partly agreed, on which should attend, &c.

The matter of appointing Officers for the Colony Ship, building at Saybrook, taken up and discoursed of largely, and of persons for the Officers. Question was put, whether we will at this time proceed to appoint a Captain and two Lieutenants for said Ship? And resolved in the affirmative. And on further consideration, and the question being put, William Coit is appointed Captain of said Ship, Timothy Parker appointed First Lieutenant of ditto, and David Hawley appointed Second Lieutenant of ditto.

Voted, That the date of the above Officers' Commissions be referred to the further consideration of this Board, and their Pay to commence from the date of the same. That Letters be written, informing said Hawley of his appointment; the others being near, &c. Captain Coit (in town) was called in, and the Governour gave him orders, instructions, and admonitions as to his conduct, &c.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Friday, July 12, 1776.

Met according to adjournment.

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Richard Law, Titus

Hosmer, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, William Hillhouse, and Nathaniel Wales, Esquires.

A Letter from Colonel W. Pitkin, expressing his great apprehensions of danger of his Powder-Mills being destroyed by enemies, there having been much threatening about them, &c., from Prisoners, &c., which occasioned much consultation about guarding or securing them, and how, &c. After much discourse, Voted, That Guards be allowed at Colonel Pitkin's and also at Colonel Elderkin and Wales's Powder-Mills, and that the respective owners be allowed 4s. per night for each night they shall keep such Guard until this Board shall take other or further order concerning them.

Letters from the Congress of the 6th instant came in, by express, containing information of their late Declaration of Independence, and a copy of it, requesting the same to be duly published, &c.

Two Letters also from General Washington, of the 7th and 9th instant, about the situation of affairs, and advice that Lord Howe with fifteen thousand men are on their passage, &c., and about our Regiments of Horse, much approving the measure, but expressing the difficulties of keeping horses, &c.

The matter and manner of publishing the Independency as recommended by Congress largely discoursed, and many things given out relative to the matter, &c., and concluded to lay by for the present.

On representation of Dr. Usher, of the New-London Regiment, and Letter from Colonel Wolcott for that purpose:

Voted, That he have liberty to purchase and take up Medicines for the use of said Regiment, of Doctor Lothrop or Doctor Dyar, to the amount of £10, for which the Colony will be accountable, and substance of the vote given said Dr. Usher.

Sundry Accounts of William Williams, Esq., and Nathaniel Wales, Esq., examined and settled, &c., viz: Mr. Wales's account for services, July, 1775; journey and expenses to New-Haven, &c., by order, with William Williams, to look out an armed vessel, and journey and expenses to Philadelphia in September, 1775, after money, &c.; journey and expenses to New-London with Colonel Dyar, to see about Forts, &c.; journey and expenses to Cambridge in October, to meet Committee of Congress, &c.; in whole £51 17s. 3d. Allowed, and order to be drawn for.

An Account of William Williams, June, 1775, for sending Powder, with Grain, Barrels, &c., to the Army near Boston; July, journey and expenses on the sea-coast about armed vessels, &c., with Esquire Wales; cash for many Companies; cash for supporting the Cognowaga Indians in January, 1776, &c.; total, - - - - - £18 19 3

CONVENTION OF COMMITTEES IN PETERSHAM.

At a Convention of Committees of Safety, &c., of the Towns of Hutchinson, Templeton, Athol, and Petersham, at the house of Kenelm Winslow, in Petersham, on the 12th day of July, 1776, the following Votes and Resolves were passed:

The question being put, Whether those persons called Tories, in said Petersham, were liberated from the restrictions they were laid under by a former Convention of Committees, and the people assembled at the same place? And it passed in the negative.

The question being put, Whether it is the sense of this body that the House erected in the Town of Petersham for Publick Worship, was the place intended and meant in the restrictions the abovesaid persons were laid under by the former Convention? And it passed in the affirmative.

The question being put, Whether the aforesaid persons should be indulged to meet for Publick Worship at any other place than at the House erected by said Town for Publick Worship? And it passed in the negative.

Resolved, That if such persons, or any of them, should presume to violate any of such restrictions in future, and more especially at such a critical day as the present, that this body will use their utmost influence that they or any of them so offending, after previous notice being given to them of these Resolves, shall be committed to close confinement, and there be continued until our political troubles are at an end.

And whereas Mr. Aaron Whitney hath publickly declared that he will keep open doors for the assembling such persons, in violation of such restrictions, which were read to him; therefore,

Resolved, As the opinion of this body, that such declaration and practice is an insult on the Committee, and against the peace, good order, and safety of the United Colonies, and ought not by any means to be suffered or continued, but that he be deemed as inveterate and as incorrigible as any who have been so restricted, and ought to be brought immediately to condign punishment.

The aforesaid restrictions are as follow, viz:

"That they should deliver all their Arms and Implements of war, immediately, into the hands of the Selectmen of Petersham, and that they should not go out of the Town of Petersham without a pass, signed by the major part of the Committee of Correspondence of said Town.

"That no more than two should assemble together at any place, except publick worship, legal town meetings, or funerals."

The reasons given by the Committees for laying on the restrictions aforesaid are as follow:

"At a meeting of the Committees of Correspondence of the several Towns of Hardwick, Templeton, Rutland District, Hubbardston, Westminster, Petersham, New-Salem, Athol, Greenwich, Winchendon, and Royalston, at said Petersham, February 25th, 1775, at the request of the Committee of Petersham, on account of the riotous assembling of Joshua Willard, William Barron, Esqs., Ebenezer Bragg, and others, did, on examination, find that the said persons, with their associates, had entered into a covenant or combination utterly subversive of our natural and chartered rights, and tending to strengthen and assist the enemies of our Constitution in their arbitrary attempts to introduce the late unconstitutional acts of the British Parliament, and likewise to assist each other, in opposition to all such persons who are friends to our liberties and rights. In consequence of which combination, they did actually assemble at the house of David Stone, with firearms, and did actually insult and threaten the lives of several persons who went to inquire into the occasion of their so assembling. By all which, it appears to us, the Committees of the above mentioned Towns, and the people assembled," &c.

The names of the persons thus restricted are as follow: Joshua Willard, William Barron, Ebenezer Bragg, Thomas Beeman, Joseph Stevens, Benjamin Furness, David Stone, Ephraim Whitney, James Jackson, Luke Lincoln, William Martindale, Seth Hapgood, Benjamin Chandler, Joseph Smith, Nathaniel Munroe, David Allin, Samuel Frizel, Isaac Hastings, David Stone, Jun., Nathaniel Lincoln, and Ebenezer Ayres; with some others, whose names are not here mentioned, as they have made their peace with the Town of Petersham and the Committee of Correspondence, and manifested a friendly disposition towards American liberty; which persons, the present body are of opinion, ought not to suffer any inconvenience by the effect of the present Resolves.

And further Voted, That if any of such persons who have not been restored as aforesaid, should in future, or until our political troubles are ended, be found with Firearms, Ammunition, or other implements of war, that in such case they ought immediately to be taken from them.

Per order:

EPHRAIM DOOLITTLE.

July 12, 1776.

At a meeting of the Committee of Safety, &c., for the Town of Petersham, July 16th, 1776:

Whereas the Town of Petersham, since the above restrictions were laid on said persons, have, in a full town meeting assembled, voted that Robert Goddard, Ensign Man, and

John Chandler, Esq., have been so far guilty and inimical with those whose names are inserted above, and accordingly restricted them, the said Robert, Ensign, and John, in like manner; and whereas some of the above persons, thus restricted, have by some means or other obtained general passes from the Committee of Petersham for passing out of said Town, and as they have not manifested such a friendly disposition in the present struggle as to be entitled to confidence: The Committee adjudge that no notice ought to be taken of such passes, but such persons ought to be held to their restrictions.

Per order:

SAMUEL GATES.

BARNARDSTON (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

Barnardston, Massachusetts Bay, July 12, 1776.

Whereas complaint hath this day been made to us, the Committee of Safety, &c., of the abovesaid Barnardston, by Nahum Ward, of Leveret, against Jacob Orcut, of this Town, for atrociously paying him a Sixpenny bill or note, New-Hampshire money, which had been counterfeited or altered from six Pence to six Pounds, paying of it to him for six Pounds: The matter of the complaint having been sufficiently proved, and he, the said Orcut, having confessed his paying the abovesaid counterfeited or altered bill for good money, and also confessed his being privy to and knowing of its being altered, after the most serious deliberation, we determined,

That he, the said Jacob Orcut, shall pay Nahum Ward all his damages. Which he accordingly did.

That he should be whipped thirty-and-six stripes on the naked body. Which was accordingly executed upon him.

That he shall be confined in the Town of Barnardston, with liberty to go north from his house one mile in Guilford, and a mile east and a mile west in Guilford, from a north line from his house; to be confined in Barnardston from this time for the space of one year and a half, except he obtains liberty of the Committee of Safety of this Town, in writing, to go out.

That if he knowingly puts off counterfeit money for the future, or goeth beyond his limits without liberty of the Committee of Safety, he shall be sent to the Court, notwithstanding this punishment, for his trial, for putting off the abovesaid counterfeit money.

That he shall pay the Committee, Constable, and attendants, for their trouble.

That the putting off said counterfeit money, with the doings of the Committee, and the said Orcut's punishment, be published in the Hartford paper, upon his cost.

Signed per order:

ELISHA BURNHAM,
Chairman of said Committee.

COMMITTEE OF BOSTON TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS BAY:

To the Honourable the Council of said Colony, met at WATERTOWN, July 12, 1776:

The Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, for the Town of Boston, being truly alarmed at the danger this country is exposed to from such information as might be carried to the British Fleet and Army, beg leave to represent to your honourable Board, that at a time when a fleet of the enemy's ships appeared for several days on our coast, a complaint was lodged with the Committee that a certain Captain Holmes, and a number of persons with him, all of them taken in the actual service of our foes, were about departing for the British West-Indies, in a schooner purchased of said Holmes for that purpose. In consequence of which, this Committee did order her sails into custody, and have ever since detained them. And although the said fleet hath since disappeared, yet the probability that the foreign troops are now near, and the very evident danger that might arise from the enemy's being acquainted with the present melancholy situation of this town, when so many of its inhabitants, our friends from the country, and of our Army, are under inoculation for the small-pox; knowing that one person in the same predicament with Captain Holmes, did depart, and in violation of the fairest professions and most solemn engagements, went directly to our enemy's Head-Quarters, and there delivered them all possible information, and even the private letters that had been intrusted to his honour; and though this Committee is disposed to entertain the most favourable opinion of Captain Holmes's integrity, and do most sincerely compassionate his very unhappy situation, yet as they know of no satisfactory security he can give that he will not go and do likewise, we do earnestly request of your Honours a revocation of your order in Council for his departure, or at least that it may be suspended till a happier situation of this town shall make it less dangerous to the publick safety for him to leave it.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN BROWNE, Chairman.

WILLIAM SEVER TO JAMES BOWDOIN.

Kingston, July 12, 1776.

SIR: I have at length obtained cannon for the brigantine at Plymouth. I purchased them in Connecticut. They are now at Taunton, and I expect they will be at Plymouth by Sunday next—ten four-pounders and four six-pounders, all double fortified. Captain Samson has given me a memorandum of sundry articles which are wanting for his complete equipments. As I don't know whether the Commissary-General is authorized to deliver from the Colonial store any articles necessary for the armed Colonial vessels, I take the liberty of addressing your Honour on the subject, desiring that such measures may be taken as may be thought proper for the supply of said stores, or such of them as may be thought necessary, as I suppose the brigantine will be ready to go to sea immediately. I had designed to be at Watertown, but am informed that the small-pox has such a spread in Boston and the towns around, as to make it very unsafe for a person who has not had the distemper. This consideration has prevented my attendance.

I am, with respect, sir, your very humble servant,

W. SEVER.

To the Hon. James Bowdoin, Esq.

Memorandum of sundries wanting for the equipment of the armed Brigantine at PLYMOUTH, SIMEON SAMSON, Captain, viz:

Forty fire-arms; 40 cartouch-boxes; 40 cutlass-belts; half a ton of powder; 6 reams of cartridge paper; 10 reams double-headed cartridge paper; 3 cwt. grapeshot; 350 four-pound shot; 200 six-pound shot; 100 hand grenades; 400 pounds of musket balls, 14, 16, 18, 22 to a pound; 50 pounds of buckshot; 400 flints; 1 cwt. match-rope.

COLONEL GILMAN TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

GENTLEMEN: That part of my regiment at New-Castle being reduced to a small number by reason of recruits being taken out for Canada and elsewhere, obliged me to order a detachment of one commissioned officer and thirty privates from Captain Daniel's company to assist in building a fort at New-Castle. The soldiers in a few days mutinied, and refused to obey my orders. After repeated insults of that nature, I ordered a general court-martial, and upon trial they plead they only enlisted to do duty in Fort Sullivan. The inlistments being produced, it appeared to be a fact, a copy of which I here enclose. How men came to be so enlisted I cannot tell. You may easily see by their inlistments that they are not subject to inferior or superior officers, neither to the regulations in the Army. You may easily see what may be the cruel consequences of keeping men in pay under such inlistments. But how the matter will be remedied, or what is best to be done, you, gentlemen, are the best judges.

I am, gentlemen, with esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

P. GILMAN.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety for the Colony of New-Hampshire.

P. S. The men have promised to obey orders; but how long before their minds will alter I can't tell, as they are sensible they are under no obligation by their inlistment.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE SELECTMEN OF NEW-MARKET.

In Committee of Safety, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee feel the greatest anxiety, and are strongly depressed with the accounts from New-

Market, that any internal broil should in the least obstruct the forwarding those things so absolutely necessary for the preservation of all that is dear to us. Probably a neglect of speedily reinforcing our northern Army may occasion the slaughter of our bosom friends and innocent offspring, while we are mingled in the common carnage. The truly forward and patriotick disposition often shown by the inhabitants of New-Market in the common cause convince the Committee that they will not now attend to any particular difficulty, and neglect the main object, while their neighbours are nobly exerting themselves at this important time. Therefore, they desire you will, with all possible speed, call a meeting of all the inhabitants of your town, and proceed to raise the men proportioned to you, in Colonel Gilman's regiment, at which time Colonel Gilman will attend, and lend you all the assistance in his power to accomplish so noble and so necessary a purpose.

To the Selectmen of New-Market.

COMMITTEE OF KITTERY TO COMMITTEE OF PORTSMOUTH, NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Kittery, July 12, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee of Correspondence for this town have received a letter from the Committee of Correspondence for Boston of the following import, viz: that they have information and reason sufficient to induce them to believe that a communication has been kept up between the enemy's ships and some of our small boats, and that they have thought it necessary for the common safety to order that no vessel or boats be suffered in future to leave the town without special permission, and that they have confined the fishing-boats within the limits of one league from the shore. We therefore think it expedient to advise you of this measure recommended to us, as without your coming into a similar one it will be of no effect; wherefore we shall be much obliged to you for your opinion hereupon, and what method you propose to take respecting this matter; and are, with respect, your most humble servants.

In the name and in behalf of the Committee:

JOHN J. P. BARTLETT, Chairman.

CAPTAIN WICKES TO THE SECRET COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS.

On board the Reprisal, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This will inform of a small addition to our good fortune in the prize way. We this day took Captain Muckelno in the schooner Peter, of Liverpool, from St. Vincent, bound to Liverpool, in Britain, loaded with rum, sugar, coffee, cocoa, and cotton. We also took Captain Mackey, in the ship Friendship, from Granada, bound to London, which I have written you of before, and send a copy of that letter. This schooner is ordered into one or either of the Egg Harbours, if she can get in there; if not, into any other port on the coast. I have given orders to Mr. Jeremiah Holden to send this letter and the proper papers and letters to you by express on his arrival in America. We had very little wind this two or three days past, and are but little farther on our way than when I wrote you last.

From, gentlemen, your most obliged and humble servant,

LAMBERT WICKES.

To the Committee of Secret Correspondence, Philadelphia.

WILLIAM FALCONER TO THE HON. ANTHONY FALCONER.

Camp Long-Island, July 13, 1776.

DEAR BROTHER: With the greatest difficulty I have procured this small piece of paper to inform you of my being very well, notwithstanding the miserable situation we are in. We have been encamped on this Island for this month past, and have lived upon nothing else but salt pork and pease. We sleep upon the sea-shore, nothing to shelter us from the violent rains but our coats and miserable paltry blankets. There is nothing that grows upon this Island, it being a mere sand-bank, and a few bushes which harbour millions of moschitoes—a greater plague than there can be in Hell itself.

By this sloop-of-war you will have an account of an action which happened on the 28th of June, between the ships and the fort on Sullivan's Island. The cannonade continued for about nine hours, and was perhaps one of the briskest known in the annals of war. We had two fifty-gun ships and five frigates, from twenty-four to thirty guns, playing on the fort, I may say without success, for they did the battery no manner of damage, and killed fifteen and wounded betwixt forty and fifty. Our ships are in the most mangled situation you can conceive. The Acteon, a thirty-gun frigate, run aground during the action, and as it was impossible to get her off, we were obliged to burn and blow her up. Our killed and wounded amounts to betwixt two and three hundred. Numbers die daily of their wounds. The Commodore is wounded in two different places. His Captain lost his left arm and right hand, and was wounded in different parts of his body—he lived but two days after the action. Captain Scott, of the Experiment, of fifty guns, died of his wounds, and numbers of the other officers.

If the ships could have silenced the battery, the Army was to have made an attack on the back of the Island, where they had about one thousand men intrenched up to their eyes, besides a small battery of four guns, one eighteen-pounder and three four-pounders, all loaded with grape-shot, so that they would have killed half of us before we could have made our landing good.

We are now expecting to embark for New-York, to join General Howe with the grand Army. My anxiety to inform you of bad news had wellnigh made me forget to mention our passage to Cape-Fear, where we arrived safely the first of May, after a voyage of three months. Though it was long, yet it was not disagreeable after we got out of the bay of Biscay, where we met with the worst weather ever known at sea, and continued in that situation for sixteen days; after that time we had very fine weather all along; sometimes we were becalmed for four or five days together, not going above ten knots a day. Upon our arrival in Cape-Fear we disembarked, and were encamped in the woods until the 27th of May, when we went on board again, and sailed for this infernal place. The oldest of the officers do not remember of ever undergoing such hardships as we have done since our arrival here.

I hope you will be so good as to watch every opportunity to let me hear from you and Mrs. Falconer, and at the same time to inform me how I shall do in case I shall be obliged to purchase my Lieutenantcy. I beg you will make my excuse to my dear sister for not writing to her at this time; it is not owing to want of affection, but to the want of proper materials. I am obliged to write on the ground. You will be so good as to let Captain Falconer know the same thing. I shall write again from New-York.

I am, dear sir, your most affectionate brother,

WILLIAM FALCONER.

To the Hon. Anthony Falconer, at Montrose, Scotland.

The foregoing Letter was found on Long-Island, South-Carolina, and forwarded to Congress, and is now made publick by order of Congress.

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

JOHN PAGE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Williamsburgh, July 13, 1776.

SIR: As the enemy's fleet has been driven from their station, and their forces obliged to abandon Gwin's Island, and we are informed they will endeavour to possess themselves of some place on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, we have thought it prudent to give you the earliest intimation thereof. A battery of two eighteen-pounders played on their ships, and a few rounds forced them to retire. Four nine-pounders silenced their batteries, raked their camp, and threw them into the greatest confusion; on which our men, as soon as boats could be procured, passed over to the Island, which the enemy abandoned with precipitation, carrying with them all their cannon, except one; two of their tenders fell into our hands. The ship Dunmore was so much damaged, that it is said she was burnt the night after the cannonade. They were obliged to destroy two other vessels. We congratulate you on the success of the American arms in South-Carolina. By this express you will be fully informed of Sir Peter Parker's repulse.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN PAGE, Pt. Council.

To the Honourable President of the Council of Safety of Maryland, Annapolis.

CALEB C. GOUGH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to my last, Mr. Jacobs waits on you respecting the tents. Mr. Jesse Hollingsworth received your favour per Captain Nicholson, and thanks you for the draft therein enclosed, which he will apply to the purposes you direct, and render you an account of the charges of unloading the brigs and removing the soldiery, as soon as the amount can be ascertained.

He desires me to assure you that he will give all the assistance he can to George Wells, in procuring the timber for the gondolas, and will always be glad of such commissions from you as it may be in his power to execute.

I am, gentlemen, for Mr. J. Hollingsworth, your obedient servant,

CALEB C. GOUGH.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland, at Annapolis.

JOHN HANSON, JUN., AND OTHERS, TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Fredericktown, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of a resolve of the Convention, we, the Deputies from the several Committees of the Districts of this County, met and proceeded to the recommending of Officers for the two German Companies, and Lieutenants for the Rifle Company, whose names, together with a transcript of our proceedings, we here enclose you. As we have not heard from Captain Barrett, and have some reason to believe that he will not accept of his appointment, from the emergency of the occasion, we beg leave, in case of his refusal, to recommend to your notice Mr. Thomas Beall, son of Colonel Samuel Beall, as a gentleman well qualified to fill that station, and one who, we are informed, would be able, in a very short time, to raise his company.

We are, with respect, gentlemen, your obedient servants,

JOHN HANSON, JUN.,

H. GRIFFITH,

ADAM FISCHER,

MICHAEL FALKNER.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

Fredericktown, July 12, 1776.

At a meeting of Deputies from the several Districts of this County, for the purpose of recommending Officers to the Council of Safety, for the command of two German Companies, and Lieutenants to one Rifle Company, to be raised in this County:

Were present, Messrs. John Hanson, Jr., Samuel Beall, Michael Falkner, and Adam Fischer.

Resolved, That the following persons be recommended as Officers to the two German Companies:

William Heiser, Captain; Jacob Cotz, First Lieutenant; Adam Smith, Second Lieutenant; and Paul Christian, Ensign.

Henry Fisher, Captain; Charles Balsall, First Lieutenant; Michael Barger, Second Lieutenant; and Jacob Crummitt, Ensign.

Adjourned till six o'clock to-morrow morning.

July 13th, 1776. Same gentlemen present as yesterday.

Resolved, That the Lieutenants to the Rifle Company be recommended as follows:

Peter Hanson, First Lieutenant; James Lingan, Second Lieutenant; and Richard Dorsey, Third Lieutenant.

RICHARD POTTS, Clerk.

JAMES HINDMAN TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Oxford, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When I was in Somerset the Committee of Safety delivered me three prisoners to bring up as far as Talbot, there to be delivered to the Militia to send over to Annapolis. When I came to Cambridge I delivered them to a guard of Militia there, who had some men to send over. The Committee there, thinking I had no right to leave them there, have sent them over here to me, with a prisoner they had in custody, in expectation of my calling at Annapolis on my way to the head of Elk. As it may be a means of stopping us some time by calling, I have hired the boat to carry the prisoners over, whom you will please to pay, and take charge of the prisoners. I shall set off to-morrow morning early for the head of Elk, and shall make the best of my way to Philadelphia as fast as possible.

I am, gentlemen, your humble servant,

JAMES HINDMAN.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

COLONEL BARNES TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

St. Inigoes, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received information on Friday, the 12th of July, that there was a considerable number of ships and small vessels between Smith's Point and Point Lookout, on which I ordered five companies of Militia to repair there as fast as possible, and immediately set out to the Point myself, in order to get further information. On my arrival there, I found about forty sail of vessels; they were then about twenty-five miles off the Point, in the Bay, where they continued till in the night. In the morning about fifty-eight sail were discovered opposite Smith's Creek in Potomack, and eight in the Bay, on which I gave orders to call the companies of my battalion immediately to march to Potomack, in order to prevent their landing in the district of the Twenty-first Battalion. We have had two small vessels driven on shore from the fleet; on board of one of them were three whites and two negroes, three of whom now have the small-pox on them. One of the white men informed us the fleet was Dunmore's, and that Governour Eden was on board the Fowey, and that he heard it surmised that they intended to take possession of St. George's Island; since which the Fowey and her tender have come to in St. Mary's River; and I don't doubt but the greatest part, if not all of the fleet, will be there in the morning. We have between two and three hundred of our Militia stationed in different places, and I have just sent off an express to Colonel Jordan to supply me with one or two hundred men of his battalion, if possible.

From the above affair, I think it would be proper Captain Beall's company from Drum Point should be ordered here, and their place there supplied with the Militia of the County. I should be glad of your advice and assistance. I should have written you more particularly, but have been marching from place to place, from the morning till now, which is twelve o'clock in the night, and am much tired.

Mr. Hugh Hopewell has promised me to hire an express in Calvert to carry this to you, should therefore be glad you would pay him.

I remain, gentlemen, your humble servant,

RICHARD BARNES.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety of Maryland.

JOHN WESTON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Kingsbury Furnace, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received your favour 8th current, and sorry it is out of my power to serve the Province with guns, as both our furnaces are out of blast, nor can we blow till late this fall for want of water. Captain Charles Ridgely's furnace is in blast, and likely to continue for some time.

I am, gentlemen, your humble servant, JNO. WESTON.

To the Hon. the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEES OF THE LOWER COUNTIES.

[No. 33.]

Annapolis, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer hereof (Colonel Ewing) will have occasion to spend some little time in your County, in forwarding the raising the men for the Flying-Camp, purchasing arms and blankets for them, and promoting in other respects the publick service. As he is pretty much a stranger in your part of the Province, he may be at a loss, perhaps, unless he receives some assistance from you; we therefore take the liberty of introducing him to you, and shall be obliged for any assistance you may give him, or any favours you may show him. We are, &c.

To the Committees of the four lower Counties.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 13, 1776.

SIR: I am to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 10th instant, and to acquaint you that it is now under the consideration of Congress.

The enclosed resolves I do myself the honour to transmit, as necessary for your information. I have written to General Schuyler and the Commissioners for Indian Affairs respecting the same.

In obedience to the commands of Congress, I have enclosed you two copies of sundry resolves they have passed relative to the treatment of our prisoners by Captain Forster in Canada. I am to request you will take the proper steps to send one of them to General Howe and the other to General Burgoyne. I transmit, also, a third copy for your own use.

Should the United States of America give their sanction to the Jesuitical and villanous distinction which Captain Forster adopts to justify his conduct, there would be no end to butchering our prisoners. They have therefore very properly reprobated it; and, in the genuine spirit of freedom, resolved, that such cruelty as shall be inflicted on prisoners in their possession, by savages or foreigners taken into pay by the King of Great Britain, shall be considered as done by his orders, and recourse be immediately had to retaliation. It is to be hoped their determination will have the desired effect, and that for the future such barbarous scenes will never be acted under the eye and approbation of a British officer; for there is the greatest reason to believe that Captain Forster engaged the Indians to join him, on the express condition of giving up to them all such prisoners as might fall into his hands. His subsequent conduct, indeed, renders this conjecture more than probable.

I have the honour to be, with perfect esteem, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Washington.

One o'clock, P. M. This moment your favour per post of the 11th instant came to hand. I shall lay it before Congress on Monday morning.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Philadelphia, July 13, 1776.

SIR: I am so extremely hurried at present that I must beg leave to refer your attention to the enclosed resolves; and, indeed, this is all I have time to do.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Schuyler.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Philadelphia County Committee, July 13, 1776.

Resolved, That this Committee, in consequence of a Letter from the honourable Continental Congress, as well as from a recommendation of the Provincial Conference, do proceed to raise our part of the Flying-Camp, and that the following gentlemen be appointed as Officers: Colonel, Robert Lewis; Lieutenant-Colonel, Isaac Hughes; Major, John Moore, Esq.; Surgeon, Enoch Edwards; Quartermaster, Marshall Edwards; Adjutant, Solomon Bush. Captains: Archibald Thompson, George Smith, Henry Derringer, Jacob Laughlin, Rudolph Neff, Aaron Levering, Christian Shnyder, Henry Pawling, Joseph Jones. First Lieutenants: Marshall Edwards, Solomon Bush, Samuel Swift, William Wilson, Casper Doll, Samuel Hains, Graudus Schlatter, Mordecai Morgan, David Schrach, Stephen Porter, Thomas Rossetter. Second Lieutenants: William Armstrong, Leonard Dall, James Hazlet, George Bringham, Matthew Holgate, Jesse Roberts, Alexander Hall, Beacock Major. Ensigns: Andrew Barge, William North, William Nox, Abraham Duffield, Nathaniel Childs, Alexander Wright, James Potts, Rees Nanna.

Extract from the minutes: ENOCH EDWARDS.

The Officers appointed by the Committee of this County to compose the Flying-Camp are requested to meet at the Conestoga Wagon, in Philadelphia, on Saturday, the 20th instant, at nine o'clock in the morning.

ROBERT LEWIS.

JOHN COX TO JASPER YEATES.

Philadelphia, July 13, 1776.

MY DEAR FRIEND: The enclosed letter came to hand a day or two after you left Philadelphia. My young man, not knowing but that you intended returning home this way, kept it till I came home.

Our Militia are all in motion, except three companies that are ordered to stay to guard the frigates, &c. The last of the Second Battalion will march off this afternoon, and I shall follow them this evening or to-morrow morning as their Lieutenant-Colonel. Where we shall go, or how long we shall continue in the service, God only knows. Our first encampment will be at Trenton, where I suppose we shall continue a few days, and advance towards the enemy. I am told the Militia of your County turn out with great cheerfulness. I make no doubt of our being able to muster twenty thousand men by the last of next week; if so, I take it there will be two to one in favour of our being ordered to dislodge the enemy, now at Staten-Island; if so, I hope and pray we may distinguish ourselves as men fighting for everything that is valuable and dear.

We have got one of the most gentlemanly fighting fellows you ever knew to command our privateer; and hope it will not be long before we shall be in possession of half a dozen rich sugar and dry-goods ships.

Whenever you find it convenient, you will remit to my brother William two hundred pounds, which will be somewhere about the amount of your share of the vessel. Should anything extraordinary turn up on the present campaign, you may expect to hear from me. I hope you reached home without any accident, and that you are all the better for your jaunt.

I shall be much obliged by your settling the matter with Captain Patterson as soon as possible, as God only knows whether I ever shall return; and I should like matters so settled as to give those who come after me as little trouble as possible.

God bless and protect you and yours, and believe me to be, with unfeigned sincerity, your affectionate and humble servant,

JOHN COX.

HENRY HALLER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Reading, July 13, 1776.

SIR: We have received your letter, containing a resolve of Congress for the removal of the privates who are prisoners in this town, to Lancaster, which we shall carry into execution with all the despatch in our power.

We received a letter from the honourable the Delegates of this Province, mentioning that we should be informed by express, or by the gentlemen from our County then at Lancaster, that all the Militia that could possibly be equipped and armed should be called forth. We also received a letter from the Committee of Lancaster, enclosing copies of letters from a Committee of Congress, and from the Committee of the City of Philadelphia; in the former of which it is mentioned that the forces from the several Counties should be collected and marched to Brunswick; in the latter it is mentioned that only the four thousand five hundred men ordered to be raised in the Province, as part of the Flying-Camp, were meant by the letter of the Committee of Congress. We, therefore, continued our plan of raising our quota for the Flying-Camp, and, indeed, added a company more, to complete the battalion, hoping for the approbation of Congress in so doing; since which we have seen in the publick prints the proceedings of the Conference of the Delegates of the several Counties, and of the Committee of Safety of the City and Liberties. But as we had nearly raised several companies to compose the Flying-Camp, (the place of which this Militia is intended to supply,) and the others were proceeding with great success, considering the great scarcity of every kind of tolerable arms among the people to arm such a multitude, we hope our completing the original plan will be approved of, as the men will be more quickly raised and better equipped than if we were to take down the whole Militia.

Our conduct is dictated by the warmest attachment to the cause of our country, and we trust it will be considered in that light by the honourable Congress.

We are, with great respect, sir, your most obedient and very humble servants,

WILLIAM H. ATLEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 16, 1776.]

In Committee, Lancaster, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee were this afternoon honoured with your instructions of the 12th instant, with the resolve of Congress empowering and requesting the Committee to keep a guard over the prisoners in the Barracks in this place, and to surround the Barracks with a stockade fort. The Committee will give the strictest attention to the matters recommended to their notice by Congress, and will have these resolves carried into execution with all the despatch in their power. They have sent off an express to General Irving, requesting his presence to direct the form and manner of the stockade; and hope on Monday morning to begin this necessary work, and flatter themselves they will then have the opportunity of consulting with him as to the proper guard and necessary workmen, and materials to be employed and used in this business.

We have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM H. ATLEE, Chairman.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COMMITTEE OF NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Head-Quarters, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: A multiplicity of engagements, and a continual pressure of other concerns, have prevented our proceeding in the case of the soldiers confined for treasonable practices; but as soon as time will admit, a proper attention will be paid to it. In the mean time, I beg leave to suggest the propriety of the authority of the Province taking some steps with regard to those persons confined by them for the same offences. They certainly are to be deemed the principals; and justice to the inferior agents, while the others pass unnoticed, I observe, only excites compassion and censure. I am very sensible it is a case full of difficulty and perplexity, and well deserving your most serious deliberation; nor do I entertain a doubt but the result will be such as will conduce to the publick good.

I have, some time ago, mentioned to the body of which you are a Committee, the necessity of falling upon some measure to remove from the city and its environs persons of known disaffection and enmity to the cause of America. The safety of the Army, the success of every enterprise, and the security of all, depend so much on adopting the most speedy and effectual steps for the purpose, that I beg leave again to repeat it, and do most earnestly entreat you to fall upon some plan for this purpose, or to give me your assistance doing it, so as to remove those disquieting and discouraging apprehensions which pervade the whole Army on this subject. A suspicion that there are many Ministerial agents among us would justly alarm soldiers of more experience and discipline than ours; and I foresee very dangerous consequences in many respects, if a remedy to the evil is not soon and efficaciously applied.

The removal of the Tory prisoners, confined in the jail of this city, is a matter to which I would solicit your attention. In every view, it appears dangerous and important. In case of an attack and alarm, there can be no doubt what part they would take, and none can tell what influence they might have.

You will, gentlemen, do me the justice to believe, that nothing but the importance and necessity of the case could induce me thus to urge these matters, in which you have also an immediate and common interest.

The gentlemen appointed to give passes to persons leaving the city, I am informed, decline acting. Great inconvenience will ensue to the citizens, if this business should be committed to officers of the Army, who, from their ignorance of the inhabitants, as well as other reasons, are wholly improper for the management of it. I should be glad if your Committee will take this matter also into their consideration.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect and regard, your most obedient and very humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of the Honourable the Convention of the State of New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO EGBERT BENSON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 13, 1776.

SIR: Two ships of force with their tenders have sailed up Hudson's River. I am apprehensive that they design to seize the passes in the Highlands by land, which I am informed may be done by a small body of men. I must therefore request you instantly to desire General Ten Broeck to march down as great a force as he can collect to secure them, particularly the post where the road runs over Anthony's Nose. Send off an express directly (if you please) to the west parts of Connecticut, desiring them to collect all their force at the same point, since I have the highest reason to believe it will be absolutely necessary, if it were only to prevent an insurrection of your own Tories.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Egbert Benson, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Dutchess County.

P. S. A return must be immediately made to me of the number of men you collect.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO CAPTAIN DENNIS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 13, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Duer informs me that there are two or three vessels lying at the dock of Mr. Beverly Robinson, in the Highlands. As it is probable the men-of-war which sailed up the river yesterday may have anchored to the northward of these ships, I think it absolutely necessary that an attempt should be made to secure these vessels for future service. I have therefore to desire the favour of you to procure proper persons to bring these vessels down the river, and to anchor them under the fort where General Mifflin commands. It is absolutely necessary that this matter should be conducted with the utmost secrecy, and despatch; and as I am of opinion that you possess these requisites, I have thought proper to apply to you for your services in this matter.

I am, sir, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Captain Dennis.

TO CAPTAIN JOHN JOHNSON. INSTRUCTIONS TO SUPERINTEND THE NORTH RIVER FERRY. 1ST NEW-YORK.

It is General Washington's orders that Captain Johnson, of Colonel McDougall's Regiment, do daily attend from sunrise to dark in the evening at the North-River Ferry wharves, leading both to Powles-Hook and Hoghook, at which, or between which places, all boats coming to the west side of the town, are to land, where he in the first place is to examine all passengers going from the town, and to see that they have genuine passes from the Committee or one of the General Officers. In the next place, he is particularly to be attentive to the passengers who arrive in town. If they are travellers, such as he can have no suspicion of, he is only to require their names and the places where they intend to lodge, and report them to the General at noon and in the evening. If they are in any manner of suspicious characters, he is to detain them at some convenient house, to be appointed for that purpose in the neighbourhood, till he can send his report (which is to be done immediately) to Head-Quarters, and the General's determination be had thereon. He is also to examine the passengers of all other boats (besides the ferry boats) which may arrive, and report in like manner.

And in order the better to enable Captain Johnson to carry these instructions into execution, the commanding officer of the North-River guard is to give him every necessary aid in his power. Captain Johnson is to communicate these instructions to the Committee appointed to give passes.

By the General's order at Head-Quarters, this 13th of July, 1776.

STIRLING.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, New-York, July 13, 1776.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Committee, the Members of the different Fire-Engine Companies that remain in this City ought not to be called out on any military duty which the common Militia of this City and County are subject to; and that it be recommended to the different Captains of the said Firemen, to engage as many able citizens as are sufficient to fill up the vacancies of such Firemen as are entered in the Continental service, or have removed out of town; and that they pay strict attention to the state of the Engine and publick buckets; and that the Captains aforesaid return a list of all such Firemen as soon as possible to this Committee.

Extract from the Minutes.

Published by order of the Committee:.

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

JOHN MCKESSON TO ROBERT BENSON.

Saturday, A. M., 10 o'clock.

DEAR BROTHER BOB: I received yours of Thursday. The city has been a scene of confusion, but begins to be more settled. Many of the Jersey Militia are gone to the Kills and Bergen-Point. They are the best Militia, and with better arms and accoutrements, than any other Militia I have ever seen. There are some exchanges of cannon about the Narrows and Kills every day. Yesterday afternoon, either two or three tenders went up the Kills successively, and fired at our troops, who returned the fire so briskly that the tenders soon returned. The first tender soon returned to the fleet, when a second was sent. She was, or appeared to be, larger, but did not tarry long after the firing between them began.

I send you a parcel of papers to put in the chest, and a few letters for the President and Members.

Pray let me know whether the order for issuing commissions extended to Colonels Ritzema's and Clinton's regiments, or either. If so, please to send me a bundle or two of commissions. I had only forty-two left here. All the officers are vastly impatient, and some of them seem unwilling to think of coming to any action without commissions. I have ventured to issue the commissions for Captain Beauman's company, as he, though the youngest Captain in the Artillery corps, is assigned to the first place of danger. I hope the gentlemen will approve my conduct in this instance.

I find I am of some use here, which, together with my expectation, as well from publick report as your letter, of your change of plan, has prevented my joining you. If you are likely to tarry at the Plains, or if you do not send me some blank commissions, I shall attend you without delay.

My best compliments to the gentlemen of Congress, and Mr. Bancker.

It is said that Westchester men are much alarmed at the great consumption of their sunfish, and that a considerable share of that waste is charged to Mr. Alderman Brasher and a few other gentlemen.

I have got cartridges for your fusee, and will bring both whenever I can be certain where to join you.

I am, sincerely yours,

JOHN MCKESSON.

To Robert Benson, Esq.

P. S. The Mayor's Court stands adjourned to next Tuesday. The Mayor refuses to appoint a Deputy. Some of the Magistrates fear the loss of the City charter; and Mr. Alderman Bayard writes by this conveyance to the Recorder to come to town, and open and adjourn the Court.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS IN QUEEN'S COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

By orders of the Queen's County Committee, July 13, 1776, we, the subscribers, were appointed a sub-Committee to regulate the districts of Captain Peter Nostrant, on the south side of Hempstead, that four Companies had been thrown into one. Accordingly, we have made the district of the late Captain John Birdsall's Company for one Company, and accordingly notified the people on this day to meet and choose their military officers. There met a number of men, and made choice of Richard Jackson for their Captain, Zebulon Seaman for First-Lieutenant, John Lewis for Second-Lieutenant, and Smith Brush Ensign; to which we beg the favour of the honourable Provincial Congress to grant them their commissions.

Gentlemen, we are your very humble servants,

JOHN WILLIAMS,

JOHN BIRDSALL,

BENJAMIN BIRDSALL,

Three of the County Committee.

JOHN COE TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER AT PAULUS-HOOK.

Haverstraw, July 13, 1776.

SIR: The regiment of this County is now, and has been, under arms all night, occasioned by the appearance of several ships-of-war of the Ministerial fleet, now lying in Tappan Bay. We have heard that another part of the same fleet attacked the city of New-York last evening; but what has been the event, or whether they have been able to pass the forts on the river, we are not able to learn. As we would endeavour to ease the County as much as is consistent with the publick service, at this busy season of the year, we have despatched the bearer, Mr. Resolvert Van Houter, express to you, and beg you would give him the necessary information relative to the action of yesterday, and your advice on the necessary steps to be taken by us to prevent the enemy from making inroads and depredations on the west side of Hudson's River.

We are, sir, your humble servants.

By order of the County Committee for Orange County:

JOHN COE, Dep. Chairman.

To the Commanding Officer of the Continental Forces at Paulus-Hook, or on the west side of Hudson's River.

NATHANIEL WOODHULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Convention of the Representatives of the State of }
New-York, White-Plains, July 13, 1776. }

SIR: On being informed yesterday afternoon that two ships-of-war had gone into the North River, and passed by all the fortifications on York-Island, the Convention immediately sent an express to the commanding officer of the fort at the Highlands, advising him thereof.

Last evening, advice arrived that two frigates and two or three tenders were at anchor at Tarrytown; whereupon, the Convention sent the inhabitants a supply of powder and ball, and took immediate measures for reinforcing the inhabitants along that shore. This morning, the Convention were informed that the frigates and tenders still lay there at anchor, and that several barges were busy in sounding the river. Another detachment of the Militia has been directed to guard the stores in that neighbourhood, in which are sundry effects belonging to the publick.

The Convention will endeavour to prevent their making incursions into the country; and beg leave to suggest to your Excellency the propriety of keeping a strong guard at King's Bridge, the destruction of which they apprehend to be an object with the enemy.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

By order: To His Excellency General Washington, at Head-Quarters, New-York.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO COLONEL HAMMOND.

White-Plains, July 13, 1776.

SIR: We last evening ordered Colonel Thomas to send you a reinforcement of forty or fifty men, together with one hundred pounds of lead, and two quarter-casks of powder, all of which we hope you have received.

There is no great reason to apprehend that any considerable incursions into the country will be made by parties from the ships in the river; and we are therefore of opinion that it would not be expedient for great numbers of the Militia to leave their farms at this busy season of the year.

Great attention should be paid to the conduct of the disaffected among us, and care taken to prevent any unusual gatherings of them; and let all such of them be apprehended and secured as may give any aid to the enemy, or threaten to give us any molestation.

Colonel Drake will give the necessary orders for provisions, and we hope the Whigs of this County will distinguish themselves by their zeal and alacrity on this occasion.

We are, sir, your very humble servants.

To Lieutenant-Colonel Hammond.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO COLONEL VAN CORTLANDT.

White-Plains, July 13, 1776.

SIR: Be pleased to order such a number of your regiment to guard the stores in which provisions and other effects belonging to the publick are lodged, at and near Peekskill, as you may think necessary. Colonel Drake will afford them the necessary supplies of bread and pork.

As it would not be prudent, on every little alarm, to call great numbers of the inhabitants from their farms, we hope the detachments you may order on service will not be greater than the exigency of affairs may require.

We are, sir, your most obedient servants.

To Colonel Pierre Van Cortlandt.

COLONEL JAMES CLINTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort Constitution, July 13, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Your express of the 12th I just now received, and will endeavour to comply with the contents.

We had a most unfortunate accident happen here yesterday. As Lieutenant Bryant and one Nicoll, both of the Artillery, were scaling out a couple of cannon which we had just mounted, before having flashed a little powder out of one of them, and not spunging her properly, when the Lieutenant was putting in the wad, the cannon went off, shot off his hand, and blew Nicoll several yards, as he was standing by to ram down the charge. Nicoll was mortally wounded; the Lieutenant had his right arm cut off.

We want more officers of the Artillery here very much, as Lieutenant Bryant is a great loss to us. We are scarce of gun-flints and good arms.

I am, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,
JAMES CLINTON, Colonel.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO JOHN LANGDON.

Albany, July 13, 1776.

SIR: By Captain Wentworth I was favoured with yours of the 2d instant, who also delivered me £806 9s. 6d., lawful money, for which I have given him duplicate receipts.

Captain Wentworth's immediate return puts it out of my power to pay him that attention which your recommendation, and, I dare say his merit, would entitle him to. I have pressed him, but in vain, to accompany me to a treaty, to be held with the Six Nations, at the German-Flats.

General Sullivan is on his way down. He thinks a slight has been put on him, by appointing General Gates to the command of the troops that were then supposed to be in Canada, and talks of quitting the Army. I should be sorry if he did, because I have reason to believe him a good officer. His retreat from Canada, where he could not possibly have remained with an Army so miserably broken as that he commanded, has been judiciously made, and reflects honour on him.

Adieu, and believe me, with respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO JEREMIAH POWELL.

Albany, July 13, 1776.

SIR: Your letters of the 29th ultimo, and 1st instant, I had the honour to receive at Ticonderoga a few days ago. I deferred answering them until I should be able to give you some account of the measures taken to prevent that dreadful malady, which has so greatly reduced our Army, from infecting the Militia intended to reinforce it.

The main body of the Army is removing to Ticonderoga, when they will be immediately employed in constructing such fortifications on the west side of Lake Champlain as may be necessary to prevent the enemy from drawing over their boats into Lake George, should they obtain a naval superiority; which, however, I have not the least apprehension that they will be able to effect this campaign. On the east side of Lake Champlain, and opposite to Ticonderoga, the grounds are remarkably strong; and it is concluded to be the place for a fortified camp, to be occupied by the Militia to prevent the enemy penetrating the Colonies in that quarter; and by means of our batteaus, both bodies may reciprocally support each other, as the distance from shore to shore is only half a mile. This disposition will effectually prevent the small-pox from being conveyed to the Militia by the now infected Army; and we hope that in a few weeks both bodies may join without danger, should there be occasion, as all the sick and infected are removing to Fort George, to which place every one hereafter seized with the small-pox will be sent, and there kept until they are perfectly cleansed.

Our Army is much recovered since their return to Crown-Point, and I hope in a little time to find it healthy and fit to give the enemy a warm reception, should they be able to cross the Lake and attempt an attack.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. Jeremiah Powell, Esq., President of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, &c.

P. S. When I was at Crown-Point, I proposed to a council of officers an expedient to procure the return of the deserters from the northern Army; and it was unanimously agreed that I should write to the different Governments from whence troops had been sent, entreating the Governours and Commanders-in-Chief to issue their Proclamations promising pardon to all such as should return by a limited time, to be fixed by such Governours, &c.; and to require all officers, civil and military, in their respective Governments, to apprehend all such deserters as should not comply with the terms offered. May I be permitted to entreat your Honour to issue such Proclamation in your Colony.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL GATES.

Albany, July 13, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I arrived here at two yesterday afternoon. The latest accounts from New-York are of Tuesday last. The enemy were landed on Staten-Island to the number of about seven thousand, and, it is thought, were waiting for reinforcements. A body of them also debarked on Long-Island, but did not remain long, being apprehensive of an attack from some of our troops who were on their march toward them. A small tender of theirs, in going up the Kills between Bergen-Point and Staten-Island, has been sunk, either by our batteries or some craft we had there.

The Mayor of New-York, Forbes, and the other conspirators, are still confined. I cannot learn what is to be their fate.

I have this morning sent you three hundred and forty-eight felling axes and fifty spades, and have written to Connecticut and the western towns of the Massachusetts, to collect and immediately forward whatever they can. All the blacksmiths are at work in this place and in Schenectady, and I hope to collect some in the country, having given orders for that purpose.

On the 2d instant, Congress declared the American Colonies free and independent States; and it is said that there was not one dissenting Colony.

No lead is yet arrived here. I have again requested General Washington to send whatever he can spare. I have repeated my orders for a full supply of fresh provisions to be immediately sent; pray let the pork be husbanded as much as possible, as I fear we shall not be able to procure much more. Permit me to remind you to order all the brick from Crown-Point, as well those wrought up into chimnies as the others.

The bearer, Major Ely, is sent by the Colony of Connecticut to give his assistance as a physician who has had much experience in the fatal malady which so greatly distresses us. Permit me to recommend him to your attention.

I have written Governour Trumbull and President Powell, and pointed out the disposition we have made of the Army, and observed on the good prospect we have of eradicating the small-pox and preventing its seizing the Militia.

A quantity of lead is just arrived and shall be forwarded to you without delay.

We are this moment informed by Mr. Wray, who left New-York on Tuesday, that a fleet of seventeen French men-of-war was arrived at Rhode-Island, with Mr. Deane on board. The account has been repeated to him on his way up. I hope for the pleasure of a confirmation of this account.

I shall desire the Postmaster here to send you all the letters for the Army, with a blank commission for a Postmaster, to be filled up by you.

Pay my respects to General Arnold.
I am, dear sir, with great truth and sincerity, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.
To the Hon. General Gates.

P. VAN RENSSELAER TO GENERAL GATES.

Albany, July 13, 1776.

SIR: General Schuyler desired me to acquaint you that I have sent two sets of carpenter's tools and two of blacksmith's tools to Fort George, and to be forwarded to Ticonderoga. I also sent this day three hundred and fifty-one axes, fifty-one spades, eight boxes of musket ball, containing eleven hundred and thirty-five pounds, and two tuns of bar lead. Eight tuns remain in store.

I am, sir, with respect, your most humble servant,
P. V. RENSSELAER.

To the Hon. Major-General Gates, Ticonderoga.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Head-Quarters, Ticonderoga, July 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am anxious to have you here as soon as possible, as maintaining our naval superiority is of the last importance. I labour continually to get the Commodore to Crown-Point with the vessels, but am baffled by the laziness of the artificers, or the neglect of those whose duty it is to see them diligent at their work. I hourly expect one or two more gondolas from Skenesborough, and shall labour all in my power to get them rigged and armed. I am certain you will not lose a moment in forwarding the troops and stores from the Point. We shall be happy or miserable, as we are or are not prepared to receive the enemy.

I am your affectionate humble servant,
HORATIO GATES.

To Brigadier-General Arnold.

COLONEL BEDEL TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 13, 1776.

SIR: I have just received intelligence by letter from the frontier towns on Connecticut River, viz: Cohos, that the inhabitants there are, in general, in great terrour on account of the savages, and a great number of them have left their farms with their families; some remain, making stockade forts round their houses to defend themselves. And as the savages from St. François, &c., are the only ones near them at present, I am, in a great measure, inclined to think that I could in a short time raise such a number of them as would be able to defend that part, as the savages from other parts would never venture that way when they found friendly savages protecting us. The savage who comes with this will be able to inform your Honour more particularly relating to the disposition and nature of savages in such cases.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,
TIMOTHY BEDEL.

To Major-General Gates.

Providence, Rhode-Island, July 13, 1776.

Since the 6th instant some Officers of the British Fleet, who had broken their parole of honour by going beyond the limits prescribed by the General Congress, were brought to town and secured in Jail.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Lebanon, July 13, 1776.

SIR: In conformity to a resolve of Congress of the 27th ultimo, I sent to Mr. Shaw for an account of the cannon left at New-London by Commodore Hopkins—their number, size, bore, and weight; and also an account of the other cannon there. Enclosed is a copy of his return made me, by which it appears, that if the fourteen heaviest cannon had been sent to Philadelphia, there would not have been one twenty-four-pounder in our fort, and only one eighteen of those left by the Commodore. The ten of nine are old. We have been necessitated to make use of them for the present: one of them unfit for use.

The plan sent, and other representations, show the situation and advantages of the harbour of New-London. Hitherto the Sound has not been invested by the enemy.

Yesterday I received your letter of the 6th instant, enclosing the Declaration of the United States of America. I shall have it proclaimed in the Colony in such a manner that the people may be universally informed of it.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

Account per JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

JOHN KEIGHLEY TO THE COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston Jail, July 13, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: I am extremely sorry I have occasion to be so troublesome, but this distressed situation obliges me—health of body and peace of mind being so much impaired; and with humble submission, I cannot conceive any crime I have committed that could deserve three months' close confinement in the room of a prison designed for felons. I have acted in no way prejudicial to this country. If any accuse me of it, I beg to face them, that I may acquit myself to the satisfaction of all. I know it is not in the power of man to prove me, directly or indirectly, concerned in taking away the property of any person whatever, and desire to acquit myself of any charge of that kind also.

Honourable gentlemen, my case is truly hard, in being obliged to suffer so long in the miseries of a common jail, without having it in my power to prove (by being brought to examination and duly heard) that I do not merit it, unless in attempting to take my property to another part of the world is a crime that deserves such rigorous treatment. Therefore, I humbly beg your Honours that if any accusation has been laid against me I may have an opportunity to clear myself, and induce your Honours to release me out of this unhappy, miserable situation.

And am, with respect, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,

EDWARD KEIGHLEY.

To the Honourable Council at Watertown.

JOSEPH HAWLEY TO THE COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Northampton, July 13, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: The levies for reinforcing the northern Army are making in the County of Hampshire as expeditiously, and more so, than could be expected. But in the town of Northampton, where its full quota is complete, (and I am informed in some other towns,) there is a vehement desire to take small-pox by inoculation before they march. The delay which will unavoidably be occasioned by such a step will be so great that I dare not give the least countenance to the proposal; besides, the Army is retreated to Crown-Point, and thereby the practicability or possibility of suppressing that distemper in the Army appears to me very probable; and it is also very probable, in my humble opinion, that the service of that Army, through the season, will be much more by detached bodies than it would have been if they had continued in Canada, and perhaps in parts where there will be but very little danger of the small-pox. From these considerations, I have great doubt whether your Honours will give leave for such a delay. If it be granted to any, the indulgence must be general; and what destruction may befall that Army, in the mean time, for want of recruits, none can foresee; perhaps a total defeat and dispersion of them. But it is insisted that I should write to your Honours on this head, and I must beg an answer as soon as possible. I beg your Honours to pardon me if I suggest the absolute necessity of some person or persons being at No. 4, prepared to pay the men their mileage, and to deliver them their rations for their further march, as soon as any troops may arrive there; otherwise, it is easy to foresee that the greatest confusion will take place there. Sufficient care had not been taken in this most important particular when I left Court, and I can hear nothing of the matter since. There is no advice here that any person has arrived at No. 4 as yet for that purpose. The Committee for Hampshire have not so much as received the resolve directing what route the troops shall take. I pray that it may be sent by the bearer, (Mr. Clark;) as also, if your Honours so please, your directions respecting inoculation.

I am, with most humble respects, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH HAWLEY.

To the Honourable the Council of Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England.

COLONEL J. HURD TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Haverhill, (Cohos,) July 13, 1776.

SIR: The bearer of this (Captain Samuel Paine) having made a voluntary offer of his services to go on a scout towards Canada, for the good of the common cause, I embrace the opportunity of paying my respects to you from this part of the country, and to acquaint you something of our present critical situation.

I was at Exeter about ten days ago, attending the publick business, where we were alarmed with repeated accounts of the ill success of our forces in Canada; that the Army under your command, having dismantled the fortress St. John, had retreated to Isle-aux-Noix, and from thence were going over the lake with all expedition to Crown-Point, which of course left the northwest parts of the New-Hampshire Colony open to the incursions of the enemy, and defenceless. This news, with the exaggerated accounts of the numerous Ministerial Army lately arrived at Quebeck, struck such a consternation and panick into our people settled along upon Connecticut River, that they immediately began to pluck up stakes and remove with their effects and live stock from the Upper and Lower Cohos to the interior country. Those who determined to remain here set about building fortifications of some sort for the defence of their women and children, and a considerable number of families live now in garrison, having quitted their plantations and risked the loss of the near harvest, though the finest appearance of crops, to their great damage. My own family (the better part) I met half way on the road as I was returning here, where I left them, and came on to encourage the people in this quarter what I could.

Our Assembly have, in consequence of very pressing letters from the Continental Congress, resolved upon raising two battalions, of seven hundred and fifty men each, to march into Canada for your reinforcement; and have, for greater expedition, determined to draught the men proportionally from the several regiments of Militia, giving, at the same time, a bounty of £7 18s., besides a month's advance wages, for encouragement. They have also determined upon raising two hundred men, particularly for the defence of this part of the Colony, to be kept on ranging duty between Connecticut River and Lake Champlain, and towards the head of Connecticut River, in which quarter we are most exposed while your Army is stationed at Crown-Point. This, sir, you must be so sensible of, that I need but hint it. You are also acquainted of the new road which was opening under care of Colonel Bayley, from Cohos, on a northwest course, to Missisque Bay, and thence to St. John's, by particular direction from General Washington; on which road there were upwards of fifty persons employed, and had got nearly thirty miles through when this news reached here; upon which Colonel Bayley desisted, and called off his workmen. I take the liberty to enclose you a sketch of this road, from a plan first draughted by Mr. Metcalf, which, if you have not seen, I thought might be of some service; and, if otherwise, your politeness, I trust, will excuse the trouble. You will please to give Captain Paine such advice and directions respecting his scout as you may think best. We shall be anxiously expecting his return, that we may know better what we have to depend upon; and if the multiplicity of your affairs will admit of a few minutes' time, I shall think myself much honoured by a line from you.

Wishing the hand of a kind Providence may cover you in every danger, preserve your valuable life and health, I am, with great esteem and respect, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HURD.

To the Hon. Major-General Sullivan.

P. S. I have had the pleasure to see a copy of your letter from Crown-Point, of 3d instant, to Colonel Hoisington, and to observe, though your Army was much weakened with sickness, you were not apprehensive of any immediate danger from the enemy, they having no vessels of force on the lake, nor boats in readiness for transporting. Our greatest danger, we fear, at present, is from small skulking parties of Canadians or Indians, should they take up the hatchet against us. Yet we have this good circumstance in our favour: the St. Francois tribe and Caughnawaga have still some of their children at Dartmouth College, under Doctor Wheelock's tuition, which one would think they would certainly remove before they begin hostilities.

July 14.—Since writing the above, I have seen a letter from Captain Ira Allen, on Onion River, by one of our scouts, in which he writes that Colonel Waite, by your orders, was stationed there with two hundred men, and that he expected there would be a line of block forts from that river to Connecticut River. This may answer a good purpose, but will not be sufficient. The northern parts of our Colony will still be exposed, our settlements extending seventy miles on this river above the Lower Cohos; and it appears to us here that nothing but the enemy's ignorance of the country and our weak situation, or their want of men, prevents them from forcing their way into these parts; the consequence of which, (should such a plan take place as recommended by the notorious Mr. Brush) you can easily conjecture.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN EAMES.

In Committee of Safety, July 13, 1776.

You are hereby authorized to enlist fifty good, able-bodied, and effective men, officers included, to serve as soldiers under you for three months, (unless sooner discharged,) as scouting parties, to make their Head-Quarters at Great Cohos; not taking more than ten of the inhabitants of said Great Cohos in the number. And you are to make return, as often as you can conveniently, of your routes, discoveries, &c., &c., to Colonels Bayley, Hurd, and Charles Johnson, at Lower Cohos, and take their instructions from time to time for your future conduct.

The men you inlist are to be paid thirty shillings as a bounty, and assure them they shall receive forty shillings per month when your roll is made up. And the Company are to choose a Lieutenant, Ensign, and two Sergeants. You, as Captain, shall receive £6, your Lieutenant £4, and Ensign £3, each Sergeant 48s. per month. The Captain, Lieutenant, and Ensign, to receive no bounty.

To Captain Jeremiah Eames.

CAPTAIN ROBERT PARKER TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Lee, July 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am to inform you that I have just received a letter from Peter Bigerat, Esq., merchant in Martinico, who informs me that there has been a great scarcity of provisions there, owing to a number of vessels being detained in France on account of contrary winds. On the 6th of May was the first arrival for a long time; and since, unto the 14th of the above month, fourteen sail have arrived, and brought one hundred thousand weight of gunpowder, a great many chests of firearms, and great quantities of coarse woollen cloths. There are likewise twelve sail expected hourly, with ten thousand or twelve thousand weight of powder in each vessel. He further adds, there is not a board or codfish in the Island, and you may have immediate despatch and a great price for the above articles; therefore, if your Honours think fit to send a vessel with fish and lumber, I think there is a great prospect of making a good voyage, and little or no danger of being taken, as there are no cruisers on this coast, they being chiefly traced up in the West-Indies on account of the hurricane months. If your Honours see fit to hire a vessel and send it for the above purpose, I know of one that is a good sailer and will answer, and shall be glad to serve you in so good a cause if you think me worthy of being trusted as master.

And am, with respect, your most obedient, humble servant,
* ROBERT PARKER.

N. B. My letter was dated the 14th of May. He says powder was 5s. 10d., on account of our vessels waiting there so long, but it has since fallen a great deal, and he thinks it will be low. The woollen goods are cheap, and I fear they will be much wanted in our Army next winter. R. P.

RESOLVES OF MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Resolves of the General Assembly of the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, begun and held at WATERTOWN, in the County of MIDDLESEX, on WEDNESDAY, the twenty-ninth day of MAY, being the last WEDNESDAY in said month, Anno Domini, 1776.

Resolve for supplying the Town of GLOUCESTER with Cannon, &c., passed MAY 31, 1776.

Whereas the Committee for fortifying the Harbour of Boston are doubtful whether the safety of the Colony will admit of Peter Coffin, Esq., being supplied by the Commissary-General with two pieces of Cannon, eighteen-pounders, agreeable to a Resolve of Court of the 8th instant: Therefore,

Resolved, That said Commissary be directed to deliver to the said Peter Coffin, Esq., either two pieces of Cannon, eighteen-pounders, or two other Cannon, such as said Committee may judge may be best spared, consistent with the safety of the Colony, agreeable to the spirit and intention of said Resolve of the 8th instant; together with the Carriages, Spunges, and all other appurtenances, and one hundred Balls for each Cannon, suitable for the same.

Resolve for filling up the four Companies at DORCHESTER, passed JUNE 3, 1776.

Whereas an Order passed the late General Court, directing that the four Companies which had done duty at Dorchester, Braintree, Weymouth, and Hingham, should be immediately filled up, and commissioned by the Council, and should be upon the sea-coast establishment; but no Inlisting Orders were delivered out; for want of which, and from the apprehension of their services being required without the limits of said Towns, the Order of Court has not been complied with: Therefore,

Resolved, That Inlisting Orders, agreeable hereto, be immediately delivered out, and signed by the Honourable Joseph Palmer, Esq., and that said Companies, when full, or nearly full, shall have their Officers commissioned by the Council; and if they should be required to do duty out of said Towns, in other parts of this Colony, they shall, during the time of their so doing duty, be entitled to the same pay that other Troops employed in said service may be entitled to.

Resolve for paying Colonels MARSHALL and WHITNEY one month's advance Wages, &c.; passed JUNE 3, 1776.

Resolved, That David Jeffries, Esq., be, and he hereby is, ordered and directed to pay to each Non-Commissioned Officer and Private Soldier (or his order) in the Regiments under the command of Colonel Marshall and Colonel Whitney, and in the seven Companies of Matrosses commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Crafts, on their passing muster, one month's advance wages, and 13s. 4d. in lieu of a blanket, together with one penny per mile from his usual place of abode to Boston: Provided, That the Captains of the several Companies shall exhibit to said Paymaster a roll, on oath, expressing each man's name, the town wherein he has been last a resident, and the number of miles from thence to Boston; and that there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony to the said David Jeffries, the sum of £2000, for the purposes aforesaid—he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve to supply Captain WIGGLESWORTH with seven Fire-Arms; passed JUNE 3, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver unto Captain John Wigglesworth, commander of a Vessel fixed out by this Colony, to cruise to observe the motions of the enemy's ships, the number of seven Smallarms and appurtenances, for those men that are not able to procure them themselves—the said Wigglesworth giving his receipt to be accountable to this Court for the same.

And it is further resolved, That the Honourable the Council be, and they hereby are, desired to give the said Wigglesworth a commission as Captain of said vessel, to cruise against the enemy's ships.

Resolve appointing a Committee to purchase Cannon for the armed Vessels; passed JUNE 3, 1776.

Resolved, That Captain Batchelor, Mr. Durfee, and Brigadier Palmer, be a Committee, with the Commissary-General of this Colony, to purchase and provide what Cannon are necessary for the armed Vessels of this Colony, with all expedition.

Resolve on the Account of JACOB BOARDMAN; passed JUNE 3, 1776.

On the Account of Jacob Boardman, for fitting out the Schooner Britannia:

Resolved, That there be paid to him, out of the publick Treasury, the sum of £11, in full of his Account.

Resolve to erect a Fortification at PLYMOUTH; passed JUNE 4, 1776.

Resolved, That a Fortification be erected on the Gurnet, at the entrance of the Harbour of Plymouth, and a number of men posted there, to secure that Harbour against the enemy's ships going in to land men there, or securing themselves against the danger of the sea, and for securing a place of rendezvous for the Continental and Colonial vessels, and a retreat for their prizes when they cannot get into the northern Harbours.

Resolve for adjourning WORCESTER Court; passed JUNE 4, 1776.

Whereas the Court of General Sessions of the Peace and Inferior Court of Common Pleas, in and for the County of Worcester, is by law to be holden at Worcester, in said County, on Tuesday, the eleventh of June, instant; and whereas many people are called away by the unhappy war that this Continent is engaged in, whose business cannot be acted on at that time; and by reason that many persons who are members of the General Court must give their attendance, if the Court should sit as by law appointed: Therefore,

Resolved, That the said Courts be, and hereby are, adjourned to the first Tuesday of September next, being the time at which the Court of General Sessions of the Peace and Inferior Court of Common Pleas, are by law to be holden at Worcester, within and for said County of Worcester; and that all Pleas, Processes, Writs, Actions, Suits, issued or to be issued, Complaints, Precepts, Recognisances, and all other matters and things, returnable and having day, and that should have had day in the said Courts, if the same were holden on Tuesday the eleventh of June, instant, shall be returnable and have day in the said Courts on the first Tuesday of September next, and shall abide and continue unto that time, and shall then be proceeded on, heard, and determined, to all intents and purposes, as effectually as if said Courts were held on the day by law appointed as aforesaid.

Committee to correspond with Congress, appointed JUNE 4, 1776.

Resolved, That Brigadier Palmer, Mr. Appleton, and Mr. Pitts, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be a standing Committee of Correspondence, whose duty it shall be to transmit to our Delegates at the honourable Congress, the Journals of the House of Representatives, and the Acts and Laws that may from time to time be enacted by the General Assembly, together with such other interesting intelligence as may any way affect this or any of the United Colonies.

Report of the Committee of both Houses, appointed to repair to the Town of MENDON, to hear a number of Petitioners relative to some uneasiness subsisting in the Regiment there; accepted by both Houses, JUNE 4, 1776.

Notice being given to the Petitioners, and all others concerned in said Regiment, of our appointment, and the Order of Court respecting the same, two Committees from the Company in the Town of Uxbridge, and a Committee from each of the other seven Companies in said Regiment, were present before your Committee, and were severally fully heard; after which, it appeared to your Committee that six of said Companies, and at least one-half of the Company in Uxbridge, appeared much dissatisfied with the appointment of Mr. Joseph Chapin for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Mr. Caleb Whiting for Second Major, in said Regiment, who were recommended without the knowledge, and contrary to the inclination of said Regiment, the Officers of which had met and agreed to recommend Captain Nathan Tyler for Lieutenant-Colonel, and Ezra Whiting, Esq., for Second Major, which they appeared to be highly in favour of. The other part of the Company in Uxbridge appeared well pleased with the appointment of Messrs. Chapin and Whiting, and doubtless will be uneasy should their appointment be superseded. The remaining eighth Company, being the south Company in Douglass, it appeared to your Committee that they were somewhat divided, but not strenuous. This being the state of facts, as near as your Committee has been able to collect, and there being more than seven to one dissatisfied with the present appointment of Lieutenant-Colonel and Second Major, your Committee are humbly of opinion, that the most likely method to restore harmony to said Regiment, will be to indulge the Petitioners with a new appointment of Lieutenant-Colonel and Second Major, agreeable to their request; and in case that part of the Company in Uxbridge, who are against a new appointment, should renew their request to be joined to the Regiment to which Sutton belongs, that they also be indulged in their request, and be joined accordingly. All which is humbly submitted.

JABEZ FISHER, per order.

Establishment for Gunners on board armed Vessels, &c.; passed JUNE 4, 1776.

Resolved, That the Gunners in the service of this Colony, on board the armed Vessels thereof, be allowed and paid £3 per month; and in the distribution of the Prize Money have the same number of shares as are, by the establishment of this Colony, allowed to the Carpenter; the former establishment of this Colony notwithstanding.

Resolved, That the Commanders of said Vessels be allowed to enlist men to the last of December next, who may not incline to enlist for the time proposed by the last establishment.

Adjutant for Third Regiment in SUFFOLK, chosen, JUNE 4, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Enoch Leonard, as Adjutant to the Third Regiment of Militia, in the County of Suffolk.

Concurred in Council same day.

JOHN CLOUSTON appointed to command the Sloop FREEDOM, JUNE 4, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Captain John Clouston to command the armed Sloop building at Swanzy, called the Freedom.

Concurred in Council same day.

JACOB MILLER appointed Major, JUNE 5, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Jacob Miller as Major of Colonel Josiah Whitney's Regiment.

Concurred by Council same day.

Adjutant for Fourth Regiment WORCESTER, appointed, JUNE 5, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Ebenezer Foster, of Oakham, as Adjutant to the Fourth Regiment of Militia, in the County of Worcester.

Concurred by Council same day.

Adjutant for Second Regiment HAMPSHIRE, appointed, JUNE 5, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of James Sheppard, of Northampton, as Adjutant to the Second Regiment of Militia, in the County of Hampshire.

Concurred by Council same day.

Adjutant for Seventh Regiment in WORCESTER appointed.

The House made choice, by ballot, of William Clark as Adjutant of the Seventh Regiment of Militia, in the County of Worcester.

Concurred in Council, June 5, 1776.

Resolve to suspend sinking Hulks in the Harbour of BOSTON; passed JUNE 5, 1776.

Resolved, That the Hulks which have been prepared by order of the General Court to be sunk in the Harbour of Boston, be in every respect fitted for that purpose, and anchored as near as may be, with convenience and safety, to the places where it is proposed they should be sunk; and that the sinking said Hulks as aforesaid be suspended until the further order of this Court; any order or resolve to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided, nevertheless, That if the Committee for fortifying the Harbour of Boston shall, upon any sudden alarm or appearance of danger, judge it necessary that the said Hulks should be then sunk immediately, before any order of this Court can be taken thereupon, the said Committee be, and hereby are, fully empowered to cause the said Hulks to be sunk accordingly.

Resolve to supply the Town of BEVERLY with Shot; passed JUNE 5, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he is hereby, directed to deliver to the Selectmen of the Town of Beverly, or order, sixty eighteen-pound Shot, and one hundred and twenty nine-pound Shot, to be by them applied for the use of said Town; they to be accountable to the General Court for the same.

Resolve appointing a Committee on Accounts; passed JUNE 6, 1776.

Whereas a necessary attention to the more important affairs of the Government, in the present extraordinary times of difficulty and distress, renders it impracticable to receive, examine, and pass upon the numerous Accounts now daily exhibited against the Government, agreeable to the mode heretofore usually practised, and the payment thereof has been greatly delayed, to the detriment of individuals, as well as to the injury of the credit of the Government: Therefore,

Resolved, That Abraham Watson, Thomas Plympton, Jonathan Webster, Thomas Durfee, Aaron Wood, John Bliss, and Isaac Lothrop, Esqs., with such as the honourable Board shall join, be, and they hereby are, appointed a Committee, until the further order of the Great and General Court or Assembly of this Colony, to receive, examine, and finally to pass upon all Accounts, not otherwise committed, which shall be presented to them for payment of services done and articles supplied by order of the late Provincial Congress, or of the General Court, and properly vouched; and the doings of said Committee shall be considered as valid as any vote or resolve of the General Court, touching said Accounts, as well in the recess of the Court as during any session of the same; and said Committee, or any six of them, who are hereby appointed a quorum, are hereby directed to assign an office, and advertise the publick thereof, and of this resolve, that the business may be constantly attended and effectually performed; and that a true copy of all such Accounts which shall be passed upon and allowed by them, shall, after payment thereof, be kept in a book, with an alphabet thereto, which shall be laid before either House for perusal and inspection, once or oftener in each session, as they shall severally order; and that the said Committee be, and are hereby, authorized to appoint some suitable person or persons for that purpose.

Also, Resolved, That the Secretary be, and he hereby is, directed to keep such Accounts as shall be passed by said Committee; and in consequence thereof, ordered to be paid by the honourable Board, in separate files. And, in order to prevent any delay in the payment of such of said Accounts as shall be passed upon and allowed by said Committee,

Be it Resolved, That the honourable Board be, and they are hereby authorized, from time to time, to issue their Warrants, requiring the Treasurer of this Colony to pay into the hands of said Committee such sum or sums of money as the honourable Board shall judge proper, for the purpose of discharging and paying such Accounts, the said Committee to be accountable therefor: Provided always, That the foregoing method of passing upon and allowing said Accounts shall be taken to be adopted, merely from the necessity of the present times, and not considered as a precedent for the future.

Resolve empowering TIMOTHY EDWARDS, Esq., to receive Seventeen Hundred Pounds of MARK HOPKINS, Esquire, and to pay the same to General SCHUYLER; passed JUNE 6, 1776.

Resolved, That Timothy Edwards, of Stockbridge, be, and hereby is empowered, to receive the sum of £1,700, lawful money, in Silver and Gold, of Mark Hopkins, Esq., being so much left in said Hopkins's care by Eldad Taylor, Esq., to whom it was committed by the Council, in order to be transmitted to General Schuyler for the use of the Army in Canada. And the said Mark Hopkins, Esq., is hereby directed to pay the said sum of £1,700 into the hands of Timothy Edwards, Esquire, accordingly, who, as soon as he shall have received the same, is hereby empowered and directed to convey and pay the sum before mentioned into the hands of General Schuyler, as soon as may be, for the purpose aforesaid; for which he is directed to take duplicate receipts of General Schuyler, and return one of them into the Secretary's Office. And he is further directed to take such a guard with him as he shall deem necessary.

Resolve for further fortifying the Harbour of Boston; passed JUNE 6, 1776.

As the fortifying the upper part of the Harbour of Boston is now nearly completed, and it is necessary that other places in the lower parts thereof should also be fortified for the security of the Town of Boston, and other Towns in the vicinity thereof: It is therefore,

Resolved, That a Redoubt be immediately raised upon a place called Moon-Island, in the said Harbour, near the main, in order to keep open our communication with Long-Island, and that four pieces of Cannon, nine-pounders, or such others as can be obtained, be placed therein; and that such Ammunition, Ordnance Stores, and Spears, be provided as shall be necessary. And that a Redoubt be also immediately raised upon Hoff's Neck, in said Harbour, to keep open our communication with Pettick's Island; and that the like number of Cannon, Ammunition, &c., be provided for the same. And that the four Independent Companies stationed at Dorchester, Braintree, Weymouth, and Hingham, be employed in this service, under the direction of the Committee for fortifying the Harbour of Boston.

It is also Resolved, That a Redoubt on the east head of Long-Island, another on the east head of Pettick's Island, and one on Nantasket Hill, with such outworks as the safety of those posts may require, be erected as soon as the Committee for fortifying the Harbour of Boston shall judge expedient; and that three pieces of Cannon, of eighteen or twenty-four-pounders, be placed in each of the three Fortifications last mentioned, and that such Apparatus, Ammunition, Spears, and Intrenching Tools, be provided as shall be necessary.

It is further Resolved, That the Committee aforesaid be directed to apply to General Ward, or his successor in command of the Continental Troops left in this Colony, for Cannon, and the apparatus necessary, with Ammunition, Spears, and a sufficient number of Intrenching Tools; and that the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he is hereby, directed to supply the said Committee with such articles aforesaid as cannot be obtained from the said Commander.

Resolve for supplying the Committee for procuring Saltpetre with Money to pay for the same; passed JUNE 6, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of the Colony the sum of £5,000 to Tristram Dalton, Esq., to be by him delivered to Messrs. Sayer and Tufts, to enable them to pay for such Saltpetre as has been tendered to them agreeable to the Resolves of the General Assembly; and also that there be paid out of the publick Treasury the sum of £2,800 to Mr. Samuel Phillips, Jun., to be by him delivered to Mr. Zebediah Abbot, of Andover, to enable him to pay for such Saltpetre as has been tendered, agreeable to the Resolves of the General Assembly; he, the said Abbot, together with the aforementioned Sayer and Tufts, to be severally accountable to this Court for the expenditure of those sums they shall receive.

Also Resolved, That there be paid out of the said Treasury to Thomas Crane, Esq., the sum of £4,000, to enable him to pay for such Saltpetre as has been or may be tendered to him, agreeable to the Resolves of the General Assembly, he, the said Crane, to be accountable to the General Court for the same.

Resolve to explain the Resolve of Court with respect to the price of a bounty on Saltpetre; passed JUNE 6, 1776.

Whereas it is represented that divers persons have manufactured Saltpetre within this Colony before the 1st day of June instant, and have the same ready to be delivered to the Commissary-General of this Colony, or to such other person or persons as were appointed by the Great and General Court to receive the same: And whereas doubts have arisen in the minds of many persons whether the bounty of 4s. a pound for Saltpetre manufactured but not delivered before the 1st day of June instant, ought to be now paid: It is

Resolved, That for all Saltpetre manufactured within this Colony before the 1st day of June instant, and which shall be delivered on or before the 30th day of June instant to the Commissary-General, or such other person or persons as are or may be appointed to receive the same, there shall be paid the sum of 4s. a pound as a bounty: Provided, That the person or persons bringing and presenting the same, to be delivered as aforesaid, before he entitles himself by this Resolve to receive the said bounty, shall, before the said Commissary-General, or such other person or persons as are or may be appointed to receive the same, take an oath in the words following, viz:

"You,, do solemnly swear, that the whole process of the manufacture of the Saltpetre now presented by you was begun, carried on, and finished within the limits of this Colony before the 1st day of June instant, and that no foreign Saltpetre, or Saltpetre manufactured since the said 1st day of June instant, is intermixed therewith."

Or otherwise shall produce a certificate from a Justice of the Peace in the County where the manufacturer is an inhabitant or resident, that he hath taken a like oath before the said Justice; in which case the person presenting the Saltpetre to be delivered as aforesaid shall, before he receives the said bounty of 4s. per pound on the same, make oath before the receiver thereof that he took the same Saltpetre into his possession in presence of said Justice; and that the whole thereof is the same Saltpetre referred to in such certificate; which certificate shall be lodged with the person or persons who are or may be appointed to receive the same, who are hereby severally authorized and directed to administer the said oaths.

And whereas doubts and difficulties may arise upon a Resolve of the Great and General Court, made and passed the 3d day of May last past, in the words following, viz: "That there be allowed and paid out of the Treasury of this Colony the sum of 5s. (inclusive of the 3s. before engaged) a pound for every pound of good and merchantable Saltpetre that shall be manufactured in this Colony from and after the 1st day of June next until the 1st day of October next, and delivered to such persons as the General Court shall appoint to receive the same:" To prevent which, it is further

Resolved, That said sum of 5s. per pound shall not be paid for any Saltpetre manufactured in this Colony between the said 1st day of June instant and the said 1st day of October next, unless the same Saltpetre shall be actually delivered before the said 1st day of October next, to such person or persons as are or may be appointed to receive the same.

*Resolve establishing a form of Beating Orders and Inlistment for raising three Companies of Matrosses; passed
JUNE 14, 1776.*

Resolved, That the form of the Beating Orders and Inlistment of three Companies of Matrosses, to be stationed at Gloucester, Falmouth, and the Gurnet in Plymouth, be as follows, viz:

Beating Orders.

"To . . . , Gentleman, greeting:

"SIR: You are hereby empowered immediately to inlist a Company of Matrosses, to consist of able-bodied and effective men, including Non-Commissioned Officers and Privates, and cause them to pass muster before as soon as possible; which Company of Matrosses, when inlisted and mustered, are to obey you as their Captain, and agreeable to a Resolve of this Court, the of June instant, are to be stationed at for the defence and security of the same."

Inlistment.

"We, the subscribers, do hereby engage to inlist ourselves as Matrosses in the service of the Massachusetts Colony, from the day of our inlistment to the last of December next, on the Sea-Coast establishment, unless the said service shall admit of a discharge of a part or the whole sooner, which is to be determined by the General Court of said Colony. And we do hereby oblige ourselves to submit to all orders and regulations of the Army, and faithfully to observe and obey all such orders as we shall from time to time receive from our superior Officers."

Resolve for supplying the Companies of Matrosses at Gloucester and Falmouth; passed JUNE 14, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissaries appointed to supply the men stationed at Gloucester and Falmouth, are hereby severally empowered and directed to supply the Companies of Artillery lately ordered to be raised for the defence of those towns, in the same manner as the sea-coast men, stationed in those places; and that the honourable Board grant their Warrant on the Treasurer for money to enable them so to do.

Mustermasters appointed, JUNE 14, 1776.

Ordered, That Colonel Peter Coffin muster the Company of Matrosses to be stationed at Gloucester; that Captain Joseph Noyes muster those to be stationed at Falmouth; and that Isaac Lothrop, Esq., muster those to be stationed on the Gurnet at Plymouth: also, that Major Whittemore sign the Beating Orders for raising the three Companies aforesaid.

Resolve on the Petition of THOMAS COOK, Esq.; passed JUNE 14, 1776.

On the Petition of Thomas Cook,

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, the sum of £31 6s. to the Town of Edgartown, on the Island of Martha's Vineyard, for their expenses in victualling large numbers of men, who at sundry times, between the 19th of April and the 1st of October, 1775, appeared on alarms to defend said Town and Island against the hostilities wherewith they were threatened by British men-of-war.

Resolve empowering WILLIAM WHITING, Esq., to receive a sum of Money of MARK HOPKINS, Esq., and to pay the same to General SCHUYLER; passed JUNE 14, 1776.

Whereas Timothy Edwards, Esq., of Stockbridge, was, on the 6th instant, by a Resolve of this Court, empowered to receive the sum of £1700, in Silver and Gold, of Mark Hopkins, Esq., in whose hands it was lodged by Eldad Taylor, Esq.; and was further empowered to convey and deliver the same to General Schuyler, for the use of the Army in Canada: And it having been represented to this Court, that the said Timothy Edwards is now out of the Colony, on a journey to Philadelphia; and it being of great importance that the money aforesaid should be forwarded to Canada as soon as possible: Therefore,

Resolved, That William Whiting, Esquire, of Great Barrington, be, and he hereby is, empowered to receive the money above referred to, of Mark Hopkins, Esquire, who is hereby empowered and directed to deliver him the same; and the said William Whiting, Esq., is further empowered and directed to convey and pay into the hands of General Schuyler the sum before mentioned as soon as may be, for the purpose aforesaid; and the said William Whiting is also empowered to receive of Henry Gardner, Esq., the Receiver-General of this Colony, the sum of £75, in Silver and Gold, and to convey and pay the same also into the hands of General Schuyler, for the purpose before mentioned; for which, together with the sum first mentioned, (which, added together, amount to the sum of £1775 lawful money,) he is directed to take duplicate receipts of General Schuyler, and return one of them into the Secretary's Office; and he is further directed to take such a Guard with him as he shall deem necessary.

Resolve on the Petition of LEWIS ALLEN, in behalf of his brother JOLLEY ALLEN; passed JUNE 14, 1776.

Resolved, That the prayer of the Petitioner be so far granted that he have liberty to take the seven children of the said Jolley Allen, for which he shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sales of the goods and effects of the said Jolley Allen £36 8s., lawful money, for the maintenance and support of the same: the Petitioner to give bonds in the sum of £100, that they shall not become chargeable to the community for any further support or maintenance; and that he shall receive and support the said Jolley Allen; and that he shall not depart the County of Worcester, or hold correspondence with any persons, knowing them to be enemies to the liberties of America, till the further order of this Court.

That Mr. Nye, Mr. Kendell, and Mr. Thomas, be a Committee to receive all the goods and effects of the said Jolley Allen that can be found, and deliver the Petitioner, at Boston, the children's four feather-beds and bedding, and the wearing apparel of the children and late wife of the said Jolley Allen, also his own wearing apparel; and the remainder of said goods and effects to be disposed of by said Committee, at publick auction; who are to pay the above sum of £36 8s. to the said Lewis Allen; also all necessary charges that have arisen or may arise in collecting and transporting said goods and effects; also the charges for supporting the said Jolley Allen and family at Provincetown, and to be accountable to the General Court for the same.

Resolve for adding an Ensign to, and supplying the Men stationed on the Gurnet in PLYMOUTH; passed JUNE 15, 1776.

Whereas the Company ordered by a Resolve of this Court to be raised and stationed on the Gurnet consists of one hundred men, and one-half of them are to be Matrosses, and but three commissioned Officers are appointed to said Company, which are not sufficient; and whereas no provision is made for the support of said Company:

It is Resolved, That there be one Ensign added to the other Officers, whose pay shall be the same as that of the Second Lieutenant on the sea-coast establishment. And that the Commissary appointed to supply the sea-coast Company, now at Plymouth, be empowered and directed, in the same manner, to supply the Company to be stationed on the Gurnet. And that the Council be desired to issue blank commissions to the Hon. James Warren, Esq., Isaac Lothrop, Esq., and George Partridge, Esq., to be given to such persons, for Officers, as in their discretion they, or the major part of them, shall judge most suitable.

Commissary-General directed to secure the Colony's Stores; passed JUNE 15, 1776.

Whereas sundry Stores and Implements belonging to the late Light-House, having been left by the British Troops on the Island upon which the said Light-House was erected:

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed immediately to take some effectual measures to secure the Stores and Implements before mentioned, as also any other Stores belonging to the Colony that may have been left by the enemy on any other Island in the Harbour of Boston.

Commissary-General and others appointed to receive and pay for Saltpetre; passed JUNE 15, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General, at his Store, and Zebediah Abbot, at the Powder-Mill at Andover, and Thomas Crane, Esq., at the Powder-Mill at Stoughton, be, and they hereby are, appointed and empowered, in behalf of this Colony, to receive, examine, and pay for all good and merchantable Saltpetre that shall be brought and actually delivered to them, respectively, before the 1st day of October next, with such evidence as is required by a Resolve of the General Court, of the 6th instant, that the same was manufactured within this Colony. And that there be paid to each of the above mentioned persons, out of the Treasury of this Colony, the sum of £1000, and the Treasurer is directed to pay the same accordingly, to enable them to pay for the same; they to be respectively accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for bringing forward all Causes which were pending at the Superior Court, &c.; passed JUNE 15, 1776.

Whereas, by reason of the difficulties raised in this Colony through the wicked designs of the enemies of our liberties, an interruption took place in the administration of civil distributive justice in this Colony, and, by a necessary act of the General Court for the removal of all officers from their offices, many civil suits, which have been before commenced in the several Counties of this Colony, and were pending at the Superior Court, and other actions which had been appealed from the respective Inferior Courts in the several Counties, have not been prosecuted to final judgment, and much injury will happen if an adequate remedy is not provided:

It is Resolved, That all causes which were pending at the Superior Court in any of said Counties, and on which judgment has not been given, shall be brought forward at the next term of the said Court for each respective County, and the same proceedings had thereon as though such causes had been regularly continued to such term, from the term where the same were pending when such interruption took place. And in any causes appealed from any Inferior Court, and not entered at the Superior Court, by reason of said interruption, the Appellants may have liberty, if they see cause, to enter their said appeal at the next term of the Superior Court, to be holden in each respective County, as though the appeal had been originally to the same term. And if any Appellants shall neglect to enter their appeals, as aforesaid, the Appellees in such case may, if they see cause, enter their complaints, and the judgments of the Inferior Court shall be affirmed thereon, as though said complaints had been entered in due time: Provided, always, That no Execution or Writ of Possession shall issue on any judgment given in any of the cases aforesaid, until three months after such judgment; and where any causes were tried by a Jury, the Justices of said Superior Court, in such causes, shall, and in all others where it shall appear to them to be expedient, may continue the same, and cause the absent parties to be notified of the suits against them; and where any of the party shall be out of the County, and in the Continental or Colonial service, they shall have liberty to bring forward their suits at the next Superior Court held in said County after their return, and no action or complaint shall be entered against them while such person continues in said service, any law, usage, or custom, to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolve on the Petition of WILLIAM TUPPER, respecting Captures; passed JUNE 17, 1776.

Whereas it is provided, by a certain Act of the General Assembly of this Colony, that every person who shall make capture of any Vessel, shall, within twenty days from the 15th of April last, or within twenty days after the capture and bringing in of said Vessel, either by himself, his agent, or attorney, file a bill before the Judge appointed to try the justice of such capture, giving a full and ample account of the time, manner, and cause of the taking of such Vessel: And whereas captures of several Vessels have been made within the Eastern District of this Colony, or may have been made at sea and brought to any port within the Eastern District of this Colony, which could not be proceeded with agreeable to the requisition in said Act: Wherefore,

Resolved, That bills of the captures of all Vessels, their apparatus and cargoes, which captures have been already made within the Eastern District of this Colony, or made at sea and brought to any port within the Eastern District of this Colony, hitherto not filed before the Judge appointed to try the justice of such captures, may and shall be filed before said Judge, on any day preceding the first day of August next, anything in the aforesaid Act, made for the trial of the justice of such captures, notwithstanding.

Resolve to supply the Town of HINGHAM with Powder, &c.; passed JUNE 17, 1776.

Whereas there is a Cannon provided at Hingham, at the charge of the Town, for the defence of the Harbour:

Resolved, That two half-barrels of Powder and twenty Shot—viz: six-pounders—be delivered to the Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Hingham by the Commissary-General, said Committee to give a receipt to the Commissary, to be accountable for the same.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, unto Colonel John Robertson, for himself and Staff and Field Officers mentioned in his Abstract, the sum of £11 6s.; also, for Captain John Ford the sum of £47 1s.; and for Captain John Lemont the sum of £26 3s. 7d.; and for Captain Asahel Wheeler the sum of £51 5s.; and Captain Benjamin Edgell the sum of £15 13s. 9½d.

Resolve to prevent the exportation of Provisions till the 10th November next; passed JUNE 19, 1776.

Whereas many inconveniences and dangerous consequences may, and in all probability will, accrue to this Colony in the course of its defence against its unnatural enemies, if a speedy and effectual prohibition of the exportation of Provisions from each and every Port, Harbour, and place within the same, to any other Harbour or place without the limits of the said Colony, is not immediately effected: Wherefore, it is

Resolved, That from and after the 21st day of this instant June, no person or persons whatsoever presume to lade on board any ship or vessel within this Colony any kinds or articles of Provisions, except Jamaica and Pickled Fish, with intent to convey the same out of this Colony by water, until the 10th day of November next, unless the same be laden on board such ship or vessel with intent to supply the fleets and armies of the United Colonies, or the inhabitants of some other part or parts of this Colony: Provided, always, That any person or persons who have, agreeably to, and in consequence of, a resolve of the American Congress for encouraging the importation of warlike stores into the United Colonies, imported any such stores, and have not already exported Provisions or other Merchandise to the amount thereof, or may hereafter import such stores, such person or persons may lade on board any ship or vessel, and convey and send out of this Colony to any other place, except to the dominions of Great Britain, any kind of Provisions to the amount or value of such warlike stores, imported as aforesaid: Provided, also, That nothing in this resolve shall be construed to extend to the preventing so much Provisions as in the judgment of the Committee of Safety, &c., may be sufficient for the persons on board for the intended voyage, being put on board any ship or other vessel arriving at, trading with, or sailing from, any port, harbour, or other place in this Colony, such voyage not being prohibited by any resolve of Congress, or law or resolve of this Colony. And the Committees of Safety, &c., in the several Towns and other places within this Colony are hereby ordered and directed to see that this resolve be effectually carried into execution.

Resolve on the Petition of GILBERT HARRISON; passed JUNE 19, 1776.

On the Petition of Gilbert Harrison, showing his right to claim the property of certain goods on board the Schooner Volante, lately condemned in the Maritime Court held at Plymouth, and the impossibility of making that claim in the time by law prescribed:

Resolved, That the Judge in said Court and the captors stay all further proceedings on said condemnation, and that the said Gilbert Harrison be allowed to file his claim on the goods aforesaid, before the said Judge, within five days after the passing this resolve; and that thereupon the said Judge notify the trial of said claim in like manner as original trials of captures are by law to be notified, and that the said Judge be served with a copy of this resolve.

Resolve for supplying Colonels MARSHALL's, WHITNEY's, and CRAFT's Regiments with Medicines; passed JUNE 20, 1776.

Whereas application has been made to this Court requesting that the three Regiments now in the service of this Colony, viz: Marshall's, Whitney's, and Craft's, be supplied from time to time with such Medicines as may be necessary for the sick and wounded: Therefore,

Resolved, That Dr. John Greenleaf, of Boston, be requested to supply the chief Surgeon of such Regiments respectively, with such Medicines as may be necessary for the sick and wounded aforesaid, during the continuance of said Regiments in or near Boston; that he be directed to take the Surgeons' receipts for all such Medicines as he may deliver, and that he exhibit his Accounts to this Court for payment. And the said Surgeons, before they shall be empowered to receive of the said Greenleaf any such Medicines as aforesaid, shall take an oath before some Justice of the Peace, that all the Medicines that he shall receive of the said Greenleaf, for the purposes aforesaid, shall be used for the sick and wounded persons in the Regiment to which he is Surgeon, and that he will account with the General Court of this Colony for all such Medicines as shall remain in his hands, after his being discharged as Surgeon of said Regiment; and the said Surgeons are required to produce a certificate from a Justice of the Peace of their being sworn to the faithful discharge of the aforesaid trust, before the said Greenleaf shall be empowered to deliver them any such Medicines as aforesaid.

Commissary-General directed to receive all the Powder due from the Continent; JUNE 21, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to receive all such Powder as is due to this Colony from the Continent, and to give his discharge therefor in behalf of this Colony.

Resolve for supplying the several Towns with Powder; passed JUNE 21, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and hereby is, directed to deliver out of the Colony Store to each of those Towns that have lent Powder to the Colony, such quantity as may to them respectively remain due, and to pay reasonable charges for transportation of the same; and that there be paid to said Commissary, out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, the sum of £20 for that purpose, he to account therefor with this Court; the Selectmen of such Towns leaving with the said Commissary those receipts whereby they support their claim to such Powder, and also certifying that they have not received recompense therefor.

It is further Resolved, That each Town and unincorporated Plantation in this Colony, not having such a quantity of Powder in their publick stock as will furnish the men borne on the Training-Band and Alarm-Lists with half a pound to each man, be allowed to purchase, at either of the Powder-Mills in this Colony, so much Powder as will make up the quantity aforesaid, which shall be sold to the Selectmen of said Towns, or Committees of unincorporated Plantations, (as fast as it can be spared,) at 5s. per pound; said Selectmen and Committees respectively certifying to the keeper of such Powder-Mill the number of men borne on the Lists aforesaid, together with the whole Powder they have in stock—preference being given to Sea-Coast Towns and unincorporated Plantations adjoining the Sea, when more apply than can be supplied.

Resolve relative to delinquent Collectors; passed JUNE 21, 1776.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed immediately to give notice in the publick Prints, that all Collectors of Taxes or Constables that are delinquent in paying the several sums committed to them to collect from the year 1769 to the year 1774, inclusively, pay him the several sums due from them immediately; and that he issue out his Execution against all such Collectors or Constables as shall neglect to pay the same after the last day of August next.

Resolve relative to Dr. STOCKBRIDGE and others, and Persons who, having fled to HALIFAX, &c., shall return to this Colony; passed JUNE 21, 1776.

Resolved, That Dr. Benjamin Stockbridge, John Tilden, Ephraim Little, John Baker, Elisha Ford, Sylvanus White, and Cornelius White, remain under confinement in Plymouth Jail, at their own cost and charge, until the further order of this Court; and that Nathaniel Garnet, Warren White, Stephen Tilden, and Joseph Tilden, be put under the care of the Committees of Correspondence for the Towns of Scituate, Pembroke, and Marblehead, to be by them put out to labour to some proper person or persons, who live remote from the sea-coast, and there to remain within the limits of such Towns where they shall be placed, until they shall be discharged by order of this Court, or to enlist on board some armed Vessel fitted out by this Colony or Continent, for the defence of the same; and that Joseph Younk, a minor, be ordered by the aforesaid Committee to return to his father in the Town of Scituate, his said father giving them bonds for his said son's future good behaviour.

And it is further Resolved, That those persons who have been inimical to the liberties of this Colony and the Continent of America, and have fled to Halifax, or elsewhere, in order to join the British Army, that on their arrival into any Port or Town within this Colony, the Committee of Correspondence in the Town or Towns where they shall so come, be, and they are hereby, directed and empowered to take them up and confine them immediately in any Jail within the same County; and the keeper or under-keepers of any of the Jails within this Colony are directed to receive them by orders from the Committees of Correspondence where they are taken up, and them safely keep till further orders of this Court; and the said Committee or Committees are directed to inform this Court of their proceedings.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Thomas Durfee, Esq., out of the Colony Stores now at Dartmouth, in the care of Mr. Lemuel Williams, 4 Cannon, (four-pounders,) 14 Swivel-Guns, 12 Blunderbusses, 80 Cutlasses, 2,000 pounds of Gunpowder, one ton and a half of four-pound Shot, 600 Swivel-Gun Shot, 70 Hand-Grenades, 60 Small-Arms, and 700 pounds of Sheet-Lead, for the use of the Brig called the Rising Empire.

Resolve on the Return made to the Court by Major BARACHIAH BASSET; passed JUNE 22, 1776.

Whereas the four Cannon mentioned in said Return are proper for the sea service, and the armed Brig belonging to this Colony at Dartmouth is in want of the same, and with them can proceed on a cruise: Therefore,

Resolved, That Thomas Durfee, Esq., one of the Committee for fitting out the said Brig, be, and he hereby is, empowered and directed to cause the said Cannon forthwith to be removed and put on board said Brig, and the said Committee are also directed to get the said Brig in readiness for a cruise as soon as may be.

Also Resolved, That in lieu of the said four Cannon, there be placed at Tarpaulin-Cove Harbour two pieces of Cannon, (nine-pounders;) and the Commissary-General is hereby directed to deliver the same to Mr. Durfee, or his order, to be conveyed to Major Basset; and also to deliver one hundred and nine pounds weight of Shot, together with Ladles and the necessary apparatus for the said two Cannon, and that the said Basset cause the same to be fitted and mounted as soon as may be for the defence of said Harbour.

And it is also Resolved, That the Hon. Walter Spooner, Esq., be, and hereby is, directed and empowered to provide ten old Whale-Boats, that are fit to be used for the protection of the neighbouring Islands and the shipping coming in and going out, and also purchase twelve Shovels, six Spades, and four Pick-Axes, the same to be for the use of said Basset and men under his command in the services aforesaid; and the said Walter Spooner, Esq., is directed to lay his account before this Court for payment thereof.

Additional Resolve relative to supplying the three Colonial Regiments with Medicines; passed JUNE 22, 1776.

Whereas, by a Resolve of this Court of the 19th current, directing how several Regiments raised by this Colony shall be supplied with Medicines, among other things it is resolved that all the Medicines that shall be received by the Surgeons of said Regiments shall be used for the sick and wounded persons in the Regiment to which he is Surgeon, which may be attended with some inconvenience in cases of necessity, and put said Surgeons to unnecessary trouble: Therefore,

Resolved, That when it shall so happen that any of the aforesaid Surgeons shall be called to give his assistance or advice for any sick or wounded person or persons in either of said Regiments, and he should find it necessary to make use of some of the Medicines delivered for the Regiment to which he is Surgeon, in such case he is directed to make use of such Medicines as are necessary, in the same manner he could if the sick or wounded person or persons belonged to the Regiment to which he is Surgeon; and in case it should at any time appear necessary to either of said Surgeons to make use of any Medicines for immediate relief of any person belonging to the Continental Army, he is directed to make use of the same, he keeping an account of all such Medicines as he shall make use of for the sick and wounded in said Army.

And it is further Resolved, That instead of the oath required to be taken by the Resolve afore recited, the Surgeon of each Regiment shall make oath before some Justice of the Peace that the Medicines he shall receive of Doctor Greenleaf shall be applied agreeable to the Resolves of this Court.

Resolve making provision for the Families of such Tories as have left the Colony; passed JUNE 25, 1776.

Whereas a Resolve passed this Court, dated the 19th of April, 1776, directing the Committee of Correspondence, &c., in this Colony, to lease out the Real Estates of Tories who have fled to the British Fleet or Army for protection, and to take an Inventory of their Personal Estates, &c., wherein no provision is made for their families which are left on those Estates, whereby great expenses may accrue to the Towns to which they respectively belong:

It is therefore Resolved, That the Committees of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, in those Towns in this Colony wherein there are Estates which, in pursuance of said Resolve, come under their cognisance, be, and they hereby are, directed to allow to the families of those enemies to their country, described in said resolve, so much of the improvement of said Estates as, in their opinion, is necessary, together with the industry of said families, for their comfortable support, and account with this Court, as by said resolve is provided; and the Selectmen (or Overseers of the Poor, where such are appointed) are hereby empowered to bind out the children of such Tories, in like manner as they are by law empowered to bind out the Poor of their Towns.

And it is further Resolved, That the Committees aforesaid be, and they are hereby, empowered to dispose of any perishable goods belonging to said Estates, and which are otherwise in danger of being lost, for the most they will sell for.

Resolve for raising one hundred Men, to be stationed at MARTHA'S VINEYARD; passed JUNE 25, 1776.

Resolved, That there be raised on the Sea-Coast Establishment, in addition to the Companies stationed at Martha's Vineyard, one Company of one hundred Men, to be inlisted from the main, and to serve till the last day of December next, unless sooner discharged by order of this Court; and that one piece of Cannon (a six-pounder now at Elizabeth Islands) be removed from thence, and placed at Martha's Vineyard, and that they be supplied with two nine-pounders now at Boston; and that the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver the same to Joseph Mayhew, Esquire, or order, and also for the use of the Cannon and Men, stationed at the Vineyard, four barrels of Powder, forty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and three hundred weight of Leaden Balls; he, the said Mayhew, to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for raising five thousand Men, to coöperate with the Continental Troops at CANADA and NEW-YORK; passed JUNE 25, 1776.

As the unrelenting spirit which possesses the King and Parliament of Britain has pushed them to leave no measures unessayed to accomplish our destruction, and, with infinite disgrace to themselves, are about to pour in upon us a number of foreign Troops, with intent, this year, to decide the contest, and to enslave us forever; and as such a manly and brave resistance, as, with the smiles of Heaven, we are able to make, will, in all human probability, utterly defeat their haughty and unrighteous designs, and establish our liberty; the Honourable American Congress have called upon this Colony for five thousand of its Militia, to coöperate with the Continental Troops at Canada and New-York; and as it is absolutely necessary that a proper number of men should be reserved for the defence of the sea-coasts against the attacks which may be made upon them, it renders it unavoidable that the levies should be made on the Towns least exposed to invasion from the sea; and although the numbers are large, yet the exertions now called for are to be disregarded when compared to the great and noble objects for which we are contending: this Court, therefore, have the fullest assurance that their brethren, upon this occasion, will not confer with flesh and blood; but being convinced of the necessity of the measure, will, without hesitancy, and with the utmost alacrity and despatch, fill up the numbers proportioned on the respective Towns, and in that case we shall have the highest prospect of defeating the bloody designs of our unjust and cruel adversaries. We derive the greatest confidence from the spirited and distinguished part our constituents have taken upon all important occasions. We flatter ourselves that a noble defence this campaign will put an end to the war. Everything, therefore, calls for their exertions on this occasion; not only the safety of their wives, children, and properties, but the security of the rights of the present and future generations: Therefore,

Resolved, That the five thousand men from the Militia of this Colony, requested by Congress to be immediately raised and marched for reinforcing the Army in Canada and in New-York, be raised from the Militia on the Alarm and Training-Band Lists of the several Towns, and in the several proportions expressed in the schedule hereto annexed; and that those that are proportioned on the several Towns in the Counties of Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex, Hampshire, York, and Cumberland, be destined and march for Canada; and that those which are proportioned on the several Towns in the Counties of Plymouth, Bristol, Worcester, and Berkshire, be destined and march for New-York. And that each man furnish himself with a good Firearm, and Bayonet fitted to the same, or, instead of a Bayonet, a Hatchet or Tomahawk, a Cartouch-Box, Knapsack, and Blanket; and for their encouragement readily to enter into the service of their country on this pressing exigency of affairs, there shall be paid to each non-commissioned Officer and private Soldier destined for Canada, at the time of his passing muster, £7; and to each non-commissioned Officer and private Soldier destined for New-York, at the time of his passing muster, £3—the better to enable him to furnish and prepare himself for the service on so sudden a call; and 6s. for the use of the Arms of each non-commissioned Officer and private Soldier destined to either of the places aforesaid, and 12s. to purchase a Blanket, and one month's advance pay on his passing muster, equipped as aforementioned.

And it is further Resolved, That Jonathan Metcalf, Esq., Benjamin Guild, Esq., Colonel Aaron Davis, Nathaniel Bailey, Esq., and Mr. Daniel Perry, be a Committee to go into the County of Suffolk; and that Aaron Wood, Esq., Major Samuel Epes, Mr. Nehemiah Abbott, Colonel Daniel Spafford, and Dudley Carlton, Esq., be a Committee to go into the County of Essex; and that Jonas Dix, Esq., Major Timothy Walker, Colonel Josiah Sartel, Colonel Simcon Spaulding, Mr. George Brigham, Captain Joseph Hosmer, Colonel Jonathan Reed, Colonel William Thompson, and Josiah Stone, Esq., be a Committee to go into the County of Middlesex; and that Joseph Hawley, Esq., Noah Good- man, Esq., Major William Pincheon, Jun., Mr. David Saxton, Mr. Luke Hitchcock, and Captain Israel Hubbard, be a Committee to go into the County of Hampshire; and that William Drew, Esq., Hugh Orr, Esq., Colonel Mitchell, Colonel Ebenezer White, and Captain Robert Lenthal Eels, be a Committee to go into the County of Plymouth; and that Captain John Stevens, Colonel Shubael Peck, and Colonel Nathaniel Leonard, be a Committee to go into the County of Bristol; and that Captain Seth Washburn, Captain Nathaniel Wilson, Mr. Abner Rawson, Captain William Page, Amos Singletary, Esq., Mr. John Ball, Captain John Haven, Captain Nicholas Dyke, and Major William Learned, be a Committee to go into the County of Worcester; and that Mr. Azariah Root, Major Caleb Hyde, and Captain Isaac Stratton, be a Committee to go into the County of Berkshire; and that Joseph Storer, Esq., and Colonel Ichabod Goodwin, be a Committee to go into the County of York; and that Captain Joseph Noyes be a Committee to go into the County of Cumberland; whose business it shall be to endeavour to have the inlistments of the men apportioned by this Resolve on the several Counties made without delay, to form the men into Companies, to muster and pay them their bounty, and for the use of their arms, and blanket money, and for one month's advance pay, and to appoint meet persons for Captains and Subalterns of the Companies to be raised in their respective Counties; the non-commissioned Officers to be appointed by the respective Captains and Subalterns; no man to pass muster without being equipped as aforesaid.

And it is further Resolved, That this Court, as soon as may be, proceed to the choice of two Brigadiers as recommended by Congress, and of the Field-Officers for the several Battalions.

And it is further Resolved, That there be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony to the said Committees, to enable them to pay the Bounty aforesaid, and for the Blankets, and for the use of the Arms, and for a month's advance pay, to non-commissioned Officers and private Soldiers, the several sums following, viz:

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Suffolk, the sum of £4,190.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Essex, the sum of £4,280.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Middlesex, the sum of £10,070.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Hampshire, the sum of £7,100.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of York, the sum £965.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Cumberland, the sum of £365.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Plymouth, the sum of £2,120.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Bristol, the sum of £2,020.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Worcester, the sum of £6,380.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Berkshire, the sum of £1,400.

Each of said Committees to be accountable for the sum they shall severally receive.

It is further Resolved, That the pay and establishment of these Forces shall be the same as for those in the Continental service; that they be engaged to the first day of December next, unless sooner discharged by Congress; that their pay commence three days next preceding the day of their marching from home; and that they be allowed one penny, lawful money, a mile, in lieu of rations, for travelling expenses, and one day's pay for every twenty miles between home and the general rendezvous, going and returning.

It is further Resolved, That Edward Mitchell, Esq., Theophilus Cushing, Esq., and William Drew, Esq., be a Committee to provide suitable Camp-Kettles or Pots, and Canteens or Wooden Bottles, and transport them to suitable places, for the accommodation of the Troops.

And be it further Resolved, That the Committees to go into the several Counties receive Blank Commissions, to fill up and deliver to such Captains and Subalterns as they shall appoint.

And it is further Resolved, That the men to be raised and destined for Canada, be formed into four Battalions, of nearly seven hundred and fifty men each, including Officers, and each Battalion to consist of eight Companies; each Company of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drum, and one Fife, and as near as may be of seventy-nine Privates. And that the men to be raised and destined for New-York be formed into three Battalions, each to consist, as near as may be, of six hundred and sixty-six men, including Officers; and also each Battalion to consist of eight Companies, and each Company of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and as near as may be of sixty-nine Privates. And the several Militia Officers in the several Counties are hereby required to afford their utmost aid to the said Committees in raising the men aforesaid, by calling together the men under their command, and in any other way the said Committees shall request.

And it is further Resolved, That the four Battalions destined to Canada shall be constituted in the manner following, that is to say: The first of said Battalions of all the men to be raised in the County of Suffolk, and of all the men to be raised in the following Towns in the County of Middlesex, viz: Cambridge, Watertown, Charlestown, Medford, Malden, Waltham, Sherburne, Hopkinton, Holliston, and Natick; and the second of said Battalions shall be constituted of all the men to be raised in the Counties of Essex, York, and Cumberland; and the third of said Battalions shall be constituted of all the men to be raised in the County of Middlesex, except the Towns in the same County joined with the County of Suffolk, as above expressed; and that the fourth of the said Battalions shall be constituted of all the men to be raised in the County of Hampshire.

And it is further Resolved, That the three Battalions destined to New-York shall be constituted in the manner following, that is to say: The first of the said Battalions of all the men to be raised in the Counties of Plymouth and Bristol; and the second of the said Battalions shall be constituted of all the men to be raised in the several Towns in the County of Worcester, excepting the Towns hereinafter named; and the third of the said Battalions shall be constituted of all the men to be raised in the County of Berkshire, and the following Towns in the County of Worcester, viz: Lancaster, Bolton, Harvard, Mendon, Upton, Southborough, Grafton, Northborough, Westborough, Shrewsbury, Lunenburg, and Leominster.

And it is further Resolved, That the several Battalions which shall be raised agreeably to, or in consequence of the foregoing Resolves, shall march to their respective places of destination by such routes as may be ordered by the General Assembly of this Colony; and in case no order is made for that purpose by the General Assembly, then by such routes as the Council of this Colony, or the major part of them, shall order and direct.

Also Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, to the Committee appointed to procure Camp-Kettles, &c., the sum of £400, to enable them to purchase those articles, to pay for their transportation, and any other charges that may attend their doing said business; and that said Committee duly account with this Court for the expenditure of the sum or sums which they may receive for the purpose before mentioned.

Resolve for applying part of the Moneys appropriated to the purchase of Flour to pay for Tents; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Whereas the risk of importing Flour from the Southern Colonies is greatly increased: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee appointed by the late General Court to import ten thousand barrels of Flour, &c., be, and they are hereby, directed so far to countermand their orders to Messrs. Mifflin & Barrell, for purchasing said ten thousand barrels of Flour, as to direct them not to purchase any more of that article, except the six thousand and sixty-one barrels already purchased.

It is further Resolved, That the said Committee be, and they are hereby, directed to order that so much of the Money that was appropriated to pay for said Flour, &c., as will be sufficient to pay for one thousand Tents, (which are purchased at Philadelphia, on account of this Colony, by order of the Commissary-General,) be applied for that purpose.

Resolve for signing Bills of publick Credit; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Ordered, That Abraham Fuller, Esq., Captain Samuel Carlton, Stephen Hall, tertius, Esq., Mr. George Partridge, Jonathan Brown, Esq., John Pitts, Esq., Mr. Samuel Allyne Otis, Dr. Moses Gunn, Tristram Dalton, Esq., Mr. Abner Ellis, Joseph Nye, Esquire, of Harwick, Edward Wigglesworth, Esq., Benjamin Mills, Esq., Israel Hobart, Esquire, George Williams, Esq., and Caleb Davis, Esq., be a Committee to sign and number the Bills of Credit of the present emission.

Resolve for the Commissary-General to purchase Tents; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to purchase the materials for five hundred Tents, and have them made at the expense and for the use of this Colony; and the honourable Council are hereby empowered to grant their Warrant on the Treasury for a sum of money sufficient to pay for the same.

Resolve for procuring Hard Money; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Whereas repeated applications have been made by the honourable Congress to this Court to procure a sum of Hard Money to be forthwith sent into Canada for the support of our Army in that quarter, and have sent us Continental Bills to be exchanged for said Hard Money, but this Court have not been able as yet to procure more than £2,000 of the £30,000 required by Congress; and whereas it appears to this Court necessary to the carrying on the Canadian expedition with success, that our Army in that quarter be supplied with Hard Money without delay: Therefore,

Resolved, That it be, and hereby is, recommended to the friends of America in the several Towns in this Colony, (as they regard the success of our arms, and would prevent the Canadian-French and Savages from joining our more savage British enemy, to harass and distress our frontiers, and to make inroads into this and the neighbouring Colonies,) that they sign subscription papers, purporting what sum in Hard Money each man is willing to exchange for Continental Bills. And the Committees of Correspondence, &c., in the several Towns aforesaid, to whose patriotism and unwearied exertions in their country's cause these Colonies are so much indebted, are hereby further called upon to procure subscriptions as aforesaid in their respective Towns, without delay, and transmit such subscriptions to this Court, in order that the amount of said subscriptions may be sent to said Committees in Bills to be exchanged; and that the names of those worthy members of society who are disposed to assist their distressed country in this critical day, may be publicly known.

Resolve for paying the Delegates of this Colony at Congress four hundred Dollars each; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committee appointed by the General Court to purchase and import Flour and Rice, for the use of this Colony, be, and they hereby are, directed to order $400 to be paid to each of the honourable Delegates of this Colony at Congress, out of the money appropriated for the purchasing of said Flour; they to account with this Court for the same.

Resolve for appointing Staff Officers for the Regiments destined to CANADA, &c.; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Resolved, That one Chaplain, Surgeon, Surgeon's Mate, Adjutant and Quartermaster, be appointed for each of the four Regiments raising for Canada, and the three Regiments destined for New-York; and that the pay and allowance to the officers aforesaid be agreeable to the Continental establishment.

Also Resolved, That the Committees of the General Court, appointed to give out Commissions to the Captains and Subalterns of the foregoing Regiments, be severally empowered and directed to deliver Commissions or Warrants to such persons for Staff Officers as the Field Officers of their respective Regiments shall recommend to be most suitable for the services aforesaid.

Resolve for providing Canteens and Camp Kettles; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committee appointed by this House to provide Canteens and Kamp-Kettles for the Troops to be raised, destined for Canada and New-York, be and hereby are directed to provide one Canteen for each Soldier, and five hundred Tin Kettles, if to be obtained, for the use of the Troops destined for Canada; and also three hundred and thirty-three Kettles of Tin for the Troops destined for New-York, if to be had; otherwise that they procure Iron ones; to be delivered at the following places, and in the subsequent proportions, viz: At Medfield, 75 Kettles and 448 Canteens, for the County of Suffolk. At Haverhill, 101 Kettles, and 601 Canteens, for Essex, York, and Cumberland. At Westford, 178 Kettles, and 1070 Canteens, for Middlesex. At Rehoboth, 123 Kettles, and 742 Canteens, for Plymouth and Bristol. At Brookfield, 189 Kettles, and 1136 Canteens, for Worcester. At Pittsfield, 44 Kettles, and 261 Canteens, for Berkshire. At Northampton, 67 Kettles and 374 Canteens, and at Hadley, 67 Kettles and 374 Canteens, for Hampshire.

And it is further Resolved, That the above-mentioned

Camp Kettles and Canteens be deposited with the under-named persons, to be by them delivered to the Troops, taking their receipts therefor, viz: Those for Medfield, to Eleazer Wheelock; those for Haverhill, to Isaac Reddington; those for Westford, to Captain Joseph Reed; those for Rehoboth, to Mr. Ephraim Starkweather; those for Pittsfield, to Captain ——— Bush; those for Northampton, to Mr. Robert Brick; those for Hadley, to Major John Chester Williams; those for Brookfield, to David Hitchcock; and that those persons be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for paying Captain WILLIAM SCOTT and Men; passed JUNE 27, 1776.

Whereas a Resolve passed this Court in March and April last, ordering the sum of £14 15s. to be paid out of the publick Treasury to Captain William Scott, and the Officers and Soldiers in his Company, for the losses sustained by said Company at Chelsea and Bunker Hill, to each of said Officers and men, the several sums set to their names; and it appearing to this Court that the sums amount to £19 15s.: Therefore,

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony to Captain William Scott, for the use of the officers and men mentioned in the Return on which the said Resolve passed, the several sums set to their names respectively; said sums amounting in the whole to £19 15s.: Provided, That he shall not be entitled to receive anything in consequence of this Resolve for any person who has received the sum intended to have been allowed him by the Resolve aforesaid.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony £2 3s. 6d., in full for the above-mentioned Account, to the Selectmen of Sandwich.

Resolve on the Petition from the Town of CHARLTON; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

On the Petition of the Town of Charlton,

Resolved, That the prayer of said Petition be so far granted, that the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, for said Town, be, and they are hereby, empowered and directed to make division, with the Honourable Samuel Danforth, Esq., and others, of any Lands lying in common, or undivided, in the Town of Charlton, where the said William Brown, of Salem, a Mandamus Counsellor, is interested, in any lawful way that they shall be able; and when said Brown's interest is ascertained, they, the said Committee, to take care of the same, and see that no strip or waste is made on said land, until the further order of this Court.

Resolve appointing Signers to Bills of Publick Credit; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Ordered, That Mr. Warwick Palfrey, Mr. Henry Hill, and Colonel Samuel Thatcher, be of the Committee to sign the Bills of Credit in the room of Mr. Nye, Mr. Pitts, and Mr. Mills, excused.

Resolve for supplying MARBLEHEAD with Cannon, &c.; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That four forty-two-pounders and two twelve-pounders be supplied for the Town and Harbour of Marblehead; and that the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver the same to Mr. Joshua Orne, or his order, (provided they are not under improvement in any fortification in Boston or Nantasket Harbour,) and that the said Orne fix and prepare the same for use; and the Commissary-General is also directed to deliver to the said Orne forty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and also for two twenty-four-pounders now at Marblehead, and one thousand pounds of Gunpowder—he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for supplying the Town of SALEM with Cannon, &c.; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That two twenty-four or eighteen-pounders, and two nine-pounders, be supplied for the Town and Harbour of Salem; and that the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver the same to Captain George Williams, or order, (provided they are not under improvement in any fortification in Boston or Nantasket Harbour;) and that he, the said Williams, fix and prepare the same for use; and the Commissary-General is also directed to deliver to the said Williams, or his order, forty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and also for one eighteen-pounder now at Salem, and eight hundred weight of Gunpowder—he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for supplying the Town of BEVERLY with Cannon, &c.; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Captain Josiah Batchelder, or his order, for the use of the Town of Beverly, four pieces of Cannon, nine-pounders, (provided they are not under improvement in any fortification in Boston or Nantasket Harbour;) and that he, the said Batchelder, fix and prepare the same for use; and the Commissary is also directed to deliver to the said Batchelder, or his order, forty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and five hundred weight of Gunpowder—he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for supplying the Town of NEWBURYPORT with Cannon, and for raising two Companies to be stationed there; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That the Town of Newburyport be supplied with three pieces of Cannon out of those in and about Boston, one forty-two-pounder, and two twenty-four or eighteen-pounders, one found, (provided they are not under improvement in any of the fortifications in Boston or Nantasket Harbour;) the other with one or both trunnions off, with necessary apparatus, in lieu of six nine-pounders before granted by this Court, for the use of that Town; and that the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver the same to Captain Edward Wigglesworth, or order, as also twenty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and forty rounds of Shot for ten nine-pounders now at Newburyport, and three hundred weight of Gunpowder for the use of Newburyport—he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

And it is further Resolved, That one Company of fifty men, including Officers, be raised on the sea-coast establishment, for the defence of said Town; and also one Company of Matrosses, on the same establishment, to consist of fifty men, including Officers, to manage the Cannon there.

Resolve on the Petition of EDWARD PERRY; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

On the Petition of Edward Perry,

Resolved, That the said Edward Perry be released from his present confinement to the Town of Sturbridge, and that he be permitted to return to Portsmouth, in New-Hampshire, at his own expense, to settle and adjust his private affairs there—he giving his parole of honour to the Selectmen of Sturbridge, that he will abide by this Resolve, and not hold any correspondence with any of the Officers of either the Fleet or Army of Great Britain, or aid, assist, or abet said Fleet or Army in any way or manner whatever. And we would recommend to the Committee of Correspondence and Safety of the Town of Portsmouth, to take him under their inspection and direction for the future; and that the said Committee be furnished with a copy of this Resolve.

Resolve for a grant of fifty Pounds, for the Committee to purchase Camp-Kettles; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Whereas the £400 ordered by this Court to be put into the hands of Colonel Mitchell and others, a Committee appointed to procure Camp-Kettles, &c., for the Army, appears to be not sufficient for that purpose:

It is Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony to the Committee aforesaid, the further sum of £50, to enable them to complete the business of their commission—the said Committee to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for paying Captain MITCHELL's Men; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony to Reuben Higgins, the sum of £4, for the use of the Committee of Truro, to purchase six hundred weight of Cannon Ball, and that the said Reuben Higgins be accountable to this Court for the same.

Route of the Troops destined to CANADA and NEW-YORK; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That all the Troops that are destined by this Colony for Canada march to Crown-Point, by the way of Number-Four, and from thence in the most direct way to Lake Champlain, opposite to Ticonderoga, and that they receive their rations at Number-Four; that the Companies destined to New-York (except in the County of Berkshire) march through the Town of New-Haven, and there receive their rations, and then proceed in the most direct road to New-York; and that all the Troops raised in the County of Berkshire march in the most direct way, by land, to New-York, and there receive their allowance for travel; and that all said Troops march in Companies, as soon as they are ready, under the direction of their Officers; and that a letter be sent to General Schuyler, and also one to Commissary Trumbull, informing them of this Resolution.

Resolve for supplying THOMAS CUSHING, Esq., with Lead; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to the Hon. Thomas Cushing, Esq., or order, the amount of fifteen hundred weight of Lead, for the use of the Continental Vessels by him building, he paying for the same the amount of what Lead now sells for.

Resolve on the Account of JOHN BRADBURY, Esq., Treasurer of YORK; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That John Bradbury, Esq., Treasurer of the County of York, be, and he hereby is, discharged of the sum of £50 19s. 11d., for sundry payments made, as by his account, and that he be accountable to the said County for the further sum of £67 5s. 1d., which appears to be the balance due from him to said County as Treasurer.

Resolve for paying the Selectmen of GLOUCESTER; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony unto the Selectmen of Gloucester £7 15s., in full of their Account.

Resolve for paying the Selectmen of GLOUCESTER for billeting Men; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony to the Selectmen of Gloucester the sum of £15 2s. 6d., in full for the Account of billeting forty-seven men nine days, at 5s. per week.

Resolve for supplying the Town of CAPE-ELIZABETH with Cannon, &c.; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That the Town of Cape-Elizabeth be allowed four pieces of Cannon, now in and about Boston, with one or both trunnions off, viz: two of twelve-pounders and two of nine-pounders; and the Commissary-General of this Colony is hereby required to deliver the same, with apparatus, to Mr. James Leach, or order, for the use of the said Town, and also forty rounds of Shot for each of said Cannon, and four barrels of Gunpowder, he, the said James Leach, to be accountable to this Court for the same. And he is desired to get the Cannon properly fixed.

Resolve on the Petition of JERATHMEEL BOWERS, Esq., and others; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Whereas, by reason of the unhappy disputes which subsisted in the Town of Swansey, the inhabitants of that Town in the month of March last formed themselves into two parties, each of which assembled and chose such Town Officers as are by law directed to be chosen in the month of March annually; and as each party supposed they were acting agreeable to the rules of law, they did not respectively attend the meeting of the other party, so that such Officers must have been in each case partially chosen; and as it appears to be conducive to the peace and welfare of said Town that the Officers so chosen at such partial meeting should be all of them disqualified from acting any further under such choice:

It is Resolved, That the several meetings aforesaid shall be considered as illegal and void, except for the purposes hereafter mentioned; that all Officers chosen at said meeting shall cease to exercise any powers or authorities by virtue of said choice, only any publication of purposes of marriage and certificate respecting the same by either of the Clerks then chosen, and the doings of the several Selectmen respecting the poor of said Town, be, and they are hereby, confirmed.

And it is further Resolved, That John Turner, Esq., be, and he is hereby, authorized and empowered forthwith to issue his Warrant to either of the persons who served as Constables for the said Town of Swansey for the last year, directing him to notify the Freeholders, and other inhabitants of said Town by law qualified to vote in Town affairs, to meet at the Meeting-House in said Town, near Elder Russell's Mansion-House, at the time mentioned in said Warrant, for the purpose of choosing Town-Clerk, Selectmen, and such other Town Officers as are by law directed to be chosen in the month of March annually; which Officers so chosen shall have the same powers and authorities as if they had been regularly chosen in the month of March last; and the said Turner shall preside as Moderator of the same meeting until such Officers are chosen as aforesaid; and the said Turner is directed in his said Warrant to order the said Constable to warn the Freeholders, and other inhabitants by law qualified to elect Representatives for the General Assembly, to meet at the same time and place for the purpose of choosing one or more Representative or Representatives to serve in the General Assembly for the present year, agreeable to the precept which shall be issued for that purpose, at the choice of which Representative or Representatives, the Selectmen which shall be chosen at the same meeting preside as Moderators.

And it is further Resolved, That the assessment of Taxes by the Assessors of said Town for the year 1775 be, and it hereby is, confirmed and made good, notwithstanding the said Assessors may not have been sworn in the manner directed by law; and the valuation of Real Estates by such Assessors is also hereby established and made good, as a rule to determine the right of Voters for the present year.

And it is further Resolved, That the Agents who appeared to support the Memorial against the election of a Representative for said Town the present year, be paid their own charges and the charges of their Witnesses out of the Treasury of said Town, after their Accounts have been examined and adjusted by the Selectmen which shall be chosen for said Town for the present year; and that the charges of the Agents and Witnesses who opposed the said Memorial, be paid in like manner.

Resolve for annexing the Militia to be raised in NEWTON, for the service in CANADA, to the First Battalion; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Whereas it appears that the men to be raised for the Canada service in the Town of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, were by mistake omitted in the Resolve for forming the First Battalion for said Canada service: Therefore,

Resolved, That the said men to be raised in said Town of Newton be, and they are hereby, annexed to the said First Battalion, said former Resolve to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolve for paying Captain BRIDGE's Roll; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Colony Treasury to Captain John Bridge, for the use of the Officers and Soldiers borne on his Roll, the sum of £13 13s. 3d., in full.

Resolve for paying Captain MUNRO's Company; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Colony Treasury to Captain Edmund Munro, for the use of the Officers and Soldiers borne on his Roll, the sum of £9 11s. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., in full.

Resolve for paying Captain JOHN PACKER's Roll; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Colony Treasury to Lieutenant Joseph Symonds, for the use of the Officers and Soldiers borne on Captain John Packer's Roll, the sum of £16 19s. 10d., in full.

Resolve for paying Captain JOHN PARKER's Roll; passed JUNE 28, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Colony Treasury to Captain John Parker, for the use of the Officers and Soldiers borne on his Roll, £13 11s. 6d., in full.

Resolve for supplying the Committee for raising Men with Money for that purpose; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Resolved, That the $21,000 lately received from the honourable Congress for the use of two Regiments ordered to be raised and stationed in this Colony, and also that the $30,000 lately received from the said honourable Congress to be exchanged by this Colony for hard money, amounting in the whole to the sum of £15,300, be paid into the hands of the Committee lately appointed to raise men for the publick service in Canada and New-York, in the manner following, viz: That £1,400, part of the aforesaid sum, be paid to the Committee appointed to go into the County of Berkshire; and that £7,100, part of the sum aforesaid received from Congress, be paid to the Committee appointed to go into the County of Hampshire to raise men; and that £365 be paid to the Committee appointed to go into the County of Cumberland; and that £965 be paid to the Committee appointed to go into the County of York for the purpose aforesaid; and that the remaining sum of £5,470 be paid to the Committee appointed to raise men in the County of Middlesex.

Resolve relative to fortifying the GURNET; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Whereas this Court some days ago passed a Resolve that two pieces of Cannon, of twelve-pounders, and four of six-pounders, should be placed at the Gurnet, at the entrance of Plymouth Harbour; and it hath been represented to this Court that it is necessary to have some Cannon of a larger size than six-pounders to defend Plymouth and other places adjacent: It is, therefore,

Resolved, That three pieces of Cannon, of nine-pounders, be delivered by the Commissary-General of this Colony, in lieu of three of the six-pounders before granted, with Powder, Shot, and the necessary apparatus therefor, in the same proportion as heretofore granted for the six-pounders; and that Major Thomas Daves, of Boston, be employed as an Engineer, to repair to the Gurnet and direct in raising a Fortification there, and placing the Guns; and that the Commander of the men stationed there be authorized to make use of seven of the Whale-boats belonging to the Colony.

Resolve appointing a Committee to confer with a Committee of the Assembly of RHODE-ISLAND; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Whereas the honourable the General Assembly of the Colony of Rhode-Island, &c., at their last March Session, did appoint the Hon. William Bradford, Esq., and Simeon Potter, Esq., a Committee to confer with the General Court of this Colony, upon the subject of erecting suitable Fortifications at Bristol Ferry, and also respecting fortifying Holland's Ferry, and to agree with the General Assembly of this Colony respecting the erecting Fortifications at both the said places, as it is apprehended that proper Fortifications at the said places would be very advantageous to the inhabitants of this Colony, as well as of that Colony: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Hon. Walter Spooner, Esq., Mr. Durfee, and Captain Stearns, be a Committee in behalf of this Court, to confer with the honourable Committee of the said Assembly of Rhode-Island above named, on the subjects abovesaid, and (if they shall judge necessary) to view the places, and in any other way fully satisfy themselves of the advantages likely to result to this Colony from Fortifications at the said places, or either of them; and in case they shall find that such Fortifications will be for the benefit and advantage of this Colony, then further to consider what share or proportion of the expense of such Fortresses it would be reasonable for this Colony to bear; and to report to this Court as soon as may be.

Resolve for the delivery of the Schooner CATHARINE; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Resolved, That Colonel Cobb be directed to deliver the Schooner Catharine, Thomas Parks late master, to John Webb or order, owner of said Schooner, said Webb paying charges.

Resolve on the Petition of JONATHAN STICKNEY; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

On the Petition of Jonathan Stickney,

Resolved, That notwithstanding the imprudent and criminal discourse and behaviour of the Petitioner, in times past, whereby he has incurred the publick resentment; yet if he shall now freely and fully promise and engage before the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, for the Town of Ipswich, that for the future he will observe a strict decorum in his words and actions, and in nowise attempt anything inconsistent with the publick peace and safety, the keeper of the Jail in the Town of Ipswich be, and hereby is, directed to discharge him from his present confinement, he first paying the charges that have accrued by means of his being apprehended and confined.

Resolve to supply the Committee for raising Men with more Money; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Whereas, by a Resolve of this Court of the 25th instant, several sums of Money were ordered to be paid to the several Committees appointed to go into the several Counties in this Colony, to enable them to pay the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers the several sums mentioned in said Resolve; and whereas, through some mistake, the several sums ordered to be paid said Committees fall short of the sum intended to be put into their hands for the purpose aforesaid: Therefore,

Resolved, That there be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony, to the said Committees, for the purposes mentioned in said Resolve, the further sums following, viz:

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Suffolk, the sum of £59 8s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Essex, the sum of £61 6s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Middlesex, the sum of £112.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Hampshire, the sum of £37 14s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of York, the sum of £27 8s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Cumberland, the sum of £12 8s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Plymouth, the sum of £123 4s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Bristol, the sum of £101 16s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Worcester, the sum of £86 12s.

To the Committee appointed to go into the County of Berkshire, the sum of £41 12s.

Each of said Committees to be accountable to this Court for the sum they shall severally receive.

Resolve on the Account of ALEXANDER GRAY; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony be, and he is hereby, directed to pay out of the publick Treasury the sum of £5 5s., to Alexander Gray, in full discharge of his Account.

Resolve for supplying the Town of ARUNDEL with Powder, &c.; passed JUNE 29, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Mr. Benjamin Durril, or order, one barrel of Gunpowder, and one hundred weight of Leaden Ball, for the use of the said Town of Arun-del, he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for procuring a Company of Ship-Carpenters, to go to ALBANY; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Resolved, That there be a Company of fifty Ship-Carpenters immediately agreed with to enter into the Continental service, and ordered to Albany, there to be under the direction of General Schuyler, or other Commanding Officer; that they provide themselves with suitable tools, at their own expense, and that necessary wagons be provided to transport their tools and baggage to Albany; and that £3 per man be advanced in part of his wages, to enable him to equip himself and march to Albany; and that those Carpenters who have no tools be provided therewith, deducting the cost thereof from the wages of such deficient Carpenters; and that a master workman be appointed to command this Company, whose wages and allowance, together with the Company, be conformable to a memorandum of an Agreement transmitted by General Schuyler the 25th instant.

Resolve relative to procuring a Company of Ship-Carpenters to go to ALBANY; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Resolved, That the following form of an Inlistment or Agreement be the form of the Agreement with the Company of Ship-Carpenters this day resolved to be raised for the Continental service, viz:

"An agreement made the day of , 1776, between the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay of the first part, and of , and the several persons whose names are hereunto subscribed, of the second part. The several persons of the said second part, each for himself, do hereby agree that they severally will immediately repair to Albany, or to such other place as General Schuyler, or the Commander-in-Chief in that department for the time being, shall direct, and there employ themselves in constructing and building such and so many batteaus, other vessels, and buildings, as the said Commander-in-Chief, or his appointed Superintendent, shall direct, from the day of their engagement till the first day of December next, unless sooner discharged; that they will, during the time they shall be employed, continue each day at their said work and employment between the times following, viz: to begin their work at sunrise, and continue at it till sunset, excepting one hour at breakfast, and one and an half hour at dinner; that each and every of them shall and will find and provide themselves proper tools and implements for the carrying on the said work; and that if any of the said persons of the second part shall leave the said work, and go from the post where he shall be employed, without the leave of the Commanding Officer of such post first had and obtained, the person so going off shall forfeit all the wages which otherwise would be due to him.

"In consideration whereof, the said Colony promises and agrees, with each and every person of the said second part, that they shall severally have and receive the wages following, viz: the said , at and after the rate of one dollar and a quarter; and each and every other person of the said second part, at and after the rate of one dollar, for each and every day they shall be in actual service as aforesaid; and that, over and above said sums, they shall severally receive one and a quarter pounds of pork or beef and one pound and a half of flour per day, four pints of peas per week, one pint of molasses per week, and half a pint of rum per day; that said wages shall commence on the day they shall leave their homes to proceed on their journey; that they shall, each of them, receive ten dollars advance pay, in part for their wages, before they march; and shall also be allowed one day's wages for each and every twenty miles travel, on their return to their homes; and upon their travel, both out and home, they shall severally be allowed, instead of their rations aforesaid, one-third of a dollar for every twenty miles travel, to bear their expenses on the road; and if any person of said second part should be taken sick during the time in which they shall be in employ as aforesaid, they shall not be entitled to any wages for the time they abstain from working, unless the Commanding Officer of the post where they shall be stationed shall, on application to him made, refuse to discharge the persons so taken sick; in which case, they shall be entitled to wages, in the same manner as though no such application and refusal had taken place, or they had not been taken sick."

Also, Resolved, That Colonel Bagley, Mr. Webster, and Mr. Little, of Newbury, be a Committee to agree with the Carpenters as aforesaid, and to hire Wagons to carry their Tools and Baggage, and to pay their advance wages as aforesaid; and said Committee are hereby empowered to draw upon the Colony Treasurer for the sum of £170, for the purposes aforesaid; and the Treasurer is hereby directed to pay said sum to said Committee, they being accountable for the expenditure of the same.

Resolve vesting certain Powers in the Council during the recess of the Court; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Whereas it is necessary that in the recess of the Court certain Powers should be vested in the Council, or Committee of Council, for the publick good: Therefore,

Resolved, That the honourable Council, or such part of them as they shall appoint, be a Committee of Safety, whose business it shall be, during the recess of the General Court, to direct the Commissary-General of this Colony respecting the taking in and delivering out the Warlike Stores of this Colony to and from the publick Magazines as they may think necessary; and that said Council, or Committee of Council, have power to appoint Agents for, and in all respects provide for and give out such Instructions to the Commanders of the armed Vessels that are or may be fitted out on the account of this Colony as shall be necessary for the defence and interest of this Colony, or of the United Colonies, such Instructions not being contrary to any law or resolve of the General Court, or the resolves of the Continental Congress; and that the Council, or said Committee of Council, have power to direct the Commissary-General of this Colony to procure such Warlike Stores and Provisions as they may find necessary; and that they be empowered to grant Warrants on the Treasury for such sum or sums of Money as there may be occasion for, for the purposes aforesaid, such Moneys to be accounted for by the persons who shall receive the same; and that the three Regiments of Colonel Marshall, Colonel Whitney, Colonel Crafts, and the four Companies that have been doing duty in Dorchester, Braintree, Weymouth, and Hingham, and the other Companies of sea-coast men, be under the direction of the Council, or said Committee of Council, who may, if occasion should require, put them under the command of such person or persons as they shall think proper; these powers to continue until the next meeting of the General Assembly.

And it is further Resolved, That the Council, during the recess of the Court, be empowered and authorized to treat with any Indians that may arrive, and make such provision for them as the Council may think best; and that the Council be further authorized to appoint and commissionate such Field Officers as may be necessary to fill up any vacancies which may happen in any of the Regiments which are now raising; and if the Council shall not be sitting, that the said Committee of Council have the same power in these respects.

Resolve on the Petition of REBECCA BRIDGE and LEMUEL CHILD; passed JULY 1, 1776.

On the Petition of Rebecca Bridge and Lemuel Child,
Resolved, That the prayer of the Petition be granted; and that the Petitioners be, and hereby are, empowered to make sale of all the Real Estate therein mentioned, for the most it will fetch, and make and execute a good deed or deeds thereof, observing the rules of the law respecting the sales of Real Estates by Executors and Administrators, and giving security to the Judge of Probate for the County of Suffolk that the proceeds be applied as follows, viz: The said Widow of Edward Bridge to have the income of one-third part annually during her natural life; the other two-thirds to be appropriated to the payment of the said deceased's just debts; and the remainder (if any there shall be) to be put to interest, for the benefit of said deceased's heirs, to be paid to them, respectively, in legal proportion, when they shall be of age; also, that said heirs shall have and enjoy said Widow's thirds, after her decease, in case the debts of the said Edward Bridge be all first discharged.

Resolve empowering the Commissary to deliver out Powder, &c., to the Forces bound to CANADA; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver fifteen hundred weight of Gunpowder and three thousand five hundred weight of leaden Musket-Balls, and nine thousand Flints, to Mr. Ezra Sargeant, for the use of the Forces of this Colony bound to Canada, and that said Sargeant procure a sufficient number of Teams and Drivers for the same, to carry said Powder, Ball, and Flints, to Charlestown, in New-Hampshire Colony, to be there delivered to Mr. Samuel Hunt, for the use of the said Forces.

And be it further Resolved, That Mr. Samuel Hunt be, and is hereby, directed to deliver, out of the said Powder, Balls, and Flints, to each officer and private soldier of the said Forces, half a pound of Powder and twenty Balls and three Flints.

And it is further Resolved, That Mr. Ezra Sargeant be, and hereby is, appointed and directed to guard said Teams, with sixteen men, to Charlestown aforesaid.

And it is further Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony £40, to enable him to procure and pay for said Teams and Drivers; and that he be accountable to this Court for the sum or sums he may receive for the purpose aforesaid.

Resolve for appointing an Engineer to direct in the Works carrying on at the GURNET, &c.; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Whereas a few days since a Resolve passed this Court appointing Major Thomas Dawes, for the purpose of repairing to the Gurnet, at the entrance of Plymouth Harbour, and to direct in the Fortifications to be there erected: and it was at the same time resolved, that seven of the Colonial Boats should be furnished for said service; but as Major Dawes cannot attend said service, and no Colonial Boats are to be had: It is, therefore,

Resolved, That Major-General Lincoln be desired to procure and send forward, without loss of time, a suitable person to direct in the Works aforesaid; and that Major-General Ward be also desired to furnish seven of the Continental Whale-Boats for said service; which Boats shall be returned in good order, as soon as the service will admit of it.

Resolve relative to the Accounts of the Guardians of the DUDLEY INDIANS; passed JULY 1, 1776.

On the Accounts of the Dudley Indians,
Resolved, That it appears the said Accounts are rightly cast and well vouched; and that the said Guardians, at their last settlement, on the 24th February, 1774, were in advance the sum of £6 7s. 3½d., and since have paid for said Indians' benefit the sum of £13 14s. 9d., and that they have received two years' income, at £9 per year, and that the said Guardians are in advance the sum of £2 2s. 0½d.

Resolve directing the Committee of MILTON to take into possession the Estates of THOMAS HUTCHINSON and HENRY LLOYD; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committee of Correspondence, Safety, and Inspection, of the Town of Milton, be, and they are hereby, empowered to take into their possession all the Personal Estate of Thomas Hutchinson, late of said Milton, which is in the possession of Colonel Taylor, in said Milton, or wherever it may be found, excepting such as may have been otherwise disposed of by order of the General Court, and to follow the directions of this Court respecting the same, as in similar cases provided.

And further Resolved, That said Committees take into their care the Estate let to Captain Daniel Vose by Henry Lloyd, late of Boston, who fled with the Ministerial Fleet, observing the directions of Court with respect to the Estates of Refugees.

Resolve relative to the Commissary's receiving Saltpetre; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Whereas the Orders of the late General Assembly of this Colony, directing the Commissary-General to receive and pay for Saltpetre at Watertown, manufactured in the said Colony, is found to be very defective in this respect, that he is empowered to receive the said article on two days in each month only, which restriction is found greatly inconvenient for manufacturers of that commodity, and tends much to the discouragement of the manufacturing of that article:

It is therefore Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony, by himself or his Deputy, immediately examine such Saltpetre as has been manufactured in this Colony before the first of June last, and brought to Watertown aforesaid within the time limited by this Court for the delivery of the same, in all instances when the manufacturer or any one in his behalf is attending to deliver the same, and to accept and pay for such Saltpetre, if in his power, in case he shall find that the manufacturer or manufacturers are entitled to be paid for the same by any Resolve or Resolves of the General Assembly now in force; and that for the future, until the first of October next, he, the said Commissary-General, by himself or some sufficient Deputy in his stead, give his attendance at some proper place in Watertown aforesaid, at least two days in a week, for the examining, receiving, and paying for such Saltpetre as shall be brought and offered to the said Commissary by such persons as may be entitled to be paid therefor by any Resolve or Resolves of the General Assembly of this Colony, which are now or shall be in force before the said first day of October next; and that the said Commissary-General be, and he is hereby, directed to notify the publick of the particular days of the week on which he will give such attendance.

Resolve on the Return of Estates in WOBURN; passed JULY 1, 1776.

Resolved, That the proceedings of the Committee of Correspondence, Safety, and Inspection, for the Town of Woburn, in taking into possession and leasing out the Estate of Mr. Coffin, is conformable to a late Act or Resolve of the Great and General Court in that case made and provided, &c.; and the inhabitants of the Town of Woburn are hereby required to aid and support their Committee in their doings with regard to said Estate, said Committee conforming their proceedings to the Acts and Resolves of this Court in such case made and provided.

Resolve for discharging the Schooner CHARLESTOWN CUTTER; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That Captain Batchelder be directed to discharge the Schooner called the Charlestown Cutter, and her crew, from the service of this Colony, and deliver the said Schooner to her lawful owner, and pay him the hire that may be due to him for her service. Also to settle the Portlidge Bill, and pay the master and people that belong to said Schooner the wages that are due to them, and to receive and take care of all the publick stores now on board said Schooner that belong to this Colony, and lay his accounts before this Court for allowance and payment of the same.

Resolve to fit out a Vessel of Observation; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That Captain Batchelder be directed to hire and fit out a small Vessel, and employ a master and a suitable number of men to man her, for the purpose of cruising, obtaining and giving intelligence of the enemy's fleets, &c.; and when said Vessel is fit for the sea, the said Batchelder is directed to send the master to the Council or Committee of Council, to receive such orders and instructions as will be necessary.

It is further Resolved, That the Receiver-General be, and he is hereby, directed to pay out of the publick Treasury the sum of £50 to said Batchelder, to enable him to carry this Resolve into execution, he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for raising a Company of Matrosses to be stationed at SALEM; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That a Company of Matrosses, to consist of fifty men, including Officers, be raised and placed at Salem, to be under the direction of the Committee of Correspondence, Safety, and Inspection, at Salem, and to be upon the same pay and regulations as the Company of Matrosses stationed at Marblehead—said Company to be inlisted to serve till the last of December next, unless sooner discharged by this Court.

Resolve for supplying the Selectmen of BOSTON with eighty Pounds, &c.; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony the sum of £80, towards defraying the expenses incurred by removing persons to the Province Hospital at Boston, and supporting them while sick with the small-pox; and that Mr. Oliver Wendell be appointed to receive and pay said Moneys to the Selectmen of Boston, and be accountable to this Court for the same.

Committee for procuring Flour, directed not to purchase any more; JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That Deacon Elnathan Curtis, Gideon Wheeler, Esquire, and Mr. Benedict Dewey, the Committee appointed February 20, 1776, to purchase a quantity of Flour in the western parts of this Colony, not exceeding two thousand barrels, (and who have given information that they have purchased about fifteen hundred barrels,) be, and they are hereby, directed not to purchase any more on account of this Colony, until the further order of this Court; and that Captain Noah Goodman and Major William Pyncheon be, and they are hereby, directed to pay the moneys they have received from this Court to the several persons that have supplied them with Flour, and apply to this Court for any further sum that may be wanting to complete said payments, and account with this Court for the same.

Establishment for the Row-Galleys; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Whereas there are two Row-Galleys now building in this Colony, which are nearly ready for the Sea, but no establishment having been made for them, and a recess of this Court is likely soon to take place: Therefore,

Resolved, That the establishment for the Row-Galleys shall be the same with that for other vessels of war belonging to this Colony, and that the Committee for fortifying the Harbour of Boston be a Committee, during the next recess of this Court, to recommend to the honourable Council suitable persons to command said Galleys, which persons shall be commissioned by the honourable Council.

Resolve relative to Leaden Window Weights; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Whereas it is of great importance for the defence of this Colony, in the present struggle with Great Britain, that a sufficient quantity of Leaden Balls be immediately procured: Therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the inhabitants of the several Towns in the Colony, that they spare their Leaden Window Weights for that purpose, and the Commissary-General is directed to receive and pay for all such Lead, and have it cast into Balls.

Resolve for supplying the Town of FALMOUTH with four Cannon, &c.; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Whereas a grant of ten Cannon was made by the last General Court to the Town of Falmouth, for the defence thereof, and only six have already been provided: There fore,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Samuel Freeman, Esq., or his order, four pieces of Cannon, either twelve, eighteen, or twenty-four-pounders, or any other sizes that he thinks can be best spared from the Cannon now in or near Boston, having one or two trunnions off; the said Freeman to get them properly fixed at the expense of the Colony as soon as possible. And the said Commissary is hereby directed to deliver the said Freeman, or his order, forty rounds of Shot for each Cannon, suitable for the same.

Resolve appointing Mr. DANIEL HOPKINS a Signer of Bills; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Ordered, That Mr. Daniel Hopkins be of the Committee to sign the Bills of Credit, in the room of Mr. Dalton, absent.

Captain and Lieutenants appointed for the Company of Matrosses at SALEM; JULY 2, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of the following gentlemen as Officers for the Company of Matrosses to be stationed at Salem, viz: John Symonds, Captain; Richard Masury, First Lieutenant; Daniel Felt, Second Lieutenant.

Concurred by Council the same day.

Resolve relative to the Test Act; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committees of Inspection and Safety of each and every Town and place in this Colony be, and they hereby are, directed to omit tendering the Declaration prescribed by an Act passed in the last session of the General Court of this Colony, commonly called the Test Act; and also to refrain from requiring the inhabitants of this Colony, severally, to subscribe said Declaration; and all proceedings against such persons as have already refused or neglected to sign the same Declaration, be stayed till the further order of this Court.

Resolve relative to the Form of an Inlistment for a Company to be stationed at SALEM; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That the Form of the Beating Orders and Inlistment of the Company of Matrosses to be stationed at Salem, be the same with that ordered for the like Companies to be stationed at Gloucester, Falmouth, and the Gurnet; and that the person to whom said Beating Orders are or may be directed, cause said Company to pass muster before Timothy Pickering, Jun., Esq., as soon as possible after their inlistment.

Resolve to encourage the manufacture of Firearms and Cannon; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Whereas, notwithstanding the encouragement hitherto given by this Government for the manufacturing of Firearms, a sufficient number has not yet been obtained: Therefore,

Resolved, That for every effective and substantial Firearm which shall be manufactured in this Colony, with a barrel of three feet and nine inches in length that will carry an ounce ball; a good bayonet with a blade not less than eighteen inches in length, a steel ramrod, with a spring to retain the same, two loops for gun-strings, and the maker's name stamped or engraved on the lock, and which shall be delivered at Boston or Watertown, to Richard Devens, Esq., Commissary, on or before the 1st day of January next, there shall be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury to the owner thereof, the sum of £3 12s.: Provided always, That the owner of each Firearm which shall be received for the Colony, shall prove the same at his own risk, by four inches and a half of powder, a ball, and wads on each, in presence of the said Commissary or some other person or persons appointed by him for that purpose.

And whereas the casting and manufacturing of Cannon, for the service of this Colony, has become absolutely necessary:

Be it therefore further Resolved, That Dr. Lewis Sweeting be a Committee to repair to the Furnaces in Abington and Providence, in order to obtain all possible insight and knowledge in this very necessary branch of business, and make report to this Court as soon as may be.

Resolve for procuring Teams, &c.; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That the Committees appointed to go into the several Counties to raise men to go to Canada, be directed to provide suitable carriages for the conveyance of the baggage of the Officers and Soldiers from their several Towns to Charlestown, in New-Hampshire; said Committee to bring in their Accounts to this Court for payment.

Resolved, That the Committees appointed to go into the several Counties to raise the men destined for New-York, be directed to provide suitable carriages for the conveyance of the baggage of the Officers and Soldiers from their several Towns to New-Haven, in Connecticut, excepting the troops to be raised in the County of Berkshire, the Committee of which County is hereby directed to convey the baggage of the troops to be raised in that County to New-York; the said Committees to bring in their Accounts to this Court for payment.

A Mustermaster appointed for the two Companies of Matrosses in Newburyport; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Resolved, That Jonathan Titcomb, Esq., be, and hereby is, appointed Mustermaster in the Town of Newburyport, to muster the two Companies of men lately ordered to be raised by this Court for the defence of said Town.

Resolve for procuring Coats, Blankets, Hats, &c.; passed JULY 2, 1776.

Whereas it is of the greatest importance that the Army of the United Colonies should be well supplied with necessary Clothing agreeable to the requisition of Congress: Therefore,

Resolved, That Mr. Samuel Allyn Otis, of Boston, Major Richard Godfrey, of Taunton, Joseph Nye, Esq., of Harwich, Samuel Osgood, Esq., of Andover, William Stickney, Esq., of Billerica, Mr. Ephraim Wright, of Northampton, William Drew, Esq., of Kingston, Captain Benjamin Rice, of Brookfield, Mr. Elnathan Curtis, of Stockbridge, and Thomas Cook, Esq., of Edgartown, be a Committee to procure, as soon as may be, as many Coats, Waistcoats, and Breeches, Blankets, Felt Hats, Shirts, Hose, and Shoes, as they may be able to procure before the 1st of December next, and cause them to be baled, invoiced, and stored in suitable places, to be delivered to the order of Congress, or the Commander-in-Chief of the American Army.

Resolve on the Petition of DAVID CHEEVER, Esq.; passed JULY 3, 1776.

Whereas the late Committee of Supplies did, on the 29th day of March, 1775, give to David Cheever, Esq., an order on the Colony Treasurer for the sum of £350, and charged said Cheever the same, which order Cheever endorsed and delivered to said Treasurer, in confidence that the Town of Charlestown would immediately pay him the said sum, it being due to the said Treasurer from the Town of Charlestown, as Province Tax, on which the Treasurer gave credit to said Town for that sum; but the Town of Charlestown aforesaid has paid only £31 16s. 6d. of the same: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Colony Treasurer be, and he hereby is, directed to charge the Town of Charlestown with the sum of £318 6s. 6d., and call on the Collectors of said Town for that sum; and the Committee appointed to settle the Accounts remaining unsettled on the books of the late Committee of Supplies, &c., is hereby directed to credit David Cheever, Esq., for that sum, on the books of the late Committee of Supplies.

Resolve lending Cannon to the Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE; passed JULY 3, 1776.

Resolved, That the Council, or Committee of Safety who may be appointed by Council to sit in the recess of Court, be, and hereby are, empowered to deliver to the order of the President of the Council of the Colony of New-Hampshire, for the use of said Colony, such Cannon as he may desire, if they, in the opinion of said Council or Committee, can be spared without endangering the safety of this Colony.

Resolve for sending Prisoners from TRURO to BOSTON; passed JULY 3, 1776.

Resolved, That Captain Joseph Smith, who commands the forces stationed at Truro, be, and hereby is, directed to send a master of a vessel cast on shore in March last at Cape Cod, with all the men cast away as aforesaid, who are now there with him, in different vessels, to Boston, as soon as may be, to be delivered to those Justices residing in or about Boston, who are appointed and empowered by this Court to hear and examine all persons in said Town who are suspected of being inimical to the rights and liberties of America; and the said Justices are hereby directed and empowered to hear, determine, and dispose of them, as they shall think proper.

And it is further Resolved, That the said Captain Smith be, and he hereby is, directed to permit the women and children to repair to their respective places of abode.

Resolve desiring the Council to appoint a Day of solemn Humiliation and Prayer; passed JULY 3, 1776.

It having been the laudable practice of this Government to recommend and appoint days for Fasting and Prayer upon solemn and special occasions; and as this Court apprehend that the present time is big with the most important events to this and the other Colonies, and that these events are at the disposal of the Supreme Governour of the Universe:

Therefore, Resolved, That the honourable Council be, and hereby are, desired to set apart Thursday, the last day of July instant, to be observed as a day of solemn Humiliation and Prayer, devoutly to implore of Almighty God, that the monitory dispensation of Providence, in the drought wherewith some parts of the land has been visited, and the humbling events which have lately taken place in Canada, may, accompanied with a Divine influence, produce a sincere repentance and thorough reformation of manners among all orders and degrees of persons; that He will command his blessing on our councils and arms at this important crisis of our publick affairs, and that this People, placing their hope and confidence in that God in whom their fathers trusted and were not made ashamed, may be moved and encouraged manfully and freely to offer themselves for the defence of those rights, civil and religious, upon the enjoyment of which the peace and happiness of the present and future generations absolutely depend; that He will, at a time of increased demand of provisions for the support of our brethren in the field, and when the usual foreign supplies are not to be obtained, be graciously pleased so to order the seasons as that we may have, in the course of this year, a sufficiency of the fruits of the earth, both for man and beast. And that they cause a Proclamation to be immediately issued and sent to the Ministers and Pastors of the several denominations of Christians in this Colony, for the purposes aforesaid.

Resolve for supplying the County of LINCOLN with Gunpowder, &c.; passed JULY 3, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and hereby is, empowered to deliver to Captain Samuel Nichols, of New-Castle, in the County of Lincoln, or his order, for the use of the inhabitants of said County, ten hundred weight of Gunpowder, twenty hundred weight of Balls, and thirty hundred Flints; he, the said Samuel, giving security to the said Commissary, for the use of said Colony, for the payment of the same, in twelve months from the delivery thereof.

Resolve relative to Men's inlisting out of other than their own Towns; passed JULY 3, 1776.

Whereas, by a late Resolve of this Court, the number of five thousand men are apportioned on, and to be raised in, the several Towns in this Colony, agreeable to a schedule thereto annexed, and as some persons may be induced to inlist from other Towns than those in which they have their usual place of abode: Therefore,

Resolved, That all persons who shall inlist into any of the Battalions destined for Canada or New-York, shall be considered as a part of the levy on their respective Towns, until such time as those Towns to which they respectively belong have inlisted their full complement of men, and not to those Towns in which they shall so inlist.

Resolve for advancing one month's Pay to the Officers destined to CANADA and NEW-YORK; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That one month's advance pay be paid unto all the Commissionated and Staff Officers of the several Regiments designed for the service of Canada and New-York. And the Council are hereby empowered to draw warrants on the Treasurer of this Colony for such sums as they shall think necessary, to be paid, for the purpose aforesaid, into the hands of the Committees appointed to forward the raising of said Regiments.

Resolve appointing a Court to try certain persons suspected of being inimical to the AMERICAN Colonies; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That Samuel Niles, Samuel Pemberton, Joseph Greenleaf, Joseph Gardner, and Theophilus Cushing, Esqs., Justices of the Peace within and for the County of Suffolk, residing at or near Boston, be, and hereby are, authorized and empowered to cause to come before them, or any three of them, at such time and place in the Town of Boston, and by such methods as the Justices in the former Resolve were authorized to do, such of the said persons in the former Resolve named as to them may appear expedient; and that they have power likewise of convening witnesses before them, or any three of them, in the same manner the former Court of Inquiry had, and such of the said persons as, from their past conduct, the said Justices conceive would probably take and act an inimical part against this or any of the United Colonies if they had a convenient opportunity for so doing, they the said Justices, or any three of them, may restrain, by causing them to find good and sufficient sureties for their good behaviour; and in that behalf more especially for any term of time not exceeding twelve months; and to commit such persons until they find such surety. And such others of the said obnoxious persons, whose continuance under bonds in the Town of Boston, shall to them or any three of them, appear incompatible with the safety of this or the other United Colonies, they may commit to prison, or may order in some inland Town in this Colony, for a term not exceeding four months, there to remain within the limits of such Town, he or they finding sureties for their duly observing such order, as well as for their good behaviour for a further term not exceeding twelve months in the whole; such removal and continuance to be at the expense of the person removed, if of ability, and in want thereof, at the charge of this Colony; and, in default of their recognising with sufficient sureties as aforesaid, in reasonable sums, him or them to commit to prison until he or they shall find such sureties. And the Committee of Safety, &c., in the Towns where such persons may be sent in consequence of this Resolve, are directed to receive them, to inspect their conduct, and to prevent their consorting or associating with any prisoners of war that are or may be placed in such Town.

And the said Justices are hereby authorized, if they or the major part of them, upon deliberation, think it may be done consistently with the publick safety, to send into some inland Town in this Colony such of the said five persons now confined in Boston Jail by the Justices of the former Court, under the restrictions aforesaid; and also to continue under bonds any or all the said other five persons now bound for their appearance before the Superior Court, for a term not exceeding twelve months, and them to release and discharge from the present recognisances.

And the said Justices, or any three of them, are also directed to disarm all and every person they shall judge expedient to restrain as aforesaid; and that all bonds taken in pursuance of this Resolve be to the Treasurer of this Colony. And the said Justices are directed to sit from day to day, or as often as they conveniently can, till they have discharged the trust reposed in them by this Resolve; and on or before the last day of August next, make a particular report of their proceedings herein to this Court, and that a proper compensation be made to them, as well as to the Justices that constituted the former Court.

Resolve for supplying BARTHOLOMEW PUTNAM with Powder; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he is hereby, directed to sell and deliver to Captain Bartholomew Putnam three hundred pounds weight of Gunpowder out of the Colony stores, and that he receive of said Putnam 5s. a pound for the same.

Resolve to sell the Tories' Chaises and other Carriages; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That John Brown, William Cooper, John Pitts, Josiah Sattel, and Edward Rawson, Esqs., being a Committee for taking Inventories, &c., of the Estates within the Town of Boston which have been left or deserted by sundry persons supposed to be inimical to the rights and liberties of America, be, and they hereby are, directed to make sale of all Chaises and other Carriages belonging to such Estates, they first having the same appraised by the most suitable persons, and then advertising the same for sale at such appraisements; and all that may remain unsold at a day that said Committee may appoint, shall then be advertised to be sold at publick vendue. All which shall be carried into effect by said Committee as soon as conveniently may be, they to be accountable to the General Court for the proceeds of such sales.

Resolve for supplying the Company stationed at SALEM; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary appointed to furnish the sea-coast men stationed at Salem be, and he hereby is, directed to furnish the Company of Matrosses, to be raised and stationed at Salem, with all necessaries, agreeable to the sea-coast establishment.

Also, Resolved, That the said Company, when raised, be under the direction of Timothy Pickering, Jun., Esq.

Additional power given to the Court appointed to try suspected persons, JULY 4, 1776.

Resolved, That in the stead and place of Samuel Niles and Theophilus Cushing, Esquires, who have not had the small-pox, that John Hill, Esq., and Edmund Quincy, Esq., be appointed Justices of the Court of Inquiry, with the same power the said Niles and Cushing were vested with.

And it is also Resolved, That the Committee of Correspondence, &c., in the Town of Boston, or the major part thereof, be and hereby are, directed to file information or informations against any person or persons suspected of being unfriendly to the rights and liberties of America, before the major part of the Justices of the Court of Inquiry, which Justices, or any one of them, are hereby directed forthwith to issue his or their warrant against such person or persons against whom information shall be filed as aforesaid, directed to some lawful officer, commanding him forthwith to apprehend the body or bodies of any such person or persons, and secure him or them by imprisonment or good and sufficient bail, against the time of trial; and the said Committee, or the major part thereof, are hereby further directed to produce the witnesses, and bring forward and prosecute the trial of every such person or persons to effect.

Resolve appointing a Committee on Accounts; passed JULY 4, 1776.

Whereas, a necessary attention to the more important affairs of the Government in the present extraordinary times of difficulty and distress renders it impracticable for this House to receive and examine the numerous Accounts now daily exhibited against the Government, agreeable to the mode heretofore usually practised, and the payment thereof has been greatly delayed, to the detriment of individuals, as well as to the injury of the credit of the Government: Therefore,

Resolved, That Abraham Watson, Jonathan Webster, Thomas Durfee, Aaron Wood, John Bliss, and Isaac Lo-

throp, Esqs., and Captain Woodbridge Brown, be, and they hereby are, appointed a Committee, until further order of this House, to receive, examine, and, in behalf of this House, finally to pass upon all Accounts not otherwise committed which shall be presented to them for payment of services done and articles supplied by order of Congress or the General Court, and properly vouched; and the doings of said Committee shall be considered as valid as any Vote or Resolve of the House touching said Accounts, as well in the recess of the Court as during the sitting of the same. And said Committee, or any four of them, who are hereby appointed a quorum, are directed to open an office, and advertise the publick thereof and of this Resolve, that the business may be constantly attended and effectually performed. And a true copy of all Accounts which shall be passed by them and sent to a Committee of the Board for concurrence shall, after concurrence and payment, be kept in a book, with an alphabet thereto, which shall be laid before the House for perusal and inspection once or oftener in each session, as the House shall order; and the Committee of the honourable Board are desired to employ some suitable person for that purpose.

Also, Resolved, That the Secretary be, and he hereby is, directed to keep such Accounts as shall be passed by said Committee, and in consequence thereof concurred and ordered to be paid by the honourable Board, in separate files.

Also, Resolved, That the honourable Council, or such Committee of Council as they shall appoint, be, and they hereby are, empowered, both in the sitting and recess of the Court, to concur all such Accounts as shall have been passed by the Committee aforesaid; and the payment of said Accounts, thus passed and concurred, shall be ordered in the manner which the Charter directs: Provided, always, That the foregoing method of allowing Accounts shall be taken to be adopted merely from the necessity of the present times, and not considered as a precedent for the future, anything in the Resolve of this Court of the 7th June last appointing a Committee to receive, examine, and finally pass upon all Accounts not otherwise committed, to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolve relative to Dr. GELSTON; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Whereas it appears that Dr. Samuel Gelston is now in the custody of Berachiah Basset, Esquire, at the Elizabeth Islands, and as he appears to have in divers instances acted a part inimical to the liberties of this Colony:

Be it therefore Resolved, That the said Berachiah Basset, Esq., be, and he hereby is, directed to send the said Dr. Samuel Gelston, under a proper Guard, to the five Justices in the County of Suffolk, appointed a Court to inquire into the conduct of persons suspected to be enemies to the liberties of this Colony, who are hereby directed and empowered to examine into the conduct of the said Dr. Samuel Gelston, and to proceed with him according to the directions of the Resolve appointing them a Court of Inquiry as aforesaid.

Resolve relative to procuring Hard Money; passed JULY 5, 1776.

For the more effectual carrying into execution a Resolve of this House of the 27th of June last, relative to exchanging of Continental Bills for Hard Money for the use of the Continent:

It is Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony pay out to the several Committees of Correspondence, &c., for the several Towns, upon their producing a subscription for Hard Money, such a sum in Continental Bills as the same shall amount to, taking a note of two or more of the said Committee, including a promise that they shall return that sum or the amount in Hard Money on demand; and the Treasurer, on their fulfilling the said promise, is directed to deliver up their said security.

Resolve on the Petition of JONATHAN CAPEN; passed JULY 5, 1776.

On the Petition of Jonathan Capen,

Resolved, That the prayer of the Petition be so far granted as that Jonathan Capen, Guardian to the Puncapaug Indians, be, and he is hereby, empowered to sell so much of said Indians' unimproved Lands, where it will be the least prejudicial to the whole, as to satisfy their just debts and the necessary charges arising by such sale, he observing the rules and directions of an Act of this Colony respecting the sale of Lands taken by execution, and to execute good and lawful deed or deeds therefor, he, the said Guardian, to be accountable to the General Court for his doings upon the matter.

Resolve for supplying DAVID JEFFERIES, Esq., with fifteen hundred Pounds; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury to David Jefferies, Esq., or order, the sum of £1,500, for the purpose of discharging the advance pay of the Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers in Colonel Whitney's, Colonel Marshall's, and Colonel Craft's Regiments, he to be accountable to the General Court for the same.

JAMES BRICKET, Esq., appointed Colonel of a Battalion to be raised in the Counties of ESSEX, &c.; passed JULY 5, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of James Bricket, Esq., as Colonel of the Battalion to be raised in the Counties of Essex, York, and Cumberland, for the Continental service, agreeable to a Resolve which passed the House the 25th of June last, in the room of Colonel Whittier, who declines serving.

Concurred by Council.

Resolve desiring the Council to write a Letter to General WASHINGTON, relative to raising Men, &c.; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Resolved, That a Letter be immediately sent, by express, to His Excellency General Washington, setting forth the real state of this Colony respecting raising men, and recommending that he instantly order two of the fullest Regiments upon the Boston station to march immediately to Canada, and to give His Excellency the strongest assurance that this Colony will take effectual measures that there be a sufficient number from the Militia upon the Continental account brought in upon the Boston station to do duty in the stead and place of said Regiments.

Also Resolved, That two other Regiments, upon the Continental establishment, be raised as soon as possible, to relieve the Militia that may be brought in upon the Boston station as aforesaid.

And also Resolved, That the honourable Council be desired to order such and so many of the Militia as they may judge proper, to be and hold themselves in readiness to march upon the Boston station at an hour's notice, to do duty in the stead and place of such Continental Troops as may be ordered from thence upon the Canada service; and that said Council have full power in the recess of this Court to do everything relative to the raising and officering the said Militia, and the said two Regiments to be raised, in as full and ample manner as might or could have been done had the whole Court been sitting.

Resolved, That the Council be desired to write the Letter before mentioned to General Washington, and also to inform the honourable Congress of this Resolve.

Resolve desiring the Council to defer ordering any Moneys to Captains O'BRIAN and LAMBERT; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Resolved, That the honourable Board be desired to defer ordering any Moneys to Captains O'Brian and Lambert, and their Companies, that may be due to them from the Colony, till determination shall be had on the Petition of William Hazen, praying that he may be enabled to obtain satisfaction for waste of Goods committed on board a certain Schooner belonging to said Hazen and others, and for the illegal capture and detention of the same.

Resolve to supply Dr. JOHN GREENLEAF with fifty Pounds, for purchasing Medicines; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Resolved, That a sum not exceeding £50 be paid out of the Colony Treasury to Dr. John Greenleaf, for the purchasing such Medicines for Colonels Whitney's, Marshall's, and Craft's Regiments as he cannot supply from his own stores, he being accountable for the expenditure of the same.

Resolve relative to a number of Masts at GEORGETOWN; passed JULY 5, 1776.

Whereas it has been represented to this Court that a large number of Masts, procured for the use of the British Navy, or some British Merchants, are now lying in Georgetown, in the County of Lincoln, and are in danger of being taken away or destroyed:

It is therefore Resolved, That Mr. Freeman, Colonel Lithgow, and Colonel Cushing, be a Committee to inquire into the circumstances relative to said Masts, of their number, value, for what purposes fit, and by whom they were procured; that they take effectual care to preserve the same, and in case of danger from our enemies, that they cause the same to be removed to some place of safety, if it can be done without great difficulty, otherwise to render them unfit for the use of our said enemies, and make report of their doings to this Court at its next session.

Resolve on the Petition of JOHN COLLAS, and others, Prisoners in SALEM Jail; passed JULY 6, 1776.

On the Petition of John Collas, Joseph Temple, and Peter Larchee,

Resolved, That the prayer of said Petitioners be so far granted as that the said John Collas, Joseph Temple, and Peter Larchee, be set at liberty from their present confinement in Salem Jail, upon any person or persons appearing to contract with, and shall actually hire said Prisoners, and engage to employ them in some inland Town in this Colony; and the Committee of Correspondence of the Town in which they may be employed are hereby ordered to inspect the conduct of the said John Collas, Joseph Temple, and Peter Larchee, and to take care they do not depart the limits of the Town they may be employed in; and the Keeper of the Jail in Salem is hereby ordered and directed to discharge said Prisoners from his custody accordingly.

Resolve for employing two persons to ride Post to CROWN-POINT; passed JULY 6, 1776.

Resolved, That Jonathan Brown, Esq., Dr. Moses Morse, Mr. Benjamin Guild, Oliver Wendell, Esquire, and Major Jacob Davis, be a Committee to agree with two suitable persons to ride Post to Crown-Point once a week, until the last day of November next; and that the said Posts take such routes as the Committee aforesaid shall think best: the said Post to set out from and return to Watertown, until the further order of this Court.

And it is further Resolved, That some person be appointed at Watertown, by the Committee aforesaid, to receive and deliver all such Letters as shall not be delivered before said Post's arrival at Watertown; and that all Letters to or from any persons in the Army be carried free of charge.

Additional Resolve relative to paying the Officers of the several Regiments destined to CANADA and NEW-YORK one month's advance Wages; passed JULY 6, 1776.

Whereas by a Resolve of this Court of the 4th instant it is resolved that one month's advance Pay be paid unto all the Commissionated and Staff Officers of the several Regiments designed for the service of Canada and New-York, and the Council are empowered to draw Warrants on the Treasurer of this Colony for such sums as they shall think necessary to be paid for the purpose aforesaid into the hands of the Committees appointed to forward the raising of said Regiments; but no directions are given how the said Council are to proceed in giving Warrants to said Committees where Officers are appointed for a Regiment raised partly in one County and partly in another, and said Officers living some in one County and some in another: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Council be, and they hereby are, empowered and directed to give Warrants to either of said Committees to pay any of said Officers living in either of the Counties, but belonging to the Regiment to which they were appointed, said Committees to be severally accountable to this Court for all such sums of money as they shall receive in consequence of this Resolve.

Resolve on the Petition of HANNAH MATHER; passed JULY 8, 1776.

On the Petition of Hannah Mather,

Resolved, That whereas it appears that the facts set forth in the Memorial of Mrs. Hannah Mather, of Boston, with respect to the loss which she and her family have sustained by the cruel burning of Charlestown, are true, and she apprehends that some balance is justly due to her from her brother Hutchinson's Estate: that therefore, agreeable to the request of said Mrs. Mather, leave and liberty be, and hereby is, granted to her to take into her possession such of the Household goods of her brother Hutchinson as she may stand in need of, now in the possession of Colonel Taylor, or the Committee of Correspondence of Milton, or wherever they may be, not disposed of by this Court, she delivering an inventory of the same, and the Reverend Doctor Mather giving sufficient security for the return of said Goods to the order of this Court.

Resolve for supplying WILLIAM UPHAM with Powder, &c.; passed JULY 8, 1776.

On the Petition of William Upham,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be directed to deliver the Petitioner, William Upham, or order, fifty pounds of Powder, thirty-five rounds of Ball, and seven dozen of Flints, he paying for the same.

Resolve to adjourn the Maritime Court for the Middle District; passed JULY 8, 1776.

Whereas the Maritime Court for the Middle District of this Colony is advertised to be held at Boston, on the 23d day of July instant, for the trial of the justice of the captures of the Ships named the Lord Howe, George, Anne, and Lady Juliana, and the Brigantine named the Annabella, and the Judge of said Court has, in his Petition to this Court, shown that, since the advertisement aforesaid, he finds it will be inconvenient, if not impracticable, to hold his Court at Boston as aforesaid, and prayed this Court to enable him to hold the same Court at Salem, in the County of Essex, on the said 23d day of July:

Resolved, That the Maritime Court aforesaid, for the trial of the captures aforesaid, be held at Salem, in the County of Essex, on Tuesday, the 23d day of July instant, at the Meeting-House of the Reverend Messrs. Barnard and Dunbar, at the hour of ten in the forenoon; and that all proceedings at the same Court shall be valid and effectual in law, in like manner as if it had been held at Boston on the same day, according to the original advertisement thereof, of which all persons concerned will take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

Resolve for furnishing Forces stationed on ELIZABETH ISLANDS with Powder, &c.; passed JULY 8, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, ordered to deliver to Mr. John Reed, for Major Basset, for the use of the men stationed on the Elizabeth Islands, and the Cannon there placed, the quantity of one hundred and fifty weight of Powder, one hundred and fifty weight of leaden Balls, and three hundred Flints, he, the said Basset, to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for draughting Men to make up the five thousand to reinforce the Army in NEW-YORK and CANADA; passed JULY 9, 1776.

Whereas this Court have been informed that some of the Towns and Plantations in this Colony have not as yet raised the proportion assigned them of the five thousand Men for the reinforcement of the Continental Army in New-York and Canada, and it is of great importance that those reinforcements should be immediately raised and sent forward: Therefore,

Resolved, That where any Town or Plantation shall be delinquent as aforesaid, the Commanding Officers, where there is a Field Officer, or where there is no Field Officer, the Commanding Officers of the Company, and where the Militia is not settled, the Committees of Correspondence, &c., of such Town or Plantation, and where no such Committees are, the Selectmen, shall forthwith call together all the men borne on the Training List and Alarm List in such Town or Plantation; and if a sufficient number to complete their complement do not then inlist for the service aforesaid, the said Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, shall proceed to draught out so many men as shall be necessary to complete the proportion assigned to such Town or Plantation, in order that the men so inlisted or draughted out may march without delay to the places of their destination. And in case any person, either on the Training or the Alarm List, shall neglect to attend at such time as he shall be notified, not having sufficient reason therefor, in the judgment of the Officer, Committee, or Selectmen, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of £10. And in case any person draughted as aforesaid shall neglect or refuse to go upon the service required, either in person or by procuring some able-bodied effective man in his stead, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of £10; said forfeiture to be paid within twenty-four hours to the Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, aforesaid; and on failure hereof, he shall forfeit and pay the further sum of £3, both of said forfeitures to be recovered in the same manner as is prescribed in an act lately passed for regulating the Militia of this Colony, for the recovery of fines and forfeitures that may be incurred by a failure of attendance on regimental musters therein required. And the Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, shall proceed in draughting, in manner as is before directed, till the moneys collected shall be sufficient to hire men to complete the number required of such Town or Plantation; which money the said Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, are hereby required to expend for this purpose; and if there shall be any overplus remaining, it shall be employed for the benefit of the Company to which such delinquent or delinquents belong, in such manner as said Company shall agree.

Resolve for lending the Selectmen of SALEM two Field-Carriages; passed JULY 10, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he is hereby, directed to deliver, or cause to be delivered, to the Selectmen of the Town of Salem, two of the Field-Carriages belonging to the Colony, now at that Town, viz: one for an eighteen-pounder, one for a twelve-pounder, or one for a nine-pounder, to be used in said Town for their defence till the further order of this Court, or of the Council, or such Committee of this Court as they may appoint to direct in the military concerns of this Colony in the recess or recesses of this Court.

Resolve for furnishing the Colonial Regiments with necessary articles for the Sick; passed JULY 10, 1776.

Whereas the Commissary-General of this Colony is directed, by a Resolve of this Court, to serve out the Rations to the Regiments of Colonels Whitney, Marshall, and Crafts, conformable to the proportions stated in the establishment for said Regiments; and whereas numbers of the men are now sick and daily falling sick: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, authorized and permitted to furnish said Regiments with such articles as may be more suitable for the sick than Fresh or Salt Provisions, provided that said Supplies do not exceed the value of the Salt Provisions allowed in said establishment. And the Commissaries of the several Companies upon the sea-coast are hereby directed to furnish the sick of the said Companies in like manner, provided that the said Supplies do not exceed the value of the Salt Provisions allowed in said establishment.

Resolve for raising every twenty-fifth Man to reinforce the Northern Army; passed JULY 10, 1776.

Whereas the honourable the American Congress have lately made upon the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay a most urgent requisition for a further reinforcement by two Regiments of its Militia, to support our Army in the Northern or Canada department: And whereas the reinforcements lately received by the enemy in that quarter render it of the last consequence to the safety of the United Colonies, and of this in particular, that the readiest compliance be made herewith:

Resolved, That there be immediately raised two Regiments, in the following manner, viz: That the Commanding Officer in every Town and Plantation where there is a Field-Officer, or where there is no Field-Officer, that the Commanding Officers of the Companies, or where the Militia is not settled, that the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection and Safety, or where there is no such Committee, the Selectmen, cause the whole Militia of such Town or Plantation, consisting of the Training Band and Alarm Lists, to be immediately mustered, and one man out of every twenty-five, exclusive of those already raised or ordered to be raised, of all the persons borne on both the aforesaid Lists, to be inlisted into the service of the United Colonies, to serve until the first day of December next, unless sooner duly discharged. And in case of a fraction in the number on the said Lists, if it amounts to more than half of twenty-five, an additional man shall in that case be inlisted; but if less, no such additional inlistment shall be made. Each man to be furnished with a good Firearm and Bayonet fitted thereto, a Cartouch-box, Knapsack, and Blanket; or instead of a Bayonet, a Hatchet or Tomahawk. And for their encouragement readily to enter into this important service, there shall be paid to each Non-Commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, equipped as aforesaid, on his passing muster, 12s. to purchase a blanket, 6s. for the use of his arms, and one month's advance pay. Their further pay and establishment shall be the same as is for Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers in the Continental Army. Their monthly pay to commence three days next preceding the day of their marching from home. They shall be allowed one penny, lawful money, per mile, in lieu of rations, to support them on their march going and returning, and one day's pay for every twenty miles between their home and the general rendezvous, and also from the place of their discharge back again to their homes.

It is further Resolved, That there be appointed a Committee for each County in the Colony, whose business it shall be to see the aforementioned inlistments completed without delay, to form the men into Companies, to muster and pay them for their blankets, and for the use of their arms; also to pay all the Commissioned, Non-Commissioned, and Staff Officers, and Privates, one month's advance pay; and to appoint meet persons for Captains and Subalterns of the Companies to be raised in their respective Counties; to fill up and deliver to said Captains and Subalterns their Commissions accordingly, for which purpose they shall receive blanks from the honourable Council.

It is further Resolved, That to each Regiment there shall be appointed and commissioned by the honourable Council, one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, one Major, and such Staff and other Officers, as are ordered for the other Regiments destined for Canada; that each of said Regiments consist of eight Companies; each of said Companies, of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drum, one Fife, and as near as may be, of seventy-seven Privates—the Non-Commissioned Officers in each Company to be appointed by the Commission Officers of the same.

It is further Resolved, That the Regiments be formed in the following manner, viz: Beginning at the westerly part of the County of Berkshire, and proceeding from west to east, the eight first Companies shall make one Regiment; then proceeding in the same course, the eight next Companies shall make another Regiment; each of said Regiments to march for the Northern or Canada Department at such time, in such manner, and by such routes, as the Council shall order; and each Non-Commissioned Officer and Private belonging to the said Regiments to be paid a bounty of £7 on receiving said orders, by the Committees aforesaid. And in case there shall be any supernumerary men, they shall be forthwith marched into the Works or Forts in or near Boston, and shall be subject to the regulation and orders of Council. And notwithstanding this Court entertain a high confidence in the readiness of the good people of this Colony to comply with a request so important, yet in case there should be any individual who should be so far divested of regard for his own and country's salvation, as to refuse to bear his part in its defence, this Court consider themselves under the hard necessity, in duty to the whole, to Resolve, and it is accordingly

Resolved, That in case the number required by the aforementioned Rule of any Town or Plantation is not inlisted without delay, and every other attempt for this purpose prove ineffectual, the Commanding Officer in such Town or Plantation, if there is a Field Officer, or if there is no Field Officer, the Commanding Officer of each Company, or where the Regiment is not settled, the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, or where there is no such Committee, the Selectmen, shall, within forty-eight hours after receiving these orders, proceed to complete the number required of such Town or Plantation by the Rule before mentioned, by a draught on the whole Militia of said Town or Plantation, consisting of the Alarm List, as well of the Training Band. And in order hereto, the aforesaid Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, respectively, shall seasonably cause to be warned a muster of the whole Militia of said Town or Plantation; and in case any person, either on the Training Band or Alarm Lists, shall neglect to attend agreeable to such warning, not having any sufficient reason therefor, in the judgment of the Officers, Committee, or Selectmen, aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of £10; and in case any person draughted as aforesaid shall neglect or refuse to go upon the service herein required, either in person or by procuring some able-bodied effective man in his stead, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of £10; said forfeitures to be paid within twenty-four hours to the Officers, Committees, or Selectmen, aforesaid; and on failure hereof, he shall forfeit and pay the further sum of £3; both of said Forfeitures to be recovered in the same manner as is prescribed in an Act lately passed for regulating the Militia of this Colony for the recovery of Fines and Forfeitures that may be incurred by a failure of attendance on Regimental musters therein required. And the Officers, Committee, or Selectmen, shall proceed in draughting in manner as is before directed, until the moneys forfeited shall be sufficient to complete the number of men required of such Town; which money the said Officers, Committee, or Selectmen, are hereby required to expend for this purpose; and if there shall be any overplus remaining, it shall be employed for the benefit of the Company to which such delinquent or delinquents belonged, in such manner as said Company shall agree.

It is further Resolved, That the following persons be a Committee for the purposes before mentioned, for the several Counties hereafter named, who shall receive out of the Treasury of this Colony such sums as the Council shall order, to enable them to discharge the duty herein required of them, who shall be severally accountable to this Court, viz: Jonathan Metcalf, Esq., Benjamin Guild, Esq., Colonel Aaron Davis, Nathaniel Bayley, Esq., Mr. Daniel Perry, and Oliver Wendell, Esq., for the County of Suffolk; Aaron Wood, Esq., Major Samuel Epes, Mr. Nehemiah Abbot, Colonel Daniel Spafford, Dudley Carlton, Esq., Thomas Gerry, Esq., and Captain Daniel Chute, for the County of Essex; Jonas Dix, Esq., Major Timothy Walker, Colonel Josiah Sartell, Colonel Simeon Spaulding, Mr. George Brigham, Captain Joseph Hosmer, Colonel William Thompson, Josiah Stone, Esq., and Captain Joseph Reed, for the County of Middlesex; Joseph Hawley, Esq., Noah Goodman, Esq., Major William Pyncheon, Jun., Mr. David Saxton, Mr. Luke Hitchcock, Captain Israel Hubbard, and Captain Elisha Cranston, for the County of Hampshire; William Drew, Esq., Hugh Orr, Esq., Colonel Edward Mitchell, Colonel Ebenezer White, and Captain Robert Lenthall Eels, for the County of Plymouth; Mr. Amos Knowles, Jun., and Joseph Nye, Esq., of Sandwich, for the County of Barnstable; Captain John Stearns, Colonel Shubael Peck, Colonel Nathaniel Leonard, Edward Pope, Esq., and Colonel Seth Pope, for the County of Bristol; Joseph Storer, Esq., and Colonel Ichabod Goodwin, for the County of York; Thomas Cook, Esq., for the County of Dukes-County; Captain Seth Washburn, Captain Nathaniel Wilson, Mr. Abner Rawson, Captain William Page, Amos Singletary, Esq., Mr. John Ball, Captain John Haven, Captain Nicholas Dyke, and Major William Learned, for the County of Worcester; Captain Joseph Noyes, Joshua Fabyer, Esq., and John Lewis, Esq., for the County of Cumberland; William Lithgow, Esq., for the County of Lincoln; Mr. Azariah Root, Major Caleb Hyde, and Captain Isaac Stratton, for the County of Berkshire; Mr. Stephen Hussey, for the County of Nantucket.

Resolve for furnishing the Town of MARBLEHEAD with apparatus for eight Cannon, &c.; passed JULY 10, 1776.

Whereas this Court have granted to be supplied for the Town and Harbour of Marblehead eight pieces of Cannon, and the Commissary-General was directed to deliver the same to Mr. Jonathan Orne, or order, and the Commissary-General declines to deliver with said Cannon the apparatus, as Ladles, Spunges, Match-Rope, Port-Fires, and other articles necessary and fit for said Cannon:

It is therefore Resolved, That the Commissary be, and hereby is, directed to deliver to Mr. Samuel Giles, or order, such articles of the apparatus necessary for said eight pieces of Cannon, as the said Commissary has in his possession belonging to this Colony and not otherwise appropriated, he, the said Samuel Giles, to be accountable to this Court for the same.

And it is further Resolved, That Colonel Thomas Crafts be, and he is hereby, directed to deliver to the said Samuel Giles, or order, a Fieldpiece belonging to and mounted by the Town of Marblehead, and now in possession of said Colonel Crafts.

JAMES BRICKET, Esq., appointed a Brigadier-General, to command the Forces to be sent to CANADA; passed JULY 11, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of James Bricket, Esq., as a Brigadier-General, to command the Forces to be sent to Canada, in the room of John Cummings, Esq., who declines serving. Concurred by Council.

A Second Lieutenant chosen for the Company of Matrosses at SALEM; JULY 11, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of John Berry, as Second Lieutenant of the Company of Matrosses, in the Town of Salem, in the room of David Felt, who declines serving.

Concurred by Council.

Resolve on the Petition of NATHAN PHILLIPS; passed JULY 11, 1776.

On the Petition of Nathan Phillips,
Ordered, That the Petitioner serve the Committee of Correspondence, &c., of Boothbay, for 1775, with a copy of this Petition, that they show cause, if any they have, on the third Wednesday of the next sitting of this Court, why the prayer thereof should not be granted.

Resolve on the Petition of JOSIAH KING; passed JULY 11, 1776.

On the Petition of Josiah King,
Ordered, That the Petitioner serve the Committee of Correspondence, &c., of Boothbay, for 1775, with a copy of this Petition, that they show cause, if any they have, on the third Wednesday of the next sitting of this Court, why the prayer thereof should not be granted.

Resolve for paying JAMES OTIS, Esq., Interest on his Notes; passed JULY 11, 1776.

Resolved, That the Receiver-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to pay the said James Otis, Jun., Esq., or order, the Interest of any Notes or Obligations payable to him, which he may exhibit to said Treasurer, signed by Harrison Gray, in behalf of this Colony, as Receiver-General of the same, according to the tenor thereof: Provided, said Notes appear to be signed before the 19th of April, 1775.

Resolve establishing the form of Inlistment for the twenty-fifth part of the Militia, &c.; passed JULY 12, 1776.

Resolved, That the form of the Inlistment for the twenty-fifth part of the Militia, ordered by this Court in their present session to be draughted from the Alarm and Training-Band Lists in this Colony, for the service of the United American Colonies, be as follows:

"We, whose names are underwritten, do hereby severally inlist into the service of the United American Colonies, and severally promise and engage to continue in such service until the first day of December, 1776, unless sooner discharged; and to furnish ourselves each with a good effective fire-arm, and, if possible, a bayonet fitted thereto, a cartridge-box, and blanket, or, in lieu of a bayonet, a hatchet or tomahawk. We also, in like manner, promise and engage to obey all the lawful commands of the officers appointed, or to be appointed, over us, pursuant to the Resolves of the General Court of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay; and, under the direction of such Officers, to march, when ordered, with the utmost despatch, to the Northern Department, or Canada, and to be subject to all such rules and regulations, in every respect, as are provided by the Continental Army. July, 1776."

Adjutant appointed for the Fourth Regiment of Militia, in the County of LINCOLN; JULY 12, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Abijah Waterman, as an Adjutant to the Fourth Regiment of Militia, in the County of Lincoln.

Concurred by Council.

Resolve for supplying the Town of FALMOUTH with Spunges, &c., for Cannon; passed JULY 12, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to supply Samuel Freeman, Esq., or his order, with suitable Spunges, Ladles, and other apparatus necessary for the four Cannon which he was lately ordered, by a Resolve of this Court, to deliver to said Freeman, for the defence of the Town of Falmouth.

Resolve on the Petition from FRYBURGH and BROWNFIELD; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That Mr. Samuel Phillips, Jun., of Andover, be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Mr. Richard Kimball, of Fryburgh, or his order, ninety pounds of Gunpowder, and twenty-five pounds of Gunpowder to Benjamin Epes, of Brownfield; and that the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to the abovesaid Richard Kimball, or order, two hundred and seventy pounds of Lead, three hundred Flints, and twelve good Fire-Arms; and to the abovesaid Benjamin Epes, seventy-five pounds of Lead, one hundred Flints, and eight good Fire-Arms; they, the said Kimball and Epes, to be accountable to this Court therefor.

Resolve directing that the Maritime Court for the Middle District should be held at SALEM, JULY 30; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas the Maritime Court for the Middle District of this Colony is advertised to be held at Boston, on the 23d day of July instant, for the trial of the justice of the captures of the Ships named the Lord Howe, George, Anne, and Lady Juliana, and the Brigantine named the Annabella; and the Judge of said Court presented a Petition to this Court, showing that since the advertisement aforesaid, he finds it will be inconvenient, if not impracticable, to hold his Court at Boston, as aforesaid, and praying this Court to enable him to hold the same Court at Salem, in the County of Essex, on the said 23d day of July; and this Court thereupon, by a Resolve passed the 9th day of July, instant, ordered the said Maritime Court to be held at Salem accordingly, but it now appearing to this Court that it will be most convenient that the said Maritime Court, for the trials aforesaid, be held at Salem aforesaid, on the 30th day of July instant:

Resolved, That the Resolve aforesaid of this Court, passed on the said 9th day of July, be, and hereby is, revoked; and that the said Maritime Court, for the trial of the justice of the captures aforesaid, be held at the Court-House in Salem aforesaid, on Tuesday, the 30th day of July instant, at the hour of ten, in the forenoon; and that all proceedings at the same Court shall be valid and effectual in law, in like manner as if it had been held in Boston, according to the original advertisement thereof: of which all persons concerned will take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

Resolve for supplying WESTMINSTER, in the Province of NEW-YORK, with Powder, Lead, &c.; passed JULY 13, 1776.

On the Petition of the Committee of Safety, of Westminster, in the County of Cumberland, and Province of New-York, representing that said Town is in an exposed situation, and destitute of Ammunition, &c., and praying for a supply, &c., &c.,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he is hereby, directed to deliver to Major Abijah Lovjoy sixty pounds of Powder, one hundred and twenty pounds of Lead, and one hundred Flints, he paying for the same at the stated price.

Resolve on the Petition of the Committee of Safety of CAVENDISH, in NEW-YORK; passed JULY 13, 1776.

On the Petition of Phineas Kimball, and others, Committee of Safety of Cavendish, in the County of Cumberland, in the Colony of New-York, praying for Powder and Lead,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he is hereby, directed to deliver to Captain John Coffin fifteen pounds of Powder, thirty pounds of Lead, and thirty Flints.

Resolve for forwarding Tents, &c., to the Army; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed, as soon as possible, to transport such Tents as he has received from Philadelphia, and such others as he can provide, to the amount, in the whole, of nine hundred, to Crown-Point, for the use of the Forces raised by this Colony, and destined for the Northern Department, or Canada, to be delivered to the Commissary of the United Colonies there, or his order.

Further Resolved, That Edward Mitchell, Esq., Theophilus Cushing, Esq., and William Drew, Esq., be a Committee to provide fifteen hundred Canteens, and two hundred and fifty Camp Kettles, and Camp Equipage, for the use of the last fifteen hundred men to be raised agreeable to the last Resolve of the honourable Continental Congress, and that they send them forward to the several places, and in like proportions with those by a Resolve of this Court ordered for the other Forces destined to the same place.

Resolve for supplying Mr. TIMOTHY NEWELL with three boxes of Tin; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas this Court is informed that some boxes of Tin are in the hands of the Committee of this Court for securing the effects belonging to the enemies of this Colony who have left the Town of Boston since April 19, 1775; and as Camp Kettles are absolutely necessary for the men now going on the Northern Department: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee aforesaid be, and they hereby are, directed to deliver to Mr. Timothy Newell, three boxes of said Tin, or such part thereof as may be sufficient for completing the number of Tin Kettles ordered to be made—he giving his receipt to them to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for supplying BAKER'S TOWN, in the County of CUMBERLAND, with Powder, &c.; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to Mr. Nathaniel Bailey, for the use and defence of the inhabitants of a plantation called Baker's Town, in the County of Cumberland, twenty-seven pounds of Gunpowder, eighty pounds of Balls, and one hundred Flints—the said inhabitants to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolve for appointing Gunners to the Companies of Matrosses; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas in the Resolve of the tenth of February last, establishing a Company of Matrosses at Marblehead, it is ordered, that the establishment for said Company be the same as the other sea-coast Companies; and as Gunners, Quarter-Gunners, &c., for Companies of Matrosses appear more proper than Sergeants and Corporals: Therefore,

Resolved, That there be appointed by the commissioned Officers of every Company of Matrosses, consisting of fifty men, including Officers, one Gunner, whose pay shall be 46s. per calendar month; one Gunner's Mate, at 44s.; and eight Quarter-Gunners, at 42s. each.

And whereas the above-mentioned Resolve of the tenth of February, for the establishment of the Company of Matrosses now stationed at Marblehead, directed that said Company should be augmented to the number of one hundred, (by draughting troops to join it from the Companies of sea-coast men,) which makes it necessary that said Company should have a greater number of Officers: Therefore,

It is further Resolved, That so long as it consists of a hundred men, including Officers, there be allowed to said Company, one Gunner, one Gunner's Mate, and sixteen Quarter-Gunners, whose pay shall be as above; and that the Pay-Roll exhibited by Captain Fitteplace be paid accordingly.

Adjutant appointed for the Sixth Regiment of Militia, in the County of LINCOLN, JULY 13, 1776.

The House made choice, by ballot, of Jonas Farnsworth, as an Adjutant to the Sixth Regiment of Militia, in the County of Lincoln.

Concurred by Council.

Resolve on the Petition of ISRAEL DAVIS; passed JULY 13, 1776.

On the Petition of Captain Israel Davis,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be, and he hereby is, ordered to deliver to David Reed, Commissary for the Company under said Davis, or his order, fifty weight of Powder, one hundred and fifty weight of Leaden Ball, one hundred Flints, and two Whale-Boats, all for the use of said Company—the said Reed to be accountable for said articles.

It is likewise Ordered, That said Davis extend his guards to the east side of Boothbay Harbour; and that the said Reed apply to James Cargill for the Boat formerly belonging to Fort Pownall, who is hereby ordered to deliver the same to him, or his order; and if the Commissary-General cannot supply said Whale-Boats, the said Reed is hereby ordered to furnish the same, and lay his accounts before this Court for allowance.

Resolve relative to the ST. JOHN'S and MICKMACK INDIANS; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That Stephen Smith, the Truckmaster at Machias, be, and hereby is, directed to trade with the St. John's and the Mickmack Indians, and, in exchange for their Furs, to supply them, from time to time, with such goods as they may want; and the Council are desired and empowered to draw warrants upon the Treasurer of this Colony for a sum not exceeding £1,000, in favour of said Stephen Smith, to enable him to purchase a sufficient quantity of goods for the purpose above mentioned.

Resolved, That the Council be desired, and are hereby empowered to provide some suitable person, of our own profession, to officiate as a Minister among them, and the Government will allow him a suitable compensation for his service.

Resolved, That there be employed in the Continental service five hundred Indians out of the two Tribes above mentioned, which, together with two hundred and fifty of such of the English as may enlist, shall form one Regiment; the three Field-Officers to be English, the other commissioned Officers to be one-half English and one-half Indian, to be put upon such an establishment as the Court may order; each Indian to be allowed a Rifle Shirt, a Blanket, a pair of Shoes and Buckles, or Moccasins.

Resolved, That the honourable Council be, and hereby are, desired to order that a Silver Gorget, with proper devices, be provided; as also a Silver Heart, with proper devices on each side; and be presented to the Indians above mentioned.

Resolved, That the honourable Council be desired, and are hereby empowered, to make the same presents to the St. John's and Mickmack Indians, as were the last year made to those Indians that represented the Penobscot Tribe; and that their expenses in coming up from or returning to their own country be also defrayed by the Council.

Resolve to put the Companies at SALEM under the direction of Colonel PICKERING; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That the Company of Sea-Coast men, and the Company of Matrosses stationed at Salem, be, and they hereby are, in future, till the further order of this Court, put under the order and direction of Colonel Timothy Pickering, Jun.; and in case of his absence from Salem, said Companies to be, during such absence, under the order and direction of Major Joseph Sprague; any former Order or Resolve of this Court to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolve on the Petition of WILLIAM TUPPER; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas it appears that five separate Accounts have been exhibited to this Court by Mr. William Tupper, for sundry necessities supplied the Schooner Diligent and the Sloop Machias Liberty, in the Colony service, and that the several Committees that have examined the same have reported that the whole thereof should be paid, and that any longer delay of payment would be greatly to the damage of the parties by whom said articles were furnished: Therefore,

Resolved, That the sum of £286 18s. 7d. be allowed and paid out of the Colony Treasury to the said William Tupper, or his order, in full of said five Accounts—he giving proper receipts to the Treasurer for the same.

Resolve for procuring Wool; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas it may be very difficult to obtain such quantities of Clothing as will be necessary for the supply of our Army, unless a quantity of Wool is procured: Therefore,

Resolved, That Thomas Durfee, Esq., of Freetown; Joseph Mayhew, Esq., of Chilmark; Captain John Richardson, of Templeton; Mr. Lemuel Williams, of Dartmouth; Thomas Cook, Esq., of Edgartown; Mr. James Robinson, of Dorchester; Jonathan Bass, Esq., of Braintree; and Stephen Huss, Esq., of Nantucket, be a Committee, immediately to purchase, on the best terms they can, and secure in some safe place or places, all the Sheep's Wool they can obtain; and that the Committee report to this Court the names of all persons whom they shall find purchasing that article with an intent to monopolize, or obtain an advanced price on the same.

Also, Resolved, That the honourable Council be, and hereby are, authorized and empowered to draw Warrants on the Treasurer of this Colony for such sums as they may judge necessary to answer the purpose aforesaid.

Resolve on the Report of the Committee appointed to distribute twelve hundred Pounds among the Inhabitants of the Eastern parts of the County of LINCOLN; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Whereas this Court, on the 11th of April last, did lend to the inhabitants of the easterly part of the County of Lincoln, from Camden to Machias, inclusively, the sum of £1200, and committed the same to the Honourable John Taylor, Esq., Colonel William Jones, and Mr. James Noble Shannon, to be distributed by them equally among said settlements; and it appears to this Court that the said Committee have distributed the sum of £1006 13s. 8d. thereof, for which they have Notes from the Committees of the several Plantations: Therefore, Ordered, That Mr. Shannon deliver the said Notes to the Treasurer of this Colony.

And whereas it appears that the Settlements or Plantations of Camden, Majorbeggaduce, Fox-Islands, and the Town of Belfast, have not received their proportion of the said loan; and it being represented by Colonel Jones and Mr. Shannon, that they can no longer attend to the duties of that appointment: Therefore,

Resolved, That they deliver the sum of £193 6s. 4d., now in their hands, unto Major James Minot, of Camden, who shall give his Note therefor to the Treasurer, and shall be accountable to this Court for the distribution thereof, and shall deliver the same to the order of the four places above mentioned, or any of them, in the proportions above referred to, taking their Notes, payable to the Treasurer, as formerly ordered; and his receipt, together with that of the Treasurer, if amounting to the sum of £1200, shall be deemed sufficient to acquit the said Jones and Shannon from any obligation heretofore given by them to the Treasurer of this Colony.

And whereas the inhabitants of Camden, Majorbeggaduce, Fox-Islands, and Belfast, stand in need of a quantity of Ammunition for their defence: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and he hereby is, directed to deliver to the said James Minot so much Powder, Balls, and Flints, as will amount to one half the sum of £193 6s. 4d., aforesaid, at the rates following, viz: Powder at 5s. per pound, Balls at 6d. per pound, and Flints at 5s. per hundred: said Minot paying the Commissary aforesaid for the same.

And the said Minot is hereby directed to distribute the same among the inhabitants of the said Towns of Camden, Majorbeggaduce, Fox-Islands, and Belfast, in the same proportion as the money, and on the same terms.

Resolve permitting Mr. MASON WHEATON to improve an Estate of THOMAS FLUCKER, Esquire; passed JULY 13, 1776.

Resolved, That Mason Wheaton have leave to improve the Estate of Thomas Flucker, who has quitted this country, till the 15th day of April next, he giving the Committee on the East side of St. George security to pay them, for the use of this Colony, such a sum, as rent for the same, as they shall judge it to be reasonably worth.

Grant for the Travel and Attendance of the Members of the House; passed JULY 13, 1776.

In the House of Representatives: The Pay-Roll of the Members of the House, with their Travel and Attendance in the House, from the 29th of May last to the 13th of July current. Read and approved by the House.

In Council: Read and allowed.

Ordered, That a Warrant be drawn on the Treasury for £1819 15s., in full of said Roll.

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 14, 1776.

SIRS: I received your letter, and am well satisfied that I have so far pleased you. You mention sending two hundred and fifty pounds by Captain Nicholson. He brought me an order for that sum, but no cash. I have sent the order by Mr. Wells to receive the money. After paying the flour expense to the Potomack, the expense of discharging the brigs, and the hire for the vessels for the troops to Ellk, I shall lay out the remainder in any way you please to order. As I have opened an account for you, I shall credit you with the money, and charge you for what I do and pay for you, and render you a statement of the account monthly, or at the end of certain jobs done.

Mr. Wells has sundry proposals to make, but thinks it hard that he can't be paid his old account, which I know is hard on him, as a man can have no trust here for anything, and his circumstances won't admit of his laying out of his money so long.

There are twenty barrels of superfine flour left with me, and I was at the baker's last night; there is a good deal of bread baked and very good. If there is any wanted for the brig, please let me know in time; or if flour is wanted, I have a few barrels of flour I would sell at nine shillings per hundred, which I would send down for the brig.

From your humble servant,

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.

To the Hon. Council of Safety, at Annapolis.

P. S. My flour is fresh and good, if you should want to send any to Chingoteague for the brig.

JOHN HANSON, JUN., TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Fredericktown, July 14, 1776.

SIR: The mode pointed out by the Convention for arming the men now raising for the Continental service, I am afraid will prove ineffectual. The people are much averse to parting with their arms, unless they are immediately paid for them; and we know of no resolve authorizing such purchase. Should there be any such, be pleased to order a copy to be sent; or if your honourable Board should think proper to order such guns as may be necessary, to be bought up, I think the men would soon be sufficiently armed; and humbly offer it as my opinion, that unless some such step be taken, the providing of arms here, for the men that may be raised in this part of the County, will be altogether impracticable.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

JOHN HANSON, Jun.

To the Hon. Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, President of the Council of Safety.

COLONEL SOMERVILLE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Calvert County, July 14, 1776, }
Sunday, five o'clock. }

GENTLEMEN: About one o'clock yesterday morning, by express from Captain Beall, I received information that there were forty sail of vessels off Point Lookout, (eight of which were square-rigged,) and requesting some assistance from our Militia, and to get the other part in readiness in case they should proceed up the bay. Colonel Mackall not being in the country, I gave such orders as I thought might put us in the best posture of defence. The six upper companies were to hold themselves in readiness to march on the shortest notice, and with part of the rest I went to Drum-Point. About four o'clock a firing of cannon, &c., was heard, (supposed to be in the Potomack;) which is confirmed this morning by Mr. Hugh Hopewell, Jun., who was down near where the firing was, and brought the enclosed letter from Colonel Barnes, who also requested the assistance of Captain Beall and his men. Mr. Hopewell came to Drum-Point this morning about nine o'clock, and Captain Beall, with all the men he had there, set out about half-past ten, leaving that post in charge of our Militia, who are now but few in number; but I propose to get (and keep) there about sixty or seventy men, exclusive of officers, until I receive your orders, or until Captain Beall's return. The ships-of-war, tenders, &c., were this morning lying off between the St. Mary's River and Point-Lookout; and it is reported by some deserters from them, that they intend to land on St. George's Island, in the mouth of St. Mary's River. Captain Beall desired me to inform you of his marching, and desires your orders how he shall proceed. Colonel Barnes could not get an express to carry his letter to you in St. Mary's, and therefore sent it this way, and expects to receive your answer the same way, which I will send him as soon as it comes. I shall go to Drum-Point in the morning, and you may depend I will do all in my power to prevent their landing in this County, if they should alter their course so as to come up the bay or into the Patuxent.

This express is to be paid from Drum-Point to Annapolis, which is about fifty-five miles, and by which I expect your orders, which shall be punctually obeyed.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,
ALEXANDER SOMERVILLE.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

P. S. A messenger will be waiting at the late Captain Carroll's dwelling-house to-morrow evening to receive your answer to Colonel Barnes's letter. You will be pleased to direct what number of Militia can be kept on duty in this County, and what number of officers.

COLONEL DORSEY TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Captain Riggs waits on you with a company of Militia out of my battalion. This extremely busy time has prevented my sending them sooner. I hope they will be relieved by the Flying-Camp in a few days. If they are not, I purpose to relieve them by another company out of my battalion.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,
THOMAS DORSEY.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL ROBERDEAU.

Philadelphia, Sunday, July 14, 1776.

SIR: I have it this day in command from Congress to desire you will issue fresh orders and exert yourself to forward the immediate march of the whole Militia destined for the Jerseys from this Colony, the service requiring their being as soon as possible imbodyed in the Jerseys, in consequence of fresh advices from General Washington by express. I beg to request your particular attention to this matter.

I have the honour to be, sir, your very humble servant,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Brigadier-General Roberdeau.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by Congress most earnestly to request you will supply the Flying-Camp and Militia in the Jerseys with as many musket-cartridges, with balls therein, as you can possibly spare, and send them forward with the greatest despatch. The state of our affairs will not admit the least delay, nor need I use arguments to induce you to an immediate compliance with this requisition. I am likewise to request you will immediately order to the respective places of their destination all the British officers prisoners in this city. The ladies are not to go till the weather is fair.

The Committee of Congress are instructed to replace an equal quantity of powder to that delivered in cartridges.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To the Hon. Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL MERCER.

Philadelphia, July 14, 1776.

SIR: The Congress having been informed by General Washington, that he had given the command of the Flying Camp and Militia in New-Jersey, to you, and for that purpose you were stationed in the Jerseys, I have it in charge from Congress to empower and direct you to march such of the Militia and Flying-Camp to Brunswick, or other places in the Jerseys, as you may on all occasions judge necessary and most conducive to the publick service, provided it does not interfere with any prior direction from General Washington.

Four tons of powder were sent off to you a few days ago; and a large parcel of cartridges, well balled, will be this day forwarded to you, for the use of the troops under your command. Colonel Biddle, the Quartermaster-General, has orders to furnish all necessaries. He will wait on you, and follow such directions as you may judge necessary to give him.

You will please to give me the earliest intelligence of every occurrence by express, that it may be laid before Congress.

I most heartily wish success to your arms, and have the honour to be, with much esteem, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To Brigadier-General Mercer, New-Jersey.

LETTER FROM THE COMMITTEE FOR LANCASTER, PENNSYLVANIA.

In Committee, Lancaster, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee have received orders from the Congress, to keep a guard over the prisoners at the barracks, and to have the barracks surrounded by a stockaded fort. One principal design in this order is, doubtless, to prevent the prisoners from straggling abroad, and making their escape. The Committee, therefore, request of you to have strict inquiry made throughout your township immediately, for such prisoners as may be there, and have them immediately sent in to the barracks in this place, under a proper guard; and the officers of the Militia in the District are requested to give you every necessary assistance in carrying this matter into execution.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM S. ATLEE, Chairman.

To the Members of the Committee in Township, and the Officers of the Militia there.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Carlisle, July 14, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: In obedience to your letter, by order of Congress, bearing date Philadelphia, the 3d instant, now before us, and of the resolve of the Conference of Delegates, &c., at the State-House, the 5th instant, approved in Congress, we sent circular letters to each battalion in this County, requesting their compliance. By the intelligence we have already received, we think ourselves warranted to say, that we shall be able to send five companies, viz: one from each battalion, to compose part of the Flying-Camp, provided so many good arms can be had, and three companies of Militia, for the present exigency—some of whom will march this week.

With pleasure we assure you that a noble spirit appears amongst the inhabitants here. We find great scarcity of cash, even amongst men of considerable property. We are, therefore, under the necessity of sending the bearer hereof, Mr. John Boyd, express to you, with our draft, bearing date herewith, for £1,000, without which, we find the men cannot be suitably fitted out; and, therefore, we make no doubt you will honour our order, more especially when we inform you that we have taken up money already upon our own credit.

The spirit of marching to the defence of our country is so prevalent in this town, that we shall not have men left sufficient to mount guard, which we think absolutely necessary for the safety of the inhabitants and ammunition, and as a watch over the ten English officers, with their ten servants, to keep their parole of honour; especially as their brethren lately at Lebanon, in Lancaster County, lost it. And as there will not be more left in town here for the above purpose, we shall be obliged to hire a guard of twelve men from the County, which we think ought to be at the publick expense.

Although we do not charge those gentlemen with such behaviour as would warrant us to confine them, yet we have reason to believe their conversation has influenced many weak and ignorant persons, as well in town as within the six miles around it which is the line of their confinement; and their servants are dressed with hunting-shirts and trowsers, the uniform of our people, which might facilitate their escape.

We are, sir, your most obedient humble servants.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JOHN MONTGOMERY, Chairman.To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL MERCER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Perth Amboy, July 14, 1776.

SIR: This morning Lord Howe sent Lieutenant Reeve, of the Eagle man-of-war, with a flag of truce to this post. He delivered me the letters which accompany this.

Nothing worthy your attention has happened here since I had the honour to receive your instructions of the 11th inst., by Mr. Boss. The enemy's guards in our view continue without any new movement. From their number, it is probable that two regiments encamp near this end of Staten Island. We have been able, however, to procure no certain intelligence of their situation. No person has yet come over to us, nor is it easy to find one of our friends duly qualified or ready to undertake the business of a Spy on the Island. About four hundred of the Pennsylvania rifle battalion have joined us, and another party of the same regiment is on the way. From this last, I have ordered one hundred men to take post at the ferries of Passaick and Hackensack, and shall relieve all the Jersey Militia as soon as reinforcements arrive. When the two battalions of riflemen and one of musketry from Pennsylvania, are posted from hence to the ferries towards New-York, a favourable opportunity may probably offer to surprise the enemy's small posts. Boats may, I think, be procured; and the riflemen would be happy to be so employed. Such an enterprise is not suspected by the enemy, nor believed to be under consideration here.

I have the honour to be, sir, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

H. MERCER.

PHILIP B. BRADLEY TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Bergen, July 14, 1776.

HONoured SIR: I flatter myself that the continual hurry and multiplicity of business which I have had will apologize for not writing you sooner. The next day after my arrival at New-York, I was ordered, with General Wadsworth's brigade, to Bergen, in the Jerseys, nearly opposite to the enemy, besides which I have one battalion of the Jersey forces under my command.

The fleet, by small parties, are daily falling in. Vice-

Admiral Howe arrived Friday night last, so that we may expect a visit from them soon, but we hope to give them a warm reception.

I would acquaint your Honour that I have appointed the Rev. Isaac Lewis as Chaplain, and Doctor Salua Pell as Surgeon, with Amos Baker as his mate. I wish they may meet your approbation. Their abilities in their different departments, I make no doubt, are equal to the task.

And I am, honoured sir, your obedient, humble servant,
 PHILIP B. BRADLEY.

The Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 16, 1776. Referred to the Board of War.]

New-York, July 14, 1776.

SIR: My last, of Friday evening, which I had the honour of addressing you, advised that two of the enemy's ships of war and three tenders had run above our batteries here and the works at the upper end of the Island. I am now to inform you, that yesterday forenoon, receiving intelligence from General Mifflin that they had passed the Tappan Sea, and were trying to proceed higher up, by advice of R. R. Livingston, Esq., and other gentlemen, I despatched an express to General Clinton, of Ulster, and the Committee of Safety for Dutchess County, to take measures for securing the passes in the Highlands, lest they might have designs of seizing them, and have a force concealed for the purpose. I wrote the evening before to the commanding officers of the two garrisons there, to be vigilant, and prepared against any attempts they or any disaffected persons might make against them, and to forward expresses all the way to Albany, that provision and other vessels might be secured and prevented falling into their hands. The information given General Mifflin was rather premature, as to their having gone past the sea. A letter from the Committee of Orange County, which came to hand this morning, says they were there yesterday, and that a regiment of their Militia was under arms to prevent their landing and making an incursion. The messenger who brought it, and to whom it refers for particulars, adds, that a party of them in two or three boats had approached the shore, but were forced back by our people firing at them. Since the manœuvre of Friday there have been no other movements in the fleet.

General Sullivan, in a letter of the 2d instant, informs me of his arrival with the Army at Crown-Point, where he is fortifying and throwing up works. He adds, that he has secured all the stores, except three cannon left at Chambly, which in part is made up by taking a fine twelve-pounder out of the Lake. The Army is sickly, many with the small-pox, and he is apprehensive the Militia ordered to join them will not escape the infection. An officer he had sent to reconnoitre had reported that he saw at St. John's about one hundred and fifty tents, twenty at St. Roy's, and fifteen at Chambly, and works at the first were busily carrying on.

I have enclosed a General Return of the Army here, which will show the whole of our strength; all the detached posts are included.

A letter from the eastward, by last night's post, to Mr. Hazard, Postmaster in this city, advises, that two ships have been taken and carried into Cape Ann—one from Antigua, consigned to General Howe, with four hundred and thirty-nine puncheons of rum; the other a Jamaican, with four hundred hogsheads of sugar, two hundred puncheons of rum, thirty-nine bales of cotton, pimento, fustic, &c., &c.; each mounted two guns, six-pounders.

About three o'clock this afternoon I was informed that a flag from Lord Howe was coming up, and waited with two of our whale-boats until directions should be given. I immediately convened such of the General Officers as were not upon other duty, who agreed in opinion that I ought not to receive any letter directed to me as a private gentleman; but if otherwise, and the officer desired to come up to deliver the letter himself, as was suggested, he should come under a safe conduct. Upon this, I directed Colonel Reed to go down and manage the affair under the above general instruction. On his return he informed me, that after the common civilities, the officer acquainted him that he had a letter from Lord Howe to Mr. Washington, which he showed, under a superscription "To George Washington, Esq." Colonel Reed replied, there was no such person in the Army, and that a letter intended for the General could not be received under such a direction. The officer expressed great concern; said it was a letter of rather a civil than military nature; that Lord Howe regretted he had not arrived sooner; that he (Lord Howe) had great powers. The anxiety to have the letter received was very evident, though the officer disclaimed all knowledge of its contents. However, Colonel Reed's instructions being positive, they parted. After they had got some distance, the officer with the flag again put about, and asked under what direction Mr. Washington chose to be addressed; to which Colonel Reed answered, his station was well known, and that certainly they could be at no loss how to direct to him. The officer said they knew and lamented it; and again repeated his wish that the letter could be received. Colonel Reed told him a proper direction would obviate all difficulties, and that this was no new matter, the subject having been fully discussed in the course of the last year, of which Lord Howe could not be ignorant: upon which they parted.

I would not, upon any occasion, sacrifice essentials to punctilio; but in this instance, the opinion of others concurring with my own, I deemed it a duty to my country and my appointment to insist upon that respect which in any other than a publick view I would willingly have waived. Nor do I doubt but, from the supposed nature of the message and the anxiety expressed, they will either repeat their flag, or fall upon some mode to communicate the import and consequence of it.

I have been duly honoured with your two letters, that of the 10th by Mr. Anderson, and the 11th with its enclosures, and have directed the Quartermaster to provide him with everything he wants to carry his scheme into execution. It is an important one, and I wish it success, but I am doubtful that it will be better in theory than practice.

The passage of the ships of war and tenders up the river is a matter of great importance, and has excited much conjecture and speculation. To me, two things have occurred, as leading them to this proceeding: first, a design to seize on the narrow passes on both sides the river, giving almost the only land communication with Albany, and, of consequence, with our northern Army, and for which purpose they might have troops concealed on board, which they deemed competent of themselves, as the defiles are narrow, or that they would be joined by many disaffected persons in that quarter; others have added a probability of their having a large quantity of arms on board, to be in readiness to put into the hands of the Tories immediately on the arrival of the fleet, or rather, at the time they intend to make their attack. The second is, to cut off entirely all intercourse between this place and Albany by water, and the upper country, and to prevent supplies of every kind going and coming. These matters are truly alarming, and of such importance that I have written to the Provincial Congress of New-York, and recommended to their serious consideration the adoption of every possible expedient to guard against the two first, and have suggested the propriety of their employing the Militia, or some part of them, in the Counties in which their defiles are, to keep the enemy from possessing them, until further provision can be made; and to write to the several leading persons on our side, in that quarter, to be attentive to all the movements of the ships and the disaffected, in order to discover and frustrate whatever pernicious schemes they have in view.

In respect to the second conjecture of my own, and which seems to be generally adopted, I have the pleasure to inform Congress, that, if their design is to keep the Armies from provisions, the Commissary has told me, upon inquiry, that he has forwarded supplies to Albany, now there and above it, sufficient for ten thousand men for four months; that he has a sufficiency here for twenty thousand men for three months, and an abundant quantity secured in different parts of the Jerseys for the Flying-Camp, besides having about four thousand barrels of flour in some neighbouring part of Connecticut. Upon this head there is but little occasion for any apprehensions, at least for a considerable time.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of great esteem, your most obedient servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

P. S. I have sent orders to the commanding officer of the Pennsylvania Militia to march to Amboy, as their remaining at Trenton can be of no service.

New-York, July 13, 1776.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Head-Quarters, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The passage of the enemy up North River is a point big with many consequences to the publick interest; one particularly occurs to me well deserving your attention, and to prevent which I shall gladly give every assistance in my power, consistent with the safety of the Army. I am informed there are several passes on each side of the river, upon which the communication with Albany depends, of so commanding a nature that an inconsiderable body of men may defend them against the largest numbers. It may be that on board these ships there may be troops for this purpose, who, expecting to be joined by the disaffected in that quarter, or confiding in their own strength, may endeavour to seize those defiles, in which case the intercourse between the two Armies, both by land and water, will be wholly cut off, than which a greater misfortune could hardly befall the service and Army. I must entreat you to take the measure into consideration, and, if possible, provide against an evil so much to be apprehended. I should hope the Militia of those Counties might be used on such an emergency, until further provision was made.

I have also thought it very probable those ships may have carried up arms and ammunition, to be dealt out to those who may favour their cause, and coöperate with them at a prefixed time. I would, to guard against this, submit to your consideration the propriety of writing to the leading men on our side in those Counties, to be very vigilant in observing any movements of this kind, in order that so dangerous a scheme may be nipped in the bud; and for that purpose, to keep the utmost attention to the conduct of the principal Tories in those parts—any attempts of intercourse with the ships, and all other circumstances which may lead to a discovery of their schemes and the destruction of their measures.

I am, gentlemen, &c.,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Convention of the State of New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 14, 1776.

SIR: From sundry accounts received of the troops you command, I have reason to believe they will halt at Trenton, and there wait further orders. As I do not see any advantage which can arise from your continuance there, and the honourable Continental Congress has committed the disposition of them to me until the Flying-Camp is formed, you will, on receipt of this, proceed to Amboy, in New-Jersey, where General Mercer is appointed to command, and there, putting yourself under his direction, receive and obey such orders as he may give.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Commanding Officer of the Pennsylvania Troops, at Trenton, (or elsewhere,) New-Jersey.

COLONEL RITZEMA TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-York, July 14, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Conscious in my own mind that I never have said or done anything wittingly which had a tendency to disparage the Continental troops or service, much less to speak contumeliously of any of the General Officers, and, above all, of the American cause—a cause which I have as much at heart as any man in America, and in which I have frequently ventured my life the last campaign, and was the first man in the Province of New-York who ever took up arms in defence of it, a cause for which I am still willing to lay down my life,—it therefore grieves me sorely that my integrity should be called in question, and that secret enemies should endeavour to blast my character in your Excellency's estimation. Finding that I have many of these, and that words which I may have unguardedly uttered have been construed to the worst of purposes, I humbly crave, to avoid further persecution, your Excellency's leave to resign my commission, and to retire to my good and aged father in the country, not doubting but in a little time your Excellency and the world will be convinced that I am not the man I am by some represented to be.

I am, may it please your Excellency, your Excellency's very humble servant,

RUDOLPHUS RITZEMA.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL RITZEMA.

Head-Quarters, July 14, 1776.

SIR: At a period so critical as the present, when our unnatural enemies are in full view, and hourly expected to strike a blow which may be supposed in a great measure to decide the fate of America, I must confess I am not a little surprised to find an officer of your rank in the Army soliciting leave to resign his commission, more especially considering the predicament you are now in. I should rather hope that, as you are so conscious of your innocence, you would urge an inquiry into your conduct, to convince the world that the complaints exhibited against you are totally groundless; and that the malice of your worst enemies cannot do the least injury to your reputation, which, to a soldier, ought ever to be dearer than life.

I don't know how far I can, with propriety, countermand the order for the Court of Inquiry, as it is already given out in General Orders; however, I will think of it, and give you my answer to-morrow.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To Colonel Rudolphus Ritzema.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Committee of the Convention of Representatives of the State of New-York, at the City-Hall of the City of
New-York, July 14, 1776.

SIR: I am directed by the Committee to inform your Excellency that a great number of the persons now confined in our jail are from Queen's County, on Long-Island, and, from all appearances, we are confident that they are in sentiment inimical to that glorious cause in which, with your Excellency, we have the honour to be engaged. We have it in our power to confine them close prisoners, or take security for their future conduct. The inconvenience of crowding the jails throughout the County with people of this character, if they can safely be permitted to continue at their usual places of residence, is striking, as it must fill their minds with the sourness of opposition, and at the same time, by rousing and enraging all their connexions, and giving a just alarm to every person suspected of holding similar principles, raise up numerous enemies actuated by revenge and despair. If, on the other hand, security is taken for their peaceable demeanour, at the same time binding them to continue at their usual places of abode, the dangers I have just suggested to your Excellency will indeed be removed; but another cause of serious apprehension will still remain, and we shall risk much from their correspondence with the enemy, while perhaps it may be difficult to prevent them from knowing the measures which may be taken by your Excellency for the publick service. In this disagreeable dilemma, we find ourselves under the necessity of asking advice, sir, from you, and such persons in your council as you may think proper to consult, it being our wish that our conduct should conform to the sentiments of those who are intrusted with the important concerns of the United States.

We have seriously pondered on the business your Excellency recommended to our attention, by the letter we were yesterday honoured with; and while we are alarmed at the dangers impending upon a neglect of what your Excellency hath pointed out to us, we feel ourselves much at a loss for measures which will be effectual. We shall suggest to your Excellency the propriety of removing from this Island every person, except the soldiery, who shall not have a permission from the Committee of this County to continue thereon; and after that period, a small degree of caution may prevent vagrants or spies from obtaining intelligence. But upon this and every other plan which may be proposed, we should be glad to have an opportunity of consulting with your Excellency, being extremely anxious for the adoption of the most speedy and efficacious measures to promote the publick service.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

GOUV. MORRIS.

To His Excellency General Washington.

To His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esquire, Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Thirteen UNITED STATES of NORTH AMERICA.

The Memorial of sundry Inhabitants of the City of NEW-YORK, and other friends to the peace and safety of the UNITED STATES of AMERICA, sheweth :

That your Memorialists have been vigilant in finding out the enemies to the American States, in order to their being removed from all such places where they have opportunity of doing mischief to our common cause at this critical time ; when the greatest precaution is necessary for the publick safety.

Your Memorialists are of opinion, that suffering Tories to remain in this city, or near it, in Long-Island, and Shrewsbury, &c., will be attended with much danger.

Zeal for the prosperity of the glorious cause in which we are engaged, and for the safety of your Excellency's person, prompt us now to address your Excellency on this interesting affair. Give us leave at the same time to express our readiness to assist, as far as in our power, in every laudable measure that may be recommended for the publick safety.

Your Memorialists therefore pray your Excellency, that orders may be given for the removal of dangerous persons from this city, and other places, to some distant parts in the country, that the minds of your Memorialists and other friends to our cause may be relieved from their uneasiness.

And your Memorialists shall pray, &c.

COLONEL PARKE TO THE NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

New-York Camp, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I did not receive your notification till this morning after the time appointed. I send you herewith the names of the neighbours who are acquainted with Mr. Tyler's character, and can best inform you of his past conduct ; nor would he have been noticed now, had not he come into Colonel Wylls's encampment and began to display the inveteracy of his heart among the soldiers, at the same time treating the officers with the greatest insolence. I hope he will be able to wipe this infamous stigma from his character ; but if not, I know your attachment to your country will suggest a proper mode of treatment for him. The persons ready to give evidence against him are: Paul Green and wife, Pelatiah Haws, Nathaniel Peck, Mrs. Susan Holloway, Captain John Warner, Sergeant Isaac Piper and wife, Mrs. Sarah Wood, and Captain Ives ; besides other witnesses, which may be procured on occasion. These persons live in the neighbourhood, and may be had by a summons for that purpose.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JOHN PARKE.

To the Committee of Safety, New-York.

P. S. Mr. Tyler belongs to Captain Warner's company. John Lowe and his brother are further evidences.

GENERAL MIFFLIN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Mount Washington, July 14, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: The party opposite to us on the Jersey side are at work on the mountain, and will soon have the ground prepared for cannon. I was obliged to call the party of one hundred and fifty men from our point and set them at work on two traverses, which the enemy's fire on Friday convinced me were necessary in the fort.

I have removed the small building, which was placed near the bastion on the right entering the sally-port, behind one of the traverses ; and have, through necessity, made use of it as a Magazine.

When the carpenters have finished the proper Magazine, I will take care to settle it as low as possible, and render it as secure as the ground will permit. At present, we have no security for our powder.

A battery on the height, above our point, of eighteen pounders, would render the passage of the river very difficult, although our late experiments may have taught us that it is not easy to prevent it. The ships were obliged to pass very near to it: our rifles reached them. The men having worked all Friday night, and being much fatigued, I have relieved them from fatigue this day. I want much your Excellency's orders respecting the places next to be secured. Bulwarks connected with our fort are certainly necessary ; we are weak without them. I shall, therefore, unless otherwise directed, order the party of one hundred and fifty from Nyack, to finish the battery on the point, and then erect another on the rock above it ; our own men to finish the traverses, and proceed with some outworks and a strong abattis. As to a ditch, it is very difficult, and will require much time to complete one: that I must leave until more essential works are completed.

Last night I sent an alert and prudent officer to watch the motions of the ships and Tories. He is properly equipped and well qualified for the business. The ships lay in sight of us all yesterday, about four or five miles above Dobbs's Ferry. I have sent out to know where they are this morning ; the weather prevented our seeing them at their station yesterday.

I beg leave to mention the necessity of securing the communications, opposite to us, with New-Jersey ; a small part of the Flying-Camp, as the ground is strong, would answer the purpose.

The heights over the bridge, and south of King's Bridge, near the Three Trees, well known by your Excellency, are, in my opinion, of immense importance to us, especially if the enemy attempt an impression, or determine to throw up a line of contravallation against our posts on this Island, and try to shut us in.

Mr. John Delany frequently passes King's Bridge, with a pass from General Putnam. I have seen him twice, and heard of his being on the road to and from New-York, four times since Wednesday.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COMMITTEE OF ORANGE COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Nothing can be more pleasing than, on all occasions, to see the people ready to fly to the protection of any part of the country where there is any danger from the enemy ; but at this extremely busy season, I cannot recommend your keeping the regiment imbodyed. It would be well to notify them all to be ready at a moment's warning to assemble at any place they may be called to. Every precaution ought to be taken to prevent the men-of-war from getting any supplies of fresh provisions, or keeping up any intercourse or correspondence with the disaffected inhabitants. I shall be much obliged for timely information of every manœuvre of the ships and tenders up the river, and hope that every necessary step will be taken to prevent any of our vessels falling into their hands.

I am, gentlemen, with esteem, your most humble servant,
Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of Orange County, New-York.

COLONEL HAY TO GENERAL GEORGE CLINTON.

Sunday Evening, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: On Friday afternoon three ships of war and four cutters of the Ministerial fleet passed the city of New-York; one forty and one twenty-gun ship, with the four cutters, anchored in the bay, opposite Nyack. On Friday night I called out my regiment, in order to prevent the enemy from landing and committing depredations on the west shore, which we have hitherto done. At twelve o'clock yesterday a barge and cutter attempted to land; the latter grounded at some distance from the shore, and the barge, being fired upon by our guard, returned to the ships. In the night another barge came so near the shore that she was spoken to by the guard; and we are in hourly expectation of another attempt. My regiment, which consists of but four hundred men, has now been upon duty, night and day, since Friday evening, and are greatly fatigued with the service. The men express great uneasiness, under apprehension that they shall lose their harvest, as the grain is now fit to gather, and no persons to take it in, if they are obliged to guard the shore. In this situation, I thought it my duty to apply to you for support. As we have considerable extent of shore to guard, it is necessary to employ the whole regiment on constant duty; which, if continued, will be ruinous to the country, unless supported by a detachment of one hundred and fifty or two hundred men from your brigade; for this purpose I have despatched the bearer express. Your known attachment to the cause, and the zeal your people have shown, leaves us every reason to hope for an immediate support. The Militia of Bergen are drawn off towards Staten-Island; and the city of New-York is in hourly expectation of being attacked; so that we can expect no assistance from that quarter. If two or three armed boats could be sent down with the detachment, it would be most convenient for the transportation of the men and their provision, and will be an essential service in keeping off the barges, and following them from place to place. Despatch the bearer as soon as possible. As I have been up two days and nights and am much fatigued, I hope you will excuse the inaccuracy of this scrawl.

I am, dear sir, yours, in haste, A. HAWKES HAY.

P. S. Should be happy to have your advice and assistance in this matter.

EGBERT BENSON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Red-Hook, Dutchess County, July 14, 1776.

SIR: This acknowledges the receipt of your Excellency's letter of yesterday, which I immediately transmitted to General Ten Broeck, and shall without delay transmit the necessary expresses to Connecticut.

As the matter may be exaggerated, I take the liberty of informing your Excellency that the late insurrection of the Tories in this County was rather an inconsiderable affair—no person of the least repute or importance concerned, and is entirely suppressed.

I am your Excellency's most obedient servant,
EGBERT BENSON.

To General Washington.

COLONEL JAMES CLINTON TO THE COMMITTEE OF DUTCHESS COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Fort Constitution, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received yours of this day, and approve much of your plan for making fire-rafts, and doubt not but that you will carry the same into execution with the utmost expedition. I think it advisable to purchase two other old sloops (or more if necessary) for the purpose; but let it be done at the cheapest rate—the oldest and worst sloops will do. Let men value them; but they must be had at any rate. When your rafts are completed, they must be sent here without delay—the sooner the better. I could wish, if the General's letter (a copy of which you have) will warrant it, a galley or two, to carry a nine-pounder in their bows, as they might answer a valuable purpose; but this I must submit to you. I want a whale-boat exceedingly, to reconnoitre the enemy; if one can be had, or built, and sent here, without retarding the other business, it would be of great service.

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

I am, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient servant,

JAMES CLINTON, Colonel.

COMMITTEE OF POUGHKEEPSIE TO COLONEL JAMES CLINTON.

Poughkeepsie, July 14, 1776.

SIR: We have sent off to Esopus for the Tory sloop there, and the ship-carpenters are busied in making fire-rafts. We would ask your opinion if it would not be best to purchase two other old sloops, which lash together with chains, two fire-rafts between each two sloops, and, if a northerly wind, sail them directly down on the enemy. When the rafts are completed, and if the ships have not passed your forts, we would ask you if we must not send down the sloops and rafts near the forts.

I am, sir, your most obedient and humble servant,
JOHN BAILEY, Chairman.

To Colonel James Clinton.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I had the honour to write his Excellency General Washington on the 12th, by express, which I then communicated; I hope you will have received it before this comes to hand. Captain Marquisie has begged me for a letter to you, and to mention that he has lost all his baggage in the retreat from Canada: he is the bearer of this.

I wish you much health and happiness. I am, dear sir, with perfect esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. Mr. Marquisie has received from me eighty dollars on account.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Soon after Bennet had left me, I received a line from General Gates, covering a paper, copy of which I have the honour to enclose.

Yesterday a discovery was made of some desperate designs of the Tories in this quarter. I am bound by oath not to divulge names or particulars. Such measures are taken that the danger is, I hope, over; and about one o'clock this morning four of the conspirators (amongst whom is a ring-leader) were apprehended about three miles from town. I have ordered two companies of Van Schaick's immediately to march from Fort George to this place.

I am, dear sir, most truly, your Excellency's obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The bearer, Captain Marquisie, a French gentleman, sent by Congress as an Engineer to the Northern Department, is on his return to Philadelphia, and has entreated me to introduce him to your Excellency. I do not know what his abilities are as an engineer; he appears to be a modest and discreet man.

I am, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

H. SCHUYLER TO GENERAL GATES.

Skenesborough, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to general orders which came to hand this day, I have sent a lad, who is a fifer in Captain Coughran's company in one of the new regiments that is now raising, which lad has been lately to Crown-Point with his father, and has taken the small-pox. The father of the lad is named Seth Stow, and the lad's name is Abijah. In my opinion, the father of this lad, as being a recruiting sergeant, should be made to suffer for his contempt of general orders. Your Honour will best know how to act when he arrives at Ticonderoga.

I am, dear sir, your very humble servant,

HAR. SCHUYLER,

Assistant Deputy Quartermaster-General.

To the Honourable General Gates.

CAPTAIN VEEDERS TO GENERAL GATES.

Skenesborough, July 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am but lately arrived here with part of my company; expect the remainder very soon. Came by the way of Ticonderoga, but by General Schuyler ordered to this station. And having no ammunition for my men, and appointed here as a guard, I thought it my duty, as soon as I conveniently could, to acquaint your Honour, or any other commanding in your room, of our want of such necessaries. I therefore beg your Honour will, as soon as may be, send what quantity you think will best suit our present situation. A quantity of flints, with powder and ball, will be very necessary.

I am, dear sir, your very humble servant,

ABM. VEEDERS, *Captain.*To the Hon. General Gates, Ticonderoga.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER AT FORT GEORGE TO HIS FRIEND, AN OFFICER IN NEW-YORK, DATED JULY 14, 1776.

I never knew the fatigues of a campaign until I arrived at Canada. The most shocking scenes that ever appeared in a camp were constantly exhibited to view. When General Sullivan arrived in Canada the Army was torn in pieces by sickness and other unaccountable occurrences. A whole regiment was not to be found together. General Sullivan, with his usual activity and alertness, collected together a debilitated, dispirited army, tried the strength of the enemy, who were at least four to our one, and performed one of the most remarkable retreats that was ever known. No person who was not present can conceive a tenth part of the difficulties attending it: the enemy at our heels; three thousand of our men sick of the small-pox, and those who were most healthy like so many walking apparitions; all our baggage, stores, and artillery, to be removed, officers as well as men all employed in hauling cannon, &c. Our batteaus loaded, were all moved up the rapids six miles; one hundred of them were towed by our poor wearied men up to their armpits in water. This was performed in one day and a half, our sick and baggage all safely landed at St. John's, and from thence at Crown-Point, with the loss of only three cannon, which were but poor ones. All this was accomplished through the amazing exertions of General Sullivan, who performed what appeared to be almost impossible to have been done by mortal man. He is now on his way to New-York.

GENERAL GATES TO LIEUTENANT GANSEVOORT.

Tyonderoga, July 14, 1776.

SIR: The bearer, Lieutenant Tenbrook, has the care of thirteen Indians, sent hither from Crown-Point with a letter to Major-General Schuyler. The small-pox is broke out upon one of the young Indian lads. You will order the surgeons at your post to give all the assistance in their power to recover him. When the Indians incline to go on to Albany, you will send an escort with them to see them safe to General Schuyler. Though they are considered in the light of prisoners, I would recommend that their imprisonment be made as easy as possible. You will order them to be supplied with such refreshments and accommodations as your post affords.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HORATIO GATES.

To Lieutenant C. Gansevoort, or Commanding Officer at Fort George.

GENERAL GATES TO HERMANUS SCHUYLER.

Tyonderoga, July 14, 1776.

SIR: The iron, axes, &c., which you wrote for yesterday, are sent you by the conveyance. General Waterbury, who presents you this letter, goes to Skenesborough to wait for the Militia who are upon their march from Connecticut, and will soon be with you. He has General Schuyler's directions for several things to be immediately done at your post, which he will acquaint you with upon his arrival. You will act in conjunction with General Waterbury, and do your utmost, with his command and assistance, to forward the publick service.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HORATIO GATES.

To Mr. Hermanus Schuyler.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 14, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I have this morning sent off Colonels Maxwell's and Winds's regiments, with most of the artillery and stores. Want of boats prevented my sending off all the sick and companies of artillery. I have just sent off the last boats we had to Onion River, and other places, for boards; believe I can procure twenty or thirty thousand feet, and send you, in a few days. We shall have occasion for at least one hundred boats, to take up all the Army, unless part of them should march by land. If you think proper to order the Army to Ticonderoga, will it not be necessary to keep one regiment here?

Enclosed is the sentence of a general court-martial, who have thought proper to dismiss Colonel Campbell the service. He is under confinement, and will be glad to know if his sentence is confirmed or not. I am surprised we hear nothing from New-York.

I am, dear General, your affectionate and obedient humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To Major-General Gates.

CAPTAIN BROWNSON TO GENERAL GATES.

Pittsford, July 14, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: At seven o'clock last evening one Brica Dunlap, of Captain Jones's company, of the First Battalion, under Colonel De Haas, of the Pennsylvania forces, who I confined on the 7th of last May near Point de Trembles for the murder of Corporal Kelly, belonging to said company and battalion, came to this post, when I immediately confined him. Having sent off all my men scouting except a few, (and they have not had the small-pox,) which disenables me to send said prisoner back, I have sent an express, waiting your Honour's direction respecting the prisoner.

As your Honour gave Colonel Warner orders to send a party of men to Sisco Bay to burn Medcalf Mills, before he arrived at this post I had sent off the men in scouting parties, so that there were not men sufficient to perform it. Till some come in, which I expect soon, whether it would not forward the business to send to Colonel Wait orders to do it, your Honour's wisdom can determine. Your command by the express will be punctually obeyed by your Honour's very humble servant at command, GIDEON BROWNSON, *Captain.*His Honour Major-Gen. Gates, Commander at Crown-Point.

N. B. The express was present when the murder was committed.

EBENEZER BARTRAM TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, July 14, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: I take the liberty to inform your Honour that this day the brig Defence came from Newport, and arrived here; and in our cruise, of which your Honour has had information, in the engagement with the ship and brig, (by the side of the ship, and the brig lying right astern,) and not being in our power to fire on the brig, we had to suffer their fire near two hours, until both were compelled to strike, by the brave activity of our worthy Captain, who behaved like the seaman, like the gentleman, and like a man of honour. Therefore, honoured sir, if you have any promotions to make, it is my opinion that Captain Harding is as deserving a gentleman as any in the Colony of Connecticut, without exception; and I must applaud the gallant behaviour of Lieutenant Smedley, and likewise the other officers and men, who behaved in the most brave manner. If any promotion to Captain Harding, may it please your Honour to let me know the gentleman whom your Honour appoints to succeed Captain Harding.

With due respect, I am, your Honour's humble servant,
EBENEZER BARTRAM.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Lebanon.

ANDREW HAMILTON TO JABEZ FISHER.

Springfield, July 14, 1776.

SIR: Major Pyncheon informed me that the honourable Board of Council intended taking my case into consideration. Should it be agreeable to them to release me from my present disagreeable situation, I will be ready to wait on them, and give them any reasonable assurances for my future behaviour that they may think requisite.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

ANDREW HAMILTON.

To the Honourable Jabez Fisher, Esq.

SIR: You may remember, when I saw you at Watertown, I told you I knew of nothing that could be alleged against Mr. Hamilton, since his stay amongst us, that would prevent his discharge. I am, sir, still of the same opinion. He is still very desirous of the same; and should the honourable Board see fit to do it, he is ready to give any assurances to them that they will require for his future conduct.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM PYNCHON, Jun.

To the Honourable Jabez Fisher, Esq.

COLONEL CHILD TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Chester, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Pursuant to my direction, I proceeded to Ipswich, Salem, and Marblehead, in quest of guns; purchased twenty-three, the price about ten dollars each; also, by Colonel Bayley's advice, bought two hundred weight of lead. The amount of the whole is £77. Am forwarding the same as fast as possible. Have received the guns you lodged at Mr. Webster's. The expense of buying, freight, &c., I cannot now ascertain. Will forward an account as soon as possible. Any commands you may have further for me shall be punctually complied with.

In haste, I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

JONATHAN CHILD.

To the Committee of Safety at Exeter.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ONE OF THE COUNCIL OF SAFETY AT ANNAPOLIS TO HIS FRIEND IN BALTIMORE, DATED MONDAY, JULY 15, 1776.

The Council of Safety have this moment received information, by express, from Colonel Barnes, of St. Mary's County, that Lord Dunmore had been compelled by the Virginians to remove from Gwin's Island; that on Saturday morning he made his appearance off Point Lookout, in the mouth of Potomack, with a fleet of fifty-five sail, including eight square-rigged vessels; that on Sunday morning he had got as high up the river as St. George's Island, in the mouth of the St. Mary's River, and that he (Colonel Barnes) conjectured that his intention was to take possession of that Island; that the Militia in St. Mary's were all in motion, and that many of them had taken stations on the river side, to give him a proper reception, if he attempted landing on the main, &c. Two boats from the fleet, with five persons on board, (three whites and two blacks,) were either driven on shore by my Lord, or deserted, with the small-pox on them. I think the former is most likely, because the villain would be glad to spread that horrid disease as much as possible. Those people informed Colonel Barnes that our good friend Governor Eden is in the fleet. This Island is a poor miserable place, it is said; if so, Dunmore's stay there will not be long; and where he will next push to is altogether uncertain—perhaps up the bay.

WILLIAM LUX TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Captain Robert Saunders has been on board the Alfred, Admiral Hopkins, ever since he first fitted out. He went on board at first as a pilot, when the fleet was intended for Virginia; but after their destination was altered, he remained on board, and was in the action with the Glasgow. He has testimonials of his good behaviour, and I believe will meet preferment in the Continental service; but, as you are intended to fit out tenders and gondolas, if it be agreeable to give him the command of one, I presume it would be more satisfactory to him; and when you direct, I will write for him to return.

Commodore Bouchier has sent up for Captain Moore, to go into the Virginia service; but as I made application to you in his behalf, I have prevailed on him to wait a day or two for your answer. I must say that I think him very clever in his deportment, and has, perhaps, seen more service than any other that will be in that employ, and should be sorry were he to quit the service of our Province. If, therefore, you choose to keep him as Captain to one of your vessels, you will please to write by Mr. Yoks, who returns early to-morrow.

You will want rigging for your vessels, which we shall hope to furnish; and, with much respect, I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM LUX.

To the Honourable Council of Safety, at Annapolis.

COLONEL JORDAN TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

St. Mary's County, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This serves to inform you that there is now lying off the mouth of St. Mary's River between seventy and eighty vessels. I am now at Leonardtown, on my way down, with part of the Sixth Battalion under my command, where I received an express from Colonel Barnes, (who is now at St. Inigoes Neck with the lower battalion,) informing me that this morning ten boats full of men landed on St. George's Island, and had returned for more. I expect to be opposite the Island some time this night, and shall endeavour to get the best intelligence I can of their numbers, and give the earliest notice. We shall want more powder and lead, and also flints, if they are to be had. Major Eden, by whom this goes, will inform you more fully. The Committee for this County sat this day, and have detained Captain Forrest's company until they hear from you.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JEREMIAH JORDAN.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

P. S. Enclosed are Captain Forrest's and Lieutenant Bond's enrollments; the other two officers have completed theirs, but have not returned them to Captain Forrest. Captain Forrest desires me to inform you that his enrollment was completed the day before they were received by the Field-Officer.

JOHN DORSEY TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

SIR: My son tells me that Captain Nathaniel Smith informed him that there is a vacancy in his company of a Third Lieutenantcy, and as he had not an opportunity of being pressed into Colonel Smallwood's battalion, I should be very happy in getting him with Captain Smith or Captain Fulford. Major Price, if in town, can inform your Honours of his behaviour while under him. If these vacancies should be filled up, he will continue with Captain Smith till he may meet with an opportunity of preferment. I hope you will excuse the freedom I have taken in writing to you on this occasion.

I am, with respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN DORSEY.

To Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Esq., Annapolis.

WILLIAM HINDMAN TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

In Committee, Talbot County, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We herewith send you, under the guard of Messrs. Charles Troup, John Hindman, and Nathan Walker, three of our Militia, William Barclay Townsend, who was this day presented to us under an authority from the Committee of Worcester County, to appear before your Board.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM HINDMAN, Chairman.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

SAMUEL BARRETT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Skipton, July 15, 1776.

SIR: By a resolve of our Committee I am to apply to you for eight hundred weight of lead to answer the powder received, we having no lead in this district, and therefore the powder is useless without the lead.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

LEMUEL BARRETT, Chairman.

To Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Esq., Chairman of the Council of Safety, Annapolis.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL SOMERVILLE.

[No. 34.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We received yours of the 14th, and by the same opportunity one from Colonel Richard Barnes, informing us that Lord Dunmore and the fleet were within the mouth of the Potomack, and, as he heard, intended to take possession of an Island called St. George's Island; but as their designs are uncertain, we think you had better give notice to your battalion to keep themselves in readiness to march to oppose any attempt they may make to land in your County, and likewise to assist in any neighbouring County.

Captain Beall will have orders from us to remain in St. Mary's County with Colonel Barnes, to watch the motion of the enemy, and to regulate his motions accordingly. He will move to you if there should be a necessity. We have written to Brigadier Dent, who will take the command of the Militia and regular forces in his district. You will communicate this to Colonel Mackall, if he should have returned to your County. We are, &c.

To Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander Somerville.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN REZIN BEALL.

[No. 35.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We expect this will find you in St. Mary's County, as we hear from Colonel Somerville that you marched from Drum-Point on the 14th. It is impossible for us to give absolute and particular directions to you, as the designs of the enemy are not known to us. We can only instruct you to watch their motions, and regulate your own accordingly. You will stay in St. Mary's County so long as you apprehend the enemy may have any design of landing there, or making any attempt to distress or plunder the inhabitants. If they should move from thence to any other part of the Potomack, or up the bay, to land on this shore, you will follow them with all the despatch you can. We have sent instructions to Brigadier Dent, to take the command of the Militia and regular forces in this district; whose orders, when they reach you, you will obey.

We are, &c.

To Captain Rezin Beall.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GENERAL DENT.

[No. 36.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: By different letters we have received from St. Mary's and Calvert, we are informed that the fleet under Lord Dunmore have appeared in the mouth of the Potomack, and it is apprehended they may attempt a landing on some part of that river in the lower Counties on this shore. We therefore think it expedient that you should give directions to the Militia of your district to have themselves in readiness to oppose the enemy in case they should attempt any hostilities. We think it expedient that, on this emergency, you should yourself take the command, and remain with them till you hear further from us. As the Militia for the Flying-Camp are not in readiness, we conceive it will not interfere with your duty as Brigadier of those corps, and your presence will be much wanted at this time in your district. Captain Beall, with his Independent Company, is now at St. Mary's County, ready to oppose the enemy. He and his company will likewise be subject to your command. We shall be glad to hear from you. We are, &c.

To Brigadier-General Dent.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO RICHARD BARNES.

[No. 37.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We have yours of the 13th, and are glad you sent for Captain Beall's company, who, we have the pleasure to hear, marched immediately to you. We would have that company remain with you to watch the motions of the enemy, and assist you in case they should attempt a landing. We have written to Brigadier Dent to have all the Militia in his district kept in readiness to march to your assistance, if there should be a necessity. He will also take on him the command of the Independent Company. You will, on all occasions, send us up notice of the motions of the enemy, and we shall order you every assistance in our power. We are, &c.

To Colonel Richard Barnes.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN THOMAS.

[No. 38.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We have just received intelligence that makes it necessary for us to stop your proceeding up the bay with your company. We therefore desire that you will immediately return with it to Annapolis. We are, &c.

To Captain John Allen Thomas.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN HINDMAN.

[No. 39.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We have just now received intelligence that Lord Dunmore, with the fleet under his command, is in motion about the bay; and as his designs are uncertain, we think it necessary, for the service of the Province, that you, and the company under your command, instead of proceeding up the bay to march to Philadelphia, should directly, with your company, come to Annapolis, where you may receive further orders. We are, &c.

To Captain James Hindman.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GENERAL HOOPER.

[No. 40.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We have just received information, by express, from St. Mary's and Calvert Counties, of Lord Dunmore, and the fleet under his command, being removed from Gwin's Island a small distance up Potomack River, with intention, as we suppose, of landing at some place within that river; and if he should be unsuccessful in that attempt, we think it not improbable but he may endeavour to make a landing somewhere or other upon the Eastern Shore; and should that be the case, we have no doubt but that, upon the receipt of this, you will be in readiness, as soon as may be, with the Militia under your command, to repel every attempt that he may make to land within your district.

Should the Militia in your district be in want of powder, you will be pleased to apply to Brigadier Chamberlain for as much as may be necessary for your immediate purpose.

We are, &c.

To Brigadier-General Henry Hooper.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN SMYTH.

[No. 41.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: Be pleased to send down immediately, by the tender Resolution, two eighteen-pounders, with carriages, rammers, sponges, ladles, and worms, and a sufficient number of wads of all sizes, with five hundred five-pound shot.

We are, &c.

To Captain Nathaniel Smyth.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL JOHNSON.

[No. 42.]

Annapolis, July 15, 1776.

SIR: We are in want of about twenty four-pound cannon, twenty three-pound, and twenty two-pound, and forty swivels, for the use of the Province, and desire to know whether you will engage to furnish us with these quantities immediately. If you can, be pleased to favour us, as soon as possible, with your terms, and the time by which you will have them made, though it will be much more agreeable to us to see you upon the occasion. We shall likewise want two hundred iron pots, some to contain four, and others two gallons, with bales or handles, to supply the place of camp kettles; and should be glad you would advise us whether you could also cast them for us, and by what time; likewise the price. We are, &c.

To Colonel James Johnson.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 15, 1776:

Present: Samuel Purviance, Chairman; William Lux, Vice Chairman; Robert Alexander, William Aisquith, Benjamin Griffith, Andrew Buchanan, John Cradock, Abraham Britton, John Merryman, Jun., James Calhoun, E. Talbot, Zachariah McCubbin, John Eager Howard, John Cockey, Isaac Griest.

Mr. Abraham Evening was imprisoned last Thursday for not giving security for his good behaviour as a Non-Associate; applied to the Chairman of the Committee to be discharged, in consequence of the Resolve of the Convention of the 5th instant; and the Chairman reports that he has accordingly discharged him, and delivered his portmanteau, which was seized.

Habakuk Holton having enrolled with Captain Galbraith's Company, the Fine imposed on him is hereby remitted, and a certificate given accordingly.

A Letter from the honourable Council of Safety of the 11th instant, respecting the building of a Magazine not less than five or more than ten miles from town, was received and read; on which the Committee appoint Messrs. Darby Lux, John Cockey, Edward Talbot, and James Calhoun, to view the ground at or near Armstrong's Town, to inquire the terms on which one acre may be purchased, and report the same on Monday next.

The Committee also appoint Messrs. Benjamin Griffith and Isaac Griest to draw a draught, and estimate the expense, of a house for the said Magazine, sufficient to contain at least four hundred barrels of Powder, and a proportionable quantity of Lead.

Application was made by Captain Henry Shaafe for a Warrant to recover Fines from Andrew Hooke for £2 10s., for non-attendance in his Militia Company; which was granted.

A Letter from the Council of Safety, dated June 28, enclosing a requisition of Congress for numbering the Inhabitants of the Colonies, was received; on which the Committee appointed the following persons in each Hundred of his County to collect the same, viz:

Patapsco, Lower Hundred,	Job Smith.
Patapsco, Upper,	James Croxall.
Back River, Upper,	Benjamin Talbot.
Back River, Lower,	Job Garritson.
Middle River, Upper,	Benjamin Talbot.
Middle River, Lower,	William Galloway.
Soldier's Delight,	William Cromwell, (of Wm.)
Middlesex,	Henry Rutter.
Delaware,	Robert Tivis, Jun.
North,	Nich. Merryman, (of Mich'l.)
Pipe Creek,	Barney Hooker.
Gunpowder, Upper,	Captain James Bosley.
Mine Run,	Edmund Stansbury.
Deptford, Baltimore, East,	William Aisquith.
and Baltimore, West,
Westminster,	George Welsh.

And that each of the said persons be allowed one Dollar per day, whilst employed in said service, and render the accounts upon oath; and that printed papers, reciting the Resolve of Congress, per order of Committee, be delivered to each and every person employed as above.

Attested:

GEO. LUX, Secretary.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

SIR: In perusing the enclosed resolves, which I do myself the honour of transmitting, you will perceive your letters of the 11th and 12th instant have been received, and laid before Congress, and that in consequence thereof, they have taken such measures as are calculated to expedite the raising the Flying-Camp, and to furnish them with articles of the greatest use and necessity.

I have written to General Mercer to march the Militia and Flying-Camp to Brunswick, or any other place in the Jerseys which he may judge best, provided it does not interfere with any prior direction from you. All the other enclosed resolves, I have likewise given orders to the proper persons to have executed.

I expect your several letters, which are now before Congress, will receive a speedy determination, and that I shall have the pleasure of forwarding the result on Tuesday or Wednesday, at farthest.

I have the honour to be, with every sentiment of esteem, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO CONVENTION OF NEW-JERSEY.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The article of lead being so essentially necessary for our Army, and the propriety of every Colony being furnished with it so evident, that the Council of Safety of this Colony recommended to the inhabitants to spare the lead weights from their windows, by which means they have been furnished with a considerable quantity, which has been run into ball; and part of which the Council of Safety here have willingly spared, and is now on the way to the Jerseys. But as, under the present exigency, that quantity is far short of what is wanted for the Army in New-Jersey, and every method should be used to furnish it, I have it therefore in charge from Congress most earnestly to request you to supply the Flying-Camp and Militia with all the lead in your possession, or that you can possibly procure. The exigency of our affairs will not admit the least delay; and I am convinced there is no necessity to use arguments to induce you to an instant compliance with this requisition.

I am to inform you, that as you have not enclosed to Congress copies of General Washington's and Brigadier-General Livingston's letters, no judgment can be formed by Congress concerning the contents of them, and to request copies of them to be sent hither.

Measures are taking in Pennsylvania and Maryland for forming the Flying-Camp; and, in the mean time, the associated Militia are marching in great numbers from Pennsylvania for the defence of New-Jersey. Ammunition has been and will be supplied by this Congress for the defence of New-Jersey. With regard to the pay of the Militia, I am to acquaint you that Congress will observe the same rule of conduct towards New-Jersey as towards other Colonies.

Four tons of powder are on the way to New-Jersey; and a large number of musket cartridges, well balled, will this day be sent forward.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable the Convention of New-Jersey.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO DOCTOR WILLIAM SHIPPEN.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I have it in charge from Congress to acquaint you that they have this day appointed you Surgeon-General and Director of the Hospital for the Flying-Camp and Militia in New-Jersey, with the pay of four dollars a day. Should you accept this appointment, on a signification of such acceptance to me, I will immediately send you your commission.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of esteem, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To William Shippen, Jun., Esq., at Philadelphia.

SAMUEL ADAMS TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: I must acknowledge that, when you left Congress, I gave you reason to expect a letter from me before this time. You will not, I am very certain, attribute my omission to the want of a most cordial esteem for you. The truth is, I hardly know how to write without saying something about our Canadian affairs; and this is a subject so thoroughly mortifying to me that I could wish totally to forget all that has passed in that country. Let me, however, just mention to you that Schuyler and Gates are to command the troops—the former while they are without, the latter while they are within, the bounds of Canada. Admitting these Generals to have the accomplishments of a Marlborough or an Eugene, I cannot conceive that such a disposition of them will be attended with any good effects, unless harmony subsists between them. Alas, I fear this is not the case. Already disputes have arisen, which they have referred to Congress; and, although they affect to treat each other with a politeness becoming their rank, in my mind, altercations between commanders, who have pretensions so nearly equal, (I mean in point of command,) forebode a repetition of misfortune. I sincerely wish my apprehensions may prove groundless.

General Howe, as you have heard, is arrived at New-York. He has brought with him from eight to ten thousand troops. Lord Howe arrived last week, and the whole fleet is hourly expected. The enemy landed on Staten-Island. Nothing has been done saving that last Friday, about three in the afternoon, a forty and a twenty-gun ship, with several tenders, taking the advantage of a fair and fresh gale and flowing tide, passed by our forts as far as King's Bridge. General Mifflin, who commanded there, in a letter of the 5th instant, informed us, that he had twenty-one cannon planted, and hoped, in a week, to be formidable. Reinforcements have arrived from New-England, and our Army are in high spirits. I am exceedingly pleased with the calm and determined spirit which our Commander-in-Chief has discovered in all his letters to Congress. May Heaven guide and prosper him. The Militia of the Jerseys, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, are all in motion. General Mercer commands the Flying-Camp in the Jerseys. We have just now appointed a Committee to bring in a plan for the reinforcement, to complete the number of twenty thousand men, to be posted in that Colony.

Our Declaration of Independence has given vigour to the spirits of the people. Had this decisive measure been taken nine months ago, it is my opinion that Canada would by this time have been in our hands. But what does it avail to find fault with what is past? Let us do better for the future. We were more fortunate than we expected, in having twelve of the thirteen Colonies in favour of the all-important question. The Delegates from New-York were not empowered to give their voice on either side. Their Convention has since acceded to the Declaration, and published it even before they received it from Congress. So mighty a change in so short a time! New-Jersey has finished her form of Government, a copy of which I enclose. They have sent five new Delegates, among whom are Dr. Witherspoon and Judge Stockton. All of them appear zealously attached to the American cause. A Convention is now meeting in this city to form a Constitution for this Colony. They are empowered by their constituents to appoint a new Committee of Safety to act for the present, and to choose new Delegates for Congress. I am told there will be a change of men, and, if so, I hope for the better.

A plan of Confederation has been brought into Congress, which I hope will be speedily digested, and be made ready to be laid before the several States for their approbation. A Committee has now under consideration a plan of foreign alliance. It is high time for us to have Ambassadors at foreign Courts. I fear we have already suffered too much by delay. You know on whom our thoughts were turned when you were with us.

I am greatly obliged to you for favouring me with the form of Government agreed upon by your countrymen. I have not yet had time to peruse it, but I dare say it will be a feast to our little circle. The device on your great seal pleases me much.

Pray hasten your journey hither. Your country most pressingly solicits, or, will you allow me to say, demands your assistance here. I have written in great haste.

Adieu, my dear sir, and be assured that I am, very affectionately, your friend,
S. ADAMS.

JOSIAH BARTLETT TO JOHN LANGDON.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: Yours of the 1st instant is now before me, and I am obliged to you for your intelligence. The affair of the agency you have heard is settled, and in your favour, and I hope another Delegate will be appointed to attend Congress, as you have resigned.

The marine affairs I shall leave to brother Whipple, who will inform you from time to time what is to be done.

The Congress and people here are engaged in making preparation for the reception of the British fleet and army in the neighbourhood of New-York. Lord Howe, with the Germans, &c., is hourly expected. I pray God we may be able to give a good account of them. The Confederation is agreed to by the Committee, and is before Congress; when they will finish it is uncertain. Two of the frigates here are launched. There is a report in town that General Clinton endeavoured to land his men at South-Carolina, and was repulsed with loss; I know not the particulars, and mention it only as a report. I hope you will excuse my not writing every week, as brother Whipple has written you everything of importance.

Major Rogers was taken up by order of General Washington, and having your letters of recommendation to us, the General ordered him to Congress to be examined; and though no absolute proof was made of his ill designs, his conduct appeared so very suspicious that he was ordered to be sent to New-Hampshire, to be disposed of by our Legislature; but before he was sent off, he found means to make his escape, and has not been retaken yet.

The Colony of New-York have fully acceded to the Declaration of Independence, so that it now has the sanction of the Thirteen United States. The unparalleled conduct of our enemies have united the Colonies more firmly than ever.

The Convention of this Colony are to meet here this day, who will form a Constitution for the Colony, and take upon them its Government; in the mean time the Constitutions of Virginia and New-York are in this city. I shall send them forward, and the Constitutions of the other Colonies as they are formed, as possibly something may be taken from them to amend our own.

Please to give my best regards to all friends, and believe me to be your sincere friend, &c.,
JOSIAH BARTLETT.

P. S. Colonel Roberdeau is appointed a Provincial Brigadier-General; Colonel Dickinson, Colonel McKean, and Colonel Cadwalader, are gone with their regiments to the Jerseys; twelve hundred Maryland Militia are hourly expected in this city to join the Army in the Jerseys; Colonel Miles, with one thousand Provincial riflemen, and with him our friend Major Patton, have joined the Army in New-Jersey; in short, Maryland and Pennsylvania are all in motion. This day an Artillery company of Militia, consisting of fifty-seven men, with two brass field-pieces, and every necessary accoutrement, marched for the same place. Mr. William Livingston, of New-Jersey, is appointed a Provincial Brigadier-General. Our friend, Mr. Deane, is appointed Captain of Marines to one of the frigates here. He desires to be remembered to you.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM JOHN ADAMS, DATED PHILADELPHIA, JULY 15, 1776.

My very deserving friend, Mr. Gerry, sets off to-morrow for Boston, worn out of health by the fatigues of this station. He is an excellent man, and an active, able statesman. I hope he will soon return hither. I am sure I should be glad to return with him, but I cannot; I must wait to have the guard relieved.

There is a most amiable, laudable, and gallant spirit prevailing in these middle Colonies. The Militia turn out in great numbers, and in high spirits, in New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware, so that we hope to resist Howe and his myrmidons.

Independence is at last unanimously agreed to in the

New-York Convention. You will see, by the newspapers enclosed, what is going forward in Virginia and Maryland and New-Jersey. Farewell, farewell, infatuated, besotted, Step-dame!

GENERAL ROBERDEAU TO RICHARD PETERS.

Philadelphia, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I enclose you the order of last evening, and my Major will parade the guards at the State-House yard; which is attended with so much trouble and reluctance in the Associators, who are more desirous of a campaign, that I intend to address the Convention on the subject, and to get distinct corps created for city guards, that the four companies may join their corps. If Captain Peters should be one of the officers it would make me happy.

I am, dear sir, your very obedient servant,

DANIEL ROBERDEAU.

To Captain Richard Peters, Secretary at War.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Safety, July 15, 1776.

Whereas the Assembly of this Province, did, in a former session, resolve that "If any Associator, called into actual service, shall leave a family, not of ability to maintain themselves in his absence, the Overseers of the Poor, with the concurrence of one Justice of the Peace of the City or County where such Associator did reside, shall immediately make provision, by way of out pension, for the maintenance of such family; and a true and proper account being kept thereof, shall be returned to the Assembly, in order that the same may be made a Provincial expense, and paid accordingly:" And as it is the opinion of this Committee, that the funds of the said Overseers will prove greatly insufficient whenever any considerable number of Associators shall be drawn into actual service, and that the administering to the wants of such families, by the hands of the Overseers, will not be satisfactory to the Associators, or be likely to answer the good ends proposed:

Therefore, Resolved, That this Committee will, out of the funds of which they have the disposition, make such provision as shall be thought necessary to answer the said purposes; and that it be recommended to the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City of Philadelphia, and the several Counties in the Province, to nominate and appoint a proper number of judicious persons, residing in the said City and Counties respectively, to distribute to such distressed families the allowance they shall judge reasonable; and that the said Committee be empowered to draw, as they shall see occasion, on this Board for the necessary sums of money, to be by them lodged in the hands of the persons so nominated and appointed, to be applied as above directed. The said Committees to return accounts to this Board of the expenditure of the same.

Extract from the Minutes:

WILLIAM GOVETT, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Philadelphia County Committee, July 15, 1776.

Resolved, That this Committee, in consequence of a Letter from the honourable Continental Congress, as well as from a recommendation of the Provincial Conference, do proceed to raise our part of the Flying-Camp; and that the following gentlemen be appointed Officers: Colonel, Robert Lewis; Lieutenant-Colonel, Isaac Hughes; Major, John Moore, Esq.; Surgeon, Enoch Edwards; Quartermaster, Marshall Edwards; Adjutant, Solomon Bush. Captains: Archibald Thompson, George Smith, Henry Deringer, Jacob Lauchlin, Rudolph Neff, Aaron Levering, Christian Schnyder, Henry Pawling, Joseph Jones. First Lieutenants: Marshall Edwards, Solomon Bush, Samuel Swift, William Wilson, Casper Doll, Samuel Hains, Graudus Schlatter, Mordecai Morgan, David Schrack, Stephen Porter, Thomas Rossetter. Ensigns: Andrew Barge, William North, William Noa, Abraham Duffield, Nathaniel Childs, Alexander Wright, James Potts, Rees Nanna.

Extract from the Minutes:

ENOCH EDWARDS.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

Yesterday Lieutenant-Colonel Allen arrived in town from Crown-Point.

The Rev. Jacob Duché is appointed Chaplain to the honourable Continental Congress.

This afternoon the First Battalion of Maryland Regulars, commanded by Colonel Smallwood, arrived in this city, on their way to the Jerseys, where they are to compose a part of the Flying-Camp.

CARPENTER WHARTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 17, 1776.]

Trenton, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I have the pleasure of acquainting you that two thousand of the Pennsylvania Militia have arrived here, and that Colonel Dickinson's battalion have just marched for Woodbridge, agreeable to orders from General Mercer; and the whole body of the Pennsylvania Militia, as by his instructions, are immediately to proceed to Woodbridge. I have supplied them with one day's provision at this place, and at their arrival at Princeton they will receive two days' allowance, to last them until they arrive at Woodbridge.

Agreeable to your orders, I wrote to the Commissary-General respecting my supplying the Flying-Camp, for which he had appointed two persons; therefore shall not continue supplying them farther than Princeton. Colonel Cadwalader has written to Mr. Trumbull, desiring of him to admit of my supplying the Pennsylvania Militia, which, if it is agreeable to him, I will cheerfully continue. I have just received one hundred and fifty head of oxen, and five hundred head of sheep, and fifteen hundred barrels of flour, which will last but a short time in supplying the troops in only passing through.

The money I have received from Congress, I have expended in service, which the returns will specify. I am now in want of fifteen thousand dollars, which I flatter myself you will please to order, as it will require that sum to provide for the Maryland and Pennsylvania troops as they pass through to Head-Quarters. The bearer, Lieutenant Joseph Bullock, will receive and deliver me the money.

Should the honourable Congress not have appointed a Commissary of Stores for the Flying-Camp, I shall be happy in entering in that service, if I should not be continued for the supplying of the Militia, which I do not expect.

I have the honour to be your obedient humble servant,

CARPENTER WHARTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, July 15, 1776.

SIR: This will be handed to you by Mr. Griffin, who has also taken upon him the charge and delivery of packets containing sundry letters, which were sent to Amboy yesterday by a flag, and forwarded to me to-day by General Mercer. The letter addressed to Governour Franklin came open to my hands.

I was this morning honoured with yours of the 13th inst., with its important and necessary enclosures; and, in obedience to the commands of Congress, have transmitted General Howe the resolves intended for him; those for General Burgoyne, I enclosed and sent to General Schuyler, with directions immediately to forward them to him. The inhuman treatment to the whole, and murder of part of our people, after their surrender and capitulation, was certainly a flagrant violation of that faith which ought to be held sacred by all civilized nations, and was founded in the most savage barbarity. It highly deserved the severest reprobation; and I trust the spirited measures Congress have adopted upon the occasion will prevent the like in future; but if they should not, and the claims of humanity are disregarded, justice and policy will require recourse to be had to the laws of retaliation, however abhorrent and disagreeable to our natures in cases of torture and capital punishments.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO ROBERT YATES AND OTHERS.

Head-Quarters, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In answer to your favour of yesterday, I beg leave to acquaint you, that I have consulted with such of the General Officers as could be easily convened, with respect to the prisoners confined in the Jail of this city. We are all of opinion, that to enlarge them, or permit their continuance here, is equally dangerous. No other course, therefore, remains than to send them to some place where they can be safely kept, can have no influence, and, consequently, do us no injury. If such a place could be conveniently found in the Province, it would be most proper; but if not, we are of opinion they should be sent to some other, and that without any delay. To obviate any difficulty which may arise from the authority of one Province sending its prisoners to another, I will most cheerfully coöperate with you, so as to give the measure the weight it may derive from my general command. The place which, in this case, has been proposed, is Farmington, in Connecticut.

The multiplicity of other engagements obliges me to solicit your attention and care to these matters, which are rather of civil than military concern; and I would particularly request you to consult and determine upon some method to remove persons out of town, whose conduct, connexions, and office, afford the strongest presumption of their remaining here with dangerous and unfriendly views to the American cause. An indiscriminate order to remove all who do not belong to the Army, or are connected with it, or have not taken up arms to defend the city, would probably involve many innocent and inoffensive persons in difficulty. On the other hand, to leave the city open to spies and emissaries from the enemy, and facilitate their intelligence, is totally inconsistent with common prudence. I must, therefore, beg your advice and assistance in this delicate and difficult circumstance, that while time and opportunity will admit some effectual measure may be taken to provide against so alarming a danger.

I am, gentlemen, with great truth and regard, your most obedient and humble servant,

Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. Robert Yates and others, the Committee of the Convention of Representatives of the State of New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The enclosed resolve and extract of a letter, you will see, are of some standing. Upon considering the matter, I do not see how it is possible for me to carry the resolve into execution, with tolerable precision or certainty. The persons, the witnesses, and all other circumstances, are so totally unknown, that any inquiry made by me must prove delusive and unsatisfactory. I am therefore under the necessity of passing it wholly by, or putting it under your direction, that as time and circumstances will admit, you will have it executed in the best manner you can, to answer the wishes and expectations of Congress.

Colonel Nicolson, of a regiment raised in this Province, requests that his conduct may be inquired into. I suppose he would be included in the above general inquiry, but as that may be long delayed, and perhaps never fully had, I could wish his case might be distinguished from the general mass. I expected to receive from the Commissioners of Congress who went to Canada some vouchers and proofs respecting him, as his conduct did not appear to them in the most favourable view; but none have yet come to hand. Lieutenant-Colonel Vister is, I understand, a material witness against Colonel Nicolson, and will direct to such others as are expected to support the charge against him.

I am very sensible the general inquiry requested by Congress must be a work of difficulty and delicacy; but as they seem to desire it very earnestly, I hope it is not impracticable. I should hope, upon a conference with Generals Gates and Arnold, some plan may be devised to comply with it. I am persuaded you will leave nothing unattempted on your part for this purpose.

Go. WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Since my last, two of the enemy's ships—one of forty, the other of twenty guns—taking advantage of a strong wind and tide, passed us, notwithstanding a warm fire from all the batteries. They now lie in Taupan Sea, between twenty and thirty miles up Hudson's River, where no batteries from the shore can molest them. Their views, no doubt, are to cut off a communication between this and Albany by water, which they effectually will do. If the gondolas, row-galleys, &c., from Connecticut and Providence were here, I should think of making the enemy's station uncomfortable, if possible. I must request they may be sent on as soon as they conveniently can be. I have written Governour Cooke, requesting the same of him. It is but reasonable to suppose these ships have a number of small-arms on board, which are intended to be put into the hands of the disaffected on the North River and in the back parts of this Province, when a favourable opportunity may offer for their making use of them against us. I am sorry to say their numbers, by the best information I can get, are great. Enclosed is a letter I wrote the 11th instant, which, through mistake, was neglected by the Thursday's post. We have one large row-galley nearly completed, and another which may be ready by the time those arrive from your Honour and Governour Cooke. The whole, when collected, will be sufficient to attack the two ships up the river, as the channel they now occupy is narrow, which will prevent them from working their guns to advantage.

I am, with esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,
Go. WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. Governour Trumbull.

[A similar letter written Governour Cooke, of the same date.]

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Enclosed you will receive a letter from Congress, which came to hand this morning, with a copy of some resolves, to which you will pay your attention, as their execution will be under your direction.

I have also enclosed a letter for General Burgoyne, which I request you to seal and forward to him as soon as you have perused the important and necessary resolves (of July 10) it contains. The spirited measures Congress have entered into, I am hopeful, will make the British troops more regardful of that faith which ought to be preserved inviolate between nations, and that the rights of humanity may not be infringed in future.

Admiral Howe arrived on Friday last, and we hourly expect his fleet. The same day, just before he came in, two ships-of-war, one of forty and the other of twenty guns, and three tenders, passed our batteries without any certain damage that I could perceive, though an incessant fire was kept up. They availed themselves of a brisk and favourable wind and tide. Our last intelligence is, that they are at Taupan Bay. You may readily conjecture a variety of bad purposes intended by this manœuvre.

I am, dear sir, yours, &c.,
Go. WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

P. S. I wrote to Fort Constitution, and directed that intelligence should be forwarded respecting the ships passing by us to Albany, that precautions might be used to prevent vessels falling into their hands. You will give further directions in this matter.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL HOWE.

New-York, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I have it in charge from Congress to transmit the enclosed resolution to you. And have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,
Go. WASHINGTON.

To Lieutenant-General Howe.

[To General Burgoyne the same, enclosed in a Letter to General Schuyler this day.]

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM COLONEL JOSEPH REED TO CHARLES PETTIT, DATED NEW-YORK, JULY 15, 1776.

After writing the above, a flag came in from Lord Howe. The General Officers advised the General not to receive any letter directed to him as a private gentleman. I was sent down to meet the flag. A gentleman (an officer of the Navy) met us, and said he had a letter from Lord Howe to Mr. Washington. I told him we knew no such person in the Army. He then took out a letter directed "To George Washington, Esq.," and offered it to me. I told him I could not receive a letter to the General under such a direction. Upon which he expressed much concern, and said the letter was rather of a civil than military nature; that Lord Howe regretted he had not come sooner, that he had great powers, and it was much to be wished the letter could be received. I told him I could not receive it consistently with my duty. Here we parted. After he had got some distance he put about, and we again met him. He then asked me under what title General—but catching himself, Mr. Washington chose to be addressed. I told him the General's station in the Army was well known; that they could be at no loss; that this matter had been discussed last summer, of which I supposed the Admiral could not be ignorant. He then expressed his sorrow at the disappointment, and here we parted. I cannot help thinking but that we shall have a renewal of it to-day, or a communication of the business in some other way. For though I have no hopes that the letter contains any terms to which we can accede, or, in short, is anything more than a summons of submission, yet the curiosity of the people is so great, and if it is, as may be supposed, couched in strong and debasing terms, it would animate the Army exceedingly to do their duty.

EXAMINATION OF DESERTERS FROM THE FLEET.

New-York, July 15, 1776.

The examination of Nathan Spicer and Mathias Isleton: Spicer, a Connecticut man, taken by the Cerberus frigate, in the Macaroni, on the 9th of last May, left the Prince Rupert, a transport ship, Sunday evening, the 14th July, says: The troops have all landed, and have consumed all the fresh provisions—the sailors got none. The ships that passed us up the North-River were the Phoenix and Rose. Said they had gone to land men to come down on our backs. The fleet which left Spithead five days before Lord Howe sailed, is hourly expected. The Eagle and Asia, it is said, are to come up and fire on the town the first wind. The Jersey people killed one officer and four privates on Saturday night firing on the Island; this account they had from Lieutenant Wheeler of the Thirty-Fifth Regiment. No baggage yet landed from the ships. About nine thousand men in the Army. The ships weakly manned. The old troops seem disinclined to the service; the new, fond of it. Lord Howe had nine weeks' passage from Spithead. Lord Howe's fleet consisted of eighty sail of transports, two or three frigates, one sixty-four, and one fire-ship.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEW-YORK, DATED JULY 15, 1776.

Yesterday Lord Howe sent up a flag with the Captain and Lieutenant of the Eagle man-of-war. The Adjutant-General met them after some little ceremony, but as their letter was directed "For George Washington, Esq.," he would not receive it. The officers insisted much on his receiving it, saying it was of a civil nature, his Lordship being invested with unlimited powers, and was sorry that he had not arrived a few days sooner. This morning we have accounts that the ships, &c., which passed the town, are thirty miles up, opposite Tarrytown, where the river is four miles wide, and where they may lie safely. It is reported that they attempted to land, and were beat off. We expect another flag up.

NATHANIEL WOODHULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Convention of the Representatives of the State of New-York, }
White-Plains, July 15, 1776. }

SIR: Your letter of the 14th was read in Convention. They see the importance of securing the passes your Excellency mentions, and will immediately take the measures you are pleased to recommend, and every other which they conceive will tend most to the security of this State.

Your Excellency was informed, by our letter of the 13th, of the precautions we had used in order to prevent any intercourse between the disaffected people of our State and the ships of the enemy, and to repel any attempts they might make to land. They see the necessity of watching with the utmost vigilance the steps of the Tories in this and the neighbouring Counties, and shall give your Excellency the earliest notice of any resolution that they may form for this purpose.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To His Excellency General Washington, Head-Quarters, New-York.

NATHANIEL WOODHULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Convention of the Representatives of the State of New-York, }
White-Plains, July 15, 1776. }

SIR: One or two pettiaugers have been observed going to and from the ships of war at Tarrytown. Had the detachment of Militia stationed there been supplied with boats, they would certainly have taken them. The Convention, therefore, take the liberty of requesting your Excellency to send them four whale-boats, which they will take care to man.

I am directed by the Convention to transmit the enclosed resolution to your Excellency; and have the honour to be, your Excellency's most obedient servant.

By order: NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

WESTCHESTER (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

In Committee of Safety for the County of Westchester, }
White-Plains, July 15, 1776. }

Whereas this Committee has received the fullest information that many persons, unfriendly to the liberties of the United States of America, have frequent meetings in divers parts of this County, with intent to frustrate the measures now pursuing for its safety; and as this Committee conceives such meetings are dangerous, and ought to be prevented: Therefore,

Resolved, That if any person or persons shall, after the publication hereof, presume to allow or permit any persons (knowing or suspecting them to be unfriendly to American liberty) to hold any meeting or meetings at or in their respective houses, they shall be treated as enemies to their country. And all persons are hereby required to take up and commit to close confinement all such persons as shall act in opposition to this Resolve, and give in their names to the Chairman of this Committee.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN THOMAS, Jun., D. Chairman.

GENERAL GEORGE CLINTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort Montgomery, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 13th instant yesterday, at this place; previous to which, about nine o'clock on Saturday morning, the signal at Fort Constitution being given, and the masters of two sloops, which about the same time came to opposite my house, having informed me that the enemy had attacked New-York the evening before, and that they judged by the reports of the cannon that their shipping had passed by and were up the river as far as King's Bridge, I thought it my duty to put the neighbouring Militia in motion, and accordingly issued orders to three regiments: one immediately to march into these works, another into Fort Constitution, and the third to rendezvous at Newburgh, on the bank of the river, about nine miles above Fort Constitution, with orders to march and reinforce that garrison upon the next signal given. At the same time I issued orders to all the regiments in my brigade to stand ready to march on a moment's warning, and despatched expresses to all owners of sloops and boats, twenty miles up the west side of the river, to haul them off so as to prevent their grounding, that as many of them as were necessary might be ready to carry down the Militia to the Forts. The residue I ordered down to Fort Constitution, as I believe, by drawing a chain of them across the narrowest part of the river and fixing them properly to be set on fire, should the enemy's shipping attempt passing by, they would answer a most valuable purpose. Early in the afternoon of that day I marched into Fort Constitution, with about forty of my neighbours, and in the evening came to this Fort, being nearer the enemy and better situated to discover their motions.

Yesterday evening I was joined by Colonel Woodhull, with between two and three hundred of his regiment; this morning, early, by Lieutenant-Colonel McClaghry, with upwards of five hundred of his; and I hourly expect parts of two other regiments; when these join me, I will draught out of the four, six hundred men, and employ them as your Excellency has directed.

I have ordered the Colonels I have called in to leave the frontier companies at home, to protect the country against the Indians, should they be troublesome; and as many men out of each company as will be sufficient to guard against any attempts that might be made by internal enemies.

The men turn out of their harvest-fields to defend their country, with surprising alacrity. The absence of so many of them, however, at this time, when their harvests are perishing for want of the sickle, will greatly distress the country. I could wish, therefore, a less number might answer the purpose. I would fain hope the enemy mean, by their shipping in our bays, at present, only to cut off the communication between the country and city, and prevent our obstructing the channel. Many of the Militia may be called in in eight hours, some in a much less time, should there be occasion for them.

Since writing the above, I received a letter from Colonel Hay, of Haverstraw, a copy of which is enclosed. I will send a small party down there this evening, or in the morning, but don't believe I shall be able to continue them long, as the Militia here will think it hard to be carried there.

The bearer, Mr. Boyd, who is well acquainted with this country, the fortifications here, and may be confided in, will be able to give your Excellency any further information.

I am, with great esteem, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

GEO. CLINTON.

P. S. I should be glad to know whether it is best to keep the sloops, &c., ordered down to Fort Constitution, there, as it may be attended with considerable expense; which, however, if they can be made to answer good purpose, ought not, in my opinion, to be regarded.

COLONEL HAMMAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Tarrytown, July 15, 1776.

May it please your Excellency to take into consideration our humble petition. Whereas two of the enemy's ships of war, with their barges and their tenders, are arrived up the North River as far as Tarrytown, we suppose with a hostile design to distress us; with the concurrence of the Congress and assistance of the Committee, and by the forwardness of a number of volunteers, a considerable number of people are collected to our assistance, most of whom are very anxious about their harvests, which are now fit for collection, and in a suffering condition for want of labourers. We therefore humbly petition your Excellency to send us such a number of troops as your Excellency shall judge proper, to rescue the inhabitants up and down the river from the cruel designs of the enemy. As to further particulars, must beg leave to refer your Excellency to the bearer, Captain Dutcher.

In the name of the officers here present, I have the honour to subscribe myself your Excellency's most obedient,

JAMES HAMMAN,

Lieutenant-Colonel of the First Battalion of Militia in Westchester County.

To the Hon. George Washington, Esq., &c.

EGBERT BENSON TO THE NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Red-Hook, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received a letter yesterday from General Washington, informing that two ships of war had sailed up Hudson's River, with design, as supposed, to seize the passes in the Highlands, and requesting that the Militia of this County and from the western towns in Connecticut might instantly march to secure those posts. The letter I immediately transmitted to Brigadier Ten Broeck, and despatched the necessary expresses to Connecticut.

This general call of our Militia will be attended with many difficulties, which has induced me to write you on the subject, in order that we may have the advice of the Convention, and that the peculiar circumstances of our County may be taken into consideration. I conceived it a matter of such importance that I have hired an express to convey this letter.

In no part of the Colony have the resolutions of Congress respecting dangerous and disaffected persons been so strictly executed as in this County. Agreeably to those resolutions we have disarmed a great number of people, and the arms have been applied either to arm the companies from time to time raised in the County, or sent to the forts in the Highlands, for the use of the troops in garrison there, and consequently the County is entirely deprived of them, without a possibility (as there are none either manufactured or to be purchased) of procuring others in their stead. Not only so, but many of our friends have parted with their arms to the Continental forces, out of zeal for the cause; and very lately, upon a very pressing letter from Colonel Clinton, the Whigs in this neighbourhood spared him seventy-five muskets, conceiving that we had much better be without arms ourselves than that the troops, whom we were obliged daily to pay and subsist, and stationed in places subject to an immediate attack, should remain unarmed.

The number of persons in the County who, by these means, are destitute of arms, must be considerable. In the precinct where I live, (than which I doubt whether there are two in the County where there is less disaffection,) the Militia of which consists of about four hundred men, upwards of one hundred have been disarmed for that cause, besides many who have sold their arms from the motives I mentioned; and I am informed by a gentleman who attended the late reviews, that of some regiments the entire rear and great part of the centre ranks were without arms.

To disarm people because they were supposed too dangerous to be entrusted with arms—which, indeed, was the case—and it being out of their power either to procure them again, or others in their stead, and then to call these people out to action, appears rather inconsistent. But even admitting we could equip them properly, it is a matter well worth considering, the danger of bringing a number of persons, (and the number will be great if our whole Militia marches,) actually our enemies, into the field to oppose an army which they are daily seeking opportunities to join. On the other hand, to permit them to remain at ease, without compelling them to bear their part of the burden, is unreasonable, and will be productive of clamour and dissatisfaction, if not entirely prevent others from turning out in defence of their country. It is true, we have always obliged the Tories to appear in the ranks and be subject to be draughted, because we knew that in most cases they would hire others to serve in their stead, (I mean when the draughts were intended to form a part of the Army;) and such as were not of sufficient ability for that purpose have deserted, and lurked in the woods, and were the occasion of the late insurrection. We have always thought we should be happy if we were capable of combating our internal foes, and leave those from without to be resisted in some other way.

Our Militia, merely as a Militia, seems to be not properly the subject of a general call; or, in other words, considering how many are unarmed, and how many, from their enmity to our cause, should be confined at home, were they even disposed to march, the inhabitants of this County, collectively, cannot be formed into a Militia for every purpose. What is the proper remedy, I will not pretend to determine.

I take the liberty of mentioning the expedient I proposed when last before Congress, namely, that, without depending upon the Militia, a certain military force or corps should be raised to act in its stead. If it should be deemed unreasonable that it should be at the expense of the Colony, let it be a County charge; the expense will be great, it is true, but it will then be an equal, whereas it is now a partial tax. I have no digested plan for raising this corps or body of men to serve in lieu of the Militia. Suppose they were to have a trifling pay when at home, (for they need not always be imbodyed,) and when in actual service the Continental allowance. I would propose that certain superintending officers should always be in pay, who should constantly go through the County and see that the men were trained, equipped, and furnished with ammunition. I fear that, estimating the strength of the Militia by the number of men in the County, we may rely too much on them, and be fatally deceived.

But there is another matter, which I would not choose to make publick, and that is, you cannot command the Militia throughout the County. Your Government is not firmly enough established for the people to yield a willing obedience; and I think it dangerous at this critical time to put it to the test. A successful resistance in one instance might be attended with very serious consequences. I can appeal to some of you that I have made the Militia of the County the object of my attention for some time, and the result of my observations and reflections has been, that, as they are now circumstanced, we shall derive very little, if any, advantage from them in the present conflict.

Upon the whole, considering how critical affairs are become with respect to us, and that by these ships sailing up the river the seat of war is in some measure transferred to our own borders, it is high time, nay, it will not admit of the least delay, to provide for the safety of the County in some way independent of the Militia. Do not let the fear of expense deter you. Our all is at stake, and I am not convinced that the least expensive mode of warfare is by suffering the whole body of farmers to be called out and harassed upon every occasion.

I remain your very humble servant,

EGBERT BENSON.

To the Representatives of the County of Dutchess, in the Convention of the State of New-York.

N. B. The Militia from the extreme part of the County have marched to the southward. Should they not have been kept as a reserve, in case of a disaster to the northward?

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ALBANY, DATED JULY 15, 1776.

Last Saturday evening a plot was discovered here, (by confession of two Tories,) that this week the town was to be set on fire in different places, and the Magazine blown up. Yesterday between two and three hundred men went out with their arms to take up those scoundrels, who, by information, were skulking in the woods, &c., and they have taken several of them. As there are no soldiers in town, the inhabitants watch twenty-four hours round, to guard the Tory Jail, Magazine, &c.

GENERAL WATERBURY TO GENERAL GATES.

Skenesborough, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: After suitable regards to your Excellency, I here send a return of the number of men, and their occupation, now at this place, and likewise the quantity of provision of all sorts as given in to me. I must likewise acquaint your Excellency that I think the business is going on very lively, according to the number of men. Colonel Schuyler and myself have viewed the ground east of the Mill, and we think it proper to have a small guard placed there, with a breastwork, to keep the Indians from burning the Mills, and I shall do it as soon as possible. I hope the men from Connecticut will be in soon, as we may go on with more speed; and am, with the greatest esteem, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

DAVID WATERBURY, Jun.

To the Hon. Major-General Gates, Ticonderoga.

P. S. Colonel Schuyler desired I would mention it to your Excellency that he was out of rum, and that he feared the men would get sick by drinking this bad water without a little rum; therefore he would take it as a favour if some might be sent down for the labouring men. There is likewise great want of some peas.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Tyonderoga, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Last night I received your favour of the 14th. I sent you yesterday fifty-four batteaus, under the care of a Captain of Colonel Wayne's regiment. This afternoon forty more batteaus will go from hence to Crown-Point. I do not think it necessary for any of the regiments to march by land to Tyonderoga, as I will take care to supply batteaus sufficient for the conveyance of the whole. As we have so much work to do here, I cannot see how a regiment can be spared to remain at Crown-Point. The vessels will be there as soon as possible. I hope the Commodore will sail to-morrow; and if our naval force cannot protect that part of the lake from invasion, I do not think one regiment will be able to do it.

I shall not approve or disapprove of Colonel Campbell's court-martial; that must be left to General Schuyler, to whom it is referred. Colonel Hazen complains of several irregularities in the proceedings against him, and in particular of his not being tried by a court composed entirely of Field-Officers. Where this can be done, a Colonel has an undoubted right to demand it. Colonel Hazen further alleges, that the members of the court ordered for his trial are not taken from the roll of duty, but named by his accuser. This (if a fact) is also very irregular. Colonel Campbell may be sent here, his arrest continued.

I am, sir, &c.,

HORATIO GATES.

To General Arnold.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL WATERBURY.

Tyonderoga, July 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: As the communication to Skenesborough from this place becomes an object of such importance, and the conveyance of provisions and stores by that communication will be so very necessary if we make our stand at the place proposed, it is essential that the road from Cheshire's to Fort Edward be immediately repaired and rendered easy for carriages. The obstructions in Wood Creek, by the trees which may have fallen across, must likewise be immediately removed. You will be pleased to stop a part of the Militia sufficient for this purpose, and urge the matter with all possible despatch. I should think it proper that the York Militia, and such part of the Connecticut as are necessary, should be stopped for this purpose. You will likewise post three companies of a regiment with a field-officer at Cheshire's Mill, and the other field-officers and remainder of the regiment at Skenesborough Mills, and let them erect some little works at each place for their defence. The tools necessary I will, as soon as it is in my power, supply you with; in the mean time you will endeavour to collect all that you possibly can. General Schuyler has engaged to send me a number of axes from Albany as soon as possible, but they cannot arrive yet.

I am, dear sir, your very obedient servant,

HORATIO GATES.

To Brigadier-General Waterbury.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Crown-Point, July 15, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I received your favours of the 13th and 14th instant last evening, also a letter this minute respecting the cattle. I am heartily rejoiced at the good news from New-York by General Waterbury. I make no doubt the enemy will be baffled in all their efforts. The Paymaster is gone this minute for Ticonderoga. Two companies of the train went off early this morning. Six regiments were ordered off; so many artillery stores, &c., were remaining, that only four could be supplied with batteaus. If batteaus arrive this evening, the whole will go off to-morrow morning. To-morrow I expect to have the pleasure of seeing you.

We want oars for near thirty batteaus lying here, which are at present useless, as none can be procured. We have few cattle on hand; eight or ten yoke may be procured, which the Commissary will send to Ticonderoga. To-morrow Colonel Bedel and Major Butterfield are ordered up, and go off immediately. You may depend on my utmost exertion in forwarding our naval armament, on which I think much depends.

I shall detain the inhabitants brought up from below for the present, and shall be obliged to leave a small party here. I am at a loss whether I shall remove the families on the Point or not; most of them are inimical. I will forward on the troops as fast as possible. All that are able will be sent off by land.

I am, with great esteem and affection, dear General, your obedient humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

P. S. If oars can be spared, pray send us one hundred and fifty.

COLONEL WINDS TO GENERAL GATES.

Shelburne, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I am here, by leave of General Sullivan, with twenty-six men, and have built a stockaded fort here for the safety of my men and the inhabitants. I this day heard that my regiment is ordered down to Ticonderoga; if so, would be glad to receive some orders whether to stay here or to go after them. I have sent a batteau for provisions, as we are just out. Beg the favour that the Commissary may be ordered to send some by the bearer, Sergeant Edwards.

From, sir, your very humble servant,

WILLIAM WINDS, Colonel.

To the Commander at Crown-Point.

THOMAS BULL TO GENERAL GATES.

Manchester, July 15, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: The present alarming state of our country seems to call for every soldier to be well equipped with arms and ammunition. Therefore the town-ship of Manchester, lying under difficulty about ammunition, would make a return to your Excellency for ammunition for eighty men, as we cannot draw from the County stores.

From your humble servant.

By order of the Committee:

THOMAS BULL, Chairman.

DANIEL TILLINGHAST TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, July 15, 1776.

Agreeable to a resolve of Congress of the 6th instant, I yesterday forwarded your Excellency three cases of fire-arms, (as per invoice enclosed,) to the care of Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., of New-London, who, I requested, immediately on receipt of the same, to send you without delay, and which I wish safe to your hands. I expect in a few days to be able to forward you a parcel more of the above arms, which I am to have from Newport, and you may depend I shall make no delay in doing the same.

I am your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

DANIEL TILLINGHAST, Continental Agent.

To His Excellency General Washington.

F. GREENE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, July 15, 1776.

SIR: Agreeable to the request of his Honour Governour Cooke, I have sent forward to the care of Nathaniel Shaw, Jun., the small-arms, flints, and cutlasses, imported by Samuel Chase for the Continent. Wish them a safe arrival at New-York, and your Excellency health, and the Army of the United States success against our common enemies.

Yours, with respect,

F. GREENE.

P. S. There are fourteen thousand five hundred flints, thirty cutlasses, and twenty small-arms.

NATHANIEL SHAW, JUN., TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-London, July 18, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed you have Captain Jehiel Tinker's receipt for three chests of arms, and one barrel and one keg of flints, as per invoice enclosed. The arms were sent to me by Daniel Tillinghast, Esq., the flints by Messrs. Clark and Nightingale, merchants in Providence, desiring I would forward them to you by the first opportunity. Hope they will come safe to hand; and am, sir, your very humble servant,

NATHANIEL SHAW, JUN.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq., General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the United States of America, in New-York.

Providence, July 15, 1776.

Invoice of seventeen thousand Gun-flints, sent by William Brown from Clark & Nightingale, of Providence, to Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., at New-London, and by him to be forwarded to his Excellency General Washington at New-York, viz: No. 6, a barrel, No. 7, a keg, containing seventeen thousand Gun-flints.

Errors excepted:

Per CLARK & NIGHTINGALE.

Providence, July 15, 1776.

Invoice of 117 Small-Arms, 89 Bayonets, 20 Broad Swords, and 3 Fusees, sent by William Brown's team from Daniel Tillinghast, of Providence, to Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., at New-London, who is immediately to forward them to his Excellency General Washington, at New-York, viz:

S. A. 3 cases containing Scotch Arms, taken by the Andrew Doria at sea, viz:

No. 1, a case containing 36 Small-Arms, 36 Bayonets, 2 Broad Swords.

No. 2, a case containing 42 Small-Arms, 42 Bayonets.

No. 3, a case containing 39 Small-Arms, 3 Fusees in cases, 11 Bayonets, 18 Broad-Swords.

Errors excepted:

DANIEL TILLINGHAST, Agent.

N. B. Nos. 6 and 7, a barrel and keg, containing 17,000 Gun-flints, sent in the above team to Mr. Shaw's care, by Clark & Nightingale, and are to be forwarded to his Excellency General Washington, with the above Arms, the first opportunity.

NEW-YORK, July 25, 1776.—I have received the within mentioned Arms, &c., into Ordnance Store.

EZEKIEL CHEEVER, Com. Artillery.

TORIES AT NINE-PARTNERS.

Hartford, Connecticut, July 15, 1776.

Last week, about one hundred and fifty Tories, in the Nine-Partners, and places adjacent, rose in a body, fell upon the Sons of Liberty there, disarmed them, and took possession of the Committee-Chamber, but were quelled by a party of near three thousand men from the western parts of this Colony, and about twenty of their number were taken and confined in prison. May their ringleaders soon receive the punishment due to such traitors to the American States.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO NATHANIEL SHAW.

Lebanon, July 15, 1776.

SIR: I have sent you by Captain Harding your appointment as Agent for the Colony, for the purpose therein mentioned. We are informed by him that he expects a number on board his brig may soon be taken with the small-pox, as they were much exposed before he left Boston. If any should be taken with that infectious disease, you will take timely and prudent care for their being provided for, either at your pest-house, or at Duck-Island, whichever you may think most proper, or any other convenient place, where the utmost precaution may be taken against spreading the infection, and by all means to prevent it getting in, or spreading among, our soldiery. We doubt not of your attention to this, as well as every other matter committed to your charge. And am your obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Nathaniel Shaw, Jun., Esq., New-London.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO CAPTAIN HASKELL.

In Council, July 15, 1776.

SIR: You being appointed Captain of the small vessel called the Dove, fitted out by this Colony for gaining intelligence respecting the British fleets and armies, you are, as soon as your vessel is ready, to sail for some part of the coast of Nova-Scotia, or you may cruise on the seas between Cape Ann and Nova-Scotia, and use your utmost endeavours for gaining intelligence as aforesaid; and when you shall gain any certain accounts of the movements of any considerable fleet of the enemy, and the course for which they have for some time steered, you are then, with all possible despatch, to give information to the Council of this Colony, and the Committee of Safety, &c., of the town where you may arrive, that such measures may be taken as the defence and security of this Colony may require; and you are to use all necessary precaution to prevent your vessel from falling into the hands of the enemy, whereby the good design of fixing out your vessel may be frustrated.

JOHN AVERY, Dep. Secretary.

To Captain Robert Haskell, Commander of the Dove.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO JOSEPH HAWLEY.

Watertown, July 15, 1776.

SIR: The Board have attended to your letter of the 13th instant, and, upon the fullest consideration, are unanimously of opinion, that it may be of the most dangerous consequence to allow of such a delay in the marching of the troops destined for the Northern Department as must necessarily be occasioned by their being inoculated before they march. By the best information the Board can get, they apprehend there is a probability of suppressing that distemper in the Army at Crown-Point; and Brigadier-General Bricket, who is to command the reinforcement, and has not had the small-pox, is so persuaded of this that he has declared he would not choose to be inoculated before the march. The Board therefore insist that the levies should be marched with all possible expedition, as any delay may perhaps occasion a total defeat and dispersion of the Northern Army, the consequences of which must be fatal to every one.

The Board rely on it that Commissary Trumbull has taken effectual measures to provide for paying the mileage to the troops till they arrive at the stores, agreeable to his letter of the 11th June, as the Court, in answer thereunto, in theirs of July 1st, informed him that they depended upon his doing; and they understand that Captain Farnsworth proceeded to make provision accordingly; but as you do not hear of his arrival there, shall write to Commissary Trumbull on that head.

Enclosed you have a copy of the resolve directing what route the troops shall take.

COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS TO JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

Watertown, July 15, 1776.

SIR: The foregoing is copy of what the Court wrote in answer to yours of the 11th July, to which they have received no answer; nor do we hear of the arrival of any person at Number Four, for the services mentioned in the Court's letter; for which reasons, the Board have directed that you be furnished with a copy of their last letter, as any failure in that service may be of the most fatal consequences, the troops being now under marching orders.

If you have not already sent a person to make provision for this service, the Board earnestly desire that you would do it without delay.

To Mr. Commissary Trumbull.

RICHARD NEWTON TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Boston Jail, July 15, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: I am very sorry to trouble your Honours so often, but necessity now obliges me to do it. Having been closely confined for upwards of three months, and no allowance of any kind made me, I am reduced very low, having been obliged to dispose of my watch, clothes, &c. I am also destitute of friends that will support me without payment. I beg your Honours will be pleased to order me some subsistence, or liberty to earn it, or otherwise I shall certainly starve. I defy the world to prove I ever wronged or defrauded any person living, or ever was concerned in plundering the town of Boston, or in any way assisting against America. I do not know yet what I am committed for. It can't be for being in the King's service, as I never was in it. All I have to add is, I humbly beg your Honours will order me some relief, or inflict upon me the punishment I deserve, if any can be found; which is all that is wished for by your Honours' most obedient and distressed servant,

RICHARD NEWTON.

[Acted upon, and released, August 15, 1776.]

COL. BELLWS TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Walpole, July 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In obedience to the orders I received from General Folsom, of the 4th instant, I have raised seventy-three men out of the regiment under my command, agreeable to said orders.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

BENJAMIN BELLWS, Jun., Colonel.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety for the Colony of New-Hampshire.

COMMITTEE OF MOULTONBOROUGH TO JONATHAN MOULTON.

Moultonborough, July 15, 1776.

SIR: By Daniel Beede, Esq., we understand there was a prospect of obtaining, on proper security, from the Treasury, a sum of money to purchase fire-arms for this almost defenceless town. Esquire Beede informed us you were so good as to tell him you would join him in security for the money on a day appointed, which day he was obliged to leave Court on express; and he agreed with Captain Josiah Moulton to join with you for security for the money in his stead, by which we flatter ourselves you may have obtained the money. We, together with Lieutenant James Brown, (who waits on you with this,) were chosen a Committee for this town, to purchase the guns. Lieutenant Brown goes on purpose to consult you on the matter, receive the money, if it can be had, and purchase the guns, if they are to be bought. If any difficulty should arise in your mind in taking his security singly, we hereby engage to indemnify you in letting him have the money, and will, with him, be answerable for the payment of the same, agreeable to the tenor of the obligation he may give for the money.

We beg, sir, your forwarding the matter, and you will much oblige the inhabitants here, as well as your most humble servants,

BRADBURY RICHARDSON,
NATHANIEL AMBROSE.To Jonathan Moulton, Esq.

COURT-MARTIAL ON LIEUTENANT WILLIAMS.

Williamsburgh, July 16, 1776.

In consequence of an order from the Honourable Brigadier-General Lewis, for the trial of Lieutenant Henry Williams, of the Virginia forces, by a General Court-Martial, at Williamsburgh, July 16, 1776, he, the said Lieutenant Williams, was found guilty of behaving in a scandalous and infamous manner, unbecoming the character of an officer or soldier, was cashiered, drummed along the line at Springfield camp, through Williamsburgh and College camp, and, as a part of his sentence, is now held up with infamy to the publick, as a person not worthy of enjoying the common blessings of society.

JAMES HENDRICKS, President.

ST. JOSEPH DASHIELL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Worcester County, July 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: When Captain Kelly was down, my sloop lay at such a distance, that we could not go to her, as they were in such a hurry; but I promised to send up her dimensions. He heard her character of being the fastest sailer in this place. Her standing rigging in good order; sails and running rigging very indifferent; forty-six feet long on deck, fourteen-and-a-half feet beam, and six feet hold. I consider her sails and rigging as worth nothing to the Province, except her standing rigging, and should not have mentioned her only for her fast sailing. I gave £150 for her last year, and if better to answer the purpose cannot be got, I am willing to take the same for her now.

This comes by a French gentleman, whom I have had at my house, and sent part of the way to Annapolis. He has papers which will show that he is desirous to enter into our service in defence of liberty, and from his experience, hope he will be serviceable. If you please, lay this before your brethren, and oblige, sir, your humble servant,

ST. JOSEPH DASHIELL.

To James Tilghman, Esq., Annapolis.

BENNETT BRACCO TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am extremely sorry that I am obliged once more to trouble you; but hope you will excuse it, as it is done through necessity. I have exhausted both money and credit to support the men under my command here, and assure you that, unless you furnish me very shortly with a sum of money for their subsistence, I shall be obliged to suffer the men to disperse, and let each man look out for himself. I expect that, in ten days from this, we shall be able to do duty, as the small-pox is very favourable.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENNETT BRACCO.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

RICHARD DALLAM TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Harford County, July 16, 1776.

SIR: In answer to yours of the 10th instant, which I received yesterday, I inform you I have twenty-two muskets, finished complete, and fifteen more ready for stocking, six of which will be finished this week. Harvest, and sickness of two of my best hands, and the bursting of twelve or thirteen of my barrels in my absence, have disappointed my expectations. Twelve of the guns finished have been proved with two ounces of powder and one ball, the remainder with one ounce of powder and ball; but if this proof will not satisfy, I will apply to the gentlemen you mention to prove them, though it will be attended with expense and trouble in taking them out of the stocks, and fitting them in again. What other barrels I make, I shall apply to Mr. James Harris to see them proved before stocked, as he lives handy to us, and take his certificate. I will deliver at my factory, or at Harford town, to your order, what arms I have or can have made in time, according to agreement; but will not deliver them at Baltimore town at my own risk and expense. As Colonel Hall is in this neighbourhood, will not a delivery of the arms to him answer? I believe I could get slings for the muskets, and scabbards for the bayonets, made here, if you would let me know the price given for them.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

RICHARD DALLAM.

To the Honourable Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, President of the Council of Safety.P.S. I have not the least doubt but that my arms will please, and be found as good as any made in Maryland.

R. D.

CAPTAINS BARNES AND ELLIOTT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 16, 1776.

We, the subscribers, having the command of the two companies of Militia on Kent Island, beg leave to inform you, that the people of the Island are much dispirited by reason of the removal of the Independent Company off the Island, and also of a number of young men who are gone to the Flying-Camp, which has weakened our Militia companies very much. And as the people are apprehensive of being plundered and driven off the Island very soon, unless reinforced, we therefore humbly desire that your Honours will immediately take the same under your consideration, and order a reinforcement to come to our assistance as soon as possible, or many of the people will go off; and, indeed, we are in some doubt that some of them will not take up arms, unless we have some other force to assist us; and then there is no doubt but that they will be very spirited, and will endeavour to defend the Island as long as possible.

This request we hope your Honours will grant us, or we shall be in a most deplorable situation, expecting to be plundered, and perhaps driven off the Island, if the enemy appears, which we hourly expect, as it is said the Island is intended as a place of rendezvous for them.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

THOMAS BARNES, JUN.

THOMAS ELLIOTT.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

B. JOHNSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Frederick Town, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Captain Meromy has been employed by me, and acted as Adjutant to my battalion for two months. You will be pleased to give him an order for £12. I presume that it will be very serviceable at present.

Mr. Williams, I understand, declines accepting his commission in the Flying-Camp. I have not altered my opinion, but am ready to obey the command of my country.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

B. JOHNSON.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland, Annapolis.

GENERAL DENT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Charles County, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter contains the first information I have had on the subject. I shall immediately set out to St.

Mary's, and take every precaution in my power to guard against and repel the enemy. From the instructions heretofore given the Field-Officers, I expected to have had notice given me upon the appearance of an enemy as soon as possible; but no such thing have I had.

I am, gentlemen, in haste, your most obedient servant,

JOHN DENT.

To the Honourable Council of Safety.

ROBERT PORTEUS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 16, 1776.

HONOURED SIRs: I have been told that your honourable House has done me the honour of promoting me to a Third Lieutenantcy in Captain Nathaniel Smith's Company of Artillery now stationed here. If what I have been told be true, I hope I shall merit the appointment, as my study shall be in every respect to discharge the trust you are so kind as to put in me with every mark of honour. I would most readily do myself the honour of waiting on you in person, but I am this day ordered to mount guard to-morrow as one of the Militia. I coming in turn in our company, (Baltimore Independents,) and being one of the first subscribers to that company, and having been a member ever since its commencement, I make no doubt, if you have not yet appointed a Lieutenant to Captain Smith's Company, that you will think of me, which will be acknowledged as a particular honour conferred; and have the honour to be, gentlemen, your very humble and obedient servant,

ROBERT PORTEUS.

JOHN SKINNER TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, Nottingham Iron-Works, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I am favoured with yours of the 8th instant, concerning the casting some small cannon for the use of the Province; in answer to which I have to acquaint you that the Nottingham Company's furnace under my care blowed out about five weeks ago. The remainder of this year will be employed in providing stock for another blast, so that we shall not be able to get to work again sooner than sometime next January.

I am, with respect, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN SKINNER.

COLONEL TYLER TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your orders, a company out of my battalion will be at Annapolis to-day; they are not quite complete, but will be made so to-morrow. The notice I had was so short there was not time to collect the whole battalion, which is the reason that some of them are badly armed. It was past seven o'clock on Tuesday morning before I received the orders. Colonel Williams waits on you with this, and, if necessary, will attend the company till relieved. I should have waited on you myself, but have just recovered from a spell of sickness, and being a good deal fatigued by attending the battalion yesterday, it would have gone hard with me.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

ROBERT TYLER.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEES OF OBSERVATION.

[No. 43.]

Annapolis, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed we send you the Declaration of Independence, and the Letter that accompanied it from Congress to the Convention, requesting that it should be proclaimed in our Colony. We transmit the Declaration to you, that you may proclaim it in your County in the manner you judge most proper for the information of the people.

We are, &c.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BENTON HARRIS.

[No. 44.]

Annapolis, July 16, 1776.

SIR: We received your letter by Mr. Smyly, and send you by him the sum of £150, currency, to defray expenses, for which you will hereafter render us an account.

We send you enclosed exact copies of the invoice that have been transmitted to us from Messrs. Vanbibber & Harrison. There is some variation in the article of powder, a deficiency of two chests or packages of arms, and a very large deficiency in the bolts or pieces of duck. You say twenty-eight only are received; there ought to have been twenty-three bales, containing each four pieces or bolts—in all ninety-two bolts.

We request you would exert yourself in getting our cargo according to invoice and bill of lading. Colonel Hooe is down loading his vessel. He, on application, will assist you; and Captain Martin himself ought to be applied to. We depend on your diligence and activity; and are, with respect and esteem, yours, &c.

To Benton Harris, Esquire, Chairman of the Committee of Observation for Worcester County.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEES ON THE EASTERN SHORE.

[No. 45.]

Annapolis, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: It is impossible for us to attend so particularly as we could wish to the execution of every part of the enclosed resolves, and therefore must request the favour of you (though we are conscious it will give you a good deal of trouble) to assist us, as far as the nature of the subject and your situation will admit of, to comply with them; particularly in borrowing firelocks from such of the Militia as will lend, on the publick faith that the same shall be returned in the like good order as received, or, in case of loss, the value thereof, in having them valued; and also in collecting a sufficient quantity of blankets for the troops directed to be raised in Queen Anne's, and, if practicable, more, to make up the deficiency which we are apprehensive there will be in some other Counties.

We think it best that the defective arms for the companies to be raised with you for the Flying-Camp, should be repaired and fitted up in your County if possible; and as Mr. Winters, of Chestertown, (who is the only person we know of on the Eastern-Shore capable of undertaking it for the whole battalion to be raised there,) is already engaged in making arms for the Province, we should be sorry to take him from that business, unless through absolute necessity, and therefore request that you will exert yourselves in your endeavours to have them done without applying to him; if, however, you cannot accomplish it, you will be pleased to send them up to him for that purpose as fast as you collect them, taking his receipt for such as you may deliver. We desire to know how many arms you have in your possession belonging to the Province, and the number delivered in by, or taken from, those who have not subscribed the Association or enrolled in the Militia; and that those belonging to the Province may not be given out without the orders of this Board. We have already a sufficient quantity of cartouch boxes, bayonet belts, and slings, and have advertised for persons to contract with us for making knapsacks, with haversacks, priming-wires and brushes, camp-kettles, and canteens or wooden bottles; but if you can recommend to us any who can and will engage to supply the Militia with either of these articles, we shall be obliged to you. Steel ramrods we presume you can get made, but not bayonets, and therefore we have written Mr. Hollingsworth, of Cecil County, immediately to procure a number, a sufficient quantity of which we will endeavour to supply you with as soon as possible, upon being informed you can have the arms repaired and fitted. No period can furnish a greater necessity for your warmest efforts, and we trust you will not leave anything unessayed upon the present occasion.

We will send you, by the first opportunity, some cash to buy guns and blankets with, which we request you will lay out accordingly. We have not exceeded £4 5s. for a musket, with a steel ramrod and bayonet, but upon this occasion would have you go as high as £4 10s. Guns which you may purchase without either, ought not to cost so much that the necessary repairs and providing ramrods and bayonets will carry them above £4 5s., unless they are very good, in which case we will also allow £4 10s.

We are, &c.

N. B. There is a person on Kent Island who has repaired many guns for the Militia there, particularly in the locks, and we are informed is well qualified for the business.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEES ON THE WESTERN SHORE.

[No. 46.]

Annapolis, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: It will be impossible for us to attend so particularly as we could wish, to the execution of every part of the enclosed resolves, and therefore must request the favour of you (though we are conscious it will give you a good deal of trouble) to assist us, as far as the nature of the subject and your situation will admit of, to comply with them, particularly in borrowing firelocks from such of the Militia as will lend, on the publick faith that the same shall be returned in like good order as received, or, in case of loss, the value thereof on having them valued; and also in collecting a sufficient quantity of blankets for the troops directed to be recruited in your County for the Flying-Camp, and, if practicable, more, to make up the deficiency which we are apprehensive there will be in some other Counties. We wish the defective arms which may be collected in your County for the Flying-Camp should be repaired and fitted there if possible, and therefore request you will exert yourselves in your endeavours to have them done as expeditiously as you can. We desire to know how many arms you have which have been delivered in by, or taken from, those who have not subscribed the Association or enrolled in the Militia. We have already a sufficient quantity of cartouch-boxes, bayonet belts, and slings, and have advertised for persons to contract with us for making knapsacks with haversacks, priming-wires and brushes. But if you can recommend to us any who will engage to supply the publick with either of those articles we shall be obliged to you. Steel ramrods, we presume, you will be able to get made, but are doubtful as to bayonets; however, if you can provide them also, we would have you do it.

Mr. Hanson will deliver you this and we request you will lay it out in the purchase of arms and blankets. We have not hitherto exceeded £4 5s. for a musket with a steel ramrod and bayonet, but upon this occasion would have you go as high as £4 10s. Guns which you may purchase without either ought not to cost so much that the necessary repairs and providing ramrods and bayonets will carry them above £4 5s., unless they are very good, in which case we will allow £4 10s. We are, &c.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO VIRGINIA COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Although the Council of Safety of this Colony, by a recommendation to the inhabitants to spare the lead weights from their windows, and the lead from their houses, have collected a considerable quantity, which has been run into ball, and a part of which is now on the way to the Jerseys; yet it is by no means sufficient in our present exigency. A much greater quantity is still wanted for the Army in New-Jersey, and every method should be taken to procure it; I have it therefore in charge from Congress to request you will send by the return wagons, which are now on their way to your Colony with powder, as much lead as you can spare, and that you will order fifteen or twenty tons more of lead from the mines to this city as soon as possible. The state of our affairs will not admit the least delay; and I am persuaded arguments are not necessary to induce you to a compliance with this requisition with the greatest despatch.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Honourable Council of Safety, Virginia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL FIELDING LEWIS.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

SIR: The article of lead is so essentially necessary for our Army at this juncture, that the Council of Safety of this Colony, have recommended to the inhabitants to spare the lead weights from their windows, and the lead from their houses, by which means they have been furnished with a considerable quantity, which has been run into ball, and part of which is now on the way to the Jerseys. But as, under the present exigency, that quantity is far short of what is wanted for the Army in the Jerseys, and every method should be taken to collect it, I am therefore directed to request you will send by the wagons, which are now on their way to your Colony with powder, all the lead you can possibly procure at Fredericksburgh. The state of our affairs will not admit of the least delay, and I am convinced there is no necessity for arguments to induce you to an immediate compliance with this requisition.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Colonel Fielding Lewis.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Congress Chamber, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I have only time to forward the foregoing resolves. By to-morrow's post I hope to write you on the subject of all your letters which remain unanswered.

I have the honour to be your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Washington.

P. S. Your favour of the 14th just received.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO M. KIRMOVAN.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

SIR: In consequence of the recommendation the Congress have received of you, I am to inform you they have this day been pleased to appoint you an Engineer in the Continental service, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and the pay of sixty dollars per month.

It is the order of Congress that you immediately repair to New-Jersey, and put yourself under the command of the officer commanding the Flying-Camp.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Monsieur Kirmovan, Philadelphia.

P. S. Enclosed I send your commission.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Since I had the honour of addressing you on the 4th of June, at which time I transmitted sundry resolves of Congress requesting you to call forth your Militia; our affairs have assumed a much more serious complexion. If we turn our attention towards the Northern Department, we behold our Army reduced by sickness and obliged to flee before an enemy of vastly superior force. If we cast our eyes to Head-Quarters, we see the British Army reinforced under Lord Howe, and ready to strike a blow which may be attended with the most fatal consequences, if not timely resisted. The situation of our country at this season calls, therefore, for all the vigour and wisdom among us; and if we do not mean to desert her at this alarming crisis, it is high time to rouse every spark of virtue, and, forgetting all inferior considerations, to exert ourselves in a manner becoming freemen.

The intelligence received this day from General Washington points out the absolute, the indispensable necessity of sending forward all the troops that can possibly be collected, to strengthen both the Army in New-York and that on this side of Canada. I do therefore once more, in the name and by the authority of Congress, request and beseech you, as you regard the liberties of your country and the happiness of posterity, and as you stand engaged by the most solemn ties of honour to support the common cause, to strain every nerve to send forward your Militia, agreeably to the former requisitions of Congress. This is a step of such infinite moment, that, in all human probability, it will be the salvation of America. And as it is the only effectual step that can possibly be taken at this juncture, you will suffer me again most ardently to entreat your speedy compliance with it. In short, the critical period is arrived that will seal the fate not only of ourselves, but of posterity. Whether they shall arise the generous heirs of freedom, or the dastardly slaves of imperious task-masters, it is in your power now to determine; and, as freemen, I am sure you will not hesitate a moment about the choice.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

[The same to Massachusetts Assembly, Connecticut Assembly, and Convention of New-Jersey.]

In Congress, July 16, 1776.

Resolved, That Letters be written to the States of Massachusetts-Bay, Connecticut, and New-Jersey, setting forth the situation of our affairs in the New-York department, and pressing them immediately to comply with the requisition of Congress of the 3d June. That the situation of our Army at New-York be stated to the State of Connecticut, and that it be earnestly desired of that State immediately to send all the Militia thereof which can be spared into New-York, to reinforce the Army there, and continue in service until the proportions requested of the several States arrive.

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO JOHN LANGDON.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: Your favour of the 1st instant came duly to hand. There can be no objection to your contracting for guns wherever they are to be had. I find by the backwardness of the furnaces here, that they must be got somewhere else. Governour Hopkins has written agreeable to what I wrote last post. However, I think it would not be amiss for you to contract, if they won't spare you those already made, which they will, if they consider the good of the service, as they may make more by the time their ships are ready for them. You may depend the officers will be appointed agreeable to your recommendation; their commissions not being sent, need be no hinderance to you in engaging petty officers and men. Provisions I wrote you about last post. I agree with you that these matters have not been properly attended to, but I by no means take any part of the charge of neglect to myself; for no poor devil ever begged for alms with more earnestness than I have to get these matters settled, and am still determined, if possible, to have everything complete before I leave this. Two of the ships were launched here last week, viz: the Randolph and Delaware; but when they will get to sea is uncertain, as they have no anchors yet.

Independence was proclaimed in the Army at New-York last Wednesday, when the leaden King in the Bowling-Green was dismounted, and is by this time cast into bullets for the destruction of his tools of tyranny. May every one of them be properly commissioned.

We are daily in expectation of some grand military operations at New-York. The Militia are all marching from this Colony. The Associators are mostly gone from this city—Colonels Dickinson, Cadwalader, &c., at the head of their regiments. No doubt in a very few days twenty thousand men, if not more, will be embodied at New-Jersey, besides the Army at York. This Declaration has had a glorious effect—has made these Colonies all alive: all the Colonies forming Governments, as you will see by the papers. I expect there will be some interruption in the communication, but hope it won't last long.

In very great haste, yours,

WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

P. S. Please to send the enclosed paper to the North End. I have sent the play you mention to Mr. Brackett.

JOHN ALSOP TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Yesterday our President read in Congress a resolve of your honourable body, dated the 9th instant, in which you declare New-York a free and independent State. I cannot help saying that I was much surprised to find it come through that channel. The usual method hitherto practised has been, for the Convention of each Colony to give their Delegates instructions to act and vote upon all and any important questions. And in the last letter we were favoured with from your body, you told us that you were not competent or authorized to give us instructions on that grand question; nor have you been pleased to answer our letter of the 2d instant, any otherwise than by your said resolve, transmitted to the President. I think we were entitled to an answer.

I am compelled, therefore, to declare, that it is against my judgment and inclination. As long as a door was left open for a reconciliation with Great Britain, upon honourable and just terms, I was willing and ready to render my country all the service in my power, and for which purpose I was appointed and sent to this Congress; but as you have, I presume, by that Declaration, closed the door of reconciliation, I must beg leave to resign my seat as a Delegate from New-York, and that I may be favoured with an answer and my dismissal.

I have the honour to be, &c.

JOHN ALSOP.

In Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, }
Trenton, July 16, 1776. }

Ordered, That the several Township Committees throughout this Colony do immediately exert themselves in procuring Lead for the use of the Army now engaged in our defence, as the demand for that article is very great and pressing; that, to this end, they do forthwith collect all the Leaden Weights from Windows and Clocks, and all the Leaden Weights of Shops, Stores, and Mills, of one pound weight and upwards; also all other Lead in and about Houses and other places; and that they forward all the Lead which shall by them be so collected to the hands of Alexander Chambers, Abraham Hunt, David Pinkerton, and William Tucker, of Trenton; Hendrick Fisher, of Somerset County; Azariah Dunham, of New-Brunswick; John Ross, of Woodbridge; Isaac Woodruff, of Elizabethtown; and Dr. William Burnet, of Newark, or any of them, Commissioners appointed for purchasing arms, &c. And the said Commissioners are directed to pay for all such Lead at the rate of six pence, Proclamation money, the pound weight, together with the reasonable expenses in forwarding the same.

July 17th.—Whereas the honourable the Continental Congress have declared the United Colonies free and independent States: We, the Deputies of New-Jersey, in Provincial Congress assembled,

Do Resolve and Declare, That we will support the freedom and independence of the said States with our lives and fortunes, and with the whole force of New-Jersey.

Extract from the Minutes:

WILLIAM PATERSON, Secretary.

GENERAL MERCER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Elizabethtown, New-Jersey, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I just now received the honour of your letter of the 14th instant, containing the instructions of Congress relative to the troops which are intended to compose the Flying-Camp.

Two battalions of Pennsylvania Riflemen have arrived at Amboy, where it is proposed to form the encampment, as most convenient for the protection of this part of the New-Jerseys, or for marching towards Philadelphia or New-York, should the operations of the enemy point either way.

The British troops remain cantoned along the shores of Staten-Island, by all our intelligence, to the number of eight or nine thousand. Three days ago, Lord Howe sent Lieutenant Reeve, of the Eagle man-of-war, in a flag, to Amboy, with letters to the late Governours from hence to Georgia, which were immediately conveyed to Head-Quarters in New-York. His Lordship left England before the fleet; had nine weeks' passage to Sandy-Hook; he touched at Halifax. I shall not fail to communicate every remarkable occurrence.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

HUGH MERCER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL MERCER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 16, 1776.

SIR: In consequence of Colonel Reed's letter, and the plan shown me by Major Knowlton, I have reconnoitred the enemy's posts, and last night had the assistance of Captain John Mercereau to bring some intelligence from Staten-Island. He undertook the service very cheerfully; told me he could go very secretly to his brother-in-law's house, who, it seems, resides back in the woods, remote from the parties along shore. The Captain informs that he got to the house, where his brother and wife were alone; that he told him there were soldiers in every house near the shore—the numbers rather uncertain; but on the Neck, where we propose an attack, I cannot collect, from his account and all observation, that there are more than six or seven hundred. Two creeks enclose this Neck all to a point of woods three or four hundred yards wide. The principal posts of the enemy are three; the Blazing-Star is the lowest, where there appear to be from one hundred to two hundred men. The two other houses, about a mile or more asunder, do not appear to contain so many men. Some scattering houses on the Neck also have soldiers quartered, but, being more inconvenient and small buildings, cannot be supposed to contain many men. Every morning and evening a patrol of one hundred men passes into the Neck, from house to house, where guards are kept, and returns to some other post. This is the state of the enemy.

The plan of the attack which I propose, is as follows: To ferry over, between the hours of eleven and two o'clock tomorrow night, from Thompson's Creek to the woods, where the marsh is most practicable, fourteen hundred men—Colonel Brodhead, with four hundred Pennsylvania Riflemen, to pass over first and take possession of the ground, where the creeks form the Neck of smallest width, and there to lie in ambush from creek to creek; Major Knowlton to march next, with two hundred and fifty of his regiment, fifty Pennsylvania Riflemen, and fifty Militia, towards the Blazing-Star; Colonel Piper, with one hundred Riflemen and one hundred and fifty Militia, to take the road to the middle house in our view from this shore; and another Field-Officer, with a like number, to make towards the upper house. One hundred Riflemen and fifty Militia will remain for a reserve, to scour the Neck, and attack any scattering houses we may discover there. The orders to these parties will be, to proceed, if possible, under cover, and to remain near the enemy till daybreak, and then to make a vigorous attack; those at the upper houses to wait till firing is heard at the Blazing-Star, the most distant point. If the enemy attempts to pass into the Neck to the relief of their guards, Colonel Brodhead will have orders to place his men so as to form an ambuscade that may give him a great advantage; his men are, I think, to be depended on for such service. We propose, if successful, to retire by the Blazing-Star. For this purpose, not only the craft we cross over in from Thompson's Creek, but all others that can be collected along the shores, will be collected there by the parties stationed at our different posts near that place.

The clamour of the Militia to get to their harvest, has obliged me to discharge many. However, we have at Amboy seven hundred and fifty Riflemen; we expect two hundred and fifty from Paulus-Hook; and depend on four hundred of the Pennsylvania Light-Infantry, or Militia, to be at Woodbridge to-morrow; but should their march be so slow as to disappoint us, I shall have that number of Militia prepared in this quarter, without weakening too much the several posts we occupy on the Jersey shore. I shall endeavour to procure guides for the several parties. Your instructions for the improvement of the above plan will give great pleasure, and may ensure its success.

I have the honour to be, sir, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

HUGH MERCER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. The parties sent to attack the posts will have orders to send on a few men, if possible, to seize the sentinels and guards before they can give an alarm, which, if executed properly, may save our men. There are two field-pieces at our post, opposite the Blazing-Star, which may be employed to favour our retreat, if necessary.

All the troops for this service will assemble by to-morrow evening at Woodbridge, excepting those from Paulus-Hook, which I shall look for here by that time if your Excellency approves of going on with the enterprise.

The common talk on the Island is, that they will wait for the fleet from England, and then attack New-York. No encampment, but the men scattered all over the Island—no considerable encampment.

From some difficulties that occur with regard to the craft necessary for the enterprise, I begin to think it will be Thursday night before it can be entered upon.

Since writing the above, I am informed that a guard of one hundred men takes post every night on a point of woods nearly opposite to the mouth of Thompson's Creek, but not so near but we may possibly pass from hence along the Sound, and land lower down than was first intended; only we shall have a greater body of marsh to cross (said to be a mile) before we reach the woods; our craft is also to be taken round from Elizabethtown Creek into Thompson's Creek.

GENERAL MERCER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Elizabethtown, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I have just now received a letter from the honourable Mr. Hancock, containing the orders of Congress that I should march the troops which are to compose the Flying-Camp and Militia wherever the service requires, in subordination to your instructions.

When I formerly mentioned Brunswick as a proper place for that camp, my idea of the intention of raising and collecting an army here, was for the security of Philadelphia only; but as I find the design is equally to secure this Colony and Pennsylvania, or assist in the operations on the New-York side, I am well satisfied that Amboy will in every view best fulfil that intention.

I have to-day from Dr. William Brown, late of Alexandria, a request to interest your Excellency in his appointment to the charge of the Hospital for the Flying-Camp. Dr. Brown has served with reputation as a Regimental Surgeon, with Colonel Woodford, ever since regular troops were raised in Virginia. He is, I am well satisfied, worthy of any countenance from those in authority, and every way equal to the execution of the trust he desires. He wishes for a line to Congress from your Excellency, in which recommendation, if my being of the same profession could have any weight, I would most readily join.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,
HUGH MERCER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. As the command I am honoured with necessarily engages me in writing more than may be consistent with other parts of the service, I beg to know whether the assistance of a Clerk or Secretary will not be allowed. I hope there will be no impropriety in appointing Mr. Ross to the post of Brigade-Major.

COLONEL SEYMOUR TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

City of New-York, July 16, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: By the positive laws of the Colony of Connecticut, establishing the Troops of Light-Horse, they are expressly exempted from staying in garrison, or doing duty on foot, apart from their horses. This being the case, of which the regiments under our command in this place are fully sensible, we find it impossible for us to detain them any longer under that idea; they, moreover, remonstrate against it, alleging that they came out without the least expectation or preparation for such service. As your Excellency thought it inconsistent to distinguish these from the other troops on the ground, and as it will be impossible for them much longer to sustain their horses here, they humbly ask your Excellency's dismissal in form. Major Starr waits upon your Excellency for this purpose, and any commands for his Honour Governour Trumbull.

We are, with every sentiment of respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servants,

THOMAS SEYMOUR,
WILLIAM HART,
ELISHA SHELDON,
DANIEL STARR.

To General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL SEYMOUR.

New-York, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In answer to yours of this date, I can only repeat to you what I said last night, and that is, that if your men think themselves exempt from the common duties of a soldier—will not mount guard, do garrison duty, or service separate from their horses—they can be no longer of use here, where Horse cannot be brought to action, and I do not care how soon they are dismissed.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Colonel Seymour, and other Field-Officers of the Connecticut Light-Horse.

GENERAL GREENE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp on Long-Island, July 16, 1776.

SIR: Colonel Hands reports the fleet lies much in the same situation as yesterday, three ships at the Hook, two tenders cruising in the Bay. No deserters last night. Nothing material has happened since yesterday. I am in hopes to get the works on Cobble-Hill completed in a few days: it has taken much more time than I expected. I have such a number of guards that the fatigue party is much smaller than I could wish, but I cannot safely enlarge it without injuring the health of the people, for they are one day on and one day off duty now. One ship and a sloop have been under sail to-day, but are now come to.

I am, with all due respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

N. GREENE.

COLONEL JOSEPH REED TO MRS. REED.

New-York, July 16, 1776.

I make no doubt you will be agreeably surprised, as I was yesterday, on receiving a letter from our brother Dennis. It was endorsed "Per favour of Lord Howe," and sent with the seal untouched. He mentions that he had seen Lord Howe, and is well assured that he comes as a mediator, rather than as an enemy, and most earnestly presses me to promote a conference in order to an accommodation. I have not time to copy it now, but will send it to you by the first opportunity. No one can wish more for peace, or would promote it more heartily, if the terms were such as to give us any security for those articles which all agree, both Whig and Tory, are essential to our liberty and safety. These are, exemption from Parliamentary taxation and regulation of our internal government. If security was held of these and other articles still insisted on, I should, with a safe conscience, retire, and would do it. The annihilation of our trade, the difficulty of procuring men and supplies for another campaign, the misery and desolation which must ensue even if we should in the end be victorious, are important considerations. Besides, from some late instances, I very much fear many of our troops will fail in spirit, especially if taken by surprise.

I do not know what prospect there is of foreign alliances. That would certainly turn the scale decisively in our favour, but at present we are playing a very unequal game. Lord Howe seems so anxious to negotiate, that I think we may lengthen out the time without intermitting our preparations. Nor, for my own part, do I see any inconvenience or danger in a conference of proper persons, to know his powers and propositions of peace. We can easily judge of them, perhaps, from his declarations, for among the papers sent on shore are letters to every Governour, enclosing declarations. In them you have the whole; and if negotiation would not tend to slacken our preparations, I would wish to know the extent of those powers which he says are so great. I think if only granting pardons is meant, and no concession on the point of taxation, it would unite all to perseverance and resolution, trusting the event to Providence.

DENNIS DE BERDT TO MR. REED.

London, May 3, 1776.

DEAR REED: I am now set down to write you a letter on the most important subject and of the most difficult nature I ever yet attempted, and I scarcely know how to advance, nor will my mind suffer me to retreat, as my judgment is fully convinced the design is good, and my heart is warm in the cause.

You must know, since my Lord Howe's important appointment as Commander-in-Chief of his Majesty's forces in America, I have made it my business to learn his character as a nobleman, a statesman, and an officer. As a man, he has urbanity and great goodness of heart to recommend him; as a politician, solid sense and sound principles, with moderation; and as a commander, ability and valor. Such qualifications command esteem and respect, and it is a satisfaction to a feeling mind that so momentous an embassy as his Lordship's is so happily placed. But as I had reason to believe he had expressed the most anxious solicitude to bring about an accommodation without bloodshed, and to draw the sword with the greatest reluctance, and that these expressions were not only the language of his lips, but the dictate of his heart, I had a great desire to be introduced to him, and this day I had the honour of a conference; when his Lordship's conversation not only confirmed the report, but his friendly disposition towards America, and assurances of his inclination to effect a reconciliation without force, far exceeded my expectation; and though the assurances of great men are frequently without meaning or intention, I have the strongest belief in what he said, and the greatest faith in his peaceful intentions.

Do, my dear friend, let me persuade you that Lord Howe goes to America as a mediator, and not as a destroyer. I firmly believe it, upon my honour. Were it prudent in me to reveal all he said, I would most cheerfully and readily do it. I quote not his Lordship's authority for what I say, but give you my opinion, on a well-grounded belief of what I advance. This he has declared: he had rather meet you, and that immediately on his arrival, in the wide field of argument, than in the chosen ground for battle; and I am confident a parley on the footing of gentlemen and friends is his wish and desire; and it is generally believed, with his disposition to treat, he has power to compromise and adjust. Nor do I think, if a conference should be brought about, anything unbecoming a gentleman will be desired, or unreasonable concessions expected. These things believed, I would not be happy in my own mind without communicating them to you, and Lord Howe has promised to take charge of the letter. I beg, therefore, to recommend them to your most serious consideration.

The very thought, my dear friend, of being instrumental in bringing about a peaceful accommodation is better felt than expressed, when I consider the honour lately conferred on me by the Province of New-Jersey. It is my duty, my regard for the country and people makes it my inclination, and my affection for you and your family draws me into it with the cords of love.

My Lord Howe is not unacquainted with your name. I have so high an opinion of your abilities and honour, and have had such repeated instances of your friendship and affection, that everything has been said by me that you can desire or expect; and I have not a doubt, if a treaty or parley is brought about in which you may be engaged, every degree of respect you can desire, or attention you can wish, will be shown you. If this letter, from the exigency of the times, should be inspected, I hope it will not be suppressed, but receive an immediate despatch to you. Rest assured, my dear friend, my motives are good, whatever may be suspected to the contrary.

My dutiful regards attend my dear mother, and my affection and love are ever with you and my sister.

I am yours, sincerely and affectionately,

DENNIS DE BERDT.

GENERAL SPENCER TO JOHN SLOSS HOBART.

New-York, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Henry Little and John Lewis were both confined by my order in the City-Hall, and each of them charged with the crime of drinking a health to King George and success to his fleet, and declaring or manifesting their intention of joining the said fleet or army of the enemy against the Continental Army; which charge was delivered to the officer of the guard at that place.

On the morning of the 14th instant I received a line from you, desiring me to direct my evidences in the case of Lewis to attend upon you at nine o'clock in the morning, at the same morning. This did not come to my hand until something after the time you set for the attendance of the evidences. On receiving your notice, I immediately sent to Lieutenant Dunham, of Colonel Ward's regiment, (who was my informer relative to said prisoner,) to appear as soon as possible before you, to give what intelligence in the premises he was able to do. He since says he appeared before you as soon as he could, he thinks about ten o'clock in the same day, and that you then informed him the above-mentioned prisoners were both released the day before. This intelligence of Dunham appeared to me so extraordinary, I thought it my duty to acquaint you with it, that you may have an opportunity to show the mistake, if there be any.

I am, gentlemen, with great truth and regard, your most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH SPENCER.

To John Sloss Hobart, Esq., and the rest of the Committee of Provincial Congress, in New-York.

PASS FOR MEMBERS OF THE NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

New-York, July 16, 1776.

Permit the following gentlemen: John Sloss Hobart, Leonard Gansevoort, Lewis Graham, Esq., and Colonel Henry Remsen, Members of the Convention of the State of New-York, and John McKesson, Esq., Secretary of the said Convention, to pass from New-York to the said Convention at the White-Plains, with a box of stamps and plates of the late emission of the paper currency of this State, and some few records, and the fuses, &c., of such of those gentlemen who may choose to carry them.

JOHN RAY, Jun.,

Deputy Chairman of the General Committee.

To all whom it may concern.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, New-York, July 16, 1776.

To the Inhabitants of the City and Colony of New-York:

Whereas the Convention of the State of New-York did, on the 9th instant, unanimously resolve, that a Declaration of the Independence of the United States of America should be transmitted to the several Committees in the said State of New-York, with orders that it should be by them published with all convenient speed in their several districts: Therefore,

Resolved and Ordered, That at twelve o'clock, on Thursday, at the City-Hall, in this city, the aforesaid Declaration be published; when and where it is hoped every true friend to the rights and liberties of this country will not fail to attend.

Extract from the Minutes:

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

JOHN BROOME TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

White-Plains, July 16, 1776.

Sloop Independence, seventy tons burden, ten carriage-guns, four-pounders: owners, Philip Bell, of Philadelphia, Isaac Sears, Samuel Broome, & Co., and John Broome, of New-York, and Adam Babcock, of New-Haven; Thomas Truxton, Commander; Smith Richards, Captain of Marines; number of the crew, sixty; quantity of provisions, fifteen barrels of pork, thirty barrels of beef, five hundred weight of powder, with a proportion of ball, thirty muskets, twenty pistols, cartridges in proportion.

I do hereby request that a commission be made out for the above privateer sloop.

JOHN BROOME.

CERTIFICATE FOR A POWDER-MILL.

Walkill, Ulster County, July 16, 1776.

These are to certify, that Major Moses Phillips and Henry Wisner, Jun., Esq., has erected a Powder-Mill upon the Walkill, in said County, which we look upon to be very well executed, and did, with a large number of other spectators, see it work on the twentieth day of last May; since which time, by information of the workmen, (whom we look upon to be men of veracity,) it has manufactured two hundred weight or more of good merchantable gunpowder in one day, and so successively.

DAVID CORWIN, } Members of the JONATHAN SMITH, } County Committee.
WILLIAM DERN,
JAMES BUTLER, one of the Builders.

JOHN COE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Haverstraw, July 16, 1776.

SIR: In consequence of your Excellency's desire to receive timely information of every manœuvre which the enemy on Hudson's River may make to distress the inhabitants at this extremely busy season, we can inform your Excellency that this morning, between the hours of ten and eleven, the whole fleet, consisting of two men-of-war and three tenders, made sail from Nyack, and about twelve came into Haverstraw Bay, forty miles up the river from New-York, where, after the shipping came to anchor, the tenders continued parading the bay for half an hour. They all came to anchor opposite to the house of Captain Thiers, when four barges, fully manned, attempted to land, with a view, as we conjecture, to take off some sheep and cattle which we had previously driven off. Notwithstanding, they brought their tenders so nigh the shore as to cover the landing of the men in the barges, yet (having but a few men) we carried a firm countenance to them, and, with a few shot, (being well levelled,) they thought proper to retreat, without doing any damage with their cannon. If your Excellency can possibly spare a small detachment from the Continental forces for a few days, until the farmers can take in their crops, as it is now in the height of their harvest, you will render us an essential service; and a few days now is of the utmost consequence to them. When the harvest is in, we shall, with the utmost cheerfulness, lend every assistance in our power to promote the common weal of the community. We shall not press this matter upon your Excellency, but doubt not you will see the necessity which urges this request; and with due respect, remain your Excellency's very humble servant.

Per order of Committee:

JOHN COE, Deputy Chairman.

To His Excellency George Washington, at Head-Quarters.

P. S. We can further inform your Excellency that the enemy have sounded the channel as far up as the mouth of the Highlands.

COLONEL PORTER TO GENERAL FELLOWS.

Salisbury, Connecticut, July 16, 1776.

SIR: This instant have received a letter from the Committee of Dutchess County, (the copy of which you will see within,) desiring to have the Militia raised at the western part of Connecticut. Hope you will be good enough to join us as soon as possible with what men you can raise.

I am your humble servant, JOSHUA PORTER.

To Brigadier-General Fellows, at Sheffield.

Dutchess County, New-York, July 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have this instant received an express from General Washington, informing that some ships of war and tenders had passed the city of New-York and sailed up Hudson's River, with design, as is supposed, to take possession of the posts in the Highlands, and directing me to write to you, requesting you to march immediately with what force you can collect to these posts, particularly to where the post-road between Albany and New-York crosses the mountain, called Anthony's Nose. You will please to keep an exact return of the number of men you take with you.

I am your humble servant, EGBERT BENSON,
Chairman of the General Committee.

To the Commanding Officers of the Militia in the Western Towns of Connecticut.

GENERAL GATES TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 29, 1776, referred to the Board of War.]

Ticonderoga, July 16, 1776.

SIR: Upon my arrival at Albany the 27th ultimo, General Schuyler assumed the command of the Army in this department, alleging that the resolves of Congress, and General Washington's instructions to me, were confined to Canada. As this was not to be denied, I submitted, and went with General Schuyler and General Arnold to Crown-Point, where we found the wretched remains of what was once a very respectable body of troops. That pestilential disease, the small-pox, had taken so deep a root, that the camp had more the appearance of a general hospital than an army formed to oppose the invasion of a successful and enterprising enemy. A Council of General Officers was immediately held, wherein it was determined unanimously to retire, and take post on the strong ground opposite to the east point of Ticonderoga; to endeavour, by every means in our power, to maintain the naval superiority of Lake Champlain, without which it is not possible, in our present circumstances, to hold any ground upon this side the carrying places leading into that lake. In consequence of these resolves, I came immediately, with General Schuyler, to Ticonderoga. We had the ground for the new encampment thoroughly examined, and commanded the troops, as they arrived from Crown-Point, to prepare to clear the ground for their taking post according to the resolution of the council of war. The next thing was, to examine our naval force upon the lake.

The vessels, which should have been constantly armed as vessels of war, have hitherto been solely employed as floating wagons. Of course there was a necessity of immediately sending them from Crown-Point hither, to be armed. Carriages for their cannon were even to be made here, out of wood taken from the stump. This is so far effected, that a schooner mounting ten four and six-pounders, will be ready to sail to-morrow; the rest must wait to be fitted; and as the possession of everything here depends upon keeping the command of the water, I shall do everything our scanty means will afford to forward the work. As all the Field-cannon, with their a-traille, were lost in Canada, it takes a great deal of time to fix our artillery, carriages being to be made from wood cut here; and so must our platforms for the works we have to erect.

The gondolas General Schuyler has ordered to be built, as he had no model to direct him, are in nothing but in name like those at Philadelphia. The rigging and artillery are all to be fixed here, and when done, they seem to be vessels very unwieldy to move, and very indifferent for the purpose intended. Two are finished, and two more will be finished this week. If the enemy gives us time to do all this, it will be well; if not, this wretched army will probably be yet more unfortunate. I am exerting all my powers to prevent the pestilence getting to Skenesborough, for should the Militia ordered there be infected, we shall be distressed beyond example.

General Waterbury, who arrived the day before yesterday, is gone to Skenesborough, to regulate the Militia when they arrive, and to stop them there. He has this moment sent me an officer infected with the small-pox, to be removed to the General Hospital at the south end of Lake George. Colonel Read's New-Hampshire regiment is now at the carrying place, going to the General Hospital. They have upwards of three hundred sick, and only just well men enough to row those over the lake. Thus, sir, you see the melancholy situation to which this Army is reduced.

I desire the bearer may not be detained a minute longer than to receive your despatches; and I must request, when any express is forwarded to me from Congress, that he be ordered to come the whole way, and not deliver his despatches to any other person to bring forward.

Mr. Morgan Lewis, who presents you this letter, I brought with me from New-York, and intended, conformable to the resolves of Congress and General Washington's instructions, to have appointed him my Deputy Quartermaster-General; but General Schuyler says those resolves and instructions relate only to Canada. A son of Governour Trumbull, who remains with me, and who I intended for Deputy Adjutant-General, is in the same predicament.

I am, sir, with the greatest esteem and regard, your most obedient humble servant, HORATIO GATES.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Ticonderoga, July 16, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed is a copy of the letter with which I have charged Mr. Lewis to the President of the honourable the Continental Congress. It is too disagreeable a tale to dwell on; I shall not therefore enlarge upon it. I beg the favour that Mr. Lewis may have your orders not to delay in New-York, but proceed immediately to Philadelphia. General Sullivan has probably, by this time, seen your Excellency; he will, no doubt, make a faithful representation of the wretched state of this Army. General Schuyler assures me he has already done it. Since the beginning of May, the losses sustained by the enemy, and by death and desertion, amount to more than five thousand men; and to this must be added three thousand that are now sick. Our accounts from the enemy are lame and imperfect. It seems not to be doubted that they have a large camp at St. John's, and are labouring to get a naval force upon the lake. I shall do all in my power to procure the best intelligence of their motions. Heaven grant your Excellency a prosperous campaign, such a one as will make ample amends for the losses of the Northern Army. My affectionate compliments wait upon the gentlemen of your family, and particularly to my old friend and acquaintance, Brigadier-General Mercer.

I am, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant, HORATIO GATES.

To His Excellency General Washington.

NATHAN CLARK TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Manchester, July 16, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: We enclose to you the proceedings of the Committees of the several towns in the Counties of Albany and Charlotte, on the New-Hampshire Grants, answerable to the demands of the Council of General Officers, held at Crown-Point the 8th of July instant, in which you will find commission officers nominated, to raise the Green-Mountain Boys, to be stationed on the east side of the Lake Champlain, and to the north of the inhabitants.

Likewise, we would recommend to your Honour that Major Samuel Safford should be called upon to take the command of the companies when raised, except Colonel Warner should be appointed to command said companies, as the men would not choose to be joined to any other corps.

From your very humble servants.

By order: NATHAN CLARK, Ch. Committee.

To Major-General Schuyler, or the Commanding Officer in the Northern Department.

N. B. A sum of money for advance pay would much forward the raising of men.

A list of gentlemen elected as Commission Officers, to raise the men appointed to be raised by the Council of General Officers held at Crown-Point, July 8, viz:

1st Captain, Wait Hopkins; 1st Lieutenant, John Fassett; 2d Lieutenant, Joseph Safford.

2d Captain, Samuel Herrick; 1st Lieutenant, John Spafford; 2d Lieutenant, James Brooking.

3d Captain, Jonathan Fassett; 1st Lieutenant, John Smith; 2d Lieutenant, Abraham Salisbury.

4th Captain, Ira Allen; 1st Lieutenant, Jonathan Wright; 2d Lieutenant, Enoch Eastman.

5th Captain, Lemuel Clerk; 1st Lieutenant, Jesse Belknap; 2d Lieutenant, Matthew Lyon.

6th Captain, Thomas Ransom; 1st Lieutenant, Rufus Perry; 2d Lieutenant, Moses Veal.

By order of Committee:

NATHAN CLARK, Chairman.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 23, 1776.]

Providence, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I now do myself the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of June 14th, 21st, and 25th, and of the 6th instant, with their several enclosures.

The resolve of Congress prohibiting the exportation of salted beef and pork, hath been published and strictly attended to in the Colony. The resolutions for providing sufficient clothing for the soldiers of the United Colonies, those declaring that all persons abiding within the United Colonies owe allegiance to the laws, &c., and recommending to the Legislatures to pass laws for punishing Traitors, and the Declaration of Independency, will all be laid before the General Assembly which I have called to meet on Thursday next, and which will do everything proper in those matters. The General Assembly has already passed an act declaring it felony to counterfeit the Continental Bills of Credit, or to pass them knowing the same to be counterfeited.

I have appointed Captain Barnard Eddy, a very suitable person, the chief carpenter. He hath already inlisted twenty men, who are to be well provided with tools and arms at the same rate at which the Marine Committee have inlisted those in Philadelphia. He informs me he shall be able to procure the whole number required of us, and to march with them on Monday or Tuesday next, at the farthest. He proposes to send off the baggage on Saturday.

I daily expect the Treaty of Confederation and Union, and have no doubt but the General Assembly will give their hearty assent to that, and to every measure of the General Congress of the United States of America.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem and respect, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

NICHOLAS COOKE.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esquire.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, July 16, 1776.

SIR: I am favoured with your Excellency's letter of the 9th instant, in consequence of which, Mr. Greene hath delivered to Colonel Tillinghast, to be immediately forwarded to New-York, fourteen thousand five hundred flints, twenty muskets, and thirty back-swords, being the whole of those articles that were imported by Captain Chace. All the duck is heavy, coarse, and stubborn, being what is called Holland and Russia duck. Captain Chace hath also brought in the brigantine four four-pounders, six three-pounders, and eight swivels, which are very much wanted here for privateers, several of which could be immediately fitted out, if cannon could be procured. If they can be spared from the service, I should be glad to have your Excellency's permission, as soon as possible, that they may be made use of for that purpose, at the full value.

On Saturday last I was honoured with the commands of the General Congress, to procure fifty ship-carpenters to build vessels for the defence of the lakes. I appointed a suitable person as Captain, who hath already inlisted twenty men; and I have no doubt they will set off for Albany the last of this, or the very beginning of next week.

I have also received from Congress the Declaration of Independency, and daily expect the Treaty of Confederation and Union, which hath induced me to call the General Assembly to meet on Thursday next, when, I can safely assure you, they will give to both a hearty assent and concurrence.

I entreat your Excellency's attention to the great probability there is of the enemy's paying a visit to Rhode-Island, in case they do not succeed to their wishes at New-York; and that we are by no means in a condition to give them a suitable reception.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest esteem and respect, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

NICHOLAS COOKE.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, July 16, Anno Dom. 1776.

SIR: This will be delivered to you by the Captain of one of our galleys, two of which, the Whiting and the Crane, are ordered to proceed to New-York forthwith, and put themselves under your command. The third is stationed at Stonington, which may be exposed to suffer from the attack of a single ship, (several of which are now cruising near it,) if the galley is removed from thence.

The great desire I have to comply with every requisition which concerns the defence of the American States, at this critical juncture, has induced me to send you these galleys, although I am sensible they are not furnished with such guns as may be necessary to render them so useful as they might be with heavier metal; the guns intended for them by the Colony are not yet completed at Salisbury, from whence we hope for them soon. I have directed the Captains to move your Excellency for some heavier guns, while in your service, or until we can get such as are more suitable from Salisbury down the North River, if possible.

I am sorry we cannot possibly spare you any heavy cannon, it being wholly out of our power; we have no more than are necessary, and are mounted upon our forts at New-London and Groton. Should any of them be taken away, those fortresses will become in a great measure useless, and the town and fort, upon an attack, might fall into the possession of the enemy, which could not happen but with the greatest detriment to the United States in general, as well as to this in particular.

I am, with great esteem and regard, sir, your obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council, Monday, July 15, 1776, according to adjournment:

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar, Jz. Huntington, Wm. Williams, Jed. Elderkin, Benj. Huntington, Nath. Wales, and Titus Hosmer, Esquires.

In the forenoon, Captain Harding came in, having just arrived with his Brig from Boston. Gave an account of his cruise, taking the Ships and Brigs, &c., and his reasons for leaving the port without orders, &c.; and is excused and justified for so leaving, &c.; and wants directions about cleaning, graving, and refitting, and about the men who are probably infected with the small-pox; and is directed to do the necessities, with the advice, &c., of Mr. Shaw, who is Colony Agent for naval supplies, as per 15th. Many things to say to them; and about prizes brought into Boston, &c.

Post from Hartford, and Brown the Albany post arrived with many Letters from General Schuyler, Mr. Trumbull, &c.; read and attended to, &c.

On representation of the Committee of Inspection for Synsbury and others, of the dangerous situation of Newgate Prison, and especially since a number of Tory prisoners are committed there, and the great uneasiness of the people concerning them, and that the keeper is uneasy with his situation, &c., and requesting liberty of a guard, &c., considered; and Voted, That the Overseers of Newgate Prison be advised and directed, and they are hereby advised and directed, to procure and place a guard of two faithful men every night, or more if they shall judge necessary, carefully to watch and guard said Prison, and all the avenues thereof, in order to prevent the escape of any of said prisoners, and any access to them by unknown or suspicious persons; and that said Committee be advised to examine into the true situation and circumstances of said affair, and inform his Honour the Governour as soon as may be, and of the necessity of the case, in order to receive further instructions in the premises.

Many other matters of a publick nature considered, &c.; and adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, July 16, 1776.

At a meeting, &c., adjourned from yesterday.

Present: His Honour the Governour, Honourable Deputy-Governour Griswold, Eliph. Dyar, Jz. Huntington, Wm. Williams, Titus Hosmer, Jed. Elderkin, Nath. Wales, Benj. Huntington, and Wm. Hillhouse, Esquires.

Messrs. Brown and Gardner, (sons, &c., of Mr. Brown, of Fisher's Island.) present, applying for pay for the stock lately taken from Fisher's Island, &c. It seems the affair is not ripe, &c.; but the matter to be previously settled between him and Mr. Winthrop, as to who has a right to receive, &c.; and a Letter written to the Committee at New-London.

Captain Mygatt, of a provision vessel, stopped by Captain Niles, agreeable to order, moving for leave to proceed, &c.; but it seems not safe, the enemy so many about, and could not consent to it, &c.

Engineer Waters came in. Moves to have some extra allowance for the Carpenters and Masons, at the works at New-London, above the amount of their wages.

Voted, That the tradesmen, as Carpenters and Masons, who have been employed about the works at New-London, be allowed nine Pence per day, over and above their wages, for the time they have laboured, or shall labour there, under the direction of the Engineer, &c.—a particular account to be kept of the days; and that one Shilling and six Pence per day, above their wages, be allowed to the Master Mason, Master Carpenter, and Master Blower, who have laboured, or shall labour, as aforesaid. Account to be kept as aforesaid.

Said Mr. Waters laid in his account for his services as Engineer, from November 23 to July 15:

Amount, deducting for absent days, leaves four months thirteen days, at £12, - - - - -	£53	4	0
Eighteen weeks' board, at 12s., - - - - -	10	16	0
Allowance for sundry small expenses, - - - - -	1	19	3
	£65	19	3

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Committee of Lead Mine at Middletown, in favour of Joseph Webb, of Wethersfield, for one thousand weight of Lead, to replace the same quantity sent by the Selectmen of Wethersfield, by request, and delivered to Captain Wadsworth, of the Army, at Cambridge. Order delivered to Mr. Hosmer.

On application of William Law, for cash towards his bill for building Carriages for the armed Vessels and Galleys, &c.,

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table, in favour of William Law, for the sum of £80, to be accounted for, on his bill for building Ship-carriages for cannon on board the Galleys, &c., and the cannon brought by Commodore Hopkins.

His Excellency General Washington having requested the loan of the Row-Galleys belonging to this Colony, to assist in the defence of New-York, now attacked by the enemy,

Resolved and Voted, Row-Galleys Whiting and Crane proceed immediately to New-York, and there be under the command of his Excellency General Washington, until further orders. (Orders sent.)

On application and request of Governour Franklin, now residing, on his parole, at Wallingford, for liberty to remove to Middletown; on consideration, Voted and Resolved, That said Governour Franklin be permitted to remove to, and reside at, Middletown, until further orders, under the obligation of the same parole he has signed on his being ordered to Wallingford.

Voted and Ordered, That none of the Prisoners residing at Hartford or Wethersfield be permitted any longer to go into the Town of Middletown, without a special license from his Honour the Governour; and the Committee of Prisoners are to take notice hereof, and see that they be restrained accordingly.

Copy delivered to Mr. Root.

The honourable Congress having requested this Colony to furnish our Troops with Tents, Clothing, &c.; on consideration, Voted, A Committee be appointed to purchase and procure all the Tow Cloth and other suitable Cloth or materials for making of Tents, that can be had in the Colony.

Captain John Deshon came in. Moves for a supply of Money to enable him to procure further quantities of Provisions, &c., for the Regiment at New-London, and moves for £2,000. On consideration, Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Treasurer for the sum of £1,500, to be improved for the purpose of procuring Provisions for the support of the soldiers stationed at New-London, and a quantity of Molasses to be distilled and otherwise used for said soldiers, and said sum be accounted for on settlement of his accounts in said service.

Whereas General Schuyler has earnestly requested his Honour the Governour to furnish his Army with a number of felling Axes, not exceeding one thousand, &c.:

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table, in favour of his Honour the Governour, for the sum of £150, to be by him put into the hands of proper persons, to purchase felling Axes for General Schuyler, according to his request, to be repaid by said General; and that an Order be also drawn on the Pay-Table, in favour of Titus Hosmer, Esq., for the same sum of £150, for the same purpose. (The two above sums sent for by Captain Deshon.)

On application of the Selectmen of Lebanon, that they cannot obtain Firearms sufficient for the Company under Captain Clark of said Town, Voted, That they may receive a number, not exceeding fifteen, of the Guns and Bayonets now in the hands of his Honour the Governour, which were fitted up from old barrels received from Crown-Point. And they were delivered, and receipt taken to the Governour.

MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Council Chamber, Watertown, July 16, 1776.

SIR: Messrs. Jackson, Tracy & Tracy, merchants of Newburyport, are very solicitous to procure a release of the officers and men of their late Privateer Yankee Hero, which was taken, after a brave and manly resistance, by the Milford frigate; they are now in the hands of our enemies. They take leave to recommend their case to your Excellency's consideration, not doubting but you will attend to any application made to you on their behalf, by the gentlemen above named, and afford every reasonable assistance to accomplish their benevolent purpose; and if they should be happy enough to effect it, it will give us a particular pleasure, as those men, by their past conduct, merit our regard, and should they be obtained, may be greatly serviceable in the American Army.

We cannot neglect this opportunity of recommending to your Excellency's particular consideration the case of Mr. James Lavell, who suffered a long and severe imprisonment in Boston, and was carried off in the fleet to Halifax, where he has remained a close prisoner ever since. His enemies have not been able to fix any crime upon him, and when he has repeatedly desired to be brought to a trial, they have always declined it. We are very desirous to procure his liberation; and if there is a possibility of effecting it, should esteem it a favour if your Excellency would give in exchange for him any prisoner you may think proper.

In behalf, and by order of the Council, I am your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

B. GREENLEAF.

To His Excellency George Washington, General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the United States of America, New-York.

MESHECH WEARE TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 25, 1776.]

New-Hampshire, in Committee of Safety, at Exeter, }
July 16, 1776. }

SIR: This moment the Committee were honoured with the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, enclosing a "Declaration separating the United States of America from any connexion with Great Britain, and for their being Independent States." It is with pleasure, I can assure you, that, notwithstanding a very few months since many persons in this Colony were greatly averse to anything that looked like independence of Great Britain, the late measures planned and executing against us have so altered their opinions that such a Declaration was what they most ardently wished for; and I verily believe it will be received with great satisfaction throughout the Colony, a very few individuals excepted.

The fifteen hundred men of our Militia requested to recruit the Army in Canada are mostly raised. One company marched from Portsmouth yesterday; more are coming forward, and I believe most of them will march this week. No cloth fit for tents could be procured in this Colony, and the men must remain destitute, unless they can be supplied from the southward.

That He who putteth down potentates and setteth up States may guard and protect the United States of America, is the most fervent and sincere desire of your obedient, humble servant,

MESHECH WEARE.

P. S. The General Court and Committee of Safety sit at Exeter, where you will please to direct in future. This express went thirty miles out of his way, by being directed to Portsmouth.

CAPTAIN BARROW TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Merrimack, July 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of the orders I received from Major-General Folsom, for raising sixteen men out of the company under my command, in this town, for the service in Canada, I have raised thirteen good, effective men, who are all well equipped. I am myself chosen to the command, which makes fourteen in the whole. Caleb Stevens, an inhabitant of this town, inlisted into said service and passed muster before the date of my orders.

I have called upon Captain John Chamberlain and sons, who treated my Lieutenant (the messenger) and myself, with great abuse and ill-language, and refused to assist by man or money. Messrs. Charity Lund, Robert Nesmith, Samuel Gibson, Jun., Michael Dalton, and James Taylor, have all utterly refused to send any assistance.

I have received orders from the Mustermaster to march my men forthwith; I shall pay strict obedience thereto. I wish it may be in my power to give a good account of the enemy on my return from Canada.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM BARROW.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN BOSTON FROM CAPTAIN JACOB DUNNELL, DATED ST. PIERRE, MARTINICO, JULY 17, 1776.

I sailed from Dartmouth, in the sloop Nancy, on the 9th day of September, 1775, bound to the coast of Africa. On the 4th of November, arrived at Goree, at which place I began to make my trade. From thence proceeded down to Montserado. On the 10th of January, 1776, while lying at anchor at the above-mentioned place, I was taken by the sloop-of-war called the Atalanta, Thomas Underwood commander; at which time they had taken a schooner called the Juno, belonging to the same owners, one Shockley master, on a whaling voyage. I had the liberty of remaining on board my own vessel with the prize-master, so long as I behaved well; but if any complaint should be found against me, the Captain told me he would put me in irons. My mate and one of the people were taken on board the ship, and the three others remained on board the sloop. They then proceeded with the prizes down to Cape Coast, where they disposed of upwards of six thousand gallons of rum, some rice, and other articles, on their own account, and purchased slaves. These goods were part of said sloop Nancy's cargo. From thence they proceeded with the prizes down the coast, in search of the Americans, but luckily found none. Then sailed over to St. Thomas, where we found the Pallas frigate, and the Weasel sloop-of-war. They had cruised the coast down, and the Pallas had taken one prize, a schooner, registered at New-York, one Seannett master. The Weasel had taken two prizes, a sloop belonging to New-York, one Darbey master, and a small schooner belonging to South-Carolina, which had been a long time on the coast; and when at St. Thomas, there was an information given of a brig lying up Gibboon River, one Marshall master, from London, with American papers, and belonging to New-York, mounting fourteen guns. The Dartmouth schooner, one of the prizes mentioned above, was immediately armed, and the Weasel sloop-of-war went in search of said brig; but I think she may have got clear, as I believe Captain Marshall had information of their coming. On the 1st day of May, 1776, the Pallas, Captain Cornwall, and the Atalanta, with their prizes, sailed in company from St. Thomas, bound to Jamaica; and on the 15th of May, in the latitude of 2° south, and longitude of 5° west, we parted with the said vessels. The 8th of June, we arrived at St. Vincent's. The prize-master being on shore, we all agreed (eleven in number, four men-of-war men and seven prisoners, with myself) to run away with the sloop Nancy; and at the time of our making the attempt, two of the prisoners, who belonged to Captain Shockley's schooner, which were his mate, by the name of Beattle, his brother, and one of the men-of-war's men, failed in said attempt. We then put them all three on shore, with their chests and clothes, and got said vessel under sail, about three miles from the land, when it became quite calm. We tarried on board said sloop until daybreak. We then thought the prize-master might be apprised of our attempt, and therefore left said sloop, took to our boat, and proceeded for Martinico, where, thank Almighty God, we are all safe arrived, but with loss of said sloop Nancy, and all my papers of every kind. Captain Shockley and his people were all put on board the Atalanta.

COLONEL JORDAN TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

St. Mary's County, St. George's River, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I arrived down here on the 15th instant, with about one hundred of the Militia, where I found Captain Beall, with part of his company, and one company of Colonel Barnes's battalion. About daybreak yesterday, we were visited by a row-galley, or row-gondola, carrying five swivels on each side, a six-pounder in her head, and another in her stern. They rowed alongside of our sentinel, and not a man to be seen, and instantly began a very heavy firing, which lasted about one hour, but without doing any execution, although their shot reached the ground on every spot where the men were stationed. In the evening, she returned again, and engaged us again for upwards of two hours; and at the same time the troops landed from the ships on St. George's Island, to the amount of about three hundred, pushed down to the point opposite to us, with swivels and musketry, and kept up a heavy fire, from which Captain Beall was dangerously wounded in the shoulder with a ball (as he says) from a rifle, which has rendered him incapable of duty.

I shall endeavour to keep the post we are at present at, if possible; if not, I shall retreat to the woods, about half a mile. From a report we had given us yesterday, they are constructing another vessel like the above, and that they intend attacking us on the Potomack side. I think, from all appearances, the fleet will continue some time; if so, some cannon and swivels will be absolutely necessary, to dislodge the men they have landed on the Island.

With what assistance we can give in this quarter, I think five hundred of the Militia of the upper battalion will be full enough to oppose the enemy. We have now, at different posts, about six hundred men.

For further particulars, I refer you to Mr. Hopewell, by whom this goes express. He will also inform you of the difficulties we labour under in getting provisions for the men, without money to pay for it immediately. Three hundred pounds, I think, would be sufficient.

Colonel Barnes, with his battalion, is on the other side of the river, watching the motions of the enemy there.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JEREMIAH JORDAN.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

R. HOOE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Chingoteague, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: On my way to this place, I heard that two of our flour vessels were at Annemessick. I called to know their situation, and found there was no chance of escaping the enemy, if they attempted to get into the Potomack. Under these circumstances there appeared no better method of getting the flour here, than by carting it from Annemessick to Pocomoke, bringing it in a craft some distance up the river, landing it again, and carting it over to the inlet. For this purpose, I directly engaged carts on both sides of the river, and a craft in Pocomoke; but to this moment I have received no more than seventy-eight barrels. The Baltimore, I am told, will be here on Monday, but from what I have experienced, I do not expect it so soon.

Mr. Crocket informs me that three vessels more have come off with flour. I have inquired, but can get no tidings of them; however, I still hope they are safe in some harbour; but shall not count upon them for part of this cargo. When I shall be able to despatch the brigantine I cannot say, this being the most uncertain and difficult place to do business in that ever I experienced. There is no corn, but such as lies much scattered, at great distances, in small quantities, and at extravagant prices. Tobacco I find very scarce, and lying in much the same manner; indeed, any that I have yet seen is ordinary, and they ask twenty and twenty-five shillings, Virginia money, for it. But this article must be our dependance, and I shall, as expeditiously as possible, ship as much of the best as I can find, as will, with the flour, put the brig in a light load, and send her off.

As to the schooner John, I decline loading her for account of the Province; and as soon as I can have the pleasure of waiting on the Council of Safety, I will give them satisfactory reasons why it ought not to be done.

The muskets, powder, sulphur, and swivels, still lie in a very dangerous situation, in an old shattered house. I therefore thought it prudent to send an express to the Worcester Committee, to hire carts to get it away, and they have accordingly got all the articles to Snow-Hill, except a few barrels of sulphur, that will be removed to-morrow.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, your Honours' most humble servant,

R. HOOE.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

CAPTAIN BARNES TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

July 17, 1776.

In a letter written to your Honours by Captain Elliot and myself, praying a reinforcement to be sent to our assistance, we omitted to mention the want of powder and ball, which we stand in great need of, not having above one quarter of a pound of powder and one pound of lead per man, for the Militia on the Island. And if your Honours think fit to order any companies to our assistance, I hope you will order ammunition for them, as well as for the company on the Island.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

THOMAS BARNES, Jun.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety.

JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 17, 1776.

SIRS: I have not received the money for the order sent me by Captain Nicholson, for £250. I have sent Mr. George Wells, Sen., with it. If he should meet with any difficulty, please let Mr. Cromwell, your clerk, assist him; and if you have any order for me concerning bread or flour, please write. I have been these two days getting timber for the galleys. Please not to let him come without the cash.

From your humble servant, JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.

GORDON AND PATTON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, July 17, 1776.

We, the subscribers, do propose to make knapsacks, with oil covers, at seven shillings each; country linen knapsacks, at six shillings each; and Rusisa duck knapsacks, at six shillings and six pence each, provided we get a quantity.

JOHN GORDON,

MATTHEW PATTON.

WILLIAM WATERS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Somerset County, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Militia is called into action, and have been for some time. The field officers say they cannot supply them, without being supplied with a small sum of money. We have dealt on credit for some time, but find it necessary to have a small sum. If you can supply us with about £300, this Committee will be answerable for it. The bearer, Mr. Denwood, will bring the money safely.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,
WILLIAM WATERS, Chairman Committee.

To the Honourable Council of Safety, Annapolis.

WILLIAM WATERS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Somerset County, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed is an extract of the Proceedings of our Committee against James Layfield. Have sent him up under guard to you.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
WILLIAM WATERS, Chairman.

At a meeting of the Committee of Somerset County, July 10, 1776:

David McDonald, Jun., informed the Committee, on oath, that he was told by his father and wife, that they heard James Layfield say that he wanted this deponent to join and take the ammunition from Lazarus Maddox, which he was carrying to the Guard; and that his father and wife told him that said Layfield told them that he would tie said Maddox, and carry him aboard of Dunmore.

Ordered, That James Layfield appear on Tuesday next, before the Committee; also that David McDonald, Sen., and Sarah McDonald, (wife of David McDonald,) appear before said Committee, to testify against said Layfield.

Tuesday, July 16, 1776.

The Committee met. Present: Thomas Bruff, Thomas Haywood, William Waters, George Waters, John Jones, Daniel Dashiell, James Bounds, and Peter Waters.

THOMAS BRUFF, in the Chair.

James Layfield appeared before the Committee. David McDonald and Sarah McDonald also appeared.

The Committee proceeded to examine the witnesses. They depose as follows: David McDonald, Sen., of lawful age, being duly sworn, deposeth and saith: That, some time in June last, James Layfield came to this deponent's house, and said, if he had had help, he would have taken the ammunition that Lazarus Maddox had carrying down to the guard, and that if he (said Layfield) had been going down to Dunmore, he would have tied the said Maddox, and have put him in his canoe, and carried him to Dunmore. This deponent saith, that he had several times before this heard Layfield say that he would not muster, and that if he could get persons to join him, he would stand in opposition to mustering, and would not muster for any person. And further saith not.

Sworn before

PETER WATERS.

Sarah McDonald, of lawful age, being sworn, deposeth and saith: That, some time in June last, James Layfield came to her father's, (David McDonald's), in company with John Redden and Lazarus Maddox. Layfield and Redden came into the house; Maddox went to tie his horse. Layfield asked this deponent where her husband was, and desired this deponent to tell her husband to come out to him. She answered that he was not at home. This deponent saith that some little time afterwards, Maddox went off to the guard, which was at Jericho, and Layfield and Redden came up to the door, and Layfield told this deponent what he wanted with her husband; which was, that if he had been at home, and was as willing as he was, he would have tied Maddox, put him in a canoe, and carried him and his ammunition on board of Dunmore, for it was a bargain they had made, as they came along, to do so. And further saith not.

True copy from the Minutes:

JOHN DASHIELL, Clerk.

THOMAS B. HANDS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Langsford Bay, July 17, 1776.

SIR: My most sincere and grateful acknowledgments are justly due to the honourable the late Convention for their continuance of me as a member of the Council of Safety; and although it gives me great pain, yet I should consider myself highly unworthy of the good opinion they had entertained of me, did I not signify to you that I find my situation such that I think myself bound to decline that honour. You therefore, sir, will be pleased to accept of my resignation of the appointment of me a member of the Council of Safety; and believe me, with due respect to yourself and the other gentlemen of your Board, your most humble servant,

THOMAS B. HANDS.

To Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, President of the Council of Safety of Maryland.

STEPHEN STEWART TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer, Captain Ewing, has a ship to dispose of. She is a new vessel, and as well built a one as ever I saw. She is really a complete piece of work, and stout enough to carry eight or ten six-pounders with fifty men. She draws less water than any vessel of her size. She has new anchors, cables, and rigging; her main-sails are new, but not large enough for the revenue service. I would agree with him for her, but am in some doubts of her sailing fast by the wind. There is no doubt of her sailing exceedingly fast from the wind. Captain Ewing has agreed to carry her to Annapolis to you. I have told him you would get Gilbert Middleton to try how she sails by the wind. Gilbert Middleton will make proper allowance for her being badly sailed. If she will answer the end of sailing by the wind, she may be made so able that nothing but sloops can hurt her; and then she can run into such shoal water that they could not get at her. I think when she has fifty men, with water and provisions and ten six-pounders, she will not draw more than six-and-a-half feet of water. If Mr. Middleton finds she will answer the end of sailing by the wind, she may be bought from Captain Ewing for £450 to £475, and he must find you a new mast, boom, and all other spars, for they are all too short.

I am your most obedient humble servant,

STEPHEN STEWART.

To the Honourable Council of Safety.

P. S. I have had a good deal of business with Captain Ewing, and have always found him very punctual. S. S.

FIFTH SERIES.—VOL. I.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN CRAWFORD.

[No. 47.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

SIR: This is to advise you that we are ordering some ammunition to St. Mary's County. You are therefore desired to prepare a wagon, with all expedition, to be ready to receive it as soon as the cart sent from hence may arrive with you, which we think will be this evening or to-morrow morning, and to forward it under a guard of eight men and an officer to Leonardtown, in said County. We trust you will use all diligence, and give the greatest despatch to this necessary business. We are, &c.

To Captain David Crawford.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GENERAL DENT.

[No. 48.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

SIR: We received a letter from Colonel Jordan last night, advising that some of Dunmore's party had landed on St. George's, and that the boats were going off to the vessels, it was imagined, for more. As the further orders which we may give must depend in a great measure on the numbers, situation, and movements of the enemy, we request you will communicate to us by the return of the express all the information you can collect relative to them, and be very particular therein. We have countermanded the orders given Captains Thomas and Hindman to march to Philadelphia, and expect them here to-day or to-morrow. Upon receiving intelligence from you, we shall be able to form an opinion whether it will be necessary they should be ordered to your assistance. Powder, lead, and flints, are sent off this morning to Leonardtown, and we hope will arrive there to-morrow night or on Friday morning. We approve of the Committee detaining Captain Forrest's company, and think it would be best, if the Militia will part with their guns, that that company should be armed with them, and immediately be subject to your orders. We are, &c.

To Brigadier-General Dent.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THOMAS RINGGOLD AND OTHERS.

[No. 49.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have sent a barrel of gunpowder and four hundred pounds of lead, addressed to you, for the use of Kent Island, and doubt not your care of it. We think ourselves obliged, however, to tell you we have seen the ill effect of distributing ammunition among the Militia, and to desire you will lodge such a proportion of it with the Captains of the companies only as you may think proper, and they upon emergencies will deliver it out to their men.

We are, &c.

To Messrs. Thomas Ringgold, Aquila Brown, and Dr. Ringgold.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THOMAS SMYTH.

[No. 50.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We send you by the bearer £400 currency, for paying off the wagons, and to answer other contingent expenses. We are sorry we cannot comply with other requests you have made of us relative to the two companies raised in Kent. Our Province is actually invaded by Lord Dunmore with his whole fleet, who are now come into Potomack, and are landing on St. George's Island. Our own battalion and Independent companies are marched off to the eastward by order of Convention. In this distressed situation, every gun we can muster from Mr. Winters, and all other parts, must be first applied to arm the battalion and Independent companies that are to stay in the Province to supply the place of those who are gone to New-York. As to tents, we will write you more fully hereafter, when we know certainly what canvass we have at Chingoteague. Were we to make the ample provision you wish for two companies in the Eastern-Shore battalion, and leave the others bare of everything, we should justly subject ourselves to the charge of partiality. You may depend we will do as much for those two companies as we possibly can, at least equal to others in the same battalion. We are, &c.

To Thomas Smyth, Esq.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAINS BARNES AND ELLICOTT.

[No. 51.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We received your favour of the 16th instant about an hour ago, and are sorry to find the people of Kent Island so very uneasy from an opinion Dunmore will attack them. We do not apprehend, unless he should receive a considerable reinforcement, that he will attempt anything of that sort, as, from the best information we have of them, his party is unequal to such a measure. However, hearing of the apprehensions which prevailed among you, and that you were not sufficiently provided with ammunition by the Committee of Observation for Queen Anne's, who we expected would supply you, and being desirous of guarding against every possibility of danger, we had ordered, before the receipt of your letter, a barrel of powder and four hundred pounds of lead to be lodged with Messrs. Thomas Ringgold, Aquila Brown, and Dr. Ringgold, for the use of the Island, and that Captain Dean's company of the Flying-Camp Militia should, as soon as they could be armed, march down for your protection. But as your recommendation of such as would answer the purpose would probably expedite the business, we think you had better make the proper inquiry, and write us. We are, &c.

To Captains Barnes and Ellicott.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL EWING.

[No. 52.]

Annapolis, July 17, 1776.

SIR: The Militia of the Flying-Camp are not to draw pay or rations until they receive orders to march.

We are, &c.

To Colonel Thomas Ewing.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, July 17, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 14th instant was duly received, and immediately laid before Congress. In obedience to their commands, I do myself the honour to forward sundry resolves.

The Congress being of opinion that a quantity of powder should be distributed through the several Counties of New-York and New-Jersey, I am to request you will give directions to have it lodged in the hands of such persons as may be depended upon.

I have delivered Monsieur Kirmovan his commission, and directed him to repair immediately to the Jerseys, and put himself under the officer who commands the Flying-Camp. You will please to give orders respecting the appointment of a Sergeant-Major, a Quartermaster-General, and Paymaster-General in each regiment; and likewise necessary directions to General Schuyler with regard to cleansing the Army of the small-pox.

Mr. Humpton and Mr. Dawson have been officers in the British Army, and I hope will be of service in ours. They will be ordered to Head-Quarters as soon as possible.

Upwards of a thousand troops from Maryland are now in this city, on their way to join the Flying-Camp in New-Jersey. They are an exceeding fine body of men, and will begin their march this day.

Agreeably to the enclosed resolves of Congress, I have written in the most vehement and pressing manner to the Massachusetts-Bay, Connecticut, and New-Jersey, to forward their Militia, and I have no doubt of their compliance immediately.

With the most fervent and incessant wishes that your head may be covered in the day of battle, and that success may crown your arms, I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO PENNSYLVANIA CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Congress, previous to the meeting of the Convention of the State of Pennsylvania, have received information of such a nature as induced them to appoint a Committee, who are under an injunction of secrecy, to make the necessary inquiry; but as this State is mostly interested in the subject of the inquiry, Congress have thought proper that the matter should be made known to a Committee of your body. I have it, therefore, in charge to request that you will be pleased to appoint a Committee from your Convention, to be under an injunction of secrecy, to confer with the Committee of Congress on this important matter. Having the honour to be of the Committee of Congress, I should be glad to be informed of the names of such persons as you shall appoint on the Committee, that a time and place may be fixed on for the conference.

I have the honour to be, with respect, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To the Convention of Pennsylvania, now sitting.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL SMALLWOOD.

Philadelphia, July 17, 1776.

SIR: I have it in charge from Congress to direct that you, as soon as possible, march the troops from Maryland, now in this city, to New-York, and there put yourself under the command of General Washington. The exigency of the service requiring as speedy a junction as possible of your troops with those at New-York, I recommend you to use all despatch in your power.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To Colonel William Smallwood, Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL MERCER.

Philadelphia, July 17, 1776.

SIR: I am reduced to the last minute, and have only time to enclose you sundry resolves of Congress for your direction, to which I beg leave to request your attention.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To Brigadier-General Mercer, New-Jersey.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, July 17, 1776.

It being recommended to this Committee by the Convention to take the necessary steps respecting the Guard directed by Congress to be kept in this City:

Resolved, That the four companies of Militia of this City and Liberties, detained by General Roberdeau as guards for this City, namely, Captain Smythers, of the First Battalion, Captain Peters, of the Second, Captain Wharton, of the Third, and the company lately commanded by Captain Burkhard, of the Fourth, be required to attend their duty regularly and punctually, under the orders and command of Captain Peters. And the commanding officers of the said companies are required to enrol into the same all such Associators as, from particular circumstances, cannot march with the Militia now called into service for the Flying-Camp; and all such Associators are earnestly exhorted to enrol themselves in some one of the said companies, for this necessary and important service, in which they are to continue during the absence of the companies to which they respectively belong.

Extract from the Minutes:

WILLIAM GOVETT, Secretary.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, July 17, 1776.

SIR: Colonel Hand having informed me that he means to purchase regimentals for his battalion in Philadelphia, I must take the liberty to request you will have the nine thousand dollars, resolved by Congress of the 12th ultimo to be paid him here for that purpose, to be advanced to him or his order there. The state of our chest is extremely low, and many pressing demands against it; besides, as the clothes are to be paid for there, it seems unnecessary to send money from hence. An account of the advance may be transmitted, in order to a stoppage from the men's pay.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 18, 1776, and referred to the Board of War.]

New-York, July 17, 1776.

SIR: I was this morning honoured with yours of the 15th instant, with sundry resolves. I perceive the measures Congress have taken to expedite the raising of the Flying-Camp, and providing it with articles of the greatest use. You will see, by a postscript to my letter of the 14th, that I had written to the commanding officer of the Pennsylvania Militia, ordering them to be marched from Trenton to Amboy, as their remaining there could not answer the least publick good; for, having consulted with many gentlemen, I am informed if the enemy mean to direct their views towards Pennsylvania, or penetrate the Jerseys, their route will be from near Amboy, and either by the way of Brunswick or Boundbrook, the lower road from South-Amboy being through a woody, sandy country; besides, they will be then able to throw in succour here, and to receive it from hence in cases of emergency.

The Connecticut Lighthorse, mentioned in my letter of the 11th, notwithstanding their then promise to continue here for the defence of this place, are now discharged, and about to return home, having peremptorily refused all kind of fatigue duty, or even to mount guard, claiming an exemption as Troopers. Though their assistance is much needed, and might be of essential service in case of an attack, yet I judged it advisable, on their application and claim of such indulgences, to discharge them; as granting them would set an example to others, and might produce many ill consequences. The number of men included in the last return, by this, is lessened about five hundred.

I last night received a letter of the 12th instant from General Schuyler, with several enclosures, copies of which I have herewith transmitted. They will give Congress every information I have respecting the northern Army, and the situation of our affairs in that quarter, to which I beg leave to refer their attention. I cannot but express my surprise at the scarcity of provision which General Schuyler mentions, after what the Commissary assured me, and which formed a part of my letter of the 14th; he still assures me of the same. This is a distressing circumstance, as every article of provision and everything necessary for that department can have no other now than a land conveyance, the water communication from hence to Albany being entirely cut off. Congress will please to consider the enclosure No. 6, about raising six companies out of the inhabitants about the lakes, to prevent the incursions of the Indians. The General Officers, in their Minutes of Council, have determined it to be a matter of much importance, and their attention to the price of goods furnished the soldiery may be extremely necessary. They have complained much upon this head.

The retreat from Crown-Point seems to be considered in opposite views by the General and Field Officers: the former, I am satisfied, have weighed the matter well, and yet the reasons assigned by the latter against it appear strong and forcible. I hope whatever is done will be for the best.

I was apprehensive the appointment of General Gates over General Sullivan would give the latter disgust. His letter, which I transmitted to Congress, seemed to warrant the suspicion. He is not arrived yet; when he does, I shall try to settle the affair with him, and prevail on him to continue, as I think his resignation will take from the service a useful and good officer.

By a letter from the Committee of Orange County, received this morning, the men-of-war and tenders were yesterday at Haverstraw Bay, about forty miles above this. A number of men, in four barges from the tenders, attempted to land, with a view, they suppose, of taking some sheep and cattle that had been previously removed. A small number of Militia who were collected obliged them to retreat, without their doing any damage with their cannon. They were sounding the water up towards the Highlands, by which it is probable they will attempt to pass with part of the fleet, if possible.

Yesterday evening a flag came from General Howe, with a letter addressed "To George Washington, Esq., &c., &c., &c." It was not received, on the same principle that the one from Lord Howe was refused.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Yesterday evening I was favoured with yours of the 12th instant, with its several enclosures.

As to the propriety or impropriety of giving up Crown-Point, and vacating that post, it is impossible for me to determine. My ignorance of the country, my unacquaintance with its situation, and a variety of circumstances, will not permit me to pronounce any certain opinion upon the subject, or to declare whether it might or could not be maintained against the enemy. I doubt not the measure was duly weighed by the General Officers in council, and seemed to them best calculated to secure the Colonies and prevent the enemy from penetrating into them. However, I cannot but observe, (though I do not mean to encourage in the smallest degree, or to give the least sanction to inferior officers to set up their opinions against the proceedings and councils of their superiors, knowing the dangerous tendency of such a practice,) that the reasons assigned by the officers in their remonstrance, appear to me forcible and of great weight: they coincide with my own ideas. I have ever understood Crown-Point to be an important post, and, from its situation, of the utmost consequence to us, especially if we want to keep the superiority and mastery of the Lake. If it is abandoned by us, it is natural to suppose the enemy will possess it. If they do, and my judgment does not mislead me, any vessels or galleys we employ upon the Lake will certainly be in their rear, and it will not be in our power to bring them down to Ticonderoga, or the post opposite to it, or from thence to have the least communication with them, or the means of granting them succours or supplies of any kind. Perhaps it is intended to employ the galleys only on the communication between the two posts, that of Crown-Point and the one now to be established. How far they would there answer our views, I cannot tell. As I said before, I have not a sufficient knowledge of the several posts, or the neighbouring country, to form an accurate judgment upon the matter, and of consequence do not design anything I have said by way of direction, trusting that whatever is best to advance the interest of the important struggle we are engaged in will be done.

I am extremely sorry to hear such unfavourable accounts of the condition of the Army. Sickness of itself is sufficiently bad; but when discord and disorder are added, greater misfortunes cannot befall it, except that of a defeat. While they prevail, there is but little hope of things succeeding well. I must entreat your attention to these matters, and your exertions to introduce more discipline, and to do away the unhappy pernicious distinctions and jealousies between the troops of different Governments. Enjoin this upon the officers, and let them inculcate, and press home to the soldiers, the necessity of order and harmony among those who are embarked in one common cause, and mutually contending for all that freemen hold dear. I am persuaded, if the officers will but exert themselves, that these animosities and disorders will in a great measure subside; and nothing being more essential to the service than that they should, I am hopeful nothing on their part will be wanting to effect it.

The scarcity of provisions which you mention surprises me much. I had hoped that an ample and competent supply for a considerable time was now in store; nor can I but believe the most lavish and extravagant waste has been made of it. Not longer than three or four days ago, and just after the two men-of-war and tenders passed by, as mentioned in my last, the situation of the northern Army, in respect to this article, occurred to my mind, and induced an inquiry of the Commissary about it, being certain the water communication with Albany would be entirely cut off; and I was happy to find from him, that the supplies he had forwarded would be fully sufficient for ten thousand men for four months. This I informed Congress of as a most fortunate event. To be told now that there is none, or next to none, is so contrary to what I expected, that I am filled with wonder and astonishment. I have informed the Commissary of it, who is equally surprised; and must request, as our navigation is so circumstanced, that you will direct those whose business it is, to use every possible means to provide such supplies as may be necessary; and that proper attention be paid to the expenditure, or it will be impossible ever to subsist that Army.

As to intrenching tools, I have from time to time forwarded all that can possibly be spared. I have directed the Quartermaster to send such things contained in your list as can be had and may be transported by land. The greatest part it would be difficult to procure, and if they could be had, would be attended with immense trouble and expense to forward them; I must therefore entreat your utmost diligence and inquiry to get them; and not only them, but every necessary you want, wherever they may be had. The water-course being now at an end, but few supplies can be expected from hence; and I make not the least doubt, if active proper persons are employed, in many instances you will be able to obtain such articles as you stand in need of. I am under the necessity of doing so here, and by much pains and industry have procured many necessities. As for the articles wanted for the gondolas, I should suppose many of them may be purchased of the proprietors of craft about Albany, and of persons who have vessels there, by allowing them a good price. The communication by water being now stopped, they cannot employ them, and I presume may be prevailed on to part with most of their tackle for a good consideration.

I transmitted Congress a copy of your letter and of its several enclosures, and recommended to their particular attention the resolution No. 6, for raising six companies to guard the frontiers, and the high price of goods furnished the soldier, and that some measures might be taken thereon.

There is a resolve of Congress against officers holding double commissions, and of long standing. None are allowed it except Adjutants and Quartermasters; and they generally are also First or Second Lieutenants. In this Army there is no instance of double officers but in the cases I mention.

The carpenters from Philadelphia unfortunately had not time to get their tools, &c., on board a craft here before the men-of-war got up. They set out by land next day, and I suppose will be at Albany in the course of this week, as also two companies from Connecticut.

I have inquired of Mr. Hughes, and find that the six anchors and cables were on board Captain Peter Post's vessel belonging to Esopus, who, upon the first appearance of the fleet coming above the Narrows, went off without taking the necessities brought by Captain Donn. Mr. Hughes says Captain Donn, who bought you the lead, had orders to get them.

I have enclosed you a list of the naval articles the Quartermaster expects to obtain and send from hence, which will evince the necessity of your exertions to get the rest elsewhere. Many of the articles, I should suppose, may be made at Albany and within the neighbourhood of it.

I am in hopes that, in consequence of your application, the different Governments will take some steps for apprehending deserters. It is a growing evil, and I wish it may be remedied. From the Northern Army they have been extremely numerous, from report, and should most certainly be returned if they can be found. How far the mode suggested by you may answer, the event will show; but I am doubtful whether many will return of themselves.

I fancy a part of your letter was omitted to be sent. When you come to speak of deserters, what I learn on the subject begins a new sheet, and seems to suppose something preceding about them. After requesting Mr. Hughes to be spoken to about the anchors, &c., the next page begins, "unanimously agreed that I should write," &c.

You will perceive by the enclosed resolve, that Congress mean to raise the garrison for Presque-Isle, &c., in the Counties of Westmoreland and Bedford, in Pennsylvania.

I am, &c.,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

P. S. July 18, 10 o'clock A. M.—I this minute spoke to Mr. Trumbull again about provisions, and pressed his most vigorous exertions. I believe he is determined to leave nothing undone on his part, and has already sent off some persons upon the business, of which I suppose he will inform you or Mr. Livingston.

G. W.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL JAMES CLINTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 17, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 13th instant was duly received. The steps you have taken appear to me extremely proper, and that there may be no discouragement in the purchase of arms, of which we stand in great need, I have, by the bearer, sent you the £300 you request. You will please to keep a particular account of the disbursement, in order that it may be brought into its proper place of statement at a future day.

Before this reaches you, two officers of the Artillery, whom I despatched last Sunday, will have arrived, to supply the place of those so unhappily disabled. I trust these accidents will form a lesson of prudence and calmness at such times, and particularly excite care and caution. It is a melancholy consideration, that in these cases we suffer more from our own artillery than the enemy.

As the enemy weighed anchor yesterday, with a seeming intention to pass up the river, I trust everything is in the best readiness and preparation to receive them.

The rafts, if properly constructed, and executed with spirit and intrepidity, are most dangerous and alarming enemies to shipping. Unacquainted with the river, the situation of the ships, and many other circumstances necessary to form a judgment of the probability of success, I can only say, that I agree in opinion with your brother, that expenses ought not to be regarded, if the prospect of success is any way encouraging. You must, with those upon whose opinion you can depend, form the best judgment you can, and act accordingly.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To Col. James Clinton, Fort Constitution, 3d New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Head-Quarters, New-York, July 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 15th instant, covering the resolution of the same date, was duly received, which I beg leave to say was noble, and does honour to your respectable body. It likewise adds a further proof of your determination to afford me all possible assistance in discharging the important duties of my office. It is impossible to say what may be necessary, but I shall conduct as the exigencies of the case may require, and I doubt not your cheerful aid and assistance will be rendered whenever called for.

It has been out of my power to procure more whale boats than are absolutely necessary for the night-guards. Doubt not you will be able to procure the number you want from the western shore of the Sound, which may be easily transported by land, or by the way of King's Bridge, to the North River.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, with respect and esteem, your most humble servant,

GO. WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable the Provincial Convention of the State of New-York.

COMMITTEE OF NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

White-Plains, July 17, 1776.

SIR: The Convention have thought it proper to appoint us a Secret Committee, among other things to form and execute any plan which we may conceive necessary for the defence of Hudson's River, which unfortunately has been too long neglected. We wish to have your Excellency's advice on this important subject, and shall think ourselves happy to coöperate in any design you may have formed.

The obstructing the navigation at Mount Washington we suppose to be an object which your Excellency has particularly in view; we shall therefore direct our attention to such others as we may conceive necessary. Mr. Duer is in some measure apprized of our designs, and will give your Excellency every information that you may require.

Your Excellency's commands will reach us if directed to Poughkeepsie.

We remain, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most humble servants,

ROBERT R. LIVINGSTON,
ROBERT YATES,
GILBERT LIVINGSTON,
CHRISTOPHER TAPPEN,
WILLIAM PAULDING.

To His Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL DUBOIS TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read August 1, 1776.]

New-York, July 17, 1776.

SIR: On my arrival at New-York, I applied to General Washington for recruiting orders for the officers of my regiment, according to appointment of the honourable Congress, which he granted me. I thereupon notified the several officers of their appointments; but, to my great surprise, I found many of them offended, and soon after they sent me their resignations, with their reasons, which I now enclose you.

I could hardly have believed that gentlemen would have disputed for rank they all the winter acquiesced in, and performed duty accordingly in the Army before Quebeck; especially as the arrangement of the officers of the regiments to be recruited out of the four New-York regiments in Canada was made on the same principle, to wit: agreeable to the appointment by the late worthy General Montgomery.

I also enclose you a certificate of the rank of the officers of the Third Regiment, in which I served in Canada, certified by Colonel Weissenfels, who then acted as Brigade-Major, by which it will evidently appear that the gentlemen who have resigned assigned false reasons, and that the arrangement of my regiment, as far as it respects the late officers of the Third Regiment, is perfectly agreeable to the rank they bore therein. And should there be any mistakes in respect to any of the officers of the other regiments, it was without any design in me to injure them; nor do I believe there is any, except in the case of Lieutenant Gano, which I offered to have corrected, as it might have been done, as the men in whose favour it was unintentionally made, resigned. It is true, there was one Mr. Gilliland left out of my regiment, who served last winter in Canada; but I hope I shall stand justified in not returning his name in my list of officers made by the Convention of this Colony to Congress last spring, because he is noted as unfit to serve, as is mentioned by that return. If I am rightly informed, the Congress of this Colony decline appointing the remainder of my officers. This will tend so much to delay the filling my regiment, that I would beg to be informed by your honourable House, how they are to be appointed, that I may take the proper steps for that purpose. A number of good men have offered their services, and say they can raise their proportion of men in a few days.

I am, with the profoundest respect, your most obedient servant,

LEWIS DUBOIS, Colonel.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress.

To LEWIS DUBOIS, Esq.:

We, the subscribers, do hereby resign the appointments we held in the regiment lately ordered to be raised and commanded by Lewis Dubois, Esq., for the following reasons:

First: We have been ungenerously superseded, which the old arrangement of officers, made by the Provincial Congress will fully evince; for we assert that the youngest Lieutenant in the Third Regiment, to which Mr. Dubois belonged, is appointed a Captain over the heads of the First Lieutenant of the First, and other regiments; likewise, that Sergeants and Corporals, who went out in said Third Regiment, have superseded officers who bore commissions in the last campaign.

AARON AERSON, Lieutenant.

JONATHAN PEASE, Lieutenant.

RICHARD PLATT, Lieutenant.

DANIEL GANO, Lieutenant.

GARRET VAN WAGENEN, Lieutenant.

New-York, July, 1776.

Arrangement of the Third Battalion of YORKERS.

Returns of the Officers belonging to the Third Battalion of YORKERS, commanded by Colonel CLINTON, in rank, as they served at CANADA, the last campaign, agreeable to General MONTGOMERY's appointment.

Lewis Dubois, Major.

I can certify that the above gentlemen were appointed by General Montgomery, and did duty as such the time I was Brigade-Major to the Army before Quebeck.

July 17, 1776.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

German-Flats, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Your Excellency's favour of the 11th instant was delivered me this morning, with the sundry papers mentioned in it. It gives me a very sincere and heartfelt pleasure that I can declare that the difference in opinion between General Gates and me has been simply such, unattended with that little jealousy which would have reflected disgrace on both of us. Be assured, sir, that the most perfect harmony subsists between us, and that I shall, by every attention to General Gates, strictly cultivate it, as well to increase my own felicity as to promote the publick service.

You have a formidable and well-appointed Army to contend with; but I still hope that when Americans see the danger, nay, the ruin with which they are threatened, they will with alacrity support you, and put it in your power to give a good account of the foe. May Heaven aid and direct you, and make you the happy instrument of ensuring freedom to the Western World.

Colonel Dayton arrived at Fort Stanwix on the 13th. I cannot learn that taking post there gives any umbrage to the Indians, of whom we have about one hundred and fifty here, and momentarily expect very large numbers. We have hopes, from what information we have received, that we shall be able to keep them neuter at least.

I am extremely happy to hear that your Excellency has ordered three regiments from Boston to the Northern Army. I believe General Burgoyne will attempt to penetrate into the Colonies, but I think it will be impossible for him to effect it, even if he should cross the lakes, which I cannot conceive he will be able to do, as our naval strength greatly exceeds his, and as we shall certainly build as fast as he can.

I am very much afraid that Mr. Livingston will resign his office, if Mr. Trumbull appoints any person to act to the northward independently of him. If so, I shall be under great apprehensions that the service will not at this critical time be carried on so well as I wish. Will you be so good as to communicate this to Mr. Trumbull.

I shall immediately transmit the Declaration of Congress to General Gates, and desire him to proclaim it throughout the Army.

I am, dear sir, with every affectionate wish for your health and happiness, and with perfect esteem, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington, &c., &c.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read July 29, 1776. Referred to the Board of War.]

German-Flats, Wednesday, July 17, 1776.

SIR: I am honoured with your letter of the 8th instant, covering the resolutions of Congress of the same day.

When gentlemen act with candour to each other, a difference in opinion will seldom be attended with any disagreeable consequences. I am happy, sir, that I can assure you that the most perfect good understanding subsists between General Gates and me, inasmuch that it gave him pain that I was under the necessity of quitting the Army to repair here at this critical juncture. You will please to assure Congress that I am deeply impressed with the necessity of mutual confidence amongst all its officers, and that I shall never neglect any measure that may have a tendency to so desirable an end.

I have seen with the deepest affliction the unhappy jealousy which reigned in the Northern Army, occasioned by Colonial distinctions—distinctions both injurious to the cause of America, and disgraceful to the authors of them. I have pointed out to the several Colonels and commanding officers of corps, in language as pointedly as I could, the pernicious consequences of such a fatal dissension, and I hope it will soon be eradicated.

I arrived here about ten yesterday morning, in hopes to have found the Six Nations here before me; but I fear the whole will not be here until the last of the week. Mr. Peter Ryckman, a trader of Albany, who has been detained at Niagara since last year, on a well-grounded suspicion of his affection to the American cause, and from apprehensions that his influence among the Indians would be exerted in our favour, has found means to make his escape, and arrived here last night, attended by twenty-one Seneca warriors. He left Niagara on the 27th ultimo, and tarried ten days in some of the Seneca villages. He advises that the garrison consists of about two hundred men; that the fort is well repaired; that they were not under any apprehensions of a visit from us; but that in the beginning of May they were in great want of provision, and the soldiers wished for our coming; that Colonel Butler had frequently attempted to engage the Indians against us; that they constantly refused to comply, greatly commending us for recommending neutrality to them, and severely reprimanding him for some scurrility thrown out against us; that a Seneca sachem, named Cajaghsoda, from some town towards the Ohio, (a man of great influence and much respected by all the nations,) in a long speech inveighed bitterly against Butler for attempting to make the Indians parties in the war, and concluded with declaring that he would not interfere, but let the father and son (as he expressed himself) settle their difference between them; that this man opened the eyes of the Indians to their true interest; that the few Indians that went down to Canada had been kept drunk for some time before, and went contrary to the inclinations of the sachems of all the Six Nations; that the Council at Onondaga had sent a sachem of note express to Niagara to bring away two sachems, whom Butler, by dint of money and liquor, has kept about him all this spring. Ryckman understands and speaks the Indian language very well, and he assures us that he does not believe that the upper nations of the Six can be brought to act against us. If so, the more western nations will not be suffered to harass our frontiers. He advises that we should be liberal at this treaty.

The goods we have brought up are neither such nor so many as we could wish; for although we have about seven hundred pounds' worth, yet as the price of goods is so extravagantly high, they will not be considered by the Indians as of more value than half that sum. I have therefore despatched an express this morning to General Gates for some Indian goods that were brought from Canada, and have ordered up fifteen hundred dollars in specie. If our treaty turns out favourable, I shall propose to my colleagues to publish such parts of it as will dispel the fears of the frontier inhabitants, without waiting for the determination of Congress, as the apprehensions of those people are very high. If, however, Congress should not approve of this measure, I believe there will be time sufficient to advise us of it before it can take place.

Mr. Ryckman observes, that Cajaghsoda, the Seneca sachem above mentioned, has been at Congress, and believes he will pay another visit, and wishes that particular attention should be paid him. He lives near Pittsborough. Perhaps it might be well to send a message to him, thanking him for his conduct at Niagara, and that it was communicated by Ryckman, whose Indian name is Queder.

I am, dear sir, with every wish for your health and happiness, and with the greatest respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. John Hancock.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

German-Flats, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Your favours of the 5th and 12th instant, by Captains Winslow and Lester, were sent me from Albany, and received this day. I have written to my Secretary to give those gentlemen the fullest assurances that your wishes with regard to them will be fully complied with, and that they will certainly receive every assistance the Hospital can afford, in case of sickness, in the same manner as the soldiers have;

so that I hope they have already marched, without any difficulty.

I arrived here yesterday, and found very few Indians. This day, about one hundred and fifty Indians have come in, and we expect a numerous body of them in a few days. Mr. Ryckman, a trader from Albany, who has been detained at Niagara by the British officer commanding there, since last year, because he was a friend to our cause, and had influence among the savages, has found means to make his escape, and arrived here last night, accompanied by twenty-one warriors of the Seneca nation. The account he brings of the temper of the Senecas (the nation who could distress us most) is very favourable; and he assures me that he has reason to believe the Indians will not attack our frontiers.

Numerous and formidable as our enemies are, I cannot despair of success against them, provided we are unanimous. I mention this, because of the unhappy dissensions in the Northern Army, where some unfriendly or unthinking people have set up Colonial distinctions. I have always deprecated every attempt to divide us, by that or any other means; and when I was last at Crown-Point, I convened the commanding officer of every corps, and pointed out, in the most forcible manner I was capable of, the danger of such distinctions, and how much and how justly the enemy would exult to learn it. The goodness of your heart, my dear sir, and your zeal for our cause, will induce you to give me all the assistance in your power to eradicate this evil. But whilst I entreat you to recommend to the troops from your Colony to cultivate harmony, I would not wish to be understood that they have been the promoters or principal supporters of the unhappy dissensions; on the contrary, I have reason to believe them as little culpable as any.

I am, dear sir, with every friendly wish, and with great esteem and respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL GATES.

German-Flats, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I was in hopes to have found the greater part of the Six Nations here, as I did not arrive until yesterday; but a few only, as yet, have repaired to this place. The meeting will, however, from all the information I have received, be a numerous one.

Last evening, Mr. Peter Ryckman arrived here. He is a trader of Albany, and has been detained at Niagara by the commanding officer there, on a well-grounded suspicion that he was a friend to our cause. He left Niagara on the 27th ultimo, and remained ten days with the Senecas on his way down, and was accompanied to this place by twenty-one warriors of that nation. He advises that the Senecas are extremely well pleased with the measure we have adopted, in asking nothing more than a neutrality; and he does not believe that they can be induced to act against us, as the Crown agent, Colonel Butler, has several times in vain attempted to make them take the hatchet, and has been as often disappointed and even rebuked by them.

The few goods we have been able to collect at Albany are greatly inadequate to our wants. I must therefore entreat you to send all the Indian goods which General Arnold brought from Montreal, to this place, with all the despatch possible; and that they may not be delayed on the way, permit me to beg you to send an active and early-rising officer with them, to accompany them all the way here.

I hope your endeavours to establish good order, and to eradicate the dangerous jealousy which has unhappily arisen amongst the troops, will meet with the desired success.

The five officers, who went off from Lebanon, in Pennsylvania, were met by Mr. Ryckman, on his way from Niagara.

I am, dear sir, most sincerely, your obedient, humble servant,

PH. SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable General Gates.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL WATERBURY.

Tyonderoga, July 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: This will be delivered to you by Dr. Ely, sent here by Governour Trumbull, and the authority of Connecticut, to concert with me the best means to prevent the infection of the small-pox from spreading amongst the Militia daily expected from that Colony, and the other Eastern Governments: The Doctor highly approves of the method taken here to stop the progress of that pestilential disease, and goes to your post, by my direction, to give you his advice and assistance, to promote the salutary purpose of his journey to the Army. I have no doubt you will give him all the attention and countenance requisite to so important a business, and that you will continue to exert your utmost vigilance and power to make us once more a healthy Army. I send you by this conveyance a large quantity of provisions, five barrels of powder, two hundred and fifty weight of lead, some cartridge-paper and thread, and a set of bullet-moulds. You will employ proper persons, and, as quick as possible, have the ammunition made up into cartridges.

A gentleman, of credit and reputation, brings a report to Albany, that a French fleet had arrived at Rhode-Island, with Mr. Deane on board. I am, sir, &c., &c.

HORATIO GATES.

To General Waterbury.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Tyonderoga, July 17, 1776.

SIR: As I am entirely unacquainted with the Lake below Crown-Point, I send the Commodore, with the largest and best schooner, to receive his instructions from you in regard to the cruise he ought to make. I think, until the rest of the vessels are fitted, it will not be advisable to send the schooner into the narrow part of the Lake below. I wish you were here to give directions for putting our whole squadron afloat. It seems to me they are very tardy about it; but I am entirely uninformed as to Marine affairs. I like Captain Mayhew, whom you sent here; but I think the Commodore seems slow, and wish he may retain all that prowess for which he says he was so famous last war. It is of the greatest consequence to our affairs to have the armed vessels commanded by men of firmness and approved courage.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

HORATIO GATES.

To Brigadier-General Arnold.

GENERAL GATES TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER AT FORT GEORGE.

Head-Quarters, at Ticonderoga, July 17, 1776.

SIR: I understand that there is a wanton waste of powder at your post, in firing a morning and evening gun, and in unnecessary salutes. It is my positive order that this practice be immediately discontinued, and no ammunition expended on any account whatever, except in opposition to the attacks of the enemy. I am, sir, your humble servant,

HORATIO GATES, Major-General.

To the Commanding Officer at Fort George.

GENERAL GATES TO LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GANSEVOORT.

Tyonderoga, July 17, 1776.

SIR: On the receipt of this, you will send any spare oars you may have to Mr. Donn, at the Landing on this side the Lake. The oars will be wanted here, therefore beg you'll forward them as soon as possible.

You will be very careful, sir, to prevent any desertion of those who are sent to the General Hospital: some villains may perhaps feign themselves sick, merely with the design of gaining an opportunity of deserting. The utmost care will be necessary to guard against this evil.

Many complaints, sir, are made by the officers here, that their letters, both going and coming, are interrupted, and sometimes broke open. I beg, sir, if anything of this kind has happened at your post, it may for the future be prevented. If any person can be discovered either to open or retard any letters going to or from the Army, he must be immediately apprehended and tried, for a crime of this kind cannot be too severely punished.

In fine, sir, you will in everything be very careful for the publick good and the security of your post.

I am, sir, your very obedient servant,

HORATIO GATES.

To Lieut. Col. Gansevoort, commanding at Fort George.

CAPTAIN BROWNSON TO GENERAL GATES.

Pittsford, July 17, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: I sent an express to Crown-Point, respecting Brice Dunlap, whom I confined on the 13th instant, a second time, for the murder of Corporal Colley, of the Pennsylvania forces. Your Honour being at Ticonderoga, I received orders from General Arnold to send the prisoner to you there. I have sent Lieutenant Samuel Tubs, with eight men, to convey the said prisoner to Ticonderoga.

These from your Honour's very humble servant,

GIDEON BROWNSON, Captain.

His Honour Major General Gates, Commander at Ticonderoga.

PETITION OF THE OFFICERS OF COL. BEDEL'S REGIMENT.

To Major-General GATES:

The petition of the Officers, &c., belonging to Colonel Bedel's Regiment, inhabitants on the frontier towns of New-Hampshire, and the interior parts of some other Provinces, of New-York, &c., humbly sheweth: That your petitioners, from a true sense of liberty and an utter abhorrence of slavery, engaged in the honourable cause of liberty under the command of Colonel Timothy Bedel, under whose command we have cheerfully encountered many difficulties and sustained many losses without the least reluctance. Beg leave to lay before your Honour, that it is not through any dislike to the cause, or any part concerned therein, that we do now petition for liberty to take post in the frontier towns, but from the first principle of nature, self-preservation itself; as, at this time, by information and letters received from the families of chief of us, we find that their case is truly deplorable, being under the disagreeable necessity of abandoning their farms, leaving their grain and the whole of their substance behind them, for fear of the savages coming upon them, and obliged to crowd into some of the lower towns for safety, where it is but meanly fortified, through want of men, as that part of the country was left bare, most part of the regiment being raised in those parts; and at this time it is obvious to view, from the behaviour of the savages, that the first incursion will be on the frontiers, and those parts are entirely exposed since abandoning Canada. There has, upon computation, for these several years past, been raised, in only two of the towns, upwards of ten thousand bushels of wheat for sale, more than what the families stood in need of, besides corn, &c., and great quantities of hay cut on said farms. The inhabitants have moved above one hundred miles below us, into the towns further down, so that they are one hundred miles from all assistance, which has been the means of a great number of good and brave men leaving the service.

Your petitioners beg leave to inform your Honour that since they were taken prisoners at the Cedars, (as also those at the retreat of Quebeck, which was made so sudden,) lost chiefly all they had—the officers in said regiment being stripped of every part of their clothing that was either comfortable or valuable, and have not had, since the 19th day of May, a shirt to make a change, but are obliged to put on their outside garments when they get their shirts washed; and are not in any capacity to appear among gentlemen, or even to do their proper tour of duty, and nothing can be purchased here to make us comfortable.

Your Honour's petitioners do not desire the liberty to take post in the frontier towns in any other view than that of taking care of their poor, distressed families, and also providing themselves with clothing. We are confident the men who have left the service would heartily and freely join the regiment again. Those whose families are most exposed would be glad to go upon furlough to take care of and remove them to some place of defence, if it is not your Honour's pleasure for the whole to go. Your petitioners are and shall always be most cheerfully disposed to stand firm, at the expense of our lives and property, to defend the cause we are engaged in, could we but ease the distressed situation of our poor families.

Your petitioners humbly hope your Honour will take the matter into your consideration, (as we are sensible your Honour is endowed with compassion and humanity for the distressed,) and grant such relief as in your Honour's wisdom shall seem most meet; and your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

DANIEL TILLINGHAST TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, July 17, 1776.

By yesterday's post I wrote your Excellency, and therein enclosed copy of an invoice of S A, No. 1 to 3, three cases Scotch arms. With this you will receive, via New-London, to the care of Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., Nos. 8 and 9, two cases more Scotch arms, as per invoice herewith; and likewise Nos. 4 and 5, a chest and barrel, containing arms and flints, from Thomas Greene, Esq., being Continental property in his hands, as per invoice herewith; all of which wish safe to your hands; and am, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

DANIEL TILLINGHAST, Continental Agent.

To His Excellency General Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the American Army, at New-York.

Providence, July 17, 1776.

Invoice of one case and one barrel containing twenty small-arms, thirty cutlasses, and fourteen thousand five hundred gun-flints, sent by Joseph Bradford, from Thomas Greene, of Providence, to Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., at New-London, and by him to be forwarded his Excellency General Washington, at New-York, viz:

No. 4, a chest containing twenty small-arms and seventeen cutlasses; No. 5, a chest containing fourteen thousand five hundred flints, in the chest and in the barrel; thirteen cutlasses packed in S A No 9, a case.

Errors excepted: Per THOMAS GREENE.

I have examined and received the contents of the within.

EZEKIEL CHEEVER, Com. Artillery.

New-York, July 27, 1776.

Providence, July 17, 1776.

Invoice of two cases containing seventy-five Scotch arms, &c., sent by Joseph Bradford, from Daniel Tillinghast, of Providence, to Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., at New-London, and by him to be forwarded to his Excellency General Washington, at New-York, viz:

S A Nos. 8 and 9, cases of Scotch arms, viz: No. 8, a case containing thirty-nine arms, thirty-nine bayonets, and eleven broadswords; No. 9, a case containing thirty-six arms and thirty-six bayonets.

N. B. Packed in No. 9, thirteen brass-mounted hangers, belonging to Mr. Greene's invoice.

Errors excepted. Per DANIEL TILLINGHAST, Continental Agent.

I have examined and received the within mentioned arms.

EZEKIEL CHEEVER, Com. Artillery.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, July 17, 1776.

SIR: Agreeable to your request in your letter of the 12th instant, which I had the honour to receive by the return of our post, I have employed suitable persons to procure the felling-axes you mention, and have furnished them with £300 to defray the expense, and make no doubt I shall soon be able to send them forward. In the mean time, should be glad to be advised whether you would have them with helves and ground, or whether it will answer to send them forward without either.

I have also issued a proclamation promising pardon to such deserters from the Northern Army as shall return to their Colonies by the 12th day of August next, and enjoining all officers, civil and military, to apprehend all such deserters found in this Colony after said 12th August, and confine them in some prison, giving notice, that they may be returned to the respective corps to which they belong.

The scarcity of materials renders it extremely difficult, if not impracticable, to supply the troops now raising in this Colony with tents. May not temporary barracks be erected at a moderate expense to supply the want of them?

I took the liberty in a former letter to inquire whether a considerable number of the old gun-barrels and locks taken at Ticonderoga and Crown-Point, were not yet on hand, and to propose that they might be sent and fitted for use here. One hundred and eighty were formerly sent me, out of which one hundred and seventy good arms fit for service have been made; which encourages me to repeat my inquiry and request respecting other arms under like circumstances, and to hope for like success with them; and the teams returning that carry the axes may bring them.

I have advanced out of the Colony Treasury £50 to each of the head carpenters sent forward from this Colony to join you agreeable to your request, which it is expected will in proper time be replaced.

I hope the design of Dr. Ely's journey to the northward may not be mistaken. The infection of the small-pox in the Northern Army, accounts of which were spread by every traveller from thence, and represented in such a light as induced a belief that it was inevitable by any who should join that Army, greatly retarded the levies for that service, as scarcely one in twenty of our people have had that distemper. To prevent the bad effects of this terror, almost universal, it was judged expedient to send a person of known skill in that distemper, who might examine the true state of the matter upon the spot, in confidence that his report would lessen the apprehensions of danger, and facilitate the raising of men to join and support that Army. We meant not to invade your province or the business of the physicians in the Army, nor did we entertain the shadow of a doubt that you would use every prudent and practicable expedient to stop the progress of the infection and provide for the safety of the Army. To obviate the ill effects of exaggerated reports from weak or designing men, by which the levies for that service in this Colony were obstructed, was our only motive to send Dr. Ely to that quarter. His great skill and experience in that distemper generally known here, as well as his character for candour and probity, will naturally gain the fullest credit to the favourable report expected from him, and enable us speedily to fill up the battalion destined for that service. It is with great satisfaction that I receive your information of the measures concerted for preventing the further progress of the infection, and hope the same may be effectual for that purpose.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Major-General Schuyler.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, July 17, 1776.

SIR: Your favours of the 7th and 9th instant were duly received. It gives me pleasure to meet your approbation of the measure of sending our regiments of Horse to join you. I make no doubt they will cheerfully acquiesce in whatever you shall direct respecting their horses, as the general good of the service ought to be, and I believe is, their governing principle. I find our battalions are filling up fast, and moving to your assistance.

The stock of horned cattle and sheep are removed from Fisher's Island. Block Island lies in the Colony of Rhode-Island, and the Elizabeth Islands and Martha's Vineyard are in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay: I cannot, therefore, with propriety, give any orders for the removal of the fresh provisions from them.
